E. C. Martin, general manager of the Woodstock Rubber Co., recently closed, said the Canadian rubber footwear industry had in recent years been operating at a loss of $1,250,000 annually. The business had suffered from over-expansion, and that in turn resulted in too much competition.

The coming of war has interfered with export business and the exchange rates have been averse to business. These are given as some of the reasons for closing the factory in Woodstock where about 275 workers have been employed. It is explained that such goods as are needed will be manufactured by another firm elsewhere.

If these had been much export trade carried on we take it that such sales would have to be made on the basis of a price which would meet that of foreign companies exporting to or manufacturing in that export market. Such business might not be regarded as profitable owing to the low costs of manufacture in other lands.

In this country we are informed the demand for rubber footwear remains about the same; it has not decreased. Dealers tell us they sell more rubbers now and fewer goloshes because men are wearing spats and rubbers.

But Woodstock itself is left with a situation where 275 people who had been working are no longer doing so. It is a splendid little city but much like other places which cannot at the moment provide another 275 positions. We know nothing of the manner in which the company was managed, but would much prefer to see a factory like that operating in one of the smaller cities rather than see industry keep on merging in a few of the larger centres.

NOTE AND COMMENT

One writer has already suggested that Stalin and Hitler are going to be friends to the Finnish

An army pilot landed a plane upside down in Pennsylvania. But we would think the real trick would be to make such a plane get up and travel again.

On the first business day of the year 35 couples in Boston filed marriage intention notices. Scoff at Leap Year if you will, but it looks as though the thing would work.

Editors of university papers met in Montreal for a conference, and discussed the best way to exchange material between such papers. Our suggestion is the best way is merely to go ahead and exchange it.

Hon. R. B. Bennett during his visit in Canada met his brother-in-law, Hon. W. D. Herridge, leader of the New Democracy movement. What they had to say about that new child is not on the records.

Always is there argument in the world. Industrial commissioner in St. Thomas says that as a result of two years of hard work the new mental hospital there was turned into an air school. Premier Hepburn read the report and said "Rubbish."

The Commercial Appeal, a newspaper in Memphis, Tenn., came out with a 328-page edition weighing five pounds. Possibly it was easier to get out such a great edition than it was to print a very small edition during the days of Civil War. In those days the Memphis paper once used shoe blacking because it could secure no ink.

St. Thomas Times-Journal is somewhat worried. Rev. W. G. Brown who won the Federal seat in Saskatoon, once preached in St. Thomas for one hour and fifty minutes. But they have a rule at Ottawa by which at the end of 40 minutes Mr. Speaker will intone something to the effect that "the hon. member has already exhausted his time."

COUSIN EZRA

(By A.R.K.)

¶ My Cousin Ezra joins a lot, perhaps more things than what he ought, he seems to run that way; there's some debating club in town, where Ezra got his name put down, he'd have somewhat to say.

¶ But Ezra had to wait his turn, so he could listen in and learn, and hear how things were done; but Ezra scoffed at what he heard, nor was he pleased or deeply stirred, he thought they all were dumb.

¶ My cousin said they're too polite, they don't go at debating right, too smooth they were and slow; for Ezra likes to sail right in, and poke them square upon the chin, and holler at the foe.

¶ Well Ezra got his chance all right, they had on the team last night, he wrinkled up his brow; I guess my cousin boiled up hot, said things like what he shouldn't ought, they're snubbing him just now.

¶ Opponents were lamb chops for him, and he was burning to begin, he'd liven the debate; so Ezra hammered as he went, and left opponents bruised and bent, and sang his hymn of hate.

¶ The chairman caused some mild surprise, said plainly he'd apologize, regretted much the show; a stupid duffer with no head, was all that Cousin Ezra said—whose brains were made of dough.

How "Old Bill" Happened To Come To Life

DURING the war of 1914-18 Capt. Bairnsfather, the cartoonist, brought out "Old Bill," and that well-known saying "If you know of a better 'ole go to it." Bairnsfather tells in an interesting way how "Old Bill" came into existence:

I happened to be one of those who found themselves in France at the beginning of November 1914, and thus had the first winter of the war staring me in the face. Mons and the Marne were recently over, and the vast, but so far mobile armies were beginning to settle themselves down into those muddy, waterlogged slots in the ground which were to be their homes for so long.

I joined my battalion, the 1st Royal Warwicks, in the trenches before "Plugstreet" Wood, a dank, damp and dismal area, about halfway between Armentieres and Ypres. The trenches which we occupied had been only recently constructed, but, even when I first saw them, had the appearance of having been occupied for 10 years without repair. Compared to the swanky, sandbagged affairs that came later, these were but poor muddy ditches straggling about across flat shell-pitted fields, apparently so arranged as to let all the surrounding surface water from the fields drain into them. To reach these humid slots, one sloshed across sodden turnip-fields at dusk or in the dark, and allthered down into the muddy depths when you got there.

Month after month we held this part of the line, sharing the monotonous job with the Dublin Fusiliers, who relieved us every fifth night.

It was here that my "Fragments from France" began, a series of drawings that mainly owe their origin to the inspiration derived from utter boredom, and grim resignation.

Most of our military work had to be done at night, for it was difficult to move around those trenches in the daytime without being seen by the opposition, and possibly punctured.

THUS it naturally came about that there was much time on our hands during the day, and it was this fact that prompted me to indulge in copious scribbles in my dugout. Sitting in this sub-turnip-field cavity, wearing mud-caked greatcoat, water-saturated boots, and balaclava helmet, I would put down pictorial notes illustrative of the invincible, yet ironic humor that seemed to possess all the sodden soldiers about me. The ideas were of such local nature that it never once occurred to me that they might interest or amuse those outside our trench world who could not be familiar with our peculiar form of life, or fully understand our daily and nightly troubles.

I would make sketches on any stray pieces of paper I could find, leaves from notebooks, bottoms or lids of cardboard boxes, and so on. I began increasingly to get requests for these scribbles, which seemed to be giving the soldiers considerable amusement.

Then to my dugout one day came a lieutenant who had recently arrived at the front. He saw some of my sketches, and asked me why I did not send them to some paper or magazine. I explained that I had never thought of the drawings from that angle, but now that he had put the idea in my head, would following up his suggestion.

In due course, a rolled-up drawing left France for England, addressed to the Bystander, and having got thus far, I forgot all about the matter.

SOME little time later, whilst wallowing in the trenches at the base of the Messines Ridge, I was astounded to receive a letter from the magazine saying that my drawing had been accepted. The title of this sketch was "Where Did That One go?" a phrase which one is very apt to utter when promiscuous shells are exploding in your neighborhood.

Old Bill does not definitely appear in this drawing, though there are indications amongst the figures depicted of his forthcoming advent.

At this time I was somehow drawing all my sketches in an almost subconscious manner, I unwittingly sensed the need of an "Old Bill" as my strongest means of expression. This was due to the fact that there were in the trenches so many "near" "Old Bills," both in mind and face.

It seemed impossible for me to express the nature of the war life of the soldiers without such a character, and bit by bit I found that by developing this as yet vague individual I was getting nearer to depicting the real soul of the British old soldier, a marvellous person, with his unconscious humor prevailing under the worst possible conditions, a quality which not only exists in war, but is ever present in the British make-up.

All over the world I have been asked countless times the question, "What made you think of Old Bill?" I have always been unable to answer offhand, for the above is the somewhat lengthy explanation. Old Bill is a product of evolution, and once started, he kept on evolving. He more and more solidified into one definite character. Soldiers who looked anything like my delineation of him began to be called "Old Bill" by their friends. And ever since the first Great War I have kept on coming across men in civil life who are locally and familiarly known as "Old Bill."

• They Still Talk About Birchall

REPORTS of casualties in the war soon become as routine. In one issue of a newspaper we read of airplanes diving into the sea with their crews, warships and merchant ships sinking with hundreds of men, dead and wounded of the land forces filling graves and hospitals, and after a cursory perusual we turn to another page to learn what is happening nearer home. But at the week-end this newspaper received the latest enquiry of an intermitten series which has continued for decades, as to the dates of the Birchall trial and hanging in Woodstock nearly a half-century ago. Reginald Birchall killed a man, and his life was taken by the law, but there seems to be a fascination about the case which has survived interest in other famous crimes, in great disasters and even in wars.

This enquiry comes from Saskatchewan, the writer a resident of the Norwich neighborhood 40 years ago. He relates that recently he met a friend originally from Bruce county; the talk drifted to old times and inevitably to the Birchall case. The Oxford man recaled that B. B. Osler prosecuted but could not name the date of the trial or the presiding judge. The latter was Mr. Justice McMahon, and the famous George Tate Blackstock of Toronto was leading defence counsel. The trial lasted from September 22 to 29, 1890. Hector Charlesworth, who was a reporter at the trial, relates in his "Candid Chronicles" that the case aroused as much if not more interest in England, and that The Times had a verbatim report of counsel's address to the jury—15,000 words cabled overseas.

John Reginald Birchall, who lured Fred C. Benwell to Canada as a "farm pupil" and murdered him in a swamp near Princeton, was an undergraduate of Oxford University. The evidence indicated that he had almost succeeded in doing away with another man at Niagara Falls, the intent in each case being to possess himself of the victim's money. The links in the chain which convicted Birchall were pieced together by John Murray, police inspector, and the evidence was overwhelmingly conclusive, but Mr. Blackstock left nothing to chance in his address to the jury, and the judge took two hours for his charge. The jury was out only an hour and a half before bringing in a verdict of "guilty." The prisoner was sentenced to be hanged on November 14.

The case was the theme of a once popular song, the subject of at least one book, and almost filled the newspapers of that day. Once in a while somebody comes along and asks for copies of the Sentinel-Review containing the report of the trial, but it is many years too late for that; only the bound files can be produced for perusual. If Woodstock had no other claim to fame than the Birchall trial, it would still be out ahead of St. Thomas, scene of Jumbo's demise. —Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

• The Government Has Been Told

BY 72,433 votes to 29,072 the electors of Toronto expressed their opinions against the proposal for two-year terms, which was an alternative to the forthcoming legislation by the Ontario Government to suspend municipal elections during the war; however long that may be. In effect, therefore, the plebiscite registered an overwhelming majority against the Government proposal. Toronto, notes St. Thomas Times-Journal, has thus confirmed similar views expressed by a number of smaller cities.

Premier Hepburn and the Minister of Municipal Affairs, Hon. Eric Cross, have adopted a rather lofty attitude toward the results of these plebiscites. They have pooh-poohed them as if they were of no account and announce that they will drive ahead with their bill.

The present Ontario Government has never shown any inclination to compromise. It invariably says, "This is our plan and we're going through with it no matter what the opponents say." But we have a feeling that the universal display of opposition to the election proposals will cause them to moderate their view a little. These plebiscites are too representative of public opinion in general to be ignored and flouted. And if there is one thing a government is susceptible to it is the trend of public opinion. What the people have said in these plebiscites they are certain to say at the next provincial election. And the Premier of Ontario does not want to do an Admiral Graf Spee trick and commit political suicide. The public does not believe the amount of money that would be saved by suspending elections would compensate for the entrenchment of a spending municipal body for a term of years; especially one that starts off by raising its own emoluments. A council so elected is practically given totalitarian powers. Assured of unchallengeable authority for an indefinite period the members might assume the attitude that they will do what they want to do and hope for a long war.

The Ontario Government knows how the political wind blows. It should either leave things alone, or make application of the legislation optional.

Many a government has saved its bacon by substituting "may" for "shall" in a bill.

"HOW IS BEN?"

CHRISTMAS and New Year's are twin seasons of the year when a man's thoughts turn to his home, especially the home of his boyhood. For this reason the following 'homey' story is taken from The St. Marys Journal-Argus, to remind others who have moved from some quiet little village to a larger centre, of the happy, carefree days of their childhood, and of the ways of the people who dwell there:

The past two weeks a frequent query heard on the streets was: "How is Ben?" Everybody knew who was meant. Not some great dignified public character, as might be inferred, but a quiet, modest mail-courier, Ben Allen, who had served on rural route No. 6, St. Marys, for a number of years. Ben was in the hospital with small chance of recovery. People talked about Ben and his kindly ways and the good turns he had done them. On Friday he passed on and on Sunday the community gathered at Kirkton Anglican Church to pay their respects to a departed friend. There is still something attractive about life in our rural parts where folk take a friendly and local interest in the welfare of their neighbors.

CAN BE OVERDONE

REGULATION of business by official authority is a difficult proposition. It has its dangerous sides. We criticize official regimentation in totalitarian countries like Germany and Russia, but right in our own land we can see evidences of the same trend creeping in. Many of the regulations, on the surface, appear eminently reasonable, but the principle back of them should be kept in mind. Democracy can go too far along these lines. After it reaches a certain point it ceases to be democracy.—Windsor Star.

OUR BUFFALO

IF THE TIME ever comes when Canada decides to induce big game hunters to spend their money here, as they do in Kenya colony and other parts of Africa, by opening the season on wood buffalo in the North West Territories, we should have something worth while for them to go after. For it is stated that a total of 6,600 animals were sent north from Wainwright Park, now being closed as a buffalo park, to the wood buffalo country south of Great Slave Lake.

There is not much information available about those animals and how they crossed with the wood buffalo, but these wood buffalo, we are told, are larger and darker than the plains buffalo—not smaller, as many believe.

Incidentally, The Herald is informed that the Elk Island Park buffalo herd is entirely free from tuberculosis. This is the herd which is kept now in Alberta instead of the Wainwright herd which has been disposed of this fall.—Lethbridge Herald.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Now there arose a new king over Egypt, which knew not Joseph. And he said unto his people, Behold, the people of the children of Israel are more and mightier than we: come on, let us deal wisely with them; lest they multiply, and it come to pass, that, when there falleth out any war, they join also unto our enemies, and fight against us, and so get them up out of the mind....

And the Egyptians made the children of Israel to serve with rigour: and they made their lives bitter with hard bondage, in mortar and in brick, and in all manner of service in the field: all their service, wherein they made them serve, was with rigour.

MAN A POOR THIRD

SANTA CLAUS evidently follows the law of the sea: "Women and children first." At least, a large department store in New York has found out—by a careful checking of sales—that the men are a poor third in the ratio of Christmas gifts to be received this Yuletide.

A breakdown of the average 1,000 Christmas gifts purchased showed that 323 of them were definitely intended for women, 302 of them for children and only 127 shirts, ties, socks and slippers for men. The other 250 articles were impersonal, which can be used to pacify uncles and aunt, who do not care much what they find in their stockings, so long as Santa Claus does not overlook them entirely.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

FOR U.S. READERS

American newspapers refer to the arrival of the first Canadian "doughboys" in Britain. They may call them by such a term of endearment if they choose, but the Canadians who served overseas from 1914 to 1919 were not known as "doughboys" (that was a word coined to describe the American troops) nor will the Canadians in this war wear that label.

TRENT RIVER, Jan. 5.—(ENS)—Mrs. James Longmuir opened her home for the first meeting of the Ladies' Aid for the new year on Wednesday and had two quilts set up for quilting during the day.

A pot luck dinner was served at the noon hour for forty-five and a business meeting was held in the afternoon with Mrs. Thomas Brown presiding.

Mrs. Walter Lewis, the newly-appointed pianist, played the opening hymn. Mrs. John Scott and Mrs. Gordon Shearer took over their new duties as secretary and treasurer respectively. The scripture lesson was read by Ms. Thomas Dunham. Twenty-five dollars was voted for the missionary fund of the church.

At the close of the business meeting the ladies resumed the quilting, the work of which was completed during the afternoon.

The fee of 15 cents was made for the lunch resulting in $7 for the Trent River group who provided the lunch. Drowning Proves Harbor Mystery

NEW YORK, Jan. 5—(AP). — A mystery developed over the death of a middle-aged man whose body, with a forehead bruise, was taken from Ambrose Channel by the coast guard after the skipper of a tanker reported yesterday he saw a man go overboard from the outbound Norwegian liner Bergesnfjord.

Coast guard officials identified the dead man from his seaman's discharge book and other papers as Mat H. Niinimaa but found no address. They at first stated the head bruise might have been from a blow sufficient to cause death, but Dr. William Rappaport of the United States Marine Hospital on Staten Island said the blow had not been fatal and that a preliminary examination indicated death was due to drowning.

The master of the Bergesnfjord, carrying some 90 Finns back home, by way of Norway, to fight against Russia, said none of his personnel was missing.

In the group were fur-capped Canadian miners, laborers, carpenters, watchmakers, chauffeurs, a former butler and an Olympic wrestling champion. In charge of the group was the ex-butler, Martin Heino, past president of the Finnish war veterans.

Elina Kotonen, another Canadian miner, got a parting kiss from a feminine Brooklyn admirer while Holobainen, of Timmins, Ont., looked on enviously. Others who sailed included Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Gaster of Toronto. Gaster, a British citizen, said he was going over to fight because his wife is Finnish.

Near Call For 8

TORONTO, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Eight persons to-day were recovering from near death from illuminating gas which filled a tenement house here yesterday, but luckily did not cause an explosion. Two persons, Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Bifolk, required hospital treatment and a doctor called to the scene was almost overcome.

It appeared that some tenant in the house had left a gas jet open all night. Thomas Bifolk, 23, son of the owner was awakened by his father a minute before the collapsed. He immediately routed out the other tenants, some of whom were unconscious in their beds.

540 Coats Burn

Providence, R.I., Jan. 5 (AP)

FIVE hundred and forty pupils and 20 teachers escaped today as flames enveloped the Point Street Grammar School.

The blaze started in the boiler room of the three-storey structure and quickly spread throughout the building. Many of those occupying third-floor class rooms were forced to leave by fire escapes.

The children, unable to reach their overcoats, so rapid was the spread of the flames, were sheltered in a nearby school.

Romeo And Juliet Vanish In Elopement

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 — (AP). — Eileen Herrick and George Lowther 3rd, the modern Romeo and Juliet of New York society, eloped yesterday with the happy announcement that they would wed to-day in an undisclosed hamlet far, far from New York.

The sweethearts met and fled after Miss Herrick sauntered away from her home in the swank East Side — on the ruse that she was going to "take her dog for a walk."

The elopement abruptly climaxed a cafe society romance—a love enlivened by front page headlines, extraordinary court action and public parental frowns of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Herrick, the 20-year-old girl's parents.

That the frown had deepened was indicated by a New York police report that Herrick, former park commissioner and head of a distinguished old New York family, had complained to them that his daughter was being "held against her will."

Eli Johnson, Lowther's attorney, who twice helped the 30-year-old insurance broker to produce his Juliet in court via the unromantic route of "habeas corpus," termed Herrick's reported complaint "nonsense."

Johnson said the sweethearts, beside themselves with happiness, bade him adieu with this pronouncement:

"We are very happy that this is ending in marriage."

Fast Travelling.

He disclosed the details of the elopement, saying the sweethearts fled by "fast car, fast train and fast plane."

It would not be cricket, he said, to disclose the name of the "honeymoon hamlet," but he did say that a licence and a clergyman were ready somewhere hundreds of miles away.

Police headquarters also said that Herrick expressed displeasure over the belief that the family dog "was roaming the streets of New York."

"That, too, is nonsense," said Johnson, "and what's more, the dog is very safely tucked away, the two sweethearts are together, and they are very properly chaperoned."

Three minutes after the beauteous brunette left her home, a taxicab was seen speeding her across town to "the apartment of a confidante." There, said Johnson, Lowther met her — the first private meeting in three months—full of happiness and honeymoon plans, and the two left again immediately.

Miss Herrick left home hatless and with only a simple black and cream house dress and polo coat in which she had hastily thrust a tooth brush and a comb.

Soviet-Bulgaria Trade Deal Reported Signed

MOSCOW, Jan. 5—(AP)—Soviet Russia was reported today to have concluded a commercial treaty with Bulgaria, opening a largely undeveloped trade field, while similar negotiations were begun with Japan and continued with Germany.

Bulgarian sources said the pact, which might be signed today, dealt principally with a Black Sea shipping accord, political questions were not involved.

(There had been rumors in Sogia that Russia might make military demands in connection with the treaty. Commercial relations between the two countries have been almost non-existent. Figures for 1938 show that Russia bought less than $200 worth of Bulgarian merchandise.

(Bulgaria looked for the treaty to spread her present concentration on the German market and to increase Black Sea traffic.)

A Japanese delegation which arrived in Moscow yesterday was expected to conduct lengthy trade negotiations.

Dr. Karl Ritter, head of a German economic delegation which has been discussing details of a trade agreement here for several weeks, left Wednesday for Berlin, but most of the delegates remained in Moscow.

Canadian Bean Pea Growers Coming To Own

OTTAWA, Jan. 5—(CP)—Canadian growers of soy beans and field peas finally are coming into their own to the gratification of the agricultural experts at the Dominion Government Experimental Farm here.

The agriculturists considered particularly encouraging that Canadian-grown peas exhibited by Albert Gohn of Emo, Ont., in the Kenora-Rainy River district, won a prize at the recent Chicago International Livestock Exhibition and International Grain and Hay Show. Canada imported most of its table pea seed from Poland previous to the war and that source now is cut off.

Hugh Jeffrey of Whitby, Ont., won a first place with his exhibit of soy beans of the Mandarin variety over a large number of entries from some of the best soy bean areas in the United States. His sample was a cross breeding on seed imported from Manchuria. The original seed ripened too late for Canadian climatic conditions and was developed into an early-ripening product.

Francis L. Rigby of Wembley, Alta., became Wheat King for 1939 and 448 other awards were won by Canadian farmers, including 18 grand championships, two champion top bull sales, 15 special association prizes, 81 first place prizes, and 322 other prizes.

Cromwell Known As An Author

SOMERVILLE, N.J., Jan 5 — (AP). — James H. R. Cromwell, nominated yesterday United States Minister to Canada, is an author, economist, world traveller, philanthropist, and sportsman.

Forty-three years old, Cromwell has also had a measure of experience as a New Jersey state official, serving as a member of the State Law Revision Commission. He and his wife, the former Doris Duke, recently financed the "Princeton Survey of New Jersey Finance," a study supervised by Princeton University to simplify and improve the state's tax structure.

In 1937 and again nthis year, Cromwell was considered a leading democratic possibility for United States Senator.

Cromwell is a veteran of the First Great War, having served as a captain in the Marine Corps. He was formerly an executive of a Florida real estate firm.

A staunch defender of capitalism in his books, Cromwell believes that all income taxes should be ultimately repealed to be replaced by a general sales tax on finished products.

Tobacco supplies, shoe shine stand, news stand and refreshments complete the most modern billiard hall in Ontario. Another feature is the lighting fixtures which give adequate light that's easy on the eyes.

Cattle Ease Up On Week, Hogs Gain 15

TORONTO, Jan. 5.—(CP).— The calf section, showing a gain of 50 cents to $1 cwt., was the bright spot in this week's Toronto live-stock market trade. Cattle prices were 25 cents cwt. lower on most grades except bulls and fed calves and hogs were about unchanged from last week. Sheep and lambs closed on a steady tone.

Cattle trade was slow throughout with a few hundred still unsold at the close, including some good weighty steers. Top for steers after the opening session was $7.50 with others selling downward to $6.60. Butcher steers and heifers closed at $6-$7.25 with a few at $7.50.

Butcher cows finished at $4-$5.50 with canners and cutters at $3-$3.75. Bulls were strong on export demand at $5-$5.75 cwt. and a few light bologna bulls sold as low as $4.50. Fed calves held steady at $7.75-$9 cwt. The few stockers offered sold at $6-$6.75. Milkers and springers were unchanged at $80-$90 for tested tops.

Calves advanced 50 cents to $1 cwt. at the opening with choice vealers selling at $12-$13 cwt. on good export demand. Common vealers sold downward to $7 and a few grassers made $5.50-$6. The close was easier on a run too small to attract carload buyers.

Hogs Gain Slightly.

Hogs held at a level price of $9 off truck while dressed sales gained 5-15 cents to close at a general $12.15 for rail grading.

Only one carload of lambs from the west appeared on the market, selling at $10.50 on the final day. Local lambs traded at $10.25-$10.50 for best quality with others at $8. Sheep ranged from $3-$6.50 according to quality.

Cattle—This week 4,675, last week 3,818, this week 1939 5,490.

eighteen directors, and at the same time hoping that the others who had to be struck off the active list would continue their interest and help in an associate capacity.

Approaching the detail of reorganization for this year, the members appointed a nominating committee, R. T. Lillico, R. L. Dobbin, Gordon Hancok, R. E. Birdsall, Frank Kitney and R. M. Glover, who submitted to the meeting the names of twenty-four of last year's directors from whom eighteen were chosen by ballot.

The directors for 1940 are: George Hooton, C. G. Graham, J. O. Ball, Thomas Brown, Lieut.-Col. R. Everett Birdsall, J. A. Middleton, Frank Savigny, Fred Robson, Roland Denne, Gordon Hancock, R. L. Dobbin, C. E. Moore, Clarence Mann, R. M. Glover, Alex Houston, W. H. Young, Joseph Tully, James Gifford and Frank Kitney.

Nearly every one of the old directors attended the annual meeting in the city council chamber, a remarkably large representation. The retiring president, Tom Brown, reported that although the board had not been complying with the new statute requiring the election of a comparatively small number of directors, the statement by Mr. Carroll last year was virtually an order that could be no longer evaded.

Legislation permitted the election of twelve directors with the option of adding six others, with six junior farmers to assist in promoting the junior division of the Exhibition.

At the parting of the ways, Mr. Brown thanked the directors for the co-operation they had always given him and for their loyalty to the Exhibition. He singled out R. M. Glover for special mention as chairman of the attractions committee saying that if his services had to be paid for the cost would have been quite a sum. Mr. Brown said he regretted the change in the executive set up, but it could not be put off any longer. He added that he was quite willing to retire to the associate ranks and leave the way open for younger men to gain experience in the work and take the place of the veterans like himself.

The financial statement for last year, presented by C. D. Cowling, showed an operating profit of $2,676.38 as compared with $4,401.56 in the previous year.

The total income was $30,133.49 and expenses amounted to $27,257.11; and in 1938 the income was $30,861.12 and the outgo was $26,459.56.

Gordon Hancock and Harry McIntyre were re-appointed delegates to the convention of the Ontario Associations of Fairs and Exhibitions to be held in Toronto.

Favor Paid Official.

The meeting instructed the new board to consider the appointment of a full time manager, a proposal that has been mentioned within the last few years with a growing realization that the increasing work demanded a permanent supervisor.

Edward Humpage was appointed auditor.

A pronounced sentiment of the meeting was a hope that directors who are not on the official list would continue to attend meetings and maintain their interest in the Exhibition. Largely because of their association in planning and carrying out programs and improvements through lean years and full it was unanimously decided to have a dinner to be arranged by R. M. Glover, Frank C. Paterson, D. B. Falkner, R. Denne and R. L. Dobbin. This motion was proposed by Alex Huston and seconded by Bert Arnott.

G. A. Brethen's Idea.

Arthur Brethen of Norwood said that his connection of forty years as member, judge and exhibitor, warranted friendly comment. The Peterborough Exhibition should be the show window of Central Ontario, he said, filling a place in this section of the Province similar to Ottawa and London, in the east and western areas respectively. He recalled that there was not one new local exhibitor at the Exhibition here last year, and in the Jersey class not one local herd was shown.

"Doesn't it seem a tragedy to observe the absence of men from our own area who used to be exhibitors here?" Mr. Brethen suggestd. "Where were the Whittingtons, Seymours, Calvert, Bruce McNevin and many others I could mention. I am not advocating a regional exhibition, but I wonder are we playing fair with the men and with agriculture who really make this Exhibition."

Mr. Brethen said that advancing the dates earlier into August conflicted with the harveting in this district.

"There is not another fair board in Ontario that will take that week. It was wished on us by the Paddy Conklin shows. Picton and Brockville tried that week and both failed."

"Frankly I am disappointed," Mr. Brethen remarked. "The primary things of the Exhibition should be made of primary importance," referring to the money spent on attractions and the importance directed to other entertainment features.

Mr. Denne and several other members denied that the Conklin management dictated the Exhibition dates, and recalled fairs here in September, back as far as John Garbutt's time, when cold weather, even snow, cut the attendance to a mere handful.

James Gifford was apparently inclined to agree with Mr. Brethen, especially in a comment that a week later in August than that of last year would be an advantage to the rural people.

Same Staples supported the other side of this perennial argument, the class A rating and the co-operative arrangement with Ottawa Exhibition by which the earlier date enabled exhibitors to compete both here and at Ottawa.

"It costs money to fit stock to compete with some of the best in Canada that we are getting here," Mr. Staples said. "The solution as I see it is for local breeders to exhibit at the class B fairs of the district, and perhaps pick out some of their best animals and show them here. I don't think one class A exhibition should compete with another in that class by taking the same dates."

A Memorial Minute.

At the beginning of the meeting the directors stood for a minute in silent memory of E. F. Mason, one of the vice-presidents of the Exhibition, who died during the year.

The total paid attendance here last year amounted to only slightly more than in 1938.

Regular	$8,925.00	$9,748.18
Advance Sale	6,452.75	5,967.00

Entry fees last year were $1,678.05 and in 1938 the sum was $1,738.40.

In his presidential address Clarence Mann who was chairman for the meeting reviewed some of the highlights of the year's activities. He referred to the appointment of Clifford Johnston and Clair Leahy to attend a short course at Guelph and to the success of co-operative meetings held last February. The affiliation of the organization with the Chamber of Agreulture was mentioned by President Mann, who also referred to the purchase of the warehouse of E. A. Scott and its successful operation and to the series of dances so efficiently conducted by Earl Tully.

Reports of the U.F.O. convention in Toronto were given by Mrs. W. G. Waterman who dealt especially with the policy ennunciated by Miss Agnes Macphail, Clifford Johnston who covered a number of the outstanding features of the convention, Earl Tully who told of the youth program that had been stressed and President Mann.

The Shipping Board.

Reporting for the livestock shipping board, Charles Brown said there there had been $1,500 less business than in the previous year. Altogether the sales amounted to $49,874.31, made up of 135 cows, 449 calves, 80 sheep and 1,864 hogs.

The expenses included $47,561.21 paid to the owners $4,357.23 freight charges, $136.57 yardage fees, $727.95 commission to E. H. Brown, $202.09 to the U.F.O., and $639.85 for trucking hogs. The sum of $226.67 had been placed in the reserve fund and there was a deficit on current account of $88.92. However there was a credit of $322.23 on capital account.

In answer to a questtion from C. E. Moore, Mr. Brown reported that in the 17½ years the board had been in operation the sales had amounted to $1,313,046.88, made up of 8,458 cattle, 14,876 calves, 5,048 sheep and 30,999 hogs.

Forward Movement Needed.

"There is need for a big forward movement in agriculture like we have never had before," declared H. B. Cowan when called upon for an address. Mr. Cowan expressed satisfaction in the creation of the Peterborough county Chamber of Agriculture and stressed the importance of organized effort to secure the marketing legislation and the other things the farmers of Canada desired. Out of the experience he had gained in Australia and New Zealand and his recent duties at Washington, Mr. Cowan pointed out what was being accomplished by effective organization and co-operation and emphasized the fact that the farmers were the most powerful bloc in Washington. There was no doubt, the speaker said, that the protection given Canadian industry by the tariff gave manufacturers a great advantage over the farmer and he urged more effective organizataion through the national chamber of agriculture to deal with that and other farm problems.

The Club Report.

Secretary-treasurer E. H. Brown in giving an interim club report announced that the Peterborough U.F.O. club had a credit balance as of December 1 last of $818.97. In connection with the warehouse business Mr. Brown stated that the total sales from March 24 to September 30 had been $15,589.17 and that there had been a gross profit of $2,039.06 and a net profit of $322.50 on the operations during that period.

For the social committee Earl Tully said there had been thirty dances during the year and the profits after all expenses had been paid amounted to $847.21. Mr. Tully asked for more assistance for his committee.

As an appreciation of his services during the year the meeting voted him an honorarium of $100.

C. E. Moore and Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore addressed the meeting briefly to call attention of the U.F.O. school next week and the desirability of a large attendance. Both congratulated Clifford Johnston upon his success in winning second prize in the oratory contest at the last Ontario U.F.O. convention.

After the election of officers refreshments were served by the ladies and a pleasant social hour enjoyed.

Three-way Attack.

Lord Lothian said all current indications pointed to the probability that Germany would attempt to gain a decision over Britain and France early this spring by "a terrific attack by land, air and sea," and that she would "use every weapon in her armory."

"The object of war is to reach a decision and Germany cannot afford to wait," he added. "Moreover, from the point of view of the National Socialist Party and the militarists who support it, not only is there a chance of a rapid decision today but it is a decision which may give them the supreme prize, world empire. That chance may never come again. Nazi Germany is in a better position to win it today than she was in the last war."

He explained Germany had to fight on two fronts during the first Great War but now could concentrate on one and that Germany had no effective long distance air power then but had "the most terrific air force in the world" now.

But the Allies are confident they can repel the attack, the Ambassador added, and declared it would not be long thereafter "before Hitlerism itself goes down in defeat."

If "Hitler and his friends" should win the war and seize Britain's sea power, Lord Lothian said, the world "might get peace but it would be a peace with the light of liberty gone out"

"What support should Britain give the Finns? There is a movement to send this country to war against Russia on behalf of Finland. That movement gathers strength both from the right and the left.

F.D.R. Peace Plans Create Dispute

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—(AP).—Amid general applause for President Roosevelt's pleas for peace and economy, sharp disputes broke out among members of the United States congress today over his recommendations for special defence taxes and continuance of the reciprocal trade program.

While awaiting presentation of the 1940-41 budget, party leaders scanned the president's annual message for issues to be fought out in the coming presidential campaign.

Democrats were warm in their praise of the tone of the address, especially its re-declaration that the United States must stay out of war while trying to promote peace. Many Republicans joined in lauding this statement, although some termed the entire discussion of foreign and domestic policies too indefinite.

Just as both parties are split over extending the reciprocal trade program beyond next June 12, so are they divided over the president's advocacy of sufficient additional taxes to pay for emergency defence spending. One or two congressmen privately predicted that no special tax would be passed at this session.

Both tax and tariff bills originate in the house of representatives. Chairman Robert Doughton of the house ways and means committee said a measure to extend the reciprocal trade act, under which the Canada-United States trade agreement was negotiated, would be introduced in a week. A defence tax bill, he said, will come up after the trade measure is debated.

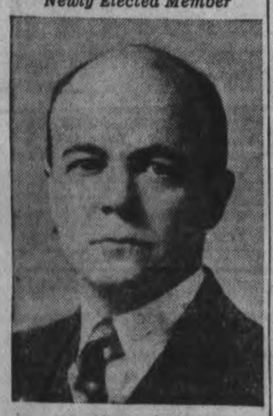
Board Of Education Elects Chairman

D. G. H. MELTON
1940 Chairman

T. J. CARLEY, K.C.
Newly Elected Member



DAVID T. DIPLOCK
Newly Elected Member

C. ALEX. SOLLITT
Newly Elected Member

H. G. WALKER
Appointed Member

Peterborough's 1940 Board of Education met in the Board's offices in the South Central school for its inaugural meeting on Thursday night. D. G. H. Melton was chosen chairman. C. Alex Sollitt, T. J. Carley, K.C. and D. T. Diplock, the three newly-elected members took their seats. W. A. Richardson resigned and H. G. Walker was appointed to his place.

D. G. H. Melton Is Elected Board Chairman

D. G. H. Melton was elected chairman of the Board of Education at the first meeting of the new board last night. New members present were C. Alex Sollitt, D. T. Diplock, and T. J. Carley.

Highlight of the meeting was the resignation from the board of W. A. Richardson and the appointment of H. G. Walker, last year's property committee chairman, to his place. Mr. Walker failed to qualify on nomination day and the 1940 board was returned by acclamation with three new members.

Appointment of Mr. Walker was made after protest by G. Wilson Craw. "Are we being fair with the ratepayers in naming Mr. Walker to the board?" he asked. He pointed out that Mr. Walker had been nominated but had failed to qualify for re-election this year, and said that three years ago Mr. Walker had filled a single term on appointment, later winning a two-year seat by acclamation.

Cause An Election.

Chairman Melton said that Mr. Walker had told him the reason he had not qualified was that such action would have meant causing an election this year. Mr. Richardson said that Mr. Walker had not known of his intention to resign from the board at the time of this year's election. He said that "while it is true that he has been appointed once before, where, for the welfare of Peterborough, can we get a man to take his place so capably?" he asked.

Dr. Moir, who moved Mr. Walker's appointment, said he felt his nominee was best fitted for the post, that he "has the ability, the time and the willingness to serve. He has rendered invaluable service to the board."

Mrs. Kate Morris seconded the nomination, and it carried unanimously. Reached by telephone, Mr Walker agreed to take the post only if the election had been unanimous. He was later re-elected chairman of the Property Committee.

Mr. Richardson explained that his resignation was due to pressure of other work. "I have felt for some time that I could not carry on my duties and give to the board the kind of service it deserves," he declared.

Committees Named.

Standing committees for the year were struck, and elected their own chairmen as follows:

Property Committee — H. G. Walker, chairman; Dr. C. M. Scott, C Alex Sollitt, D. T. Diplock, Mark Burnham, and J. V. McElderry.

Supervision Committee — Dr. A. Moir, chairman; Mrs. Kate Morris, Dr. C. M. Scott, T. J. Carley, and J. V. McElderry.

Committee on Appointments — The whole Board, Dr. C. M. Scott, chairman.

Advisory Vocational Committee — (Chairman to be elected later); Mrs. Kate Morris, D. G. H. Melton, T. J. Carley, G. W. Craw, Mark Burnham, and J. V. McElderry; H. Cranford, Western Clock Company; G. A. Macdonald, DeLaval Company; W. A. Richardson, Peterborough Canoe Company (three employers of labor who are by statute selected); H. Carter of DeLaval, and C. Westbrooke of Lock Works, Ian McRae of C.G.E. (three employees selected by statute).

A committee of five was named to recommend standing committees for the year. Members were Mrs. Kate Morris, Dr. A. Moir, W. A. Richardson, G. W. Craw, and Dr. C. M. Scott.

The board voted, on motion of Mr. Craw, to ask the City Council for $15,000 a month until the estimates for 1940 have been brought in—a usual request in January.

Distribute Prizes To Poultry Winners

The thirty-first annual show of the Peterborough Poultry Association closed last night for another year. In the distribution of the prizes to the owners of the four hundred competing birds, Harry Lush was prominent in the classes for Hamburgs, Polish, Dark Brahmas, Langshans, and both Japanese and game bantams.

Harold Van Allen stood out with his buff, black and brown Leghorns, Dorkings and Sussex.

E. H. White won with his Barred Rocks, Golden Seabrights, and Rhode Island Reds.

R. D. Robson led in the classes for Black Minorcas, and won the silver cup for the best breeding pen and the best female bird in the show.

Edgar Simmons had an interesting exhibit of Rhode Island Reds in both production and exhibition classes.

URGED TO VISIT THE SCHOOLS.

Schools in the city are going to be visited frequently this year by members of the Board of Education if a proposal by Chairman D. G. H. Melton is followed up. Mr. Melton said he wanted frequent visits made during the coming year, suggested that each public school and the Collegiate, be visited twice before the end of 1940.

Kuhn's Successor?

London reports the U.S. secret service has received information that Alfred Frauenfeld, Austrian Nazi, has been appointed to succeed Fritz Kuhn as leader of the German-American bund. Kuhn was jailed recently for theft.

Drunk Driving Is Given Preview

Mayor Hamilton and most of the members of the city council, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., Chief Constable Samuel Newhall and a number of other police officers city and provincial, as well as other citizens were guests of Manager Art Cauley at the Capitol Theatre at noon today for a preview of the picture "Drunk Driving" which is being shown today and Saturday at the Capitol.

The film, another in the well known "Crime Does Not Pay" series, proved a thrilling, graphic, gripping pictorial proof of the folly of mixing gasoline and alcohol. It is not surprising that it has earned the endorsation of Premier Hepburn and his minister of highways, Hon. T. B. McQuesten, because it drives home as few other media could do the tragedy that often follows in the wake of drinking and driving. Effectively directed and acted "Drunk Driving" should be a powerful piece of propaganda in the interest of safer conditions on the highways.

The officials who saw the review were unanimous in their opinion that the film reveals most clearly one of the most potent causes of highway tragedies and that it should do much to warn motorists that they should not drink if they are planning on driving. There is nothing overdrawn or distorted; it is merely a true-to-life reproduction of a typical case of tragedy due to alcohol.

Medal Presented Capt. F. Morin

For long and meritorious service in the employment of the Government, Captain Frank Morin of Lakefield was presented with the King's medal at his home in Lakefield Thursday. The presentation was made by J. J. Duffus, M.P., who was accompanied by A. L. Killaly, superintendent of the Trent Canal.

Captain Morin had been in charge of the tug "Bob Hall" for quite a number of years, and at the time of his retirement last Spring he had been an employee of the Federal Government forty-seven years. The waters of the Kawartha district and the Trent section had long been familiar to Captain Morin.

OBITUARIES

MILDRED FERREN

Death came at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday to Mildred Ferren, aged nine and a half months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ferren, 260 Euclid avenue, after a short illness.

Besides her parents, she is survived by three brothers, Ernie, John and Robert, and three sisters, Dorothy, Mary, and Teresa, all at home.

The funeral will be on Saturday morning at 8 o'clock from the late residence, with interment at Kinmount cemetery.

MRS. WILLIAM D. BROOKS.

The funeral of Mrs. William D. Brooks, 266 Simcoe Street, will take place Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late home, where she died on Wednesday.

Born in Hastings county, and a resident of this city since last July, Mrs. Brooks had been in declining health for a considerable time. She had resided in Oshawa before coming to Peterborough. She is survived by her husband; four sons: George of Bowmanville, Albert of Detroit, Kenneth and Lyal of Peterborough, and one daughter, Mrs. John Curley of Rochester, N.Y.

Mrs. Brooks was a member of the United Church. Rev. M. C. Parr will conduct the funeral service, and interment will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

BUS NOT OPERATING

The Examiner contained a story on Tuesday of an accident in which the Peterborough-Trenton bus was mentioned. The accident, not a very serious one, happened on Sunday and the impression may have been created that the vehicle was being operated as a public bus on that occasion. Such was not the case. The Peterborough-Trenton bus does not make its trips on Sunday.

Employees Elect Member To C.P.C. Board

A forward step toward democracy in industry came when Geoerge Ayers of Toronto, was elected by employees of Canada Packers, Ltd., to sit on the C.P.C. board as their own director.

When the matter of election of an employee to the board was first broached by the company—a new departure in Canadian industry—it was the company's intention to have all plants vote, but Peterborough and other employees decided that for the first year the director should be chosen by Toronto workers alone. In future, however, all employees will have a voice in the election. Eighty-five per cent of the 1,900 Toronto workers voted in the election and election of George Ayers was ratified at a meeting of company shareholders this week.

J. S. McLean, president of Canada Packers, said that such an election is aimed at giving employees a voice in the company's policy, especially in those things that effect the welfare of the employees themselves. He forecast a better coordination of effort and improved workmanship as a result to be looked for.

The new director is 55 years of age, was born in Lowestoff, Suffolk, England. He came to Canada in 1909 and served with the C.A.S.C. during the war. In 1918 he joined the William Davies company, with which, and its successor, the Canada Packers, he has since been employed.

The company advise that in the near future they also hope to appoint a director to represent the view of livestock producers.

Theft Of Cow Charge Is Dismissed

After hearing the evidence of the accused and of Arthur Brinklow, the third party in the cow transaction who was called in reply by the Crown, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court Thursday afternoon found C. J. Asselstine not guilty of the theft of a cow from William Breckenridge.

Having regard to all the circumstances, the Magistrate said it would not be safe for him to convict the accused. He informed Breckenridge that he had his remedy in another court in regard to the recovery of the cow in the case.

Asselstine in his evidence stated that no deal had been concluded between Brinklow and himself for the sale of the cow to Brinklow. The animal had been taken by Brinklow one night and later sold to Breckenridge and accused had never received anything from Brinklow in return for the cow.

Verbal Contract.

Brinklow swore that there had been a verbal contract between Asselstine and himself by which he was to have the cow and was to give in exchange three heifer calves. No time had been mentioned as to when the calves were to be handed over, he claimed. When he did offer Asselstine a calf some time later the accused had refused to take it, witness said.

In behalf of Asselstine W. J. Arthur Fair argued that there had been no deal between Brinklow and Asselstine and therefore that the latter had never lost his title to the cow.

Magistrate Langley reviewed the intricacies of the case in some detail and then declared that he did not propose to return a conviction.

Renews Request For Lockers

Last fall he came out on the short end when members of the property committee wrangled with their chairman over purchase of the lockers for students at Dr. Kenner's school. They weren't so much opposed to purchase of the lockers as they were to a belief they held that the chairman had been arbitrary in contracting for them without consulting other members of his committee. Upshot of the squabble wa sthat the Collegiate went without the lockers and pupils have been doubling up ever since.

Last night, prompt with the first meeting of the 1940 board, came a letter from Dr. Kenner to the board pointing out that 276 lockers were needed and asking for 100 this year, 100 next year, and the remainder the succeeding year. He pointed out that two pupils were now sharing one locker in many instances and that it was proving unsatisfactory.

He may look for some action this year. Instead of referring his letter to the property committee, the board sent it to the supervision committee for consideration, on the grounds that it was moveable property.

Rangers Approve Canadiens' Offer

NEW YORK, Jan. 6—(CP)—Word from Montreal that the Canadiens had offered New York Rangers $20,000 for two of their amateur hockey prospects was greeted with good - natured bewilderment by Ranger officials today.

Ernie Savard, president of the Montreal National Hockey League club, said in Montreal the offer had been made for Edgar and Bert Laprade of Port Arthur Bearcats but had been refused.

"I wonder to whom he made the offer," one officer of the Ranger organization said. "But we certainly would be interested if he 'renewed' the offer. Twenty thousand dollars can buy a lot of tea."

Russia has a ski mountaineering craze.

Moves To Open Up Meetings

G. Wilson Craw, city editor of the Examiner, Thursday night gave the Board of Education notice of a motion he will bring up at the Board's February session asking that all committee meetings be thrown open to the press and that the secretary will notify the press of such meetings.

In the past only such committee meetings as the chairman sees fit have been open to reporters. Chairman D. G. M. Melton voiced the opinion that, generally speaking, all meetings of committees are now open to the press, and said that sometimes matters are brought up in committee that are not in the public interest to be reported—such matters as confidential reports by inspectors.

Promotion Rapid To Harry Fraser

Beginning as stock man in the company's Peterborough store in the fall of 1934, Harry S. Fraser was back in the city this week as supervisor of nine of the Zeller's, Limited, stores between Peterborough and the Atlantic coast.

Mr. Fraser's course of advancement swung into a wide orbit across the Atlantic, an opportunity in responsibility that was further recognized on his return to Canada.

The position of stockman in Zeller's Peterborough store was the foot of the ladder in merchandizing. Coming originally from Toronto on engagement by the Montreal office, Mr. Fraser's experience in this city extended from the autumn of 1934 until his transfer in 1935 to St. John's, N.B., as assistant manager of the Zeller store down by the sea.

In the following year the company acquired a chain of stores in Great Britain, and sent Mr. Fraser across the ocean as superintendent of that business. He remained in the Old Country three years until Zeller's disposed of their British chain, returning to Canada in July, 1939, to become superisor of the Zeller's chain from Peterborough east to the Atlantic.

And in that capacity Mr. Fraser was here on a visit to the store in which he began as stockman, a little more than five years ago.

Little Act Of Honesty By North MonaghanMan Related At Meeting Of Exhibition Board

Sometimes little acts of honesty thrust up above the surface of ordinary affairs. One of them was reflected at the meeting of the Peterborough Exhibition directors Thursday afternoon.

G. H. Mark, of Little Britain, who had again come from the western section to attend the meeting said that his visit to the Exhibition last summer had left an unusually pleasant impression of Peterborough. Incidentally, Mr. Mark has been exhibiting here for years, and is well known to all the members.

"While I was working over around the barns I lost a gold watch which I valued very highly," Mr. Mark said. "I mentioned my loss to Tom Brown, and before the week was out I got my watch back. And I can't help but feel there are lots of honest men around Peterborough."

Mr. Brown added a bit of information to this golden rule story. The watch had been returned through the agency of Constable Bruce Menzies of North Monaghan. And Constable Menzies added the final clarifying paragraph this morning.

"I don't deserve any credit whatever for it," Bruce Menzies said. "The credit goes to William Taylor, an elderly man who lives in a little cottage just west of Crawford's Grove. He is a gardener down there. During the Exhibition he came over to my place and handed me a gold watch which he said he had found at the Exhibition, and all I did was to pass it on to Tom Brown."

Mr. Mark at that time left two dollars with Mr. Brown to give to the man who found the watch.

Returns To London

The strained relations between the British and Soviet governments appear to be moving toward a crisis as Sir William Seeds, British ambassador to Moscow, returned to London on extended leave. At the same time the French ambassador, Paul-Emile Naggiar, also left his Moscow post for a protracted sojourn in Paris.

J. H. Sherwood Passes Away

Death came on Thursday to one of Peterborough's most skilled workmen, an expert stonemason whose services were greatly in demand when a work of delicate tone was to be achieved. He was Joseph Herbert Sherwood, 551 Bethune Street, and he died in Nicholls Hospital after a very short illness, in his 79th year.

Many of this city's larger buildings contain specimens of his work in their intricate, artistic stone chipping. Mr. Sherwood helped to build All Saints' Church, the original Y.M.C.A., the Y.W.C.A., and the Collegiate Institute, as well as man banks and other buildings. He was the last remaining stonemason of the old, highly skilled type.

Born in North Monaghan, he was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sherwood, and he lived in this district all his life. He was an elder in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, and a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters, Court Littlejohn Lodge.

Surviving are three children, Mrs. W. A. Burrell, H. Claude Sherwood, and H. Frank Sherwood of Brantford. His wife, Hattie Mitchell, died about 24 years ago.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock from St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr officiating. Interment will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

Canadiens Send Two Players To Minor League

MONTREAL, Jan. 5 (CP)—The threatened shakeup hanging over Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League broke today with an announcement by President Ernie Savard that two players have been demoted, one retired and three recalled from their minor league farm team.

The announcement, coming with the team on an eight game losing streak, removes Paul Drouin, Earl Robinson and Paul Haynes from the lineup. They will be replaced by Bill Summerhill, Gus Mannuso, and Armand Mondou, recalled from New Haven of the International American League.

Temporarily removed from the lineup also will be Rod Lorrain, ordered to hospital for a minor operation. The sweeping changes, part of a reconstruction plan that sent veteran Johnny Gagnon to New York Americans Wednesday, comes on the day Canadiens celebrate their 30th anniversary—the oldest club in professional hockey.

"We are not satisfied with several things on the Canadien team," Savard said in making the announcement. "We have one of the highest price teams in the entire league and frankly, we do not feel we are getting value for our money."

Started With Rush

The Flying Frenchmen started the present season with a rush after finishing sixth last year. After climbing to first place in early season, they started a slump that left them today but one point out of the cellar.

Savard said the club felt Drouin, veteran left winger, was not in top condition while Robinson, right winger, was still suffering the effects of recent injuries. Haynes, he said, has been released as a player but will be offered a position as scout.

Claiming it was "no cinch to get players," Savard said he had bid as high as $20,000 to New York Rangers for Edgar and Bert Leprade of Port Arthur Bearcats while offering Joe Benoit of the same club a contract calling for $10,000 for three years. In both cases he was refused.

"I could get some amateurs here," he said, "but some of these amateurs make $4,000 a year. How can we compete with salaries like that."

Shunting Engine Strikes Auto

When his car was struck by a C.N.R. shunting engine on the McDonnel street crossing Thursday, James Livingstone, 540 Park street had a narrow escape from serious injury.

He was driving east on McDonnel street as the engine, moving southward, arrived at the crossing and told police that he did not either see or hear the shunter. The engine struck the rea rof his car and pushed it around against a city stop sign and the latter was bent over by the impact.

SPENDING WINTER HERE

Rev. Edgar Russell, B.A. (a graduate of McMaster University in Arts and Theology), but now a retired minister from Millbrook, has taken up his residence for the winter in the Y.M.C.A. of this city. For a number of years he has been in the active work of farm life for the improvement of his health, but his services have frequently been in demand in various pulpits.

Leave of absence for two months from her seat on the Board of Education was granted Thursday night to Mrs. Kate Morris on request.

LIKELY HAVE BEEN CHAIRMAN.

Except that he tendered his resignation Thursday night, W. A. Richardson would unquestionably have been appointed chairman of the Board of Education, D. G. H. Melton, new chairman, declared. Mr. Richardson would have been named to the post both by seniority and ability, Mr. Melton said.

TEACHER REQUIRED

Another teacher is to be added to the staff of the Vocational school here, at the beginning of the 1940-41 term. Dr. H. R. H. Kenner reminded the board that the Vocational course has been changed from three to four years and that in striking estimates for the coming year the salary of another teacher should be considered. The board must, by government ruling, add the extra teacher.

THANKS FOR ELMS.

The thanks of the Exhibition Board was extended to Alderman Stocker yesterday for the city's planting of a row of elms along the south side of Lansdowne Street. One member, who is inclined to look on the reverse side of bright pictures, suggested some time ago that when those elms grow in stature there is likely to be a lot of wire trouble unless the telephone or telegraph lines by that time are laid underground.

THE CROWN SURPRISED

Because the impression had been created last week that they intended to plead guilty this morning, two Havelock men who were charged in police court with illegal consumption of wine here on December 16, found themselves faced with another trip back to Peterborough next week when they murmured not guilty. The police were not ready to proceed and the court, remarkin gthat they could not be expected to be, under the circumstances, adjourned the hearing until Thursday next.

FIVE TEAMS ENTER MEN'S SENIOR CITY BASKETBALL LEAGUE

War May Save Ice Sport In Old Country

LONDON, Jan. 5— (CP) — To anyone liking his hockey neat the war-time English brand, blacked out and tied with restrictions, leaves much to be desired. But there is a growing belief the war may prove the salvation of the game which has cost millions of pounds to introduce.

It has been argued hockey started here the wrong way—promoters transplanting patronage overnight. It is now believed they schemed without consideration of a doughty English sports world which has a reputation for loyalty and patience with any thing which appears struggling hard for recognition.

So hockey never did get a chance to develop the natural British way—perhaps because it has been steered by Canadian officials since its birth here. It started with a diamond-studded ten-team flash and ended last season with a six-team squabble.

Talent High.

Only the local Maple Leafs Gardens and Forums—Harringay and Wembly—showed slim profits. The smaller rinks couldn't stay in the race for high-priced Canadian imports. Dunbar Pole, whose Streatham rink will seat only 2,500 led the small rink campaign against overhead, got it whittled down and then got kicked out of the league because his team played rough. He charged it was a big rink persecution and unless something was done the game would die a natural death. Attendances were falling off from lack of interest in watching a competition restricted to the big rinks and their powerful teams.

Rink managers decided at the end of the season to try and foster with subsidies, provincial teams to put a keener edge on competition; with this in mind Wembley and Harringay scouted the Dominion for talent. This material was to be used in building provincial teams.

But the war and its accompanying blackout precautions prohibiting, at first, night-time hockey, and ARP restricting crowds to less than a third of seating capacity, put the damper on the new season before it had time to get going. Many of the Canadian veterans left the war zone taking their families to safety. Others went back to Canada, because under the compulsory military service residence clause, they qualified for conscription in England and they preferred to serve with Canadian regiments. Those who remained took up ARP volunteer work in their spare time.

Player's Jobs.

So the November London Cup competition, opening the season, had only four teams, two from Harringay and one each from Wembley and Streatham, made up of a players' pool with clubs retaining old favorites like Walter Monson at Harringay and Lou Bates at Wembley. Each team inserted four English players to bring their rosters up to full strength.

Most of the Canadian players found jobs, some in aircraft factories, and they assumed the status of work-by-day-play-by-night player of most Canadian towns. In this way the pay roll was cut. Between period exhibitions were cut out and the all around saving shared with the fans in reduced admission prices.

Now, despite the lower standard of play, all the rinks have been turning away fans and the game is said to be showing a profit. More important, the injection of Englishmen proved a master stroke as reflected in the cheers from fans when their compatriots were on the ice.

Your car may look in an impossible state after a wreck—but we can fix it and guarantee its condition.

Tsk, Tsk! So This Is Basketball!

Looking more like an excerpt from a rugged pastime along the lines of rugby or hockey is this shot from a basketball court, where the fast but comparatively gentle game was in progress. Dartmouth was playing Stanford in one of the big U.S. college games at Philadelphia, when the Stanford dribbler stopped short to pivot and avoid his check, but in a flash, over his head went the latter party, to make a pretty, if bruising, landing.

Local Juniors Open With Cobourg

Cobourg and the local Colts clash here tonight at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. Rink in an O. H. A. junior "B" fixture, the first one of the season in Peterborough. The Colts open on the road Tuesday with a neat win in Port Hope and they hope to make it two in a row this evening. Cobourg dropped a close decision to Oshawa and will be battling hard to get back in the early race. The Lakeshore squad is rated one of the strong ones in the six-team setup, and the Weir-coached crew will likely have to hustle plenty. Junior teams always turn on the heat every minute and a big crowd should see a rousing struggle here this evening at popular prices.

The very promising young Petes will line up like this:—with their numbers: Goal, Cournyea (1); defence, Beggs (23) and Strickland (21); centre, Rochetta (14); wings, Craig (20) and Vitarelli (16); subs, Wade (15), Foster (18), MacDonald (19), Pammett (17), Mason (22) and Parnell (24).

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

The rinks that were scheduled last night must get special mention. Every game was under way by 7.50 p.m., and all finished by 10.30 p.m.—truly a wonderful record.

After to-night every rink will have played one game and a few of the rinks a couple of games. It is a little too early to try and figure who's who—but we notice there will be four double-headers next week, and by that time it's more than likely we will be able to notice the trend of the groups.

We have received no notice of the dates of the Tankard or District Cup games as yet.

Badminton Club Plans 'At Home'

HAVELOCK, Jan. 5.—(ENS)—Resuming play which was suspended during the recent holiday season, the Havelock Badminton Club held a round robin session last night, accompanied by a pot-luck lunch and business meeting. The executive announced that a new playing schedule would be posted shortly, and that arrangements would be made for tournaments with out-of-town clubs.

The annual badminton "at home" was a matter of importance during the business period conducted by president Bert Haryett. After a lengthy discussion by the members it was decided to hold the "at home" on Monday, February 5, two days before the beginning of the Lenten season.

Conveners selected for the different committees were as follows: decoration and prizes, Mrs. L. Sanderson and Ernest Aboud; refreshments, Mrs. D. R. Brennan assisted by Mrs. P. T. Greenley and Mrs. D. F. Miller; advertising and invitations, Miss Josie Hoffman and Bruce Jones. The executive will engage the town hall and the "Aces" orchestra for the occasion.

George St. Squad Is Beaten, 5-0

All Saints Juveniles flashed neat teamplay at All Saints' rink last night to trim the more-experienced George Street crew, 5 to 0. They got three in the second and one each in the first and third, Blackwell tallying four times and Carpenter once. Three of the goals were of the soft variety, the United's goalie fanning on them. Smith was the scoring threat for George St. with Wellwood strong defensively. All of Gord Smith's squad went good. The teams:

Walton Is High With 311 In City Bowling

Topping the team scores for the third week in a row, Jay's crew clamped a firmer grip on second place in the City League standing at Duffus' Alleys last night. With their alternate line-up in action, the Cigar men hung up another 3 points as they turned in a 3571 total to defeat Grant's 3-1. The other second-place contenders, Capitols, lost ground when they went down by the same count under the C.G.E.'s 3428 pins, while Grafton's won everything from the last place Lock Co. entry. Minus the services of the ailing Jack Playford, Gordon's took on the Duffus team and the stunt worked quite satisfactorily. It kept the Duffus' crew straining to eke out a split in points.

It was a tough night on the old-timers as almost everything happened to keep them under control. George "Turk" Walton, was the best man on the floor. He donated 787 to the Jay team total.

Walton's 311 was the best of four good singles. Bud White hit 309, and the veterans, Chief Gimblett and Harold Freeman, came through with 302 and 301 each.

The standing to date is: Gordon's, 44 points; Jay's, 30; C.G.E., 28; Capitols, 27; Duffus, 24; Grafton's, 23; Grant's, 13, and Lock Works, 4.

All Saints' Bantams Defeat St. Paul's

All Saints' Bantams of the Church League had better balance than St. Paul's last night at All Saints' rink to cop a 4-1 win. The McNaughton brothers, Carley and Doughty, were the only Presbyterians able to keep up with All Saints'. Jones was best of the winners, with Baxter and McDougall also effective. The Anglicans scored one in the first, two in the second and one in the third. Doughty got the losers' tally in the third. The teams:

All Saints'—Goal, Panter; defence, Outram, Edgar; centre, Chambers; wings, Baxter, Jones; subs, McDougall, Hill, Menzies, Mason, Padgett.

St. Paul's— Goal, D. Forbes; defence, Carley, R. McNaughton; centre, Doughty; wings, J. Forbes, N. McNaughton; subs, Hall, Courntey, Hill, Barrett.

Referee—D. Charlton.

Murray St. Wins

Murray St. Seniors had more condition and rammed home five in the third period last night at All Saints' rink to cop a Church Loop win over All Saints', 7 to 1. The defending champs were in front all the way and looked good. Alf Watkins got two goals for the Baptists, with Spencely, Hawkes, Padgett, Johnston and Mowry getting one each. Platt got the All Saints' counter. This player and McDougall went good for the losers, and Hopkins was effective. It was a ragged game throughout with one little flare-up between Barnes and Seabrooke. The teams:

Referee—J. Dunkerley.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Puck fans at tonight's tilt—it's at 8.30 in the Brock between Cobourg's O.H.A. junior "B" team and the Colts—might clip the numbers on the local players' backs and thus get to know 'em. Even if ya can't be bothered learning them all right away, watch three or four of the young Petes each game and get to know what they look like on the ice. You'll be seeing a lot of them, not only in their six-team scheduled games and playoffs, or even in provincial playdowns this year, but for many seasons to come. These are the lads who are now readying up for intermediate and senior company within a few years. And with the talent on the present Colts' roster, there is no doubt at all—barring war conditions, earthquake or thomething thimilar (gosh that lisph is back again!)—but half a dozen of these young puckists will be in the local hockey picture for quite a few years yet.

* * * * * *

It was only a few seasons ago that guys like Scotty Maudsley, Gamey Jarvis, Ted LeBarr, Shrimp McDougall, Archie Weir and a flock more were starring with the intermediate Petes; whilst chaps like Bill Calladine, Ned Vitarelli, Eddie Starr, Bun Kingdon, Ray Harding, Jack Gardner, and so on, were in junior ranks. Now the former list has retired and the latter gang are carrying the Petes' colors quite ably—with a few imports, too. But they'll be replaced in time and it'll be the present crop of juniors who will do the replacing. So fans might be wise to watch these boys now and get to know them as they start out their puck careers—and they're well worth watching right this season, too.

Here's tonight's lineup of the Colts: Goal, Cec. Cournyea (No. 1); defence, Bill Beggs (23) and Bob Strickland (21); centre, Joe Rochetta (14); wings, Sid Craig (20) and Duce Vitarelli (16); subs, Julian Wade (15), Nels Foster (18), Bucko MacDonald (19), Dutch Pammett (17), Al Mason (22) and Bob Parnell (24). Also signed are Fred Agnew, Rocky DeCarlo and Cal Nichols. Let us suggest that you watch tonight, for instance, the scoring ability of Rochetta (with the 14 on his back), the speed of Sid Craig—who wears 20—the playmaking of Vitarelli (No. 16), and these two defencemen, Strickland and Beggs. The former (No. 21) is a lovely skater and fine checker, while No. 23—who is Beggs—is one swell stickhandler and bumper. There are half a dozen others equally good, but ya can learn them next game, if you want to wait that long.

* * * * * *

Cobourg juniors are reported plenty big and strong, and will push the young Petes all the way. It ought to be a rip-snortin' junior joust—full of speed and action from bell to bell, and maybe not too gentle a melee. But the Cobourgites will have to hustle to outskate the Colts, who have speed to burn and a lot of beef on the hoof—or on the steel. We believe the Colts will go places this year, after a rather indifferent showing the last coupla seasons. They have combined the Colts and Monarchs of last year and have added experience; hence, they should be about at their peak in this class of hockey this season. The game will be a mighty interesting one, and deserves a big crowd of cash customers.

Shop Hockey Starts

C.G.E. Shop Hockey League opens its schedule tomorrow aft in the Brock St. arena at 1.30 o'clock. Games are: Toolroom vs. Machine Shop "B", Wire Dept. vs. Cabinets, Industrial Control vs. Induction Motors, and Switchgear vs. Machine Shop "A". Last year a senior section operated at the Brock whilst the junior teams played elsewhere, but this semester sees the whole 11-team setup in together playing an interlocking schedule, six in the senior series and five in the junior. Officers are Bill Jones, Bill Bennett and Cy Whatley, while the referees are Shrimp McDougall and Tommy Miller. Games will be staged in the same arena every Saturday aft.

* * * * * *

The proposed puck circuit at Omemee is shaping up better now, with three entries already and another possible. Besides Lindsay and Omemee in the loop, the Lock Co. here has decided to enter a team—and Fenelon Falls or Caygeon may be a possibility yet. The winnah of this group will enter O.H.A. intermediate 'B' playdowns, same as the local Aces did last hockey season. We should get some dope on the Lock Co. squad's coach and players early next week. The team isn't entered in the Industrial Hockey League.

The Juvenile Saints

Tonight at six at All Saints' rink, St. Peter's juvenile entry in the O.J.H.A. will hold a workout under direction of Coach Pete Vitarelli and Manager Louis Vitarelli. These puckists are requested to be on deck: Hatton, Routley, Eason, Mortimer, Garvey, Scriver, Mattucci, Chimenti, Griffin, Huard and Horton. The Saints have been in juvenile competition before and this year should get plenty of action in a grouping with Lakefield, the local Grads and Cobourg. When Dave Leether, Jr., calls a meeting of the clubs they'll draw up their schedule for the season, the victor parading into provincial playdowns. The Grads also have a workout tonight.

* * * * * *

Five teams have entered the men's City Cage Circuit and the schedule opens thisaway Saturday eve at the "Y" sharp at 7.15: C.G.E. vs. Independents, with Quakers playing the Bees at 8.15. Dominions get a bye. They run a double schedule, first three teams being in playoffs. Second and third clash, winner to meet the top team in probably a two-game series. Executive consists of George Scott, chairman, Al Clarke of the "Y", and a representative of each club. Games will all commence at 7.15 and 8.15. The referees are Dr. Worton and Curly Krug. Guess that's the works.

* * * * * *

Observation Platform: Girls' hoop tilts tonight at the Y.W. are: St. John's vs. Quaker Aces at 7.16, Quaker Debs vs. Westclox, and Orfuns vs. "Y" Gym....Church hockey games listed elsewhere....Walter Gilhooly, Ottawa sports editor, has the Rough Riders already Big Four champs in '40....Galt's senior "A" squad has now lost 16 straight in hockey; even our senior gridders never made such a sorry showing....Queen's rubbed the boys of Bella Villa out of VanHorne Cup semi-finals, so now it's Queen's and the Fliers in finals.... Quinte scribe sends a blast from Belleville—and it's a good town to be from, huh?—saying the Redmen who lost here were off that night; well, either off or awful!....Lakefield intermediates open in Sutton tonight, as Port Hope juniors play in Lindsay; Lakefield juniors are idle....Games here next week are: Tuesday—Lindsay vs. Colts; Friday—Fliers vs. Petes....Cobourg crew will bring a puck referee here tonight....Folks shouldn't call us at noon and expect something in the column for that eve; the sports pages are put to bed in the middle of the morn....Curtain.

13-Year-Old Bride Freed

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Jan. 5.—(CP).—The 13-year-old bride of a soldier in the Canadian Active Service forces appeared in court today and was freed of charges of perjury and vagrancy. The girl was alleged to have stated she was 18 years old when applying for a marriage license last October.

She had been held in custody of the Children's Aid Society since Dec. 19. A representative of the Society accompanied her from the courtroom and it was said a conference would be arranged with the child's father.

Remember When—

First bobsled race ever recorded took place 42 years ago today at St. Moritz, Switzerland, where the bobsled had been invented eight years earlier. Minors See 1940 Great Year, One New League

By WILLIAM T. BRAHAM
(President National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.)

DURHAM, N.C., Jan. 5.—(AP)—There is a popular saying that the first 100 years is the hardest. Baseball has just completed its first century and we in the minor leagues are looking forward toward 1940 with a confidence born of the success of the past.

The season of 1939 was, perhaps, the best the minor leagues have enjoyed in their long history. Exclusive of the playoffs and post-season series which were staged, our 41 leagues drew a total of 18,500,000 paid admissions, a remarkable increase of 3,000,000 over the previous season.

Already, we have added one new league to the National Association roster for 1940, and several more are in the process of organization. The spread of the game into Canada has been most gratifying, and while nations across the sea are in the midst of strife, it is a source of much satisfaction to know that our neighboring government in Canada looks to baseball as one of the effective mediums to relieve the war-worried minds of its people.

At our centennial convention in Cincinnati we accomplished much, and the desire to cooperate and to learn, as expressed by our club officials, was more pronounced than it ever has been.

To those of you who are associated with our organization in the operation of the individual clubs, I urge that you look ahead with the same confidence and enthusiasm you have displayed in the past.

New Junior Judges

OTTAWA, Jan. 5—(CP)—Ambrose J. Shea, K.C., of Kingston, Ont., and Otto E. Klein, K.C., of Walkerton, Ont., have been appointed junior judges of the county court of York, Justice Minister Lapointe announced today.

They were appointed to fill vacancies, created by the death last year of Judge W. T. J. Lee and the recent retirement of Judge D. O'Connell.

Russia reports that 60 air records were broken there in 1939.

Food prices in England are 18 per cent higher than a year ago.

It is a double schedule, a team drawing a bye each week at the conclusion, the second and third teams will clash in a semi-final, the winner then meeting the first squad in league finals. On the league executive are Chairman George Scott, Al Clarke of the "Y" and a representative of each club. The referees are Dr. Worton and Curly Krug. RANGERS BREAK 3-WAY TIE TO TAKE UNDISPUTED LEAD OF N.H.L.

Former U. S. Diving Star Receives Vocal Visitor

Life is just one comeback after another for Georgia Coleman, who represented United States in the diving competition at the 1932 Olympics and was later stricken with infantile paralysis. Following a partial recovery, she was laid up with another ailment and is now in a Los Angeles hospital, again on the comeback trail of health. She is seen here as she received a welcome visitor in the person of radio singer Connie Boswell, herself a paralysis victim. Connie gives forth for the benefit of Georgia. Maybe "Georgia On My Mind" —or which one do you prefer her going over?

Charity Battle May Bring Mike Jacobs' Licence

NEW YORK, Jan. 5—(AP) — Aided and abetted by the far name of charity, fight promoters Mike Jacobs stepped out of character today for a short role as the angel of peace.

The result probably will be that the New York State Athletic Commission and Joe Jacobs, manager of Tony Galento, will "bury the hatchet" in their long-standing row, thus removing the biggest stumbling block in the way of holding the heavyweight bouts between Galento and Max Baer this winter and Galento and Joe Louis next summer in New York. These are a couple of parties which figure to pay well at the box office.

At the same time, the Finnish relief fund, for which the Galento-Baer festivities will be staged in March, will do all right, too, with Mike Jacobs contributing his entire profit to that charity. The fight was the top event proposed at a get-together of ex-President Herbert Hoover, head of the fund, and various sports writers yesterday. Plans were also outlined for such other competitions as an open tennis tournament, a basketball double-header, several other fights and an exhibition by Paavo Nurmi for the benefit of the Finns.

How It Lines Up.

Here's the way "Uncle Mike's" proceedings go:

For weeks, Joe has resisted all Mike Jacob's pleadings to hold the fight in New York, simply because neither Joe, as manager, nor two-on Tony, as fighter, hold New York ences from the commission.

But Mike announced the fight as for charity, so Joe immediately accepted — with a stipulation. This was that he had, at present, no legal power to sign a contract for Galento in this state, but that he would do it in a minute if granted a licence. Since charity is a compelling factor in the fight business, the fistic fathers undoubtedly will see the light.

All this time, Mike Jacobs has been looking ahead to this summer, when he must give Louis some work at good pay. Rater off last year's spectacle, in which Galento floored Louis, a Galento-Louis rematch for the title is the one to make the turnstiles clock here. So, if Joe and Galento are granted licences, there'd be no reason for the commissioners to take away their sanction again later on.

Barrow Enjoying Beating Rules

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—President Ed Barrow of the Yankees is going to find a lot of pleasure in circumventing that new rule which says he cannot do business with other American League clubs.

He was good and sore when his fellow magnates passed it at the Cincinnati meeting. That has worn off and he is accepting the challenge in higher spirits. His satisfaction in obtaining Lefty Lee Grissom from the Reds in exchange for Joe Beggs is all too obvious, though it is doubtful the veteran actually wanted Grissom.

"I saw him but once in my life," he said. 'That was in the recent world series. I thought he looked pretty good."

All Barrow wanted to do was to show the boys they couldn't put the old handcuffs on him.

SET WORLD RECORD

BRUSSELS, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Fernande Carcen of the Ostend Swimming Club today bettered the women's world record for 500 metres free style by covering the distance in six minutes, 28 2-5 seconds. The previous record of 6:34 3-10 was made last April by Dane Hveger.

The skiing season got off to a flying start last week-end at Bethany when some thirty members braved the somewhat dangerous conditions to try out their new equipment. The new chalet was in operation with the canteen doing a pretty fair business in meals, pop and sundries and has already proven its worth. Skiing conditions at Bethany for this week-end are only fair but a few inches of snow will put it in great shape. In any event, it's worth a trip out there and with a little caution, you can get in a full day of skiing and enjoy the comfort of the new chalet.

Instructions for seniors will start next Tuesday night at 7:30 p.m. in Victoria Park as usual and will continue through the season each Tuesday and Thursday evenings. A capable instructor will be on hand and we suggest that you get in on these classes right from the start going through the progressive steps to the top with the rest of the class. The information and instruction available there is really worth while and a few hours spent this way now will mean a great deal as the winter goes on.

Junior Instructions will start this Saturday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. Due to conditions, we are not sure whether these will be at Jackson Park or at Victoria Park. However, contact Bob White at 7248 tonight or Saturday at 12:30 p.m. to find out for sure.

Now that Christmas is over and things are back to normal, we are expecting a lot of you members to straighten up your membership either with your team captain or with the treasurer, Jack Richardson, at the Peterborough Canoe Company. Your help in this will be greatly appreciated. Receipts and membership badges are being mailed out this week and we might add here that after the middle of the month only persons wearing membership badges, non-resident membership badges or guest tickets will be erititled to use the privileges offered by the club. This year that rule will be enforced as the club has considerable valuable property now and it must be protected.

Rangers Wallop Americans 6 to 2 For 16th Tilt, No Losses; Leafs And Canadiens Both Tumble

New York Rangers, who seem to improve with every game, made it sixteen straight contests without a loss last night as they defeated the Americans, their intra-city rivals in the National Hockey League, 6 to 2.

The victory, coupled with a defeat to Toronto, gave the Rangers undisputed first place. Toronto, Boston (idle last night) and the Rangers were all tied before last night's games.

A crowd of 13,700 watched Frank Boucher's Stream-liners roll up a 4-0 lead in two periods before relaxing. Then with the result beyond doubt, the Americans potted a couple of third-period goals.

It was the Broadway Blueshirts' 16th consecutive game without defeat and therein lies the reason for the way the fans are turning out, to hurl back those caustic words that confronted Monsieur Lestaire at the start of the season. No one has told him to go look for a super-star in days and days.

Shibicky started the scoring after two minutes and the Rangers flew from that time unti lthey relaxed enough to let the Americans divide four goals with them in the third. Alf Pike, the club's tenth forward, scored once and add an assist, while the other goals were potted by Lynn Patrick, Neil Colville, and Dutch Hiller.

Nels Stewart rattled in the Americans' first goal when his team fought back gamely in the last period and Eddie Wiseman got the other with only slightly more than half the chapter gone.

The victory left the Rangers alone in first place in the standing, since the Black Hawks defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1 at Chicago, Boston Bruins, previously tied with both the Rangers and Toronto, were idle.

Goodman on the Job.

It used to be Mike Karakas who was the Maple Leafs' biggest stumbling block in Chicago. Now that Paul Goodman has supplanted Karakas in Chicago's goal, the Leafs aren't sure which of the pair they prefer.

Goodman kicked out everything but the Toronto players' bench as the Leafs descended on him all through the third period. The only thing that got past him was Billy Taylor's goal on a rebound shot.

Chicago went two goals up in the second period, George Allen scoring with the aid of Bill Carse and Phil Hergesheimer, and Joe Cooper following with an unassisted goal.

Talk of a shakeup grew louder around Montreal after Detroit Red Wings defeated the Canadiens 3-2 before a scant crowd of 4,000. The Canadien management had postponed making extensive changes in the lineup before the game, but when that blow fell it seemed certain the Habitants would be changed drastically before long.

Captain Walter Buswell scored for the home side in the first period, but Mud Bruneteau, Conny Brown and Ken Kilrea scored in order for the Red Wings after that. Toe Blake finally punched another for the Canadiens in the final second.

N.H.L. STARS

By The Canadian Press

Al Shibicky, Rangers, scored twice and assisted in another in a 6-2 victory over New York Americans.

Paul Goodman, Chicago, allowed only Billy Taylor's shot to elude him as the Black Hawks defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1.

Kenny Kilrea, Detroit, scored the wining goal and played a fine all-round game as the Red Wings defeated Montreal Canadiens 3-2.

Boston's Erstwhile Mr. Zero Kicks One Out

In comes Johnny Gagnon (14) of Canadiens on the attack and out goes Frankie Brimsek's foot to kick the puck away and avert a score in this National League game between Boston Bruins and Canadiens. Racing along to get the loose puck is Herbie Cain, Bruin left wing, while behind the play are Jack Portland (wearing helmet), large Boston defenceman, and Toe Blake (6), last year's scoring champion and the fast-skidding Canadiens' chief threat again this year.

Armstrong Tags Ghnouly For K.O. In The 5th Round

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 5—(AP).—Henry Armstrong successfully defended his world welterweight championship by knocking out Jot Ghnouly of St. Louis in 34 seconds in the fifth round of their scheduled 15-round bout here last night.

Armstrong started with a rush and the Italian challenger was on the canvas three times in the first round.

A hard left hook to the head first put Ghnouly down, then a few seconds later a left to the head and right to the body smashed him to the canvas for the second time. Joe took a count of nine on this knockdown to clear his head but was on the floor again a second later.

Armstrong weighed 136, Ghnouly 135½.

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

WILF FIELD
N. Y. AMERICANS
By Central Press Canadian.

Wilf Field.

Haven of veterans in the National league is Red Dutton's Americans where in the minds of the more facetious, all hockey players go to spend their declining years. The Amerks have more old fellows around than any other club in the loop, but last year they brought up a not-so-old find who proceeded to make good as a major league defenceman from the start. He had played the previous season with Seattle Seahawks, from whom Dutton secured him. He got one goal and three assists, and served 37 minutes in penalties last season, and this year he has shown all-round improvement, dealing out hefty checks and carrying the puck with more surety. Born in Winnipeg, he played senior amateur for Monarchs of that city before turning pro with New Haven in the Canadian-American league in 1934-35. Comes by his athletic ability naturally, grandfather Field having been quite a cricketeer in England, and Wilf's father having taken to hockey sufficiently to play for Edmonton in a Stanley Cup battle in the distant past when challenges came from all over Canada. Youngest player who sees regular action with Dutton's ancient warriors. Has been popular with Madison Square Garden fans since his first appearance.

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Insiders report less than a half dozen Yanks—including DiMaggio, Keller, Dahlgren and Mario Russo—will be given salary hikes—which means the Yankee brass hats had better put 'em on... Patty Berg, whose departure for the southern golf wars was delayed by the death of her mother, now plans to leave next month... The Chicago Stadium is trying to line op Henry Armstrong and Davey Day for the welterweight title...

Nicknames of most football teams are obvious... But around here we have been wondering why the Southern Cals were dubbed the Trojans.. Just when everyone was ready to give up, along came Franklin P. Adams of the N.Y. Post to suggest maybe it's because the football players out there have to work that way to maintain their scholastic standings.

Town Tattle: Bets are being made here the race bookies will be operating at the same old stand this summer... Jack Dempsey is afraid to be seen on Broadway the way they are kidding him about that Hong Kong hair cut... Al Weill, manager of Lou Ambers, is out of the boxing commission's doghouse after a four-month suspension... Al Schact did his stuff for baseball fans last summer in every state in the Union except Colorado, New Mexico, North Dakota, Maine and Vermont.

Mail Censorship Held Logical

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(CP).— The New York Times conceded to-day that the position of Great Britain in regard to censorship of mails from neutral countries to Germany is "logical enough," but said editorially the British violate convention by so doing.

Discussing the United States note of protest against the British acion, the newspaper said:

"The British government has maintained that in a totalitarian war every loophole of trade and economic intercourse with the enemy must be closed, that money as well as high-value merchandise (diamonds are mentioned as an example) may be sent through the mails, and that the mails themselves must therefore be no less subject to inspection than other cargoes.

"Such a stand is doubtless logical enough. Yet, carried to its logical ultimate conclusion, censorship could be held by the British to require even the inspection of purely United States mail passing through Canada en route between Chicago and New York and other United States points.

"The State Department's position seems unassailable when it asserts that the British action violates the article of he 11th Hague convention. Entirely apart from the legal aspects of the matter, however, it may be asked if the British are not risking more than they possibly stand to gain."

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

By Marie Blizard

SYNOPSIS.

The characters:
FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.
NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.
ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby House.
YESTERDAY: Ellen tells Fabienne about "Bill."

CHAPTER SEVEN.

Fabienne had been a member of the staff of Willoughby House for nearly three months the November day the Children's clinic opened in the east wing. The three months had passed more swiftly than she had expected. In spite of herself she had become interested in the variety of taste to which she was assigned. She had progressed from reading classes to dramatic groups. She'd served a trick at recreation directing and she was now assigned to office work.

She had first found the office work tedious, but the staff was short and she had taken it on without complaint.

The afternoon of the opening of the clinic, she found an interesting office duty; she was tabulating the moneys subscribed for maintenance. Ideas were beginning to come to her whereby the sums might be increased when a crisp voice roused her from her reverie over her figures. The voice said:

"Hey, Miss! You!"

Fabienne Willoughby Seymour looked up, an expression of annoyance sharply etched on her patrician features.

Annoyance gave way to surprise and then a kind of appreciation as her eyes met the figure of a tall, broad-shouldered young man in a white coat.

"Were you speaking to me?"

"I was."

Fabienne's memory turned up a line she had read somewhere; "The proportions of the room seemed to diminish when he came into it." Proportions or no proportions, she decided that this young man needed flattering. She flashed a look at him that should have done it, and coolly resumed her figuring.

But she felt his eyes commanding her attention and she had to look at him.

"You can drop that," he said. "You're needed in the clinic." He turned on his heel and left.

"Miss Huxley is assigned to the clinic," she called after him. She began to arrange her cards neatly.

He came back to the door. "I said you were needed in the clinic," he repeated. "There is no one to receive the patients. Come at once, please."

A heated answer came to her tongue, but it would have been wasted, since he had already left. She put her papers in a desk drawer and went over to the clinic.

The receiving room was already filling with patients. Fabienne sat down at the desk and looked at a pile of papers which she saw were intended to be used as histories. Each was marked with questions and each was headed:

Orthopedic Clinic — Dr. J. W. Mallory."

She said: "Who is first, please?"

A woman with a child who wore a heavy brace on a wasted leg came first. Fabienne referred to her question sheet.

The doctor opened the door. "All right, Miss....Miss?" Fabienne grinned wickedly to herself without supplying her name. The doctor said, "I'm ready."

Fabienne directed the first patient in.

There were sixteen patients, and it was six when the last one was finished and Dr. Mallory opened the door to the reception room and came into it. Fabienne didn't look at him as she put the papers in the drawer and slammed it loudly. She swept the desk top clear of pencils.

"You working tonight?" the doctor asked.

"I beg your pardon?" she said.

"If you are, you'd better set the desk for Dr. Hopkins. He takes the evening clinic. And this place will have to be cleaned up." His eyes swept the untidy room. The wall chairs that had been arranged in an orderly row were now disarranged; the floor was littered with bits of papers. There was a pile of peanut shells in one corner, an apple core on the window sill.

"Certainly," she said sweetly. "If you'll excuse me while I change to overalls, I'll be right back with my pail and mop."

"Sorry, Princess," he said, and smiled. A nice, showy, disarming smile. "Cigaret?" he said, offering her a package.

Fabienne wanted one but she said, "No thank you, Dr. Mallory," in a tone that was no more than formal. "I guess I was a bit abrupt upstairs. You know how it is when we're in a hurry around here. There were a lot of poor youngsters waiting."

"One might still be polite," she said in a chilly voice.

"One might," he agreed. "Sometimes a busy doctor has to skip amenities. Next time I'll present my credentials, Miss Seymour."

So, he knew who she was after all.

She sat back in her chair and gave him a long, cool scrutinizing look that heretofore had reduced her men to bleating or babbling. Dr. Malory, however, did neither. He sat on the corner of her desk with one long leg thrown over it and enjoyed his cigaret. He was not, she saw at once, going to be reduced to anything.

"Did you take time out from your important patients to find out who I was?" she asked pointedly.

"No. I remembered suddenly. Young Tomassino, one of my patients, treasures a photograph of you. He showed it to me. I've been curious about you."

"Really?" The way she said it was meant to indicate that she wasn't at all interested.

"Yes. I wondered what impelling motive brought you here."

"I'm afraid I'm going to disappoint you, Doctor. I am not consumed with love for suffering humanity, disappointed in love or working for my livelihood. That rather leaves me without any interesting motive, doesn't it?"

"On the contrary, I expect the reason you don't want to talk about it would be very interesting. However, we'll skip it." He smiled again. "When one works zealously and unselfishly as you have around here, it's usually because there's some kind of unselfish love back of it."

Fabienne looked at her wristwatch. It was after six. For no reason that she was aware of, she thought of something that she had not remembered since she was a schoolgirl. She had always hated the hour of six. It had been her lonesome hour. Her mother had always been dressing then, her governesses having their dinners. She'd been lonesome for love then, for someone to love her. She hadn't though of love as such in all these years and it was disturbing. Not at all like Fabienne Seymour. She said, "If you must have an answer, Doctor, it's love for myself."

"I can hardly believe that," he said, flipping his cigaret out the open window. "You ought to talk it over with a good psychologist."

Fabienne got up and pushed the desk chair into place.

"I didn't meant to presume," he said. In his tone there was conciliation that she could not reject.

She smiled for him then. "I didn't think you were. But you medical men are so knee-deep in problems you just naturally have to tack them onto normal people, don't you?"

He ducked, laughing.

Next time I'll be better prepared for an answer. I'd hate to let you down."

"An answer?" he asked.

"About my motivations."

"I'll take you up on it," he said. "By the way, you might send the porter in here to clean up. Good night."

"Good night," she said.

She went up to her own office and looked out the window. He was getting into a small car as she watched. She thought: he might have asked me if he could drop me somewhere. Then she shrugged her shoulders. But she couldn't shrug away the memory of him.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

SOLICIT THEIR AID

PERCHANCE you see a nice tenace over there in the dummy, but have no card of the suit remaining to lead toward it for a winning finesse. Mayhap you also hold an equally good looking tenace in your own hand, but can't get into the dummy to lead toward it. In that emergency, what can you do? Why not give the opponents a chance to help you, by throwing one of them into the lead at just the right time.

	♠ Q 10 8 4 ♥ J 7 ♦ 8 5 4 3 ♣ 6 4 2

	♠ 3 2 ♥ K Q 9 6 3 ♦ A K 2 ♣ K Q 9

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

South was the opening bidder here with 1-Heart. West doubled. North bid 1-Spade as a weakness interference. South 1-No Trump and West doubled again for a takeout. This time East bid 2-Clubs, South 2-Hearts and all passed.

West ripped off two spades, then led the diamond 7 to the J and A. A heart to the J fell to the A, and East now led the club J to the K and A. The diamond Q return went to the K, and South now ran four hearts and led the diamond 2.

South didn't care much who won this. If East, he would have to lead into the club Q-9. West did win it, and had one card of each black suit left. If he returned the spade, the dummy would take two spades, so he chose the club, and South got two club tricks, making his contract for him.

FDR Gives House Over 2 Billion Defence Account

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—(AP). — President Roosevelt asked the United States Congress today to vote national defence appropriations totalling $2,248,126,509, the highest in two decades, and proposed special taxes to meet part of the burden.

The aggregate asked in the budget message and in emergency proposals represented an increase of $466,532,903 from the last session.

The increase, Mr. Roosevelt advised, "is far less than many experts on national defence think should be spent, though it is in my judgment a sufficient amount for the coming year."

There was no hint of supplemental requests to come later to speed warship building and for other military purposes, such as have been forecast in some official quarters.

In various routine and emergency funds, the President asked:

1. For military purposes of the War Department, $1,007,356,596 compared with $961,293,102 voted last year for army, air and land forces. Further increases in the air corps, and bolstering of seacoast defences and the Panama Canal were specified. Further army expansion was deferred, however, beyond the recently-ordered enlisted strength of 227,000 for the regular army and 235,000 for the national guard.

2. For the navy, a "regular" budget of $904,540,037, up $183,750,576 from last year's, and additional "emergency" and public works funds to raise the navy's net to $1,224,521,833.

Mainly For Warships.

Much of the increase would go to warship building. Besides continuing work on the 120 naval craft of all sizes and types already on the ways, Mr. Roosevelt asked funds to start construction in the year beginning next July 1 of 24 more ships.

New ships projected are two battleships, one aircraft carrier, two cruisers, eight destroyers, six submarines, one submarine tender, one seaplane tender, two small seaplane tenders and one minesweeper.

The battleships would be the ninth and 10th to be undertaken in the last five years. Initial funds were provided last year for two of 45,000 tons each. The navy is preparing requested information for Congress on record-size craft of 65,000 tons, but the budget did not specify the size of the latest projected pair.

Regular and emergency budgets proposed 145,000 enlisted men for the navy and 25,000 for the marine corps, the same augmented totals which Mr. Roosevelt directed in September.

The new estimates stressed the administration's concern over the safety of the Panama Canal, vital passageway for the fleet between the Atlantic and Pacific.

The emergency budget for the next fiscal year calls for $19,000,000 for "necessary protection" and $15,000,000 to start work on a third and larger set of locks "primarily in the interest of national defence." The locks, authorized at the last session, are expected to require five year to build and to cost $277,000,000 altogether.

Marmora

Miss Fay Buskard, Reg. N., of Cobourg, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Buskard.

Capt. Percy Gray visited Picton on Tuesday.

At a special meeting of Marmora Branch No. 237, Canadian Legion, held on Tuesday evening, J. W. Hickey was elected secretary-treasurer to succeed P. Gray, who is being called up for military service.

The New Year's dance held in Deloro Hall on Monday evening under auspices of the Deloro Social and Dramatic Society was largely attended. Music was furnished by Aces Orchestra of Havelock.

Residents of the Marmora district were shocked on Tuesday to hear of the death of Rural Dean G. E. Morton, M.A., rector of Holy Trinity church, Brockville.

Dean Morton, a native of Thomasburg, was for some years rector of the neighboring parish of Rawdon and during that period was frequently seen in Marmora. In recent years he spent his summer holidays at his cottage at Crowe Lake and officiated at morning services at St. Paul's while Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell took his duties at Brockville. The congregation of St. Paul's joins with that of Holy Trinity, Brockville, in mourning the death of one who took a kindly interest in the well-being of his fellow men and whose inspiring messages from the pulpit will be long remembered.

Over-Censorship Scored By King

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 — (CP). — The government is anxious to ensure that the public receives as much information concerning Canada's war activities as it is possible to give out without endangering the effort.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, in his second press conference since the war, made this clear to newspaper correspondents yesterday, reiterating opinions expressed at an earlier meeting with press men.

The Prime Minister expressed the desire that censors should exercise great caution in ruling on regular news stories referred to them. He said there was no need for any suppression of news to avert inconvenience or embarrassment to any officials or departments of the government.

He stressed that liaison officers named in the different government departments are to be supplementary to regular news sources for the press and made it plain that deputy ministers and other officials are at liberty to give information to correspondents when asked for it.

In his own opinion, the Prime Minister said, over-censorship was all nonsense.

Devil's Island Fugitives Start Out For Puerto Rico

Eight men, who are fleeing from the French penal colony at Devil's Island, are shown lined up on the beach at Ensenada Playa, Puerto Rico, as they listened to instructions read by a Puerto Rican immigration inspector before setting sail in their small boat, in which they hope to reach Mexico. The fugitives sailed to Venezuela after their escape from Devil's Island. They next went to Trinidad, where the British governor gave them a more seaworthy boat and supplies. Their next stop was Puerto Rico, where they were permitted to stay for 48 hours, during which time one of the eight, ill with malaria, was treated by an American doctor. If they succeed in reaching Mexico, the men plan to appeal for a pardon. Should they win their pardon, they will join the French army.

All Ontario Provincial Police To Get Same Standing

TORONTO, Jan. 5 — (CP).—Following a conference of district inspectors of the Ontario Provincial Police yesterday Attorney General Gordon A. Conant warned that under the amalgamation of the general force and the motorcycle patrol, now effective, no distinction or difference is to be drawn between officers in future. The amalgamation was announced several days ago.

"A member of the regular force has the same standing as, but no higher standing than, a member of the motorcycle patrol," Mr. Conant said. "It is essential if the best results are to be obtained and the efficiency of the force is to reach its highest point that the most cordial co-operation between all branches of the force should prevail."

Under the amalgamated force arrangements all motorcycle patrol constables will be under the jurisdiction of and will report to their respective district inspectors.

"Every man of the entire force must first be qualified as and perform the functions of a constable for law enforcement and the suppression of crime," the Attorney-General said. "Motorcycle patrol officers will attend principally to the control of traffic and the enforcement of traffic laws but must be available and co-operate with the regular force in all law enforcement undertakings."

NEW YORK, Jan. 5—(CP).—The famous library of the late Paul Lemperly of Lakewood, O., will be offered to public sale today and of paramount interest to collectors of first editions is a group of John Buchan's works.

Included in the 1,060 pieces of the library, put together by Lemperly in 50 years' wandering over the United States as a pharaceutical supplies salesman, are 18 lots of first editions from the pen of Buchan, now Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada.

This collection of Buchan's works was described today by an official of the Parke-Bernet galleries, where the auction is being held, as undoubtedly the finest collection of Lord Tweedsmuir's writings offered for sale in the United States. This official said he would not be surprised if the 18 volumes made up the most complete library of the author's first editions anywhere.

Included in the group are such fictional favorites as the 39 Steps and Lord Tweedsmuir's first novel, Six Quixote of the Moors, published in London in 1895. The collection contains Lord Tweedsmuir's writings up to 1935, including his Midwinter, Toronto, published in 1923, and some of his historical works such as Oliver Cromwell, the Battle of Jutland and the Casual and the Casual in History.

Carman Works There

A dozen volumes of Bliss Carman's poems also will be offered for sale. Most of them are first editions by the famous Canadian poet, native of Fredericton, N.B., including his Low Tide on the Grand Pre, one of the few copies sold before the entire edition was destroyed by fire.

Interesting, too, is a letter to Lemperly written by Rudyard Kipling during his stay in Battleboro, Vt., in 1896. In the letter Kipling warned the collector not to send him one of the few original copies of Kipling's famous departmental ditties which Lemperly wanted autographed.

"I have only one worn copy myself and urgently want another," Kipling wrote, "I am afraid therefore that you would never get your copy returned as I really want the copy very badly."

Kipling, however, signed a piece of paper which he advised Lemperly to paste into the book.

Breath Of Sanity Says U.K. Press Of FDR's Speech

LONDON, Jan. 5—(CP). — President Roosevelt's message to Congress yesterday brought favorable comment in the London press.

The News Chronicle said: "President Roosevelt stands head and shoulders above all other men in the authority and power with which he speaks for democracy and freedom. His great speech to Congress yesterday made that clearer than ever. His words come to all people of good will in Europe as a breath of sanity, of sense and of hope."

The Daily Telegraph said: "The world is learning to find its oracle in the voice of the President of that great neutral republic of the west into whose hands has passed the keeping of the neutral democracy's conscience and whose potent influence may determine in the last resort a hovering balance between human freedom and totalitarian despotism. The underlying tone of this notable address might be called Lincolnian."

The Daily Mail said the address indicated that while the United States "wisely prepares to defend herself she will do her best to keep out of war."

The German View

BERLIN, Jan. 5—(AP).—Official German reaction to President Roosevelt's message to the United States Congress was reserved today.

Authorized Nazis said the message was "addressed to the American people and it is for them to decide whether the speech is compatible with congressional expressions of neutrality."

They declared President Roosevelt's references to the threatened existence of small nations was interpreted by Germany as meaning for example "Greece in 1916-17 which was forced into fighting for the Allies and small countries today which the British likewise are oppressing."

"Whether that is the side the President sees," they continued, "we don't know, but that's what we see."

It Didn't Work

Ottawa, Jan. 5 (CP).

TWO would-be holdup men walked into a drugstore today and handed Clerk Milton Goodwin a note.

It was written in French and Goodwin couldn't read it. He handed it back to the two men. Obligingly, they translated it for him into English.

"We want your money," it read.

"Oh, no you don't," Goodwin yelled as he ran into the rear of the store.

The two men fled, believing Goodwin had gone for help.

Murphy Elevated In Court Changes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—(CP). — President Roosevelt nominated Attorney-General Frank Murphy today to be an Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court and Solicitor-General Robert H. Jackson to succeed him as head of the Justice Department.

The President also sent to the Senate the nomination of Judge Francis Biddle of the Third Circuit Court of Appeals to be Solicitor-General.

The 46-year-old Murphy has been Attorney-General since January 2, 1939. Formerly he was High Commissioner to the Philippines and Governor of Michigan for two years.

Jackson has been with the Justice Department since 1936. He headed the anti-trust division prior to moving up to the job of Solicitor-General when Stanley Reed went to the Supreme Court.

Biddle, a Pennsylvanian, once was chairman of the National Labor Relations Board.

The vacancy on the Supreme Court, which Murphy will fill if the Senate confirms him, was created by the death November 16 of Associate Justice Pierce Butler.

Although Murphy was named to succeed Butler, regarded by the Roosevelt administration as a "Conservative," the change was not expected to have any material effect on the nature of the court's opinions. In general they have been favorable to the administration since shortly before President Roosevelt submitted his court reorganization plan to Congress in February, 1937.

All Five Planets To Be Grouped Late February

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 5—(AP). —Two solar eclipses and a rare grouping of five planets in the western sky are part of the astronomical show for 1940, not including possible surprise appearances of comets and meteor showers.

"In the closing days of February all five of the planets known to man prior to 1781 will be visible to the unaided eye at the same time in the western sky," says Dr. Robert Aitken, in a current astronomical bulletin.

"Mars, Saturn and Venus will form a flat triangle at the head of the line and Jupiter and Mercury extend it to the western horison. This assemblage of planets is as unusual as it is beautiful and will not recur for many years.

"Venus will pass Jupiter Feb. 20 and for an evening or two about that time the two planets will resemble a wide, remarkably brilliant and beautiful double star, with Venus six times as bright as Jupiter."

A solar eclipse April 7 will be visible as a partial eclipse in North America. Its central path will fall along the central part of lower California.

New Secretary of War

A severe political upheaval struck Britain today and found the country entirely unprepared for it and also greatly puzzled., Leslie Hore-Belisha, the War Secretary, has resigned with the approval if not the nudging of Prime Minister Chamberlain and this post has been taken by Lord Stanley. Resignation of Lord Macmillan, head of the Bureau of Information was also announced.

Cabinet Flare Follows Rift With Generals Said Resenting French Command; Board Of Trade Chief Stanley Takes Over

Information Post Is Switched MacMillan Ousted

LONDON, Jan. 6 — (CP).—New ministers took over the portfolios of War and Information in the Cabinet to-day in a politically-sensational shakeup which was announced suddenly to a puzzled British public last night.

Leslie Hore-Belisha, War Secretary who gained fame by modernizing the Army, was replaced by Oliver Stanley, President of the Board of Trade.

Sir John Reith, chairman of Imperial Airways, succeeded a fellow-Scot, Lord MacMillan, as Minister of Information: and Sir Andrew Duncan, barrister and banker, was chosen to head the Board of Trade.

"He has not been getting on with the generals, and he goes," commented the Daily Mail of Mr. Hore-Belisha's replacement, which the press generally protested.

Editorials called for explanation in a full-dress debate in the House of Commons. Liberal and Labor members of Parliament also registered indignation over the change.

Mr. Hore--Belisha's resignation was said to have resulted from his failure to get along with Viscount Gort- Commander-in-Chief of the British Expeditionary Force in France and himself one of the younger men whom the War Secretary had advanced to high position.

The 43-year-old minister's advocacy of a unified command on the Western Front under the French General Gamelin was reported to have received scant support from his officers. He was said also to

Air Raid Alarm

Hollywood, Fla., Jan. 6 (AP)

THE MANAGER of an ocean-front hotel here sent an air raid alarm to masculine sun bathers in the solarium yesterday. The men covered their various degrees of sunburn with robes and headed for their rooms. Women fliers entered in a Miami air race, it seemed, used the hotel as a pylon.

Two Tom Paynes Elected As Deputy Reeve

Two men of exactly the same name are together entering the council of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham as new members when the roll is called Tuesday evening January 16 for the election of the Warden for 1940.

They are Tom Payne, Deputy-reeve of Manvers, and Tom Payne, Deputy-reeve of Murray township.

Such a nominal conjunction rarely occurs in the changes of municipal personnel from year to year, and it might be an interesting if not altogether impossible computation to determine the factor of chance that brings together these two Tom

Press Opens Clamor For Truth Behind The Deal

LONDON, Jan. 6—(CP Cable) — Leslie Hore-Belisha went to the war office today to bid his staff goodbye while the London evening press demanded the "truth, and the whole truth," about his departure from the cabinet.

The authoritative Press Association said that for the present Mr. Hore-Belisha intends to make no statement other than a message to his constituents in which he remarked that "whatever task may fall to me, I shall perform with vigor, but I have no thought at the present moment but that of winning the war."

On his arrival at the war office he went to his barely furnished private room overlooking Whitehall which he had used since his historic term as War Secretary began in 1937.

Seated at a large conference desk, he received the heads of departments and thanked them for their cooperation. Afterwards he left for Warren farm in the rural surroundings of Wimbledon Common— a 17th century residence he purchased a year ago.

It is understood he will surrender the seals of office Tuesday.

Long before his arrival at the war office messages of sympathy and of appreciation for his work began arriving. They included offers of lucrative contracts which it is understood he has no intention of accepting. A friend sent spring flowers, with a card: "if winter comes, can spring be far behind?"

Beaten by "Old Army Gang."

Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard said "The comment is that the Army Old Gang have defeated him." It printed prominently the Press Association's comment that "The general opinion expressed in this country is that 'Belisha did not get on with the generals—and he had to go.'" The Press Association added that one comment was: "The youngest member of the Cabinet has been beaten at last by the old gang of the high command."

Editorially the Evening Standard said: "The nation is puzzled." The Star, beneath a headline reading, "The story behind Belisha's dismissal," put the sub-heading: "Sacrifices by Premier to appease military critics."

The News headed its story "Belisha's quarrel with generals." In an editorial the paper said "The pu-

185,365 Nazis

Rome, Jan. 6 (AP).

IN LINE with Italy's desire to repatriate Germanic residents of former Austrian territory, 185,365 persons have voted to go to Germany, it was announced today. The vote was taken to end a minority problem between Italy and Germany.

A government communique did not make clear how many persons of Germanic origin would remain as Italian citizens but said 166,488 inhabitants of Bolzano province, 16,572 from the "mixed language" provinces of Trento, Udine and Belluno, and 2,305 living elsewhere in Italy had voted for repatriation.

Unofficial estimates had put the number of possible repatriates in Bolzano province along at 250,000.

Wrecked Fisher Lost 3 Weeks Found In Wilds

VICTORIA, Jan. 6— (CP) — A terse radio message to British Columbia police headquarters here last night said Captain George Skinner, Vancouver fisherman missing three weeks on the desolate west coast of Vancouver, has been found alive.

The message said Skinner was in a weak condition and urged that any boat in the vicinity of Brook's Bay on Northwestern shores of Vancouver Island rush to the scene.

Skinner and his son, Hugh, were shipwrecked when their fish-packer, Great Northern V, capsized in a gale and was washed ashore at Lawn Point, 60 miles north of Zeballos.

Engineer Ted Barnard was drowned when swept overboard in the high seas but Skinner and his son made shore safely.

After two days of struggling over the rocky shore, the fishing captain became exhausted by cold and exposure and was unable to continue.

Hugh started out by himself for aid and for five more days hiked over the rough country until he was sighted and picked up by an airplane searching for the missing men. Other searchers failed to locate the elder Skinner.

Ask Aid by Boat.

Radioed from the coastal vessel Princess Maquinna the message last night said:

"Please notify all coast guard vessel that Constable E. W. Lockwood of the British Columbia police detachment at Port Alice, B. C., has found Captain Skinner alive, one half-mile east of Lawn Point, western side of Brook's Bay.

"Rush any available boats to that vicinity. Heavy sea today.

"Quatsino boats have been unable to round Lawn Point."

The message said the rescue party was unable to carry Captain Skinner across Lawn Point, apparently because of the rough terrain.

Finns Predict Siege For Winter

Expect Soviet Army To Concentrate On Karelia Front

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 6—(AP) — Military observers predicted a winter-long siege of the Mannerheim line on the Karelian Isthmus today as the Russian invaders were reported driven back in confusion on the Eastern front.

With the stalemate in the Arctic and reports of a second big Finnish victory in the Salla sector, observers tivity in the Isthmus sector overtivity in the Ishmus sector overhanging Leningrad.

Continued bombardment of Kiovisto fortress and aerial attacks on Viborg (Vilpuri), Gulf of Finland port, led to the belief a major offensive might be impending in that area.

A Finnish communique on Thursday's activities said Red Army planes bombed the inland town of Volka, where two persons were killed and 16 hurt. It said a night attack a Kirvesmaki on the Karelian Isthmus, was repulsed.

(The Red Army communique said 50 Finnish soldiers were killed on the Petrozavodsk front North of Lake Ladoga; reported patrol and artillery activity on the Karelian Isthmus, and said Soviet aviation made a number of successful raids on enemy reserves and military objectives.)

The committee for the aid of Finland, headed by former President Herbert Hoover of the United States is caring for about 500,000 persons, and 100,0000 more probably will be added, committee Representative Dorsey Stephens reported.

Patrols Active

Paris, Jan. 6 (CP-Havas).

Since the beginning of the week this district, where French troops recently carried out a reconnaissance expedition far inside the German line of outposts, has been less calm than usual, whereas the Moselle sector, hitherto the most active theatre of patrol operations, is quieting down.

During the course of the day there was intermittent artillery fire along virtually the entire front. Activity in the air was reduced to zero by weather conditions.

Zero Wave Grips East Coast; Storms In South

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 — (AP). — Temperatures skidded toward the zero mark in the Eastern United States to-day as the cold wave advanced another lap in its journey from the Rockies.

The frigid weather eased somewhat in the Middle West after a day of zero and sub-zero temperatures, but the mercury was still far below freezing.

A snowstorm raged in the South-west. The Weather Bureau at Albuquerque, N.M., reported the storm area extended from the Continental divide in Western New Mexico north-east to Wichita, Kas., east to Oklahoma City, and south-east to Abilene, Tex.

A two-day storm left two to 10 inches of snow in Utah and Southern Idaho.

Carol Warns Russia Off Invasion

Will Find Rumania Fighting As One Living Wall

CHISINAU, Rumania, Jan. 6.— (AP).—King Carol served a strong warning to Soviet Russia today that Rumania will fight "as one living wall" if Russian armies attempt to invade Bessarabia.

Speaking after reviewing a parade of troops, planes and tanks at Chisinau (Kishinev), capital of Bessarabia, 12 miles from the Russian border, the King insisted Bessarabia "will always remain Rumanian by the force of our arms."

General George Argesanu, commander of the Third Army Corps, told the crowd which assembled at the Governor's Palace to hear the King that the "whole army from the first man to the last is ready to defend the eastern border."

Russian, Ukranian and German minority leaders of Bessarabia — which was Russian until the war settlement of 1919—publicly swore allegiance for themselves and their followers to King Carol and Rumania. Russia never has recognized Rumanian sovereignty over Bessarabia.

"We pledge our lives for our beloved Rumanian Fatherland," they declared.

As he reviewed the troops, King Carol was flanked by Premier Georges Tatarescu, Crown Prince Michael and the ministers of war, navy and air.

Rumania was reported to have moved most of her troops out of Bessarabia a few months ago with the semi-official explanation that the province was impossible to defend. If it was invaded, Rumania indicated at the time, the Rumanian army would abandon it and make a stand along the River Pruth.

However, authoritative sources have admitted that since Finland's successful resistance against the Red army, the Government has moved troops back into the province and expressed greater confidence in Rumania's ability to defend herself in case of a Russian invasion.

Nazi Troop Lull Belies Berlin Threats

PARIS, Jan. 6 (CP-Havas) — French military authorities reported today there has been no change in German troop dispositions which would indicate immediate armed action to back up the renewed Nazi campaign of threats against neutral countries.

Reich troops remained massed in depth facing the French positions, but military activity along the front was slightly—even the heavy patrol and artillery activity which occurred yesterday having slackened.

The customary reconnoitring patrols were sent out by both sides, however, and artillery fire during the night was fairly heavy near Apach.

There was little acivity in the air, although German planes twice managed to fly deep into eastern and northern France on reconnaissance missions. The second of these flights was carried out by way of Belgium, both coming and going.

The liveliest infantry activity yesterday took place when a German patrol, which had penetrated between the Maginot Line and French outposts on a wooded sector of the front, surprised a mess detail bringing up food from the main French line. The French soldiers put down the food and succeeded in routing the Germans with rifle fire.

BRUTALLY MURDERED

ABERDEEN, Wash.— (AP)— Mrs. Dick Law, wife of a Congress of Industrial Organization millworkers' union official, was brutally murdered at the home of her parents last night while her infant daughter slept soundly and unharmed in an upstairs room.

Farmers Praying For Thaw To Follow Storm

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP)—Farmers over large sections of Ontario might well be praying for a thaw today as a solution to the acute water shortage. With winter sports lovers revelling in the forecast of clear cold weather following yesterday's heavy snowfall in Central and Western Ontario, farmers looked beyond the week-end and hoped for a thaw that would replenish ponds, creeks and wells and raise the water level generally.

The Dominion Conservatory at Toronto said low temperatures would prevail over most of Ontario until Sunday at least. There is no forecast beyond Sunday.

A thaw would be especially beneficial in the environs of London, St. Thomas, Woodstock, Owen Sound, Brantford, Hamilton and Toronto as far East as Kingston, where from five to thirteen inches of snow fell yesterday. It was continuing in some districts today.

In many sections of the province a shortage of water due to the dry autumn has compelled farmers to haul water over long distances for their livestock to drink. In some instances, farmers are paying to have water carted to their farms.

Heavy Fall at Kingston.

Kingston reported the heaviest snowfall of the winter today. A storm started early this morning and was expected to continue into the night. Snowploughs will be operated overnight in order to keep highways open.

Chamberlain Sack Of Hore-Belisha Dumbfounds All Great Britain

LONDON, Jan. 6 (AP)—The account of the resignation of War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha by the military correspondent of the press association, follows:—

Today, the politicians of all parties and the public alike are demanding to know what is behind Mr. Hore-Belisha's resignation, no one having expected such a turn of events.

The nation is dumbfounded. As soon as parliament reassembles on Jan. 16, Mr. Chamberlain will be pressed for a full statement of what has been going on behind the scenes. He alone holds the key to the situation. It was he who initiated action and offered to Mr. Hore-Belisha the presidency of the board of trade.

It is understood that none of the cabinet was consulted or knew what was pending with the exception of Sir John Simon.

The resignation is, it is declared, the culmination of a whispering campaign, which originated in social circles rather than in political quarters, and spread so high and so extensively that Mr. Chamberlain could not but be aware of it.

It is a sequel to the gradually widening rift between the war minister and the higher command, men of his own choice and promotion.

He Wanted Action.

Viscount Gort and Mr. Hore-Belisha have had no differences of opinion since the war began—this is emphasized—but Mr. Hore-Belisha is a man who, having decided in his own mind what he deems to be essential, administers the utmost drive to bring the idea to its fullest fruition.

He has felt that, fast though it was, the speed with which our defences across the water were progressing was capable of even greater acceleration, so as to leave no doubt in th minds of Germany that our military position is impregnable.

Military policy, the best way to carry it out, and the best application of military technique, were all involved, affecting the area occupied by British troops.

Mr. Hore-Belisha wished to be more vigorous, and Lord Gort, backed by G.H.Q., has shown, it is be-

War On Sea Hits New Low; Six Ships Sunk

(By The Canadian Press.)

Sea warfare was at a low ebb in the week ending January 5. Dispatches from Londo ntended to the belief that the enemy was concentrating on assembling his forces for a new phase of the war at sea and that submarines and mine-laying craft temporarily were inactive.

One British and one French ship were lost during the week, while a German vessel which went ashore off Spain after eluding an allied patrol broke up on the rocks. Another, the Gonzeuheim, was learned to have been scuttled last September. Its tonnage was 4,574.

The week's sinkings of merchant ships:—

Sentenced To 7 Days

COBOURG, Jan. 6 — (ENS). — Facing a charge of being under the influence of liquor while operating a motor car, Earl Emmory of Hastings was found guilty by Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell in court here Thursday afternoon and was sentenced to seven days in jail and his driving permit was suspended for three months. He was arrested by Constable Wellman in Hastings, December 23.

Assassins Miss Shanghai Commissioner

SHANGHAI, Jan. 6. —(CP)— C. Godfrey Phillips, commissioner-general and secretary of the Shanghai municipal council and a Briton, escaped injury today in a daring assassination attempt.

As the commissioner was being driven in his automobile on Avenue Haig, in the French concession, enroute to his office, two men pulled jinrikishas into the path of the machine.

When the car swerved and slowed down, the men fired pistols from both sides, six bullets piercing the car.

The terrorists fled towards greater Shanghai, which is under Japanese-dominated rule, and were reported seized by private watchmen of a gambling house. It was not known immediately whether they had been handed over to greater Shanghai officials.

The shooting followed the appearance here yesterday of anti-foreign posters on walls just outside the international settlement.

A native of Gloucestershire, England, Phillips came to Shanghai in 1934, as chief of the executive council, he recently has been active in negotiating with the Japanese-controlled Shanghai government over control of roads outside the International settlement.

No Entertaining

BERLIN, Jan. 6 (AP)—German landlords may dispossess any tenant who regularly receives Jewish friends in his home, according to a verdict by the district court of Koeslin.

Publication of the verdict in the press today indicates it may service as a precedent in other parts of Germany.

The court held no German should have social relations with Jews.

The Jews of Frankfurt were directed to stay off the streets during the coinbox collection of winter relief funds today and tomorrow, and during all future collections.

They also were instructed to stay in their own homes after 10 p.m. Previously, they had to remain off the streets after that hour, but could visit friends.

The Warschauer (Warsaw) Seitung edition of yesterday, which reached here today, said no Jew within former Polish territory occupied by Germany could move outside his present community without a special permit, and that Jews must not be on the streets between 11 p.m. and 5 a.m.

At Krakow, formerly Poland, more than 200 Jews have been ordered to remove snow from the city's main streets.

Answer To Canadian Prayer Says Horde Of U.K. Lassies

LONDON, Jan. 6 (CP Cable) — Canada House was inundated today with letters from women and girls in the British Isles who consider themselves the answer to the Canadian soldier's prayer.

The incoming correspondence resulted from an unauthorized London newspaper story saying "Mr. Vincent Massey, the high commissioner for Canada, is looking for a woman who will combine the drive and kindliness of Florence Nightingale and the sparkle and cheeriness of Grace Fields."

It went on to say such would be the ideal hostess for the new Beaver Club, which will soon be ready for Canadian soldiers on leave here.

The flood of letters is a great tribute to the self-confidence of the United Kingdom's womanhood. The general tone of the replies was expressed by this from one letter:—

"I feel sure I have all the qualifications you require."

Many included pictures, some in uniform of auxiliary services, others in the bosoms of large families.

Generally high regard was shown for the Canadians thus: "I can't imagine anything I should like better than looking after the well being of all those splendid Canadians."

The letters are being answered individually with the explanation that the news report was unauthorized.

Gay 1st Division Wedding First For Aldershot C.A.S.F.

ALDERSHOT, Jan. 6— (CP Cable)—One hundred and twenty guests attended the fashionable wedding of Miss Peggy Crerar, and Lieut. Hamilton Palmer, both of Ottawa, in St .George's, the Aldershot garrison church, in a setting made colorful by an abundance of military uniforms.

It was the first overseas wedding of a member of the Canadian Active Service Force.

Among those present were the Earl of Bessborough, former Governor General of Canada, and the Countess of Bessborough; Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner in the United Kingdom, and Mrs. Massey; Brig.-General H. D. G. Crerar and Mrs. Crerar, the bride's parents; also Major General A. G. L. McNaughton. General Officer Commanding the C. A. S. F., and Mrs. McNaughton; Colonel G. P. Loggie and Mrs. Loggie, and senior officers of the Canadian Divisional headquarters staff.

The bride wore a light blue silk frock and a matching hat and accessories and also a waist-length fur cape.

The wedding was followed by a reception at nearby "Crowthorne," the residence at Farnborough of General McNaughton.

The bride's father, General Crerar, is senior officer of Canadian military staff in London. The bridegroom, attached to the Royal Canadian Artillery, formerly was on the staff of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation at Toronto. He and Miss Crerar had planned to be married in Ottawa, but this arrangement was changed when Lieut. Palmer's unit was sent to England. Miss Crerar followed a little later with her mother.

Last Minute News Flashes

LINDSAY.— (CP)— The Ontario Attorney-General's Department has announced it will appeal the sentences imposed on three Orono men found guilty of armed robbery by Magistrate E. A. Gee of Lindsay on Friday, December 27. The three men, George Gault, 31; Sidney York, 19, and Ernest Allen, 20, were sentenced to three years in the penitentiary in the case of Gault, nine months determinate and nine months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory for York and six months for Allen. Grounds on which the appeal will be made are that the sentences are inadequate to the charge of armed robbery.

Argentine Trade Deal Breach Eases U.S. Tangle

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—(AP). — Suspension of negotiations for a United States trade agreement with Argentina today eased the burden of congressional leaders about to begin a struggle for extension of the government's reciprocal trade treaties program.

Some of the most active opposition to the proposed extension has come from western cattle and agricultural interests, which feared that an Argentine treaty would lower the tariff bars against that nation's canned meats, wool, linseed and other highly competitive products.

The State Department, in announcing last night that the discussions had been broken off, gave no explanation. But it was reported reliably, both here and in Buenos Aires, that the discussions snagged on the question of treatment of these products the United States wished to place quotas on them and Argentina objected.

Ending of the talks was the second step the administration has taken in the last few days tending to smooth the path for the trade pact bill when it comes up in the United States Congress. The first was the announcement that no tariff reductions would be granted on copper in the current negotiations with Chile. Copper interests had been vigorously expressing their opposition to any reduction.

The fight for the pacts will probably open on Monday, when Representative Robert Doughton, chairman of the House of Representatives Ways and Means Committee, is scheduled to introduce a bill extending the Trade Agreements Act for three years.

TORONTO, Jan. 6. —(CP) —Industrial firms throughout Ontario are looking forward to 1940 with expectation of increased orders and greater activity, according to the weekly survey of labor issued Friday by Hon. Norman Hipel, labor minister.

In some centres, relief rolls have dropped as high as 30 per cent with 20 to 25 per cent more persons employed than a year ago, Textile steel and cordage companies are all reported as being particularly busy.

Brantford reported staff and production levels were being maintained with indications pointing to increased activity this year. Steel and other raw products are now arriving and production and staff levels in those industries are expected to increase immediately. Orders for agricultural implements to increase immediately. Orders for agricultural implements are above normal. Textile staffs are all busy.

Textile firms at Chatham are busy as are factories dealing in automobile accessories. At Hamilton, steel and textile firms are running at top speed, but textile plants were slowing up now Christmas orders are through. Many report conditions look good for the new year.

London reported the iron trade is unchanged, while textile plants are working full time. Shoe companies, which closed down for a few days, have now re-opened. Domestic demand was good.

Starch, Rubber Firms Busy

At New Toronto, a large starch plant is very busy while one rubber company has taken on additional staff. Can and soup companies are expected to increase staffs shortly.

At Niagara Falls, employment in manufacturing industries has shown a considerable advancement involving a marked turn over in materials and an addition to working staffs. A survey there shows from 20 to 25 per cent more persons employed than a year ago, and relief rolls have dropped 30 per cent.

Logging operations in the North Bay area have been held up for lack of snow, but are expected to get under way shortly.

Production lines in a large motor concern at Oshawa operated between Christmas and New Years for the first time in several years. A glass company expects to be ready for full production next month. All other factories are working full time.

Manufacturers of small agriculture, building and general small tools are busy in the St. Catharines district. Firms engaged in mining, logging and miscellaneous products have enjoyed a considerable increase since fall.

Timmins reported exceptionally heavy demand for all classes of house, day, hotel and restaurant workers.

Industries are maintaining high production levels in the Welland area. A cordage company is starting a night shift. Preliminary work on a large flour mill continues, with the prospect of a greatly increased staff shortly.

Automobile companies in the Windsor district are operating fairly steadily, while one bridge company expects to increase its staff shortly.

The industrial situation at Woodstock shows considerable improvement over last year, with the majority of the plants carrying larger staffs. Number of relief recipients is less by 200 than last year, and registration of unemployed is also down.

lieved, a certain resistance to the War Minister's insistence. Both were agreed on principles, but the expert advice of the soldier did not coincide with the full-blooded views of the minister.

Finally, the Prime Minister found himself obliged to decide, and, unwilling to allow the dissensions to continue, took the strong line — which was to allow the generals to prevail.

ROME, Jan. 6 — (CP-Havas). — Popolo di Roma said to-day that Leslie Hore-Belisha's reputation as an organizer remains intact despite his resignation as British War Secretary.

The newspaper said that no complaints had been made concerning military preparations and the despatch of the British Expeditionary Force to France.

Child-Crowded Bus Crashes Truck, In Haliburton–Only One Injured

LINDSAY, Jan. 6. —(ENS). —At 5.45 Thursday night fire partially destroyed the residence of John Cain, William street, north. The fire was caused by a stove which had been installed temporarily while the house was being redecorated for a tenant. The blaze worked into the partitions, and it was a difficult fire for the brigade to fight. The loss, it is understood, is covered by insurance.

The funeral took place Friday morning of Mrs. Daniel Murphy, a well known resident of Ops and a descendant of a pioneer family of the township. Mrs. Murphy who had been in ill health for some time, was a sister of Mrs. Daniel Twohey, of Peterborough. She is also survived by her husband, three daughters and two sons.

A tragedy was narrowly averted on the Redstone-West Guildford road in Haliburton County, on Thursday afternoon when a bus loaded with school children, and driven by J. Scott of Guildford, collided with a heavy truck driven by George Jones, also of Guildford. Only one child, strange to say, was injured. The injury was superficial facial wounds. The driver of the truck and his son had a miraculous escape. The truck was loaded with heavy logs, and when the two vehicles came together, the logs slid forward on the truck, and crushed the hood on the engine. The two occupants were uninjured. The school bus was extensively damaged.

It was announced Friday that the officials from Ottawa who visited Lindsay to inspect sites in this locality for a proposed air base, were impressed with the properties inspected. It is understood a very favorable report has been forwarded to Ottawa, and it is believed in local circle sthat word will be received in a few days to the effect that a base will be established in this county.

Reckless Flying

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 — (CP). — A Board of Inquiry, appointed by Transport Minister Howe, in a report to-day blamed "reckless flying in breach of air regulation" for an airplane accident at Larchwood, Ont., near Sudbury, last November 8 which claimed the lives of three persons.

Lady Who Wed Mate's Slayer Dies In Smash

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6—(AP)— Dorothy MacKaye, 37, an actress who married her husband's slayer after both had served prison terms, died today of injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

The husband, Ray Raymond, an actor, died in 1927 from the effects of a beating at the hands of Paul Kelly during an argument over Kelly's attentions to the actress.

Kelly, just getting a start in films, was tried on a charge of murder, but was convicted of manslaughter and served 25 months in San Quentin Prison.

Mrs. Raymond was found guilty of concealing facts surrounding the fatal fight and her husband's death, and served a year in the same prison.

She married Kelly in 1932 and had been in retirement since then. Kelly resumed his screen career after release and has appeared in numerous films in recent years.

Miss MacKaye was driving alone to her San Fernando Valley ranch home last Tuesday night when her automobile struck a soft shoulder as she pulled out to permit another car to pass. The automobile overturned three times, pinned her beneath the wheel.

Bonarlaw District Hears Fine Addresses

BONARLAW, Jan. 6—(ENS). — Owing to the illness of Mrs. Melville Neal the regular meeting of the Springbrook Women's Institute was held in the basement of St. Mark's Church. There was a good attendance of members as well as visitors.

The motto, "We enjoy thoroughly only the pleasure we give," was given by Mrs. A. V. Brown. The roll call, "Ways of giving Christmas Cheer" was well answered.

A splendid paper was given by Mrs. George Eastwood on "The Christmas Spirit." Mrs. W. J. Barlow also contributed a splendid paper. Instead of the regular exchange of Christmas gifts each member gave 25 cents which will go in the Red Cross fund.

Lunch was served and a social half hour spent. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. J. F. Baker"s.

Veteran Mail Courier Rescued From Car

PELE EISLAND, Ont., Jan. 6. — (CP).—Veteran Pelee mail courier, Dan Gow, scrambled to safety when his automobile turned turtle in a canal a short distance from Scudder as he was starting his daily rounds after meeting the Pelee plane yesterday.

Gow lost control of his old motor car and plunged Overan embankment into the 20-foot dredge. The machine landed upside down in 10 feet of water. The mailman crawled out through a window and reached the surface, being helped ashore by Nich Wiens.

Wiens and Gow salvaged mail bags from the partially submerged car, both getting soaked in the process.

JACOB'S SPIRITUAL EXPERIENCE.

Jacob said: "I will not let Thee go except Thou bless me."—Gen. 32, 26.

A beautiful, ever living story from the Book of Genesis—the Book of Beginnings. The Book which tells us of God's dealings with the individuals before they became families and a nation separated to receive God's revelation of Himself for the benefit of the whole world.

The story is ever new. As a child, with your vivid imagination, you saw Jacob standing alone on the other side of the river and your soul was thrilled with that midnight struggle with the unknown Stranger. It is a parable of God's struggle with you. Some sorrow, sickness, financial loss brings you face to face with the fact of your own weakness and helplessness. Then there draws near to you the Stranger Who wrestles and struggles with you and for you.

Surely you know the inwardness of this story. That Stranger is Jehovah Himself striving to make Jacob fit to be Israel, a Prince with God. Jacob is a clever, shrewd man; a deceiver in very truth. He trusted in himself and in his own cleverness. Now he is helpless. Esau's four hundred armed men are marching on him. You also have your hour of weakness, helplessness.

To-day you know that God became Man. He took our nature upon Him that He might sympathize and understand man, whom He has made in His own image. His Spirit enters into you to struggle, overcome and transform you into a new man in Christ Jesus. This is the wonder of the revelation. It is thrilling to realize that God wants you—a lonely individual—and if you trust Him and give yourself to Him He will change your character, giving you a new name. You may have to lose something of your activity. Jacob halted upon his thigh. Activities quite lawful you will renounce. They will not be expedient for you. But you are a changed man and our friends must see it and comment upon it

It does not mean that God will never send you any more troubles and that your past will be forgotten. Just glance at Jacob's future life. Jacob deceived Esau in two things —his birthright and his blessing. Jacob was deceived by Laban in his wife and his wages. Jacob committed a grievous wrong against his brother; his sons sold their brother into bitter captivity. Jacob deceived his Father; his sons deceived him about his favorite son Joseph.

Yet Jacob receives his new name of Israel because of his perseverance with God. It is because he has in him a spark of that spiritual quality—FAITH. That spark needs to be nourished and developed. Now he is a changed man. He understands God's dealings with him. Through his darkest days of gloom and sorrow and anxiety he will cling to Jehovah and know that He will safely bring his through. This Scripture is written for our instruction in faith and steadfastness in the day of horror and trial. His strength will enter into you and His life will help you to overcome.

There is that temptation that so easily overcomes you. It is your weak plank. Do not strive to struggle against it with your will saying: "I will not do it again." That is the way of defeat. But fill our imagination with the thought of God's overpowering power giving you the victory. Fill your imagination with the thought of relief from that sin. When the evil thought enters offer the prayer: "Lord ,turn away mine eyes lest they behold vanity." Let your mind be gripped with the certainty of conquest — "more than conquerors through Him that loved us." (Rom. 8. 37.)

As you stand in the darkness He stands by your side. He is God-Man Christ Jesus our Lord, Who was in all points tempted and tested as we are. You can safely say: "Lord, I will not let Thee go, my Lord and my Saviour." He will answer: "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee. When thou passest through the waters I will be with thee. No man shall pluck thee out of my Hand. Only be strong and very courageous."

"MY SHEEP HEAR MY VOICE."

The Golden Text

THE CHRIST

"Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God."—Matthew 16:16.

Highlights Of S.S. Lesson

THE CHRISTIAN'S CONFESSION FAITH

(By NEWMAN CAMPBELL)

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for January 7 is Matthew 16:13-28, the Golden Text being Matt. 16:16, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God.")

THE JEWS, you recall, in the time of Jesus of Nazareth, were always looking for a Messiah to lead them out of bondage and make a great nation of them again. But they did not recognize the Messiah when He came. The Pharisees questioned Him often, and tried to find something in His sayings that would either let them accuse Him of something for which He could be thrown into prison and maybe executed, or for some sign that He was someone sent from Heaven.

Jesus wearied of their seeking for some sign. "Why doth this generation seek after a sign?" He asked. "Verily I say unto you, there shall no sign be given unto this generation.

Even His apostles did not always have faith in Him and His power. You remember in last week's lesson how He fed the multitude with a few fishes and loaves and there were baskets of food left over. Still they worried about having no bread, even after he reminded them of what had happened. Wearily He asked them, "Having eyes, see ye not? and having ears, hear ye not? and do ye not remember?"

Healing the Blind Man

"And He cometh to Bethsaida, and they bring a blind man unto Him, and besought Him to touch him." Jesus took the man by the hand and led him out from the city. He spat on his eyes and put His hands over them and asked the man if he could see. The man looked up and said he could see men "as trees walking," meaning that he could see dim shapes that moved. Once more the Lord touched his eyes and then the man could see clearly.

Then Jesus and the apostles went to Caesarea Philippi and as they walked He asked His companions what men said of Him. "Whom do men say I am?" He asked.

Then said He: "But whom say ye that I am?" And Simon Peter, who seems to have been the readiest of speech, said. "Thou are the Christ, the Son of the living God," which is our Golden Text for today.

Jesus was pleased with Peter, and said, "Blessed art thou Simon Bar-Jonah: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it to thee, but my Father who is in heaven." You see Peter, in close association with Jesus, had become convinced that here was no ordinary preacher, but someone more than mortal.

Tries to Warn Apostles

Then Jesus tried to tell His disciples what would undoubtedly happen to Him in a short time—of His arrest, trial and crucifixion. Peter must have thought Jesus was feeling depressed and tried to cheer Him by saying, "Be it far from Thee, Lord: this shall never be unto Thee."

Peter, of course, had no idea of what was in store for his Lord, but Jesus knew and rebuked Peter by saying, "Get thee behind me, Satan: thou art a stumbling block unto me: for thou mindest not the things of God, but the things of men."

Jesus truly loved Peter. He had told him, "Thou are Peter (the rock), and upon this rock will I build my church; and the gates of Hades shall not prevail against it." But He saw that Peter, even with his insight into his Lord's work and personality, could not foresee, as He himself did, that only by His sacrifice and death could His religion prevail in the world.

"Then He charged His disciples that they should tell no man that He was the Christ." By His rebuke to Peter Jesus indicated that even those closest to Him were not yet aware of His mission, and from then on He tried to prepare them for His death, which He knew would take place within the year.

1939 May Dawn Upon New Era

KEENE, Jan. 6—"What has 1939 to say to us," was the topic of the sermon at the United Church last Sunday. Truly God has led us through a year of strange experiences, one which will go down in history as one of the greatest in so far as nations are concerned. It may mark the dawn of a new day for our civilization when out of all this chaos God shall bring us into a New Year of greater promise and hope for the world.

The snow did not prevent the many from attending the last service of another year. Next Sunday the sermon will be based on "St. John's wish to Gaius—our wish for 1940."

London Enjoys Negro Bishop

LONDON, Jan. 6 — (CP). — In the snowy robes and crimson skull cap of the White Fathers of Algeria, the first negro bishop to be consecrated at Rome in five centuries sang Pontifical High Mass at Westminster Cathedral in the heart of London.

The ebony-skinned Bishop Kiwanuka, born Naka Bali, has only one racial predecessor, a Portuguese negro bishop of the 15th century. His family is descended from Christian martyrs burned at the stake in 1885 by the brutal King Mutesa.

The Buganda, his people on the shores of Lake Victoria, know Latin as well as he does, says the prelate. "I sing the ordinary service in the language of the Buganda and the same words in Latin at High Mass. My people sing both with me," he explains.

News of his appointment as bishop was not proclaimed by ringing of church bells in the orthodox Roman manner, but in the typical African fashion of beating native drums, loud and long, throughout the countryside.

CARGO WASHED ASHORE

Two miles of seashore between Slyne and Galway, Eire, were strewn recently with beams of timber, 8 to 16 feet long and 14 inches in diameter, which are believed to be the cargo of a vessel sunk in the Atlantic.

White Woman Among Indians

A picture sermon entitled a white woman amongst the Indians will be given in St. Andrew's Church on next Sunday night. The woman's name was Winnifred Potter, the place Takuish, on the British Columbia coast.

The Indians of Canada considering their numbers are better known throughout the world than any other section of native aborignal people. Probably the stories that have been told in books about them has given them this notoriety. Scarcely a schoolboy in Britain but has read wild tales of the North American Indians.

These people are supposed to have come to this continent by the Bering Strait, and to have gradually come down through Alaska into Canada and the United States.

They were divided into a number of tribes, there were the Hurons, Algonquins and Iroquois in Upper Canada. The Crees and other tribes in British Columbia and the West.

They were fierce people and exhibited a great deal of cruelty in their treatment of those captured in the fight. Cruelty, drunkeness and gambling were their vices. Wampum was used as money and this consisted of shells of various kinds. Their society was divided into various tribes, and clans, and each clean had a separate totem, a bird or beast which was regarded as sacred. This animal was reverently safeguarded as the sacred cows in India, and when killed its flesh was eaten as a solemn sacrament.

Winnifred Potter lived amongst a group of Indians that were accustomed their potlatches, lived in the long houses, and were still almost cannibals. The medicine man used every influence to frighten her away but she stayed and conquered the hearts of the people, and made them her friends.

The Christian's Confession of Faith — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 16:13-28

Jesus, preaching in Galilee, went to Bethsaida, and there was brought to Him a blind man, whom Jesus healed by laying His hands on the man's eyes.

Jesus and apostles went to Caesarea, and Jesus asked His companions who people said He was. John the Baptist or one of the prophets, they told Him.

"But who say ye that I am?" Jesus asked these men who knew Him. Peter answered: "Thou are the Christ, the Son of the Living God"

When Jesus tried to tell the apostles how He would be persecuted and put to death they refused to believe Him.

When All Others Are Wrong

Stewart Smith, an avowed Communist, is now an ex-alderman of Toronto, the voters having supplied the "ex" on election day. At the last meeting of the 1939 Council Mr. Smith said he did not anticipate members would pass a resolution thanking him for past services. That remark was hardly needed as the Council appeared to be not at all bent in that direction.

But Mr. Smith had something to say. If he were permitted to publish a paper in Toronto "and tell the truth as he saw it" then things would be reversed and it would be possible to have a real democratic election in Toronto.

We know of nothing which would prevent Mr. Smith publishing a paper in Toronto. The field is as wide open to him as it would be to any other person. There are agencies there which would provide him with presses, linotype machines, type and all such equipment. And when he was ready to start he would be in the position of any other publisher of a paper in Canada or any other land; he would have to observe the laws and regulations which are enacted for the good of society as a whole.

If Mr. Smith were to run his paper in his beloved Russia he would find it even more difficult than in Canada because he would be allowed to express no views at all unless they were in line with the policy of the government—and government there means Stalin.

The ex-alderman wants "to tell the truth as he sees it," and that is often enough the reason why people get into trouble. A man might want to drive his car according to his own inclination; he might be convinced he was perfectly right when he started off down the left side of the road; it might appear to him that stop signs and slow-down signs were a nuisance, so he would disregard them. In the interests of all the rest of the people this driver would have to be brought in by police and made to suffer because his convictions were wrong.

The truth as Mr. Smith sees it would not be the truth as others see it. He might be interested in writing something in his paper about Communism as he sees it, but we believe the people in general would be right enough in claiming that Communism should be portrayed as the world sees it in action. The Communism of Russia has revealed itself in an analysis based on action as being a putrid thing, and we do not believe readers of Mr. Smith's paper would remain patient if he tried to convince them it was otherwise. The "truth as he sees it" would not be the truth as the world sees it from having been able to look at it in relation to Communism's attempt to crucify Finland.

Mr. Smith's chief trouble is that he is stubborn. He may have a crusading zeal, but so did Saul on the way to Damascus. Possibly in the hour of municipal defeat he cuddles to himself the idea that he is right and all the other people are wrong, and that is something which we do not believe because common sense and the power to make a reasonably right decision are qualities quite widely distributed among voters.

We have not the least suspicion that Mr. ex-Alderman Smith will be convinced he is wrong, and that is probably why he would like to print a paper and start on the business of showing that he is right and all the great majority are wrong. He is probably due for a long spell of unhappiness, and his best plan might be to wander toward the coast line some day and inquire earnestly about boats pointed in the direction of Russia. Once there he might be drafted in the army and have opportunity to show how right Communism is by going off to fight against the little nation of Finland.

The Cunning Of Berlin

Berlin continues to send out veiled threats to Norway and Sweden about allowing military supplies from Britain and France pass over their territory on the way to Finland. As Berlin sees it the motive is that Britain and France aim to secure for themselves a foothold in the north under the guise of assisting Finland.

Pardon the phrase, but a report of that kind is as ingenius as the devil.

It is meant primarily for consumption in Germany where the press has for two weeks been preparing the Germans for the news that Berlin has decided to assist Russia in the conquest of Finland.

There is not a country in existence outside of Germany and Russia which will believe the Allies have any desire to claim a foot of land in the Scandinavian countries. Nor is there one sane reason which Berlin can advance telling why the Allies should not go to the defence of Finland.

The Scheme Is No Good

For some time Russia has had many war planes, and admittedly some of their men have made daring flights. Back of it all the Russian mind was seeking some new way to fit these planes into the general scheme of war; that was their chief interest.

There came the time several years ago when Russia was giving demonstrations bcause something entirely new had been worked out. With a fleet of planes fully-armed soldiers could be taken to the attack. They could be let down by parachutes far in the rear of the enemy lines and once down they could do all manner of mischief. They could act as spies or they could blow up bridges and cut lines of communication. Yes—Russia had something new.

The Reds have been trying the scheme in Finland, and it went according to schedule. The Russians were dumped from their planes and began the descent. The Finns saw it and looked upon it as the opening of a new shooting gallery. It was something like an open season for Finn hunters.

The troops which did drop to earth were all tangled up in their harness. They tried to come together in some sort of formation, but they could find no one to give direction, although that was soon enough supplied by the Finns themselves.

One lone jumper put on quite a show. He had with him a machine-gun and ammunition, and when the Finns started coming close he opened fire. The Finns did not wish to kill him as he was alone and putting up a good fight. The solution was a good charge of buckshot such as one may see in the windows of sporting goods houses or hardware stores during the deer season. That brought him down, but the Finns had to attend to him and pick the pellets out afterward. Possibly by now he is on the way to recovery.

So that fine Russian-made scheme is out, and a good many other plans of the Red army appear to be in the same bin.

What Lenin Said

Lenin remains a name with which to conjure in Russia, and interested writers have been looking up some of his addresses. There was one in 1917 when Finland finally gained her independence after having been under Russia for 108 years.

Lenin—dead since 1924—did make a speech then and he referred to Finland. This is what he said:

"The Finns must maintain that they are entitled to determine their own destiny in their own way, and any great Russian who denies this right is a chauvinist."

Stalin is denying that right today so according to Lenin he is a chauvinist.

The word "chauvinist" had an interesting birth place. It reaches back to the days of Napoleon. Nicholas Chauvin was a soldier of Napoleon I. who in 1815 acquired much notoriety by his grotesque and threatening displays of attachment to the fallen Napoleon and the imperial cause. So the name of this man became grafted in the language of the world as meaning any person indulging in an absurd fawning, unreasoning and vainglorious outburst of patriotism, meant to impress others but actually for his own benefit.

So by the spoken and recorded opinion of Lenin, the greatest of all Russian revolutionaries, Stalin is making a base use of what he calls patriotism. He is seeking to do to Finland what Lenin said should never be done.

Leaving Moscow Out

Representative Bolles, a Republican from Wisconsin, made a motion in the House of Representatives at Washington (similar to our House of Commons) and the burden of it was that expenditures for the maintenance of an embassy or a diplomatic corps in Moscow be prohibited.

In due time that will be attended to, but just how no person knows. If United States pulled out of Moscow there would be a decided shortage in the diplomatic world in that city.

Britain has no ambassador there at the moment, and France is in a similar position.

The ambassador from Rome left Moscow several days ago and there is not a thing on the board to indicate his intention of returning. If United States decides to close up its official shop in Moscow it will leave Germany as the one major nation with a representative there. And doubtless there would be a beaten path to the door.

Reporting In the Arctic

Your reporting man is accustomed to weather as it comes. He knows when he starts off for a plowing match in the late fall on a day of cold wind it is better to slip a sweater on inside the overcoat, and possibly he may add an extra pair of socks (if he has them). If a story breaks in zero weather or on a hot day at 95 he goes.

So reporters are now in Finland, some of them near the Arctic circle. It is their business to follow the news. Here is what your reporter wears in that land:

Reindeer boots, ski or felt shoes.
Doeskin and inner wool socks.
Two suits of underwear.
Two woollen shirts.
A sweater jacket.
A fur or sheep lined coat.

We are informed the reporter soon learns from the Laplander the advantage of entering now and then some of the hospitable farm homes of the Finns and taking off his socks in order to have them thoroughly dry and free from moisture.

In addition to going about in that amount and weight of clothing the reporter we suppose would also find it convenient to carry a lead pencil and a few scraps of paper.

Recognizing The Juniors

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition was not a routine affair. It reduced the number of directors from 40 to 18 and listened as well to some intelligent criticism about the showing of live stock by breeders in this district. It was G. A. Brethen of Norwood who brought that question to the fore, and he knows his text. He is friendly to the Exhibition here and desires to see the stock angle kept well to the front.

The number of directors who will no longer be able to wear badges on days of the exhibition is fairly large. Fortunately those who have been directors are of the type whose interest will not shrink because the new regulations have become effective. The reduction was made because the new rulings call for a board of a certain size and no more.

It is well to notice that in the new arrangement of things the junior farmers have been given six places on the directorate. These junior folk are the future hope of the Exhibition; in fact their efforts and exhibits have done a great deal to keep our fair in good standing. We are entirely in agreement with the policy which advances them to the directorate.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Swedes have given 20,000 pairs of skiis to the Finns. And how those same Finns can use them!

In court at Simcoe a man was sentenced to 10 days in jail for stealing 14 turkeys. Any person who has raised turkeys will admit the man got off too easy.

Robert Tinen appeared before a judge in Texas on New Year's day and was married. Next day the same judge sent him to prison for theft. And some one is sure to say that's what comes of starting the year wrong.

Broker in New York shot himself at his home, and it is disclosed he had lost over $1,000,000 in recent months. A large number of people who have no idea of what a million looks like manage to live happily and die in old age.

If the world is looking for a simple form of government, it might be well to consider the last verse in the book of Judges: "In those days there was no king in Israel; every man did that which was right in his own eyes."

Since snow has started we read of one farm home in Western Ontario where 24 young people had to put up for the night and part of next day because their cars were stalled. Just like the luck of a farmer—having all those people coming in after the chores were attended to for the night.

PUZZLED

¶ I marvel at the dainty lass, I step aside to let her pass, I travel rather slow; the snow is deep along the way, nor can I make good time today, but you should see her go.

¶ Perhaps it is I feel the cold, because I'm rather bent and old, and clumsy on my feet; I could not match my steps with her, to tell the truth I'd much prefer, to sit beside the heat.

¶ I don red flannel underwear, and goodly woollen socks I snare, goloshes buckled high; if I can't fight the winter's cold, why then I'd like to have it told, that I at least can try.

¶ Thus wrapped and padded I set out, to see just what 'twas all about, I trudged straight up the hill; 'twas then the dainty lass went by, she'd shifted all her gears to high, though I was standing still.

¶ It looked like slippers on her feet, and dainty rubbers small and neat, her step was like a spring; but as for padding on her shin, to turn the blast from off her skin, she didn't have a thing.

¶ Silk stockings looked so mighty cold, perhaps because I'm bent and old, but how she stepped was grand; how she trips through the winter breeze, and never stops to cough and sneeze—I can't quite understand.

BLACKOUT BURGLARIES

MANY CITIZENS who had fled for fear of air raids are returning to their deserted homes and many more are coming up from the provinces "to see what London looks like in war time." Returning evacuees, alas, not infrequently find that their houses have been skilfully burgled. Burglary in a black-out has become a popular occupation and the police can hardly be blamed. It is difficult enough to identify your friends, let alone your enemies! Some enterprising individuals have advertised their services as "Inspectors of evacuated property—houses aired and kept fresh during owners' absence good personal references offered"; but it will be noticed that the offer does not include a willingness to attack thieves, especially after sundown. It is, however, an ill wind, etc.—London Cor. The Argonaut.

• Nature Has Need of Quakes

ONCE MORE a great disaster has visited a country, caused this time not by man's inhumanity to man, but by a gigantic force of nature. Those dead and injured from the Turkish earthquakes are already officially estimated to be in excess of 60,000 persons. Whether or not the earthquakes in Turkey, California, Central America and elsewhere are related to one another or are merely coincidences only the siesmologists can say, and they will want records before they commit themselves.

Coincidence or not, there is every reason why the earth should tremble both in the Mediterranean and Pacific regions. Wherever mountainous masses and deep water are juxtaposed there quakes are most likely to occur. The ranges that fringe the Pacific explain the destruction of life and property that has occurred all too frequently on the shores of Asia and the two Americas.

Less obvious is the case of Turkey. Yet the mountains that run through it are regarded by many geologists as part of a formation which begins with the foothills of the Himalayas in the east and extends to the Maritime Alps in France.

Whether this conception is right or not the Alps and the Himalayas are in themselves enough to account for any instability in Asia Minor and the adjacent regions.

It is is not likely that the new upheavals will teach the geologist anything new. They are evidence that nature has not yet finished with the earth.

Mountains are still being pushed up, with the result that states of unstable equilibrium are being created which can be corrected only by earthquakes, more or less severe. So we must regard the destruction reported from two ends of the world as evidence that the earth is restless, that nature is still patting and shaking down a crust which has not yet reached its final form, and that when the final form is reached we shall have stagnation and death. A live planet is a shaky planet.

All this will be small comfort to the thousands who have been driven from their homes in stricken Turkey and must now live in tents. They want to know what science can do to protect them from similar catastrophes in the future. The answer, alas, must be unsatisfactory. Engineers can build structures that no ordinary earthquake can shake down, but at a cost that few can afford. And it is in crowded communities that lives are lost.

What we urgently need is some method of predicting quakes and warning a threatened population. But will a city heed?

Not every one in Japan flees to the open country when the tiltmeter gives its first warning. Major catastrophes are rare. Who knows but the heralded earthquake may be only a slight quiver? Great cities which have been all but razed by upheavals have not profited by their experiences. Buildings are built in the time-honored way, men go about their business as they did before they were driven out of their homes by falling walls and by fires life runs its course.

For lack of a real science of seismology, a science that will indicate not only that an earthquake is impending but how strong it will be, there is some excuse for fatalism.—New York Times.

• It Is Not the Flag of Canada

A GOOD DEAL of excitement appears to have been aroused in some quarters, and especially in some newspapers, by the announcement that the headquarters of the First Canadian Division, now overseas, is flying a distinctive flag. These excitable ones have jumped to the conclusion that the new standard is, in fact, a new national flag for Canada. It is nothing of the sort. It is a divisional flag, or a divisional insignia, to be flown only where Major General McNaughton establishes his headquarters.

It was flown on one ship in the convoy that recently took troops of the First Division to Britain. It was flown on that ship because on it were General McNaughton and his staff. When the division goes to France, the flag will accompany its commander. No other unit will fly that particular ensign.

If and when a Second Canadian Division proceeds overseas, it may design a standard of its own. So may succeeding divisions if they wish. There is no compulsion about it. In the last war, all four divisions had special insignia. The First Division had its red patch, the Second its symbol representing "C 2," the Third a dumbell, from which the famous Dumbells got their name, and the Fourth a maple leaf.

When Canada adopts a national flag of its own, Parliament will make the decision. Back in 1925 the Government under Mr. Mackenzie King appointed a committee to report on the desirability of the adoption of a distinctive Canadian flag. No action resulted, but at that time the Prime Minister assured the House that nothing would be done then or in the future except with the approval of Parliament. General McNaughton's divisional flag is not a national flag and probably never will be. The design is enough to indicate that its creator was not thinking of a national flag.—Edmonton Journal.

• What Caused Stalin's Mad Rush ?

WHY WAS STALIN in such mad haste to send his troops into Finland at the worst possible time of the year? What had he in mind? Was there some scheme which needed attending to in haste? All these questions come up in a despatch by H. B. Elliston, who is now in Stockholm for the Christian Science Monitor:—

The Soviet enigma began to erect a huge question mark over world discussion when Vyacheslaff Molotoff displaced Maxim Litvinoff as Minister of Foreign Affairs. Mr. Litvinoff's crime consisted of his failure to persuade the world that peace was one and indivisible. This is the policy of collective security claiming that nations in common shall take up arms against the peace breaker.

Of all nations this collective security policy was most precious to Soviet Russia. For Joseph Joseph Stalin has always seen a Briton or a German under his bed at night. His is the fear of a ward boss losing his bailiwick. It is the fear, moreover, that a coalition might be set up against the world revolutionary forces focussed in Moscow.

Yes, collective security suited Stalin quite nicely. It kept the man in the Kremlin safe in authority and world revolution shielded from collective reprisals.

Munich spelled the end of this policy of collective security and sidetracked its headquarters at Geneva. Then came the "resignation" of Mr. Litvinoff. The alarmed Stalin now saw a Briton and a German under his bed together. Sauve qui peut. But "every man for himself" and collective security are incompatible. So Stalin found himself under a pressing compunction to look out for his own individual security.

What should he do? Clearly he must do his utmost to break up the Anglo-German combination. Munich collapsed of its own weight while he was making his decision. But Stalin did not relax his efforts to establish his own security or safety belt. He feared the resuscitation of Munich much more than the collapse of Munich. Accordingly his diplomacy from then on was directed at the prevention of a German-British combination.

With this object in view he treated with both German and Briton when they came to Moscow seeking a Russian agreement. To whom should he turn? To neither, really. What he wanted was to see them fall out so completely that there would be no chance of a resuscitation of Munich. The record in short shows that he wanted Germany and Britain to go to war.

Logically Stalin would bring on war by signing up with Germany. He did. A vastly different approach to this pact was pictured by Joachim von Ribbentrop, Adolf Hitler's Foreign Minister. Herr von Ribbentrop imagined that it would frighten Britain into keeping the peace at any German price. But the German still has a lot to learn about Britain.

Stalin knew better. His insight into Britain had the edge on Herr von Ribbentrop's actual acquaintance with Britain in persuading the Russian dictator that Britain would live up to its Polish engagements. And he knew that that would mean war. He therefore cast in his signature with Nazi Germany.

The Nazi "still" war has not allayed Stanlinist fears by any means. No man in the world, I am convinced, is more bothered by the "phoney war" than Stalin. It was up to Stalin to make sure of his safety belt while his enemies were in formal combat. Indeed, he had exacted from Berlin what he had unsuccessfully tried to extract from London: the Baltic prize for his agreement.

This is the reason why Stalin is trying to beat down Finland. Finland stands in the way of Stalin sealing up the most vulnerable entrance to the Soviet Union, the Gulf of Finland. Primarily his motive has nothing to do with world revolution. Primarily it has nothing to do with imperialism. It is a move, it seems to me, of a Government obsessed more than most present governments are obsessed with fears for its own security.

Time was the essence of the matter to Stalin. It was an absurd season to start operations in Finland. It was an absurd miscalculation to count on a Finnish breakup. Both factors shows the extent of Stalinist fears. But to the Kremlin the feeling, which I have heard voiced in many European quarters, that the war would turn out to be an eastern war ultimately directed against Russia, amounted to a conviction.

Stalin knows the vast amount of men and material which Britain and France are amassing in Egypt and Syria. He must know of the Soviet territory that the Allies are said to have promised to his former friend Turkey in case of a Soviet-Turkish conflict. Likely he feels that German eyes will be fixed on the Ukraine when they can be taken off Britain.

A quick sealing up of the Gulf of Finland consequently seems to have been envisaged in the Kremlin as a preliminary measure to a full concentration of forces in the south where Stalin feels his real danger to lie. I feel this is the explanation of the Russian enigma.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And the Lord said, I have surely seen the affliction of my people which are in Egypt, and have heard their cry by reason of their taskmasters; for I know their sorrows; and I am come down to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to bring them out of that land unto a good land, and a large, unto a land flowing with milk and honey . . . .Come now therefore, and I will send thee unto Pharaoh, that thou mayest bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt.

And Moses said unto God, Who am I that I should go unto Pharaoh, and that I should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt? And he said, Certainly I will be with thee; and this shall be a token unto thee, that I have sent thee: When thou hast brought forth the people out of Egypt, ye shall serve God upon this mountain.—Ex. iii, 7, 8, 10-12.

HITLER'S NEW THREAT

HITLER'S THREATS have at least for the present lost their power to make the world's flesh creep. Though his lies are as brazen as ever, they are losing their power to interest without increasing their power to convince. The Allies have had so many last warnings from Hitler since the war began that one more last warning at the turn of the year must leave them cold. If, as Field Marshal Goering declares, only a "word from the Fuehrer" is awaited for German planes to start a terrific bombardment of Great Britain, and if, as Goering implies, such a bombardment would end the war in a German victory, the failure of the Fuehrer thus far to give the word is a little puzzling. Can it be that there is something wrong in the Field Marshal's premises?

Hitler's threats are no longer sufficient in themselves to insure German victories; now he must back them up with acts, and he does not seem to be finding that easy.—New York Times.

WORDS AND WAR

LORD MACMILLAN, chief of the British Ministry of Information, has said he intends to let Reichsfuehrer Hitler propagandize the United States in Britain's behalf. And with the notable aid of Joseph Stalin, that is just what the leader of the Third Reich has been doing, not simply since his attack on Poland, but even before the war in Europe began.

Anti-Semitism in its more extreme forms plus conquest of small states like Austria and Czechoslovakia — Lord Macmillan could not have asked better propaganda for his side than this. Even Americans who continue to think of the British Empire in terms which were made obsolete by the Statute of Westminster can stand imperialism better than they can nihilism.—C. W. M., in Christian Science Monitor.

MONTREAL, Jan. 6 (CP)—The Gazette says today that the Dominion Government is reported "to be on the eve of appointing" Madame Pierre F. Casgrain, wife of the Speaker of the House of Commons, to the Senate.

Consideration of the appointment, the Gazette says, "was interpreted here as springing from a desire on the Government's part to express a generous 'thank you' to the Province of Quebec for its electoral 'beaue geste' in the last provincial election."

The newspaper adds that appointment of Madame Casgrain would "give recognition to one of the most ardent feminist workers in the Dominion of Canada.

There are at present two women members in the Red Chamber, Senator Cairine Wilson of Ottawa and Senator Iva Fallis of Peterborough, Ont. Madam Casgrain is a resident of Montreal

Institute Meets At Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 5.—(ENS)—The "Price of Peace" by E. Ryerson Young, was the title of the paper, prepared by Mrs. E. Rooke, who being absent through illness, was read by Mrs. N. S. Higgins, the second member of the program committee, at the regular meeting of the senior branch of the Women's Institute held in the council chamber of the Lakefield Memorial Hall on Wednesday afternoon.

"Among the institutions making for world peace, mutual understanding and international goodwill is the Cobden Memorial Lecture delivered annually in London, England. The lecturer this year stated that the price of permanent peace demanded of the nations, calls for the abandonment and reversal of cherished national politics, that had ruled the nations almost from the dawn of history.

The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of eight dollars and thirty-nine cents.

In answer to a roll call of a famous Canadian and why, the names of Sir John A. Macdonald, Mrs. H. Hoodless and Mrs. Suzanna Moodie were among those given. The report of Christmas cheer showed that three large family baskets had been given and twelve individual baskets. Votes of thanks were tendered all those who assisted in the preparing and delivering of the parcels, and to friends who had sent donations. Thirty-five cards were also sent to shut-ins. It was suggested that the health charts be filled in during February.

Mrs. W. Gillman told of the work which the local Red Cross Society has accomplished. Over one hundred pairs of socks have been knit as well as scarves, helmets and wristlets. Arrangements are being made for the Institute to meet as a body at least twice in the near future, to sew for the Red Cross.

100 Farmers Hunt Killer Suspect

MEADVILLE, Miss., Jan. 6 — (AP). — More than 100 Mississippi farmers and 35 National Guardsmen to-day hunted a negro killer-suspect in the dense Homochitto National Forest near here.

Adjutant-General John O'Keefe directed the Guardsmen (Militiamen), ordered out by Governor Hugh White, after fear was expressed that a mob might lynch the negro, known only as "Red," if he were captured.

"Red" and another negro named "Oklahoma" were sought for the killing last Monday night of Hillard Hall, 21, and the slight wounding of Constable Philip Shell and his brother, J. W. Shell.

They were fired upon when they sought to question the negroes, strangers in the neighborhood, in connection with numerous recent robberies in the vicinity of Knoxville, three miles from here.

A posse yesterday surprised "Red" in a cabin near Knoxville and fired at him as he fled to the woods. Some believed the negro was wounded.

Firemen Out Twice

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 6—(ENS)—The fire department was called out twice today to answer alarms sent in by citizens whose chimneys had begun to blaze. The first call came shortly after seven a.m. when the brigade was summoned to the home of Mr. Harry Field, Queen street and the second was also in Ward 3 on Havelock Road where Wilbert Rodgers lives, the pipes in his kitchen ablaze. $8,000 Waiting Missing Son

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Jan. 6—(CP)—Despite a search of almost a year for the heir to an $8,000 slice of an estate, no trace has been found of Warren Potter, Jr., Woodstock. Unless he is contacted by the end of this month the money will be divided among the other beneficiaries, including three brothers and a sister.

One year ago this coming Jan. 31, Warren Potter, Sr., the father, was found frozen to death in his home here. The will bequeathed $8,000 to an estranged son, Warren, who left home 25 years ago following a family quarrel and has not been heard of since that time. The will stipulated the son must be found within 12 months of the date of the father's death.

"We have only one clue," said John Potter of Woodstock, a brother of the missing man. "A woman in London, Ont., said she had a young fellow come to live with her during the first great war who answered the description of my brother.

"He told her he came from Woodstock and had run away from home. She said he joined the army and was killed 12 days after he landed in France. He joined up under a different name to ours."

Potter said the family is endeavoring to run down this lead through federal government records but have had no success.

HASTINGS

Institute Plans School Concert

HASTINGS, Jan. 6—(ENS)—The Women's Institute held its first meeting for the New Year in the Council Chambers on Tuesday, but due to illness among the members, the attendance was smaller than usual.

Mrs. T. A. Walsh, the first vice-president, presided, and on behalf of the president, who was unavoidably absent, and herself, extended New Year's greetings and also expressed thanks for the co-operation shown by everyone during the past year.

The roll call was "What benefit do I get from the Women's Institute?" Mrs T. A. Walsh read an interesting poem in keeping with the roll call and read the motto,

"Lord as the New Year dawns today,
Help me to put my faults away,
Let me be big in little things,
Grant me the joy which friendship brings,
Keep me from selfishness and spite,

Plans were made to hold the annual school concert in the Hastings town hall on Friday, January 19th. Pupils from the Hastings Public and Separate Schools, Fife's, Fleming's, Elgin, Dutch Line, Cobourg Road and Burnley Schools are asked to participate, each school to present two or more numbers on the program. Proceeds from the concert will be donated to the Red Cross. Mrs. T. A. Walsh and Mrs. C. M. Baker were appointed to look after the making of posters.

Hetherington, same to be held in the near future.

The proposed concert to be given by the United Church choir from Port Hope was left over for a later date, owing to the state of roads and weather.

The minister closed the gathering with prayer.

Grace Ladies' Aid.

Grace Presbyterian Ladies' Aid Society held its annual meeting in the church parlors on Thursday afternoon, with the minister, Rev. A. Raeburn-Gibson, offering prayer. In the business discussion Mrs. A. Miller and H. Wiyte were made responsible for having the church clock put in running order, and Mrs. S. E. Eakins reported sale of the stoves in the dining-room at the Fair Grounds, funds from this to be credited to Mrs. S. Pritchard's group. Before the election of officers Mrs. J. R. Thompson mentioned with deep regret the loss the society had sustained through the death of one of its most efficient vice-presidents, Mrs. R. J. McKnight during 1939.

Rev. Mr. Gibson presided for the election, the slate for 1940 being: Honorary presidents, Mrs. J. H. Paul and Mrs. James Kennedy; president, Mrs. John R. Thompson; vice-presidents, Mrs. Suttle Pritchard, Mrs. A. Coyte, Mrs. S. E. Eakins, and Mrs. J. D. Armstrong; secretary, Mrs. Alexander Miller, treasurer, Miss Mina Gibson; Group conveners, Miss Jean Syer, Mrs. H. A. Kerr, Mrs. S. Pritchard, Mrs. T. C. Ingram, and Miss M. Gibson.

The next meeting will be on January 24, and the annual congregational meeting on January 18, when the society will serve tea, the committee in charge to include the entire executive. The draw for the two fine pillows on which tickets had been sold was made, Mrs. A. Miller holding the lucky number 83.

The gathering was closed with prayer by the minister.

Plans were discussed regarding the completion of the quilt and manner of disposal.

It was also decided to purchase new blinds for the Rectory, as those in use have been worn since the Rectory was first occupied.

English Letters Indicate Value Of I.O.D.E. Gifts

Of interest to I.O.D.E. workers in the city are the letters just received by headquarters in Toronto from the Dowager Marchioness of Reading, from Mrs. Vincent Massey, wife of the Canadian High Commissioner in London, from some of the divisional organizers, and from other officials, which indicate the value of the tons of new warm clothing and blankets forwarded by the Order for the British evacuees in Great Britain and the keen appreciation of all those concerned.

In the first consignment of these goods which arrived in London, there were more than 700 blankets, of which 100 were forwarded to the fishermen on mine sweepers in the North Sea, who immediate response to the need for this lonely and dangerous service has excited the admiration of the Empire.

For the reception, unpacking and distribution of these gifts from the I.O.D.E., the Canadian High Commissioner obtained quarters in the warehouse of the Exhibition and Publicity Department of the Canadian Government in London. The trestle-tables in the building were covered with white sheeting, so that the mint-new condition of the clothing should not be impaired.

In forwarding the gifts, the War Emergency Committee enclosed a card bearing the Order's crest, which reads: "Here with all the good wishes in the world is a little gift from the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire in Canada, it may help to add to the happiness of your Christmas. Will you also regard it, please, as a sign that the women of Canada are thinking of you all in the Old Country in these difficult days; and are eager and anxious to do what they can to help you and yours."

The Order's achievement for the benefit of the evacuees has called forth a great deal of admiration and appreciation in the Mother Country, and has recalled the work of the Order in 1914-1918, during which period the Chapters collected and disbursed over $6,000,000 for the benefit of Canada's fighting forces.

In Your Glass Garden Make a Woodland Nook

Fun to Create Tiny Landscape

More winter weather ahead—but you forget the bleak outdoors when you make this adorable woodland terrarium, complete with rocky slope and "waterfall."

Use a glass bowl—an old fish bowl will do—and put in the bottom a layer of pebbles for drainage. Then line with moss—green side out. Your moss should reach nearly to the top at the back of your bowl, but slope close to the bottom in front.

Now fill the moss "lining" with soil and plant tiny ferns, miniature ivy, a clump of wood violets or a little African violet. Place a rough pebble here and there and create a sparkling waterfall down the front of your slope with a handful of white sand.

You can make lovely gardens in bottles, too—indeed in any clear glass container with a lid. Odd cacti or colorful foliage beauties such as coleus are favorite plants. And best to be sparing with water. Even if the cover is off frequently, a spoonful every week or so is enough.

Complete instructions for delightful glass and dish gardens are given in our 32-page booklet. Tells how to grow orchids and gardenias as well as every-day plants. Includes directions for kitchen herb gardens.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of GLASS GARDENS AND NOVELTY INDOOR GARDENS to Examiner Home Service, Peterboro. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

DOROTHY DIX

The Primrose Path Is One Of Many Pitfalls And Any Girl Who Follows It Finds Only Sorrow And Regret From The Moment She Starts Along Its Winding Way.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a clean-living, Christian girl and I am deeply and desperately in love with a boy to whom I am engaged, but we cannot get married because of the insecurity of his job. We have come to the point where we must do one of three things: We must either get married, live together unmarried or break up entirely. He demands that we live together without benefit of clergy, but I refuse to do so, and, as I see it, my only alternative is just to quit him entirely, but this would cut my heart out. Can you see any other way out or can you think of any way that I can make him see my side? — ROPE'S END.

ANSWER:

A great many young women, faced with the same problem that you are, tell me that I am old-fashioned in my views when I warn them that there is small chance for happiness for any woman in a relationship with a man that is based on lust instead of integrity.

But if you could read the thousands of tear-sodden letters that come to me from girls who have loved not wisely but too well, and who have let the boys they were powerless to resist lure them into a liaison, you would know that no woman can break the law, "Thou shalt not commit adultery" that God thundered from Mount Sinai without bitterly paying for her transgression

Sometimes these letters are from girls with little nameless babies in their arms who have been deserted by the men who swore that they would love them all the more and be the more faithful to them because they had been brave enough to defy the conventions.

Sometimes they are from girls whose partners in sin have tired of them and left them for "pure girls." Sometimes they are from women who themselves wearied of their "under the rose" romances and who find themselves debarred from marrying the kind of men they want because of their past lives. And often they are from wives who live in cringing fear of their husbands finding out about the indiscretions of their girlhood or whose husbands never trust or respect them because they think that the woman who did not have principle enough to resist one man would yield to another.

Sooner or later the woman who sins must suffer. To you, a Christian girl with high ideals and deep-rooted principles, there will be no flowers blooming along the primrose path. You will live in a hell of your own making because you will have lost your self-respect, you will have thrown down your gods and trampled on them and you will be tormented ceaselessly by your conscience.

No kisses, no caresses, no honeyed love talk will pay you for what you have lost. In the end you will come to hate the man who has dragged you down into this suffering. For you will know that if he had loved your soul and your integrity and your need to be right with yourself he would not have done it.

But why, if it has to be a choice between marriage and poverty, or becoming the man's mistress, or giving him up entirely, do you not choose marriage, even if it entails sacrifices and hardships? You are both living now. Why not combine your resources and dare Fate? You can find happiness in that kind of marriage and the blessing of God and society will be on it, but there will be nothing but misery and shame in a sordid affair that will make everybody hold both you and the man in contempt.

DEAR MISS DIX — Two and a half years ago a girl I know asked me to go steady with her. I couldn't hurt her feelings by refusing, so I agreed to do so. But about a year ago I began to grow tired of her and told her I would like to quit and she took it very hard and on one of our dates tried to take poison. I just happened to see her in time to forestall any serious consequences. This frightened me and made me feel that, if she had died, morally I would have been her murderer, so I begged her foregiveness and asked her to go steady again. Now the old urge for freedom is strong upon me, but I can't bring myself to mention the subject again. I am afraid she would kil lheirself. What must I do?—JIM.

ANSWER:

Brace up your backbone and quit. Do it in a hurry, or else some day you will find yourself marching up the church aisle with a girl who has simply bluffed you into marrying her.

And there will be no happiness in that for either one of you, because you will always be resentful of her having taken advantage of your weakness. If you are tired of her before you marry her she will bore you afterward until you take to drink and you will come to feel toward her as if she were your jailer. And she will be miserable because she will always know that you don't love her and didn't want to marry her. She will be so jealous of every woman you speak to that you don't dare to say "good morning" to your own grandmother.

No man makes a more asinine sacrifice than the one who marries a woman out of pity. Don't be afraid of her committing suicide. Ninety-nine chances out of a hundred she was just putting on an act when she said she would take poison and there was nothing more dangerous in what she swallowed than a little sugar and water.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a sophomore in college, taking a six years' course. A girl and I are deeply in love and are thinking about becoming engaged. Do you think our love for each other will last until I have graduated from college and have got a job? — CHARLIE.

ANSWER:

Not much adolescent love lasts that long and it will be better, both for you and the girl, to take an option on each other's hearts than to enter into a definite contract. By that I mean just keep on being good friends, sweethearts if you like, with the understanding that if you are still in love with each other seven or eight years hence you will get married. An engagement can be like a ball and chain about your feet and you will be the happier for being free of it.

DOROTHY DIX.

Readers writing Dorothy Dix are asked to enclose a self-addressed envelope and also a three-cent stamp.

...That practicability and simplicity is to be the keynote of feminine fashions this Spring, according to several fashion columnists.

...Frills and furbelows have been relegated to the background, and in their place will be substituted gowns designed on slimmer lines with great stress on pockets. The necklines will be moderate, the sleeves will no longer be padded, and long sleeves have once more come into their own.

...War conditions, through necessity for service and durability, have also had a great influence on the colors that will be worn during the next few months. Blues and greys will be popular, with Air Force blue the most in use. Various shades of orange and yellow will be featured for gala occasions.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, January 7

SUNDAY'S horoscope is an excellent one for all affairs of clerics and the church, as well as for all sorts of social, domestic and affectional activities. In other matters there is need for great vigilance and discretion, since there are signs of treacherous undermining, with sinister import. Beware of entanglements in underhanded affairs.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a favorable year in connection with work and serious matters, which are in line for recognition from elders and superiors. Strictly private interests thrive and give pleasure, but be alert to sinister legal entanglements and intrigues in business relations.

A child born on this day may be studious, industrious and practical, and may attract recognition and reward from its superiors. However, there are possibilities of its having an inherent tendency to being secretive and sordid in attaining its objectives. It maybe sly, crafty and tricky.

For Monday, January 8

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is not a very propitious one, holding threats of disruption, distress, inharmony and sudden upheaval, especially in the private relations — domestic, social or romantic. This may be due to ungoverned and impetuous conduct in which there is a tendency to "fly off the handle" with trivial provocation. Beware of tempest, accidents and litigation, also fire or theft.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which turmoil, disaster and disruption may be due to their own unrestrained passions, language and fiery indulgences. These, if allowed to dominate, will bring regrets, violence, accidents or litigation. Diverting such fiery forces and highly-stimulated energies into constructive channels should bring gain. Intimate relations are particularly menaced by want of control.

A child born on this day, while having great talents and abilities, with originality and initiative, may be a "fire-eater," squadering its assets unless given early discipline and direction.

An interesting wedding, one of the notable nuptial events of the winter season in Cleveland, Ohio, took place Saturday evening at 8.30, December 30, in St. Paul's Church of Cleveland Heights. The bride, Miss Edith Ely, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Prescott Ely, and a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Collings, formerly of Peterborough, and now of Cleveland. The bridegroom, Mr. Hermon Butler Pack is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude J. Peck.

The bride chose red velvet gowns for her bridesmaids. The frocks were very simply cut on princess lines with bustle backs and little sleeves and the girls wore small red velvet skull caps. Bouquets of white flowers in Colonial style, made an effective contrast with the dresses. Bridesmaids were Miss Cynthia Collings of Newport News, Va., cousin of the bride, Misses Marion Peck, Isabel Dempsey, Aileen Winslow, Priscilla Johnson and Mildred Cobb, all of Cleveland, and Barbara Thomas of New York. Miss Virginia Ely, younger sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a white velvet dress and cap and carrying red roses and carnations.

Mr. Claude J. Peck, Jr., was best man for his brother. Ushers were Messrs. Fayette Brown, Jr., of Ishpeming, Mich.; Paul Aubry of Yonkers, N.Y.; Alfred Freeman of Moylan, Pa.; George Urban of Buffalo; Thomas Green of Chicago, and Willard Brown, Ralph Perkins, Jr., Jacob B. Perkins, 11, Benjamin Taplin and Dustan Perkins of Cleveland.

As her own bridal costume, Miss Ely wore her mother's wedding gown of white satin with rose point lace around the v-neckline and cuffs.. A panel of old lace was arranged over her tulle veil and in her bouquet were lilies of the valley, gardenias and white roses, arranged in concentric circles.

St. Paul's Church is always specially decorated at this season with ropes of greenery and poinsettias, so the costumes of the bridal party fitted into the theme very beautifully. In addition, vases of white lilies were on the altar and there were many candles in the edifice. The Rev. Theodore H. Evans, the new rector of the church, officiated at the ceremony. After the ceremony the Elys gave a reception at their home in Shelburne Road, Shaker Heights. Gail Johnston's string ensemble played, and sandwiches, wine and wedding cake were served. Mrs. Ely was gowned in hydrangea blue velvet and Mrs. Peck, the bridegroom's mother, was in gray chiffon trimmed in gold sequins.

The maternal grandmothers of both the young couple were present at the wedding, Mrs. George E. Collings of Cleveland, who with Mr. Collings recently celebrated their 60th anniversary, and Mr. Hermon Butler of Chicago, for whose late husband the bridegroom is named.

For their wedding trip, Mr. Peck and his bride went to Woodstock, Vt., for skiing both being especially fond of all forms of winter sports. The youthful bride, a member of the Junior League and of Cleveland Skating Club, attended Branksome Hall School in Toronto and was graduated from Hathaway-Brown School. Mr. Peck was graduated from Hawken School, Hotchkiss School and Williams College in the class of 1937. He is now on the faculty of Carleton Park School for boys in Williamstown, Mass., where he and the bride will live.

Members of the bride's family have been coming to their residence, "Twin Pines," at Buckhorn Lake, for the past twenty-five years, and the bride herself has been a frequent visitor there. Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Dr. and Mrs. Norman Buchanan of Peterborough, Ont., and Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson of Chicago, who are also frequent visitors in the Kawartha Lakes district.

Cavan Societies Hold Joint Rally

CAVAN, Jan. 6 (ENS). — Mrs. James Douglas was hostess on Thursday afternoon for a well-attended meeting of the Cavan United Church W.A. and W.M.S. Mrs. D. J. Hunter, the president, presided for the W.A. period, Mrs. J. C. Swain conducted the devotional period. During the business session it was decided to have a pot-luck dinner at the annual meeting of the church which will be held about the middle of the month. Three ladies volunteered to be hostesses for dinners during the winter.

Mrs. Donald Tinney invited the ladies to hold their February meeting at her home. Mrs. Hunter gave a reading on the New Year, which Mrs. A. B. Kennedy appropriately completed by playing "Auld Lang Syne." Mrs. M. McCullough and Mrs. O. Carle also added to the New Year theme by their readings. Mrs. Kennedy contributed a solo.

W.M.S. Session.

Mrs. R. Matchett took the chair for the W.M.S. session. The roll-call was well answered by a verse on Consecration. It was decided that the roll-call topic for February would be "Service."

The reports of the different secretaries showed a good year's work, with financial receipts slightly increased. Mrs. D. J. Hunter, Christian Stewardship secretary, presented a chart appeal for talents [illegible] and possessions for Christ, [illegible]s. Honey and Mrs. Perrin gave good readings with reference to the New Year.

Mrs. Matchett gave an informative review of the second chapter of the study book dealing with the untouchables of India. There has been a great mass movement among the untouchables in response to the presentation of the Gospel by the missionaries and their strong appeal which has been quite alarming to the Hindus.

Mesdames Snider, Staples, and Syer were appointed a committee to compile a missionary scrap book for 1940. Mrs. A. B. Kennedy and Mrs. James Douglas from the W.A., and Mrs. Snider and Mrs. Hunter from the W.M.S. were appointed a Community Friendship Committee.

At the conclusion of the meeting afternoon tea was served by the W.A., for which a small fee was charged. There were thirty ladies present.

Convalescing After Sickness

After many severe illnesses, or serious operations, the patient is very often left in an extremely weak, nervous, run down and exhausted condition.

To all those convalescents who need some kind of a tonic to strengthen and build up the weakened system we would recommend Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills to assist them back to the full enjoyment of their previous robust health.

These Pills supply the very elements so necessary to build up the shattered nervous system, and bring back bodily strength and vigor.

City Council's Inaugural Set For Monday

The inaugural meeting of the city council will be held Monday morning at 11 o'clock, followed by a meeting in committee of the whole for the purpose of striking the standing committees for the year with their chairmen, and the first business session of the year in the evening at 7.30 o'clock.

The feature of the meeting in the morning will be an address by Mayor Hamilton in which he is expected to welcome the two new members, Aldermen-elect Fred L. Roy and W. G. Ovens, and present a preview of the course the council may follow during the year. It may be that His Worship may have some other topics of interest. Usually the inaugural is passed over by citizens, but those who have any intention of attending are reminded that the hour of convening is 11 o'clock.

No gossip has been heard about the distribution of the chairmanships, and an opinion may be forecast that changes are likely to be few. However, that is only conjecture. After heading the aldermanic polls with a substantial plurality, Alderman Cotton is likely to be retained as "finance minister." His relations with the treasury department have always been marked by harmony and efficiency, and there is every reason to expect that he will be willing to continue in that post.

Alderman Wilson for the Board of Works, and Alderman McIntyre for the Fire, Water and Light committee may be the new council's selections.

The two new members of last year, Alderman McCannan as chairman of the Property committee, and Alderman Bradburn as chairman of the Legal committee have both performed their duties well, and are probably in line to carry on if they wish to retain their positions.

The retirement of Alderman Glover has left a vacancy in the chairmanship of the Manufacturers committee. Two names have been mentioned, Aldermen Bradburn and Fred L. Roy, one of the two new members.

Two of the probabilities, almost certainties, are that Alderman Stocker will be re-appointed Parks chairman and Alderman Dutton, chairman of the Relief committee.

Alderman Gordon was head of the Legal committee two years ago, but in 1939 he preferred to let that job devolve to Alderman Bradburn. It may be his intention to follow the same course this year. In that event, and if Alderman Bradburn should be chairman of the Manufacturers committee, Aldermen Roy or Ovens would probably be asked to take the Legal committee.

The new council, however, may have other designs by the time they get together in committee Monday morning.

New York Uneasy Over Low Water Supply

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP) Whether they like it or not, New York City's 7,000,000-odd residents may have to cut down on the 130 gallons of water each uses every day—at a cost of about a penny a day apiece.

Drought that brought the dust bowl to the big city has left the metropolis faced with its most serious water shortage since the drinking supply was peddled in pails. City officials say use of water will have to be curtailed if there are no rains by spring.

The fresh water reserve is only half what it was one year ago, before an eight- months rain shortage began last May 1 and cost the eastern state farmers huge crop losses.

This emergency, ironical in a city surrounded on three sides by a body of water stretching 3,000 miles, has led worried Mayor F. H. LeGuardia to:

1. Ask all hotels to request their guests to go easy on the water.
2. Consider a house-to-house inspection of plumbing, with inspectors authorized to compel owners to repair leaky faucets.
3. Order the sanitation department to sweep, instead of flush, the streets clean.
4. Start a campaign by newspapers radio and subway placards to get the city's millions to cut down on water waste.
5. Hope for a heavy rain.

Driver Tossed From Automobile

Although Frank Sidwell, 184 Dalhousie street, local manager for the International Harvester Company was thrown out of the door of his automobile into the road he luckily escaped injury in a spectacular crash at the intersection of Dalhousie and Stewart streets Friday in which hundreds of dollars damage was done to the two cars involved.

Sidwell was driving west on Dalhousie street and at the intersection of Stewart street, his car and another automobile driven south on Stewart street by Joseph Sullivan, 540 Downie street, met in collision in the middle of the intersection. The impact caused the right hand door of Sidwell's car to open and the driver was tossed out on to the roadway. The force of the collision turned his machine to the left and it travelled 117 feet south on Stewart street, veering to the east side of the street, climbing the curb, crossing the sidewalk and coming to a stop near a telephone pole. Meanwhile the car driven by Sullivan shot to the southwest corner, went over the sidewalk and crashed into a fire hydrant.

According to the estimates given police, this latter car which was the property of Mrs. E. McKellar, 27 Nairn avenue, Toronto, was damaged to the extent of $500 while the damage to Sidwell's machine was placed at $250. Sullivan was unhurt.

Only 400 Of 9,000 License Plates Sold

Although the new 1940 markers and driving licenses have been on sale for over a month less than four hundred cars yet sport the new yellow plates. The 1939 plates are good until March 31st but the new 1940 markers expire on December 31st next.

Some 9,000 sets of plates are issued from the local office so it can be seen there is work ahead for the issuer, J. J. Dorris, and his staff. It would help considerably if those who can would purchase their plates and driving licenses as soon as possible and avoid the awful crush during the last month. Fully 75 per cent of all permits and licenses are issued during the last two weeks of grace and in an effort to avoid this rush and crowding this appeal is now made to you by the Department of Highways.

William English Is Installed Head Of Kiwanis

Bill English was installed in office as President of the Peterborough Kiwanis club for 1940, at a largely attended meeting in the Empress hotel Friday night. Isaac McNab, former occupant of the same chair who has been Lieutenant-Governor and International Trustee of Kiwanis and a former resident of Peterborough, conducted the ceremony of installation of all the officers for the coming year.

Mr. McNab lit the fuse to the 1940 term with an address keynote of which was the heavy duty that lay on all Kiwanis clubs during war years. He urged the men who came into office to do so with the determination to do their utmost for the club's good. Only then, he said, will each officer feel "that inward satisfaction that comes with earnest Kiwanis work."

Under despotic rule as in Germany and Russia, such a club as Kiwanis, with its tolerance, its work for the common man, would not be tolerated, he warned, stressing the necessity for Kiwanians to aid in Canada's war to their utmost. Only would such a club be tolerated in Germany or Russia if it were wholly subservient, he said; nor would free selection of its leaders, based on merit, be permissable.

Keep Clear Vision.

Because there are free institutions in this country, because in this land a man can rise to unbounded heights from the most lowly beginnings, it devolves upon the men of this land to fight their hardest in these times, he declared. He asked Kiwanians to do their utmost, and reminded them that while helping to patch up the mistakes of an imperfect society, they must always keep a clear vision of the perfect state before him.

Outlining the work accomplished in the past year, President Bill English paid high tribute to his predecessor, retiring President W. A. Richardson. He told of the success of the club's summer camp for underprivileged children, attended by 161 children, of the incorporation of Kiwanis, of the visit, sponsored by the club, of the Mendelssohn choir to Peterborough, and of the yearly Carnival's success. He saw Mr. Richardson as the most successful president the club had ever boasted.

Mr. Richardson expressed his satisfaction with the club's new officers, wished them every success in 1940. He paid tribute to his 1939 officers, without whose help the year would not have been a success, he said.

Mr. Richardson recalled the death of John I. Allen, active member in the club, and singled him out for high praise. "We owe a deep debt of gratitude to him," he said.

"No one has done such satisfactory work in any office he has undertaken in Kiwanis as has Jack McKone," he said.

Officers Installed.

President English was introduced to the installing officer by Lieutenant-Governor McKone, and retiring president Richardson pinned on him his badge of office. Dr. J. J. Craig introduced vice-presidents John Troke and Lawrie Mitchell and Carl Browne introduced Mr. Richardson, who was installed as past president, veteran treasurer Tom Mark was introduced by Dr. C. B. Waite, and secretary McKone by Cliff Hall. The club's board of directors, Gordon Miller, Archie Gates, G. K. Fraser, Wilf Wolfe, Bill Derry, Herb Cranford and Bill Ovens, were introduced by Charles Saunders. In installing the officers, Mr. McNab urged them to have faith in their club and in their country. Only through supreme faith will this land come victorious from its just struggle, he maintained.

Kiwanians chose one of their favourite soloists, Miss Isobel Duthie, to sing for them at the special meeting, which was attended by the wives of the members. Miss Duthie was accompanied by Mrs. Olive Searles. A new guest entertainer to the club was Marjorie Ferguson, who gave readings, accompanied by Mrs. Searles at the piano.

Joke Explodes In Face Of Author Who Went On Hunting Expedition Into Otonabee

The story of a joke that exploded in the face of its author comes to light. It concerns a hunting trip into Otonabee a few days ago by a party of three Peterborough sportsmen who hied themselves out into the great open spaces with the ambition to get a shot or two at a fox or possibly a rabbit. Everywhere they went they found themselves confronted with "No Hunting" signs and finally one of the party who knew an Otonabee farmer proposed that he should go in and endeavor to secure permission to hunt on his property.

The farmer was a good fellow and he agreed, but he asked his friend to do him a favor in exchange. He had an old horse that had to be killed and he himself was reluctant to execute the faithful animal. Accordingly he proposed that the hunters should take over the task for him and he told just where the horse was to be found.

The hunter returned to his friends, but did not tell them of the arrangement that had been made.

The hunters three circulated around the farmer's property for hours, but game was scarce. They failed to sight anything to shoot at and finally gave up in disgust. As they were making their way out to the road they came to the field in which was the old horse and the hunter who had made the negotiations suddenly announced that he wasn't going home without a shot at something, and he might as well draw a bead on the horse. His startled companions tried to persuade him not to do anything so rash as that, but he paid no attention to their advice. Instead he walked close to the horse, took careful aim and fired. Down went the poor old steed, and right there the joke backfired.

The other two hunters dashed for the road, climbed into the car and excitedly drove off, leaving their companion to walk home.

Rangers Called To Parade Tuesday Night

With a spirit of comradeship that has come through many an hour's hard work together, officers and men of the Prince of Wales Rangers are preparing to get into training once again after a holiday season lay-off.

First parade of 1940 is scheduled for Tuesday night when every last man will be on the floor learning the tasks each has set himself in preparation for service of his country. There will be officers there who have set themselves the task of learning how to lead, how to achieve victory with minimum losses of men. And a big part of their job is to learn to know those men intimately, to know the capabilities of each. For when the Prince of Wales rangers are mobilized and see action in World War II., the men in training today will be in all probability the men the regiment will fall back on for special service, and they will be singled out for special consideration at time of promotions. Well it may be so, for they are going to be the men whose abilities their officers have learned in the preparation for war that is going on new.

There will be men on parade Tuesday night who have set for themselves probably the hardest task of all: the task of learning to obey an order without question, without rancour. For many a young Canadian schooled in individualism, this will be the hardest task. But it is a task which all have recognized and are willing to learn.

Special Course.

A night early—on Monday—there will be another group at the Armouries. These are the men who are taking a special course to equip themselves to be future leaders in the army. There are privates taking courses so that they may be corporals, corporals that they may be sergeants, sergeants that they may be commissioned officers. They take all Tuesday and Thursday night drills in addition to their studies, spend an average of four nights a week in army work besides any amount of studying at home. They tried examinations just before Christmas on the first part of their courses, but results are not known yet.

One of the most efficient, highly trained groups in all the Prince of Wales Rangers is the instructors' class that steps across the parade floor each Tuesday and Thursday night while the rest of the unit is listening to lectures. With precision that rivals that of goose-stepping news reel soldiers, they are aiming at even greater proficiency in their weekly drill. For they are the men under whose direction the men of the regiment are actually trained in army drill. Another may come after and give the order that will see that drill put into action, but greatest credit for the manner in which the order is obeyed is due to instructors.

On Tuesday night these hundreds of Peterborough and district young men will start once more to prepare themselves for Canada's service. They will probably be joined by others for recruiting is to be carried on each Tuesday and Thursday night throughout the winter months. All enlistments are to be, as in the past, on a non-permanent basis.

Receives Souvenir Of Royal Visit

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., has received a most interesting souvenir of the Royal Tour of Canada in the form of a copy of the very elaborate itinerary prepared by the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways for the benefit of Their Majesties, and the members of their entourage. This book, containing scores of fine photographs and a large amount of well-written historical data in regard to all the places visited by the King and Queen, was published in order that Their Majesties and the party accompanying them would understand and enjoy more fully the various sections of Canada. The foreword of the booklet points out that "the itinerary of the Royal tour walks hand in hand with almost everything that has gone to make the Canadian story" and that point has not been lost sight of in preparing the wealth of information made available for the Royal visitors.

Otonabee Contest Was Cleanly Fought

Harry Reid, of Otonabee, defeated for the reeveship of the township on Monday, is apparently the quality of candidate to come through a reverse without embitterment. He told the Examiner Friday afternoon he had nothing but the kindliest feelings for Reeve W. A. Anderson.

"Billy Anderson and I always got along together, and we will be just as friendly in the future as we were in the past," Mr. Reid said. "It was a clean contest and one simply has to accept the decision of the ratepayers, and let it go at that. The contest hasn't affected the relations between Mr. Anderson and myself, and I think that is the way it should be. I have the best of wishes for the new council of Otonabee, but I feel that I am out of a job now, for no matter what you say about municipal work you somehow get attached to it."

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 6— (AP — William Powell, 47, suave and debonair film star, and Diana Lewis, 21, auburn-haired actress, were married yesterday beneath a bower of flowers on a Nevada dude ranch, climaxing a three weeks' romance.

Hollywood heard the news with open-mouthed surprise. Few knew they were acquainted and almost none suspected their friendship was more than casual.

Since Powell's well-publicized romance with the late Jean Harlow—they were engaged when she died—he had consistently sidestepped such attachments. He returned to the screen only recently after a year's serious illness.

Best known for his dapper detective roles—such as "The Thin Man" series— —he had been married twice before, the last time to Actress Carole Lombard, now Mrs. Clark Gable. He has been in pictures for nearly twenty years.

In contrast, his bride is a rising young starlet. She has appeared in a few films, notably "She Couldn't Say No," and will return Monday to take the feminine lead in "Forty Little Mothers."

The couple chose a ranch at Warm Springs, near Las Vegas, Nev., for the ceremony. They drove there yesterday morning from Palm Springs, after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lewis of Asbury Park, N.J., veterans of vaudeville.

En route their car broke down on the desert near Baker, Cal., and they completed the journey in a rented machine, arriving about noon.

An hour and a half later, in the tree-shaded ranch yard, they were married by Justice of the Peace B. D. Hickman of Overton, Nev.

Millbrook Car Found In Barrie

MILLBROOK, Jan. 6—(ENS). — Police today brought from Barrie a large car that had been stolen from the garage of its owner, G. M. MacPherson, in Millbrook on Wednesday night. No arrest had been made up to this morning, but one is expected shortly.

Police recovered the car from a side street in Barrie after a man was seen to park it there and walk away. A good description of him was obtained. The car was damaged to some extent.

Car Thieves

MONTREAL, Jan. 6—(CP) —Arrested in connection with the theft of three automobiles from Brantford and Chesterville, Ont., a 16-year-old schoolgirl and her 19-year-old male companion were held today by Lachine, Que., police pending the arrival of Ontario Provincial police.

Lachine officers said they were seeking a third member of the party who, they said, they believed was armed. Names of the suspects were not disclosed.

Dublin, Eire, has banned street meetings.

With one Canadian division already in England, Red Cross workers in Peterborough have come to the full realization that the work they have been doing for soldiers is of vital importance. This winter they are looking for a greatly increased attendance at their knitting and sewing classes in the Public Library.

An appeal to Peterborough women for attendance at these classes now that the holiday season is over was made by the Red Cross society today. Officials said that there is no limit to the work to be done now that Canadian boys are actually across tha ocean. By the time they are on the battlefront there is going to be a severe shortage of equipment unless women respond to the call of patriotism with eagerness this winter.

The workroom is open once more after a Christmas lay-off and attendance so far has been small. Red Cross officials feel that the attendance will pick up quickly now that all holiday work in homes throughout the city has been completed. The room is open every Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from two to five in the afternoon and on Tuesdays and Thursdays from seven to nine. The wool room, where home knitters may secure a supply of war wool, is open each Friday from two to five and the supply of wool has been greatly increased.

An appeal for use of sewing machines in the work room was also made. The room is shy a few machines and Red Cross workers asked that any person having one not in use communicate with Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner or Mrs. R. H Turner.

Madoc Outfit Beaten 9-6 By Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 6 (ENS) —The Campbellford Sunocos opened the 1940 hockey season by taking their first home game from Madoc by a 9 to 6 score here on Friday night. Over four hundred fans were on hand to watch the locals in their first exhibition of the season and if they were disappointed it was probably because there were too many penalties during the evening. The referees, E. Ennis and J. Watson handed out 19 penalties, ten of which came in the second period when Hendy and Cooey were given the only majors of the evening for being too rough.

Wide Open Game

It was a wide open game which threatened at several stages to develop into shinny. Most of the scoring was done on solo efforts rather than combination playing in which both teams left much to be desired. It was not until the final frame that the locals apparently took Manager Ferry's word for it that combination was what they needed and as a result tallied three times with Hendy figuring on all and Robinson and Blake on the others.

On the play for the evening Robinson stood out as star for the homesters figuring on five of their goals and played a clean game taking advantage of the breaks in the same manner which won him the applause of the fans last year. Hendy who starred at the team's opening victory in Norwood was one of the fastest men on the ice but with six penalties for the evening including one major his effectiveness was minimized. He did his best work in the final stanza and except for the time he spent in the cooler played practically the entire game alternating on defense and forward line. Ernie Wilkes was another member of the Sunocos line who gave a good performance and despite the fact that he didn't actually figure in the scoring played a consistently good game in his position on the defense breaking away several times to test Martin with hard shots.

By CEC PERDUE

It was two in a row for the local junior "B" Colts in as many starts when they 8-3'd the Cobourg kids here last night. Only a fairish sort of crowd turned out for the number—the fans evidently remembering the junior squad of the last few years, and waiting till this gang won a few games before getting excited. Well, the lads don't look bad for so early in the season, folks, and we believe you'll like 'em a lot before spring, tra la, rolls around. They're far from being a smooth squad as yet—maybe two or three miles off—but they've got possibilities, if the puckists will stick to their workouts and absorb what they're taught. We wouldn't be surprised if the Colts looked pretty classy in another month.

* * * * * *

For two periods, the local juniors went pretty fair, but they were outplayed a trifle in the third. They clearly earned their 8-3 win—on top of their 9-1 victory in Port Hope—which should mean something. On the other hand, we're told that the Cobourg crew which held Oshawa to a 4-2 score had a four-star goalie, who has since graduated to intermediate company, so that might mean the difference of several goals. The Colts still have to worry about Oshawa and Lindsay. Their path is by no means strewn with roses in their own group—and they may never get out of this group. But we have a hunch they will, and that they'll go a piece after that.

* * * * * *

A Long, Long Time

The game was a fair exhibition, but was so long delayed in the first frame that it took the pep out of things. Goalie Bolderstone got a cut over the eye and had to go into drydock for repairs. He was just nicely back when Goalie Cournyea of the Colts got a cut behind the ear and that took some doctoring up, too. He finished the game, while Bolderstone gave way in the third to a juvenile named Cain, who did fine. There was also a fight, four players drawing majors—but the police were on deck and no half-witted fans (as in Port Hope) had a chance to hop in. The Colts are a bit inclined to fight, rather than play hard rugged hockey and let it go at that—and penalties will hurt plenty in a tight tilt.

* * * * * *

It was 4-0 in the first for the free-wheeling young Petes and they certainly looked smart. And again in the second they had a 3-1 margin and earned every bit of it. But they busted up like a thin sheet of ice in a thaw during the third chukker as the gallant visitors put on the pressure to outscore 'em. The local boys didn't know what day it was at times during the third, but their early margin gave 'em a big advantage. They're coming along pretty fair and, after Tuesday's tussle here with the strong Lindsay squad, ought to be clicking shortly. We hope they don't have an off night against those big Midgets early in the week.

They Were The Pick

As for stars on the Colts' outfit, we dunno. Possibly, we should hand the duke to Nels Foster, Bob Parnell, Sid Craig and Julian Wade. They were about the pick of the young Petes this time. The goalie kicked out a flock, too, and the defence worked well till the third. Both forward lines clicked in good style, though the starting line didn't go as well as against the Port Hopers. Maher, Coogan, Parkinson and Cain were the best of the visitors. It was a fast fray most of the route, with some good hockey shown here and there—and we believe these junior "B" lads in their six-team setup will provide a lot of fine puck play for fans yet this winter.

* * * * * *

P.C.I. basketeers got off to a fine start down Port Hope way last gloaming, taking a triple-header to open their C.O.S.S.A. schedule. Senior boys machine-gunned the rival basket for a 50-9 victory, as the junior lads grabbed off a 23-6 smirk, and the senior gals from this centre managed to put the clamp on a narrow 21-19 nod. That last was a lulu all the way—surely you've met Lulu, haven't ya?—while the junior joust was fair for a spell, but the P.C.I.-ers changed oil after a time and won the spelling match handily. The senior birds just whistled their way through. Only one game here next Friday, Oshawa senior boys coming up this way.

It's Most Upsetting

Scores were reversed somewhat at the Y.W. gym last p.m. as the girl cagers held forth—or anyway third, with three scheduled melees. Aces pulled a dipsy-do on St. John's for a neat 23-15 decision, the young Westclox lasses kept a-comin' with an 11-10 squeak o'er the Debs, and the classy Orfuns got sweet revenge on the "Y" Gym dandies with a 31-10 hosing. It's a pretty warm race as the second section of the schedule gets going, and the fair hoopsters are enjoying keen competition and the fans are getting plenty of action down at the Simcoe St. coliseum weekly.

* * * * * *

Let's take a quick slant at other puck tussles which may affect the local ice picture. Down in Bella Villa, the Trenton Fliers zoomed over the Thomas domicile and carried out a successful reconnaisance flight to bring home a 6-3 win. In an O.H.A. intermediate "A" game, which relegates the Crimson Wave of Greater Belleville to the cellar and puts the Airmen in a tie with the Petes, Lindsay Midgets took a 5-2 junior "B" win from Port Hope in Scugogville in a hectic fray which saw 15 penalties. Those scrappy Hopers like to play bank shots off the side-walls with opponents. Up in Sutton, the Lakefield intermediate Bees absorbed a 12-7 reverse, as the Lakefield-Oshawa junior tangle was postponed. And the other e'en, the Lindsay 45th Battery forced Omemee Black Hawks to go all the way out ere taking a 5-4 nod.

* * * * * *

Up and Down Sports' Rialto: Owen Sound squad — where Red Creighton plays—won 8-0 from Camp Borden last eve....Sid Craig has been elected captain of the Colts this season by his buddies....The referee at last night's game here was Hoot Gibson of Cobourg, former starry senior twirler....The Petes, not yet convinced that they can't beat Oshawa Generals, may arrange another home-and-home exhibition series this winter...."Tis said the Generals would welcome it, too, as both teams have a fine workout since they're so well-matched. On Tuesday night, Lindsay junior are here, while Friday p.m. sees Trenton Fliers mixing with the Petes at the Brock....Next Tuesday, Oakwood intermediates open in Lakefield; and the Lakefield juniors trek to Cobourg on Monday ....Church hockey Monday: St. John's vs. Knox bantams at six, Mark St. vs. Trinity juveniles at seven, All Saints vs. George St. Juniors at eight, and George St. vs. St. James Seniors at nine....Somebody put the clutch on a puck which went into the crowd last night up on the Rue Brock....And that seems to cover the situation this chilly morn....It's au revoir but not goodbye.

Curler Ready To Go

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 6 (ENS) —Local curlers will go into action next Monday evening when a schedule of games for the year will be drawn up. There are about forty signed up to play this season according to Secretary-Treasurer P. J. Kelly and much interest is being shown in the game this year particularly in view of the fact there hasn't been any curling since 1936-37.

Two sheets of ice will be available for the players in the rink owned by T. E. Hall on Ranney street. It is planned to hold the first draw at seven each evening and the second at 9 o'clock. Officers for the season are: President, C. W. Palliser; vice-president, John Gay; secretary treasurer, P. J. Kelly; committee, L. B. Glover, W. S. Wiggins, Jim Gay, M. C. West, Bud Davidson, P. J. Sarginson.

Frozen In

He fell into Lake Michigan, breaking through thin ice. After pulling himself out he put his hands in the pockets to keep him warm. The temperature was near zero.

Police had to make generous slices in Jack's trousers to free his hands. They were frozen fast.

Imperials Expect Call

TORONTO, Jan. 6—(CP)—About 200 former officers of the Imperial Army now resident in the Toronto area expect a call soon from the war office.

F. Stoley, vice-president of the Imperial Officers' Association, said today that there have been recent communications with the war office and "we expect to be called soon and hope so, too."

Westclox Wins Girls' Tilt As Saints Lose

Quaker Aces trounced St. John's 23-15, Westclox nosed out an 11-10 win over Quaker Debs and Orfuns avenged their previous loss by lacing 'Y' Gym 31-0 in the opening games of the second round of the Ladies' Senior City League at the Y.W. last night. Standing including last night's games follows:

	Won	Lost
Orfuns	5	1
'Y' Gym	4	2
Quaker Aces	3	3
Westclox	3	3
St. John's	2	4
Quaker Debs	1	5

Quaker Aces built up a 10-3 lead at half time which despite the loser's rally in the last half was enough to carry them to a victory. The winners took the lead at the start and with much better shooting and superior defensive play were well in front of St. John's from then on, despite the fact that the loser's were out-scored by but one point in the last period 13-12. The Aces made but one free throw in three attempts while St. John's notched three in three from the free throw line. H. Rutter was high scorer and the offensive star for the winners with 12 points and E. Gynane and A. Bowler each had six for St. John's. The teams:

St. John's—A. Bowler, E. Harte-Maxwell, E. Clarke, H. Harte-Maxwell, T. Laws, E. Gynane, D. Groombridge, E. Foster, H. Douglas, F. Gynane.

Referee—W. Thirnbeck. Umpire — H. Smith.

A Close Fit

Westclox gained a 6-5 margin in the first half that was barely enough to enable them to squeeze out a win over Quaker Debs as the teams battled to a 5-all tie in the second period. It was the third win in their last four starts for Westclox who have climbed to a third place tie after losing their first two games. Both teams played defensive rather than offensive basketball with each missing plenty of scoring chances with bad shooting. Westclox had a slight edge in this department but the score could have been changed either way easily. A Flynn and D. Gibbs were high scorers, each getting 4 points. The teams:

Quaker Debs: H. White, R. Farr, B. Frizzelle, D. Gibbs, B. Fenner, J. Metcalfe, G. Allen, H. Grant, A. Laing, D. Smith.

Referee—H. McDonald. Umpire—H. Smith.

Orfuns avenged their previous setback by trouncing 'Y' Gym, piling it up in the second half after gaining an 11-6 margin at the half. The Orfuns moved into undisputed possession of first place a full game ahead of the losers. 'Y' Gym held the winners to an 11-6 margin in the first half but the winners cut loose in the second, running in baskets with little or no response from the 'Y' team. The Orfuns had much better shooting around the basket and scored mostly from close in. A. Craig and B. Blade lead the winners and R. Dalliday topped 'Y' Gym with six points. The teams:

Orfuns: A. Livingstone, M. Ferguson, G. Mortimer, D. Ackford, B. Blade, M. Clark, M. Wood, A. Craig.

Y. Gym—R. Dalliday, B. DeMaio, R. Sullivan, S. Florence, L. Wesley, F. Craig, S. Zacks, I. Young, S. Zakos, B. Pomeroy.

Referee—W. Thirnbeck. Umpire—K. Gillespie.

Five Teams Are Showing Promise In West

WINNIPEG, Jan. 6—(CP)— Five teams have stepped into the limelight of Western Canada's senior hockey picture.

Despite a late start, Port Arthur Bear Cats show promise of giving a real battle in an effort to retain the Allan Cup. The team has been victorious in its two starts so far and appears to have its coaching difficulties settled.

Further west the teams giving the best account of themselves so far are Trail Smoke Eaters, Allan Cup winners in 1938, Calgary Stampeders, Regina Vic-Aces and Saskatoon Quakers.

Last year Port Arthur was piloted by Jazzy Manahan, a veteran Lakehead player who resigned just before this season's schedule started. Hugh O'Leary, who succeeded him, found the pressure of acting as playing-coach too great and resigned his coaching position last night.

Phat Wilson, star defenceman of three of Port Arthur's four Allan Cup teams, was appointed to succeed O'Leary. Wilson coached the Ports once before — in 1929 when they won their third Allan Cup.

Trail Sets Hot Pace

Trail Smoke Eaters, winners of the world amateur championship in Europe last winter, have been setting a hot pace in the West Kootenay league with 10 wins in 13 games. Nelson Maple Leafs, holders of second place, have won seven of 12.

Calgary Stampeders have held the lead in the Alberta League since early season and now have a three-point edge over Turner Valley Oilers and four over Edmonton Flyers.

Regina Vic-Aces have clung to the league lead in Saskatchewan since the start of the season, but Saskatoon Quakers have been right on their heels all the way. Quakers now are trailing by a single point. Each team has played 12 games.

Only five games have been played in the Thunder Bay League. Port Arthur defeated Fort William in its two games while Geraldton won two and lost one in games with Fort William.

Tiger Rookie Sizes Up The Baseball Game You're Either There Or You're Not He Says

SEATTLE, WASH., Jan. 6 (AP)— Freddie Hutchinson, 1939's publicized major league rookie pitcher who likes his base hits as well as his shutouts, isn't worrying about the 1940 Baseball campaign.

The 30-year-old Detroit Tiger right-hander sizes it up this way:— "If you've got it, you've got it. If you haven't, well, that's that."

Sold to the Tigers by Seattle of the Pacific Coast League for a reported $80,000 in cash and players, the young pitcher was under tremendous pressure from the time he went to training camp last spring.

He didn't fare so well in his training trials and he was benched during the early weeks. Finally, he was sent in while Detroit was taking a lacing from Yankee bats. The Yanks had a hot streak and Hutch couldn't cool it. He was sent first to the showers and—within two days—to Toledo, tail-end club of the American Association.

In late season he was recalled and won three and lost six with Detroit. He denies stories the Tigers tried to change his pitching style.

"If anybody changed it, it must have been myself. Nobody else did. When you're right the plate looks so close you can reach right out and touch it. When you're off, it looks the size of a dime and a block away. But control isn't everything, you've got to have your stuff too."

"We'll Beat Poppa, Eh Boy?"

We don't know what happened to all the "first" horses, but all Argentine steeds seem to be "seconds." Shown here is Lin Howard, son of C. S. Howard, owner of Seabiscuit and Kayak II., with his own horse, Ra II., with whom he hopes to dash father's hopes in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap in March Lin was the original owner of Kayak, along with another "II. horse," Comet II., giving his father choice of Kayak or Comet. Howard, Sr., apparently is a wise chooser. Mary is the mascot seen in this group.

Glencoe's 48-Year-Old Veteran Hockey Star Began Game In 1908 And Is Still Playing

GLENCOE, Jan. 6 (CP)—Arthur Davenport, or "Dit" as he is more familiarly known to his numerous friends, Glencoe's 48-year-old veteran hockey star, has been a prominent figure in hockey circles ever since the year 1908 when he used to skate rings around all comers in the Junior Hockey League games.

He is a son of the late Harry Davenport, the spectular drum-major of the old Twenty-Sixth Regiment Band, at Glencoe, and later, of the Glencoe Brass Band. Art is a baker and confectioner by trade.

The first hockey game ever played in Glencoe was on the old curling rink just over forty years ago, at which time Strathroy defeated Glencoe 11 to 1, and although Art was not playing hockey at that time, he was already known as a "tough little guy" on the ice. Oldtimers of the curling club state that even from earliest years, Art was a real skater and as slippery as an eel on ice. He spent all his time at the rink, and attendants couldn't keep him off the ice.

In the winter of 1913-14 Art played senior hockey with Sarnia, along with such players as Reg. Noble and Bill Phillips, ex-National Leaguers. And, he is the only one of the group still remaining in hockey as a player. In 191617, he played for the 149th Battalion (Lambton), and in 1917-18 he played for London's O.H.A. team.

Throughout the years the Glencoe team has always proved a big drawing card, filling the rink at any place visited, and Art has always a large gallery of fans eagerly watching for his latest trick in hockey. His record of more than thirty years in hockey, and still going strong, is one to be envied.

Lindsay Game Is Hectic

LINDSAY, Jan. 6 — (Special). — Lindsay Midgets retained their lead in the O.H.A. Junior B Lakeshore group by taking a 5-2 decision over Port Hope last night in the most hectic hockey game seen in this town in several years. A total of fifteen penalties were handed out, including six majors.

Port Hope's two goals were scored with each team playing three men. McDonald, new Midget player, made his debut in junior hockey with two scoring points and two major penalties.

Sales of automobiles in Australia dropped so markedly that dealers decided not to sell 1940 models until 1940.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

The practice games that some of the boys held this week are now beginning to show, and judging by the scores handed in last night, the rinks are not going down to defeat without a struggle.

All the games were well contested and in the majority of games the interest hung on right until the last end. Maybe the most sensational finish was the Matthews-White game; White down one going home, pulled a nice three to nose out Gord. Matthews by two shots. Honney White is one of the new 1940 skips.

We expect to have a big crowd out tonight. It will be the first mixed bonspiel of the season. The ladies' committee of Miss M. Patterson and Mrs. E. Metcalfe is working hard to put this 'spiel across—7.30 p.m. is the hour.

Next week on Tuesday evening we will commence the double headers. These are necessary to hurry along the schedule and to make room for other games. We are asked to remind the skips to have their rinks out on time, 7 p.m. or 9 p.m., as the case maybe.

Scores:

T. Mackay, 9; G. Robertson, 7.
R. Downey, 16; M. Cruthers, 9.
C. Giroux, 12; W. Oke, 10.
M. Comstock, 12; A. Kay, 9.
H. White, 14; G. Matthews, 12.
F. Batten, 14; V. Currie, 4.

Beat Port Hope Three Tilts As Group Starts

Three P. C. I. teams opened their respective basketball schedules by sweeping a triple-header from Port Hope High School in the Lakeshore town, last night the junior boys winning handily 23-6, with the senior girls barely nosing out P. H. H. S. 21-19, and the P. C. I. senior boys completely trouncing the homesters 50-9 in Lakeshore League schedule tilts.

Neither the senior or junior boys experienced much trouble, although the juniors didn't get going till the last half, but the senior girl's barely squeezed out a win in a nip-and-tuck battle.

P. C. I.'s junior boys were slow starting and barely hung on to a 5-point margin at the half, leading 8-3 but from then on they began to go and were going away at the finish. Near the first the winner's shooting was away off and they missed numerous scoring chances, but their defense was far in advance of the homesters. Port Hope scoring but two field goals throughout the game. Garnet and Grey was guilty of 14 fouls, two players being waved with four and Port Hope had 12. The winners making 5 tries and Port Hope only 2 in 15 chances. Gillespie and Rogow were best for the winners and Guy and Martyn were the pick of the homesters.

P.C.V.S. — (23) — Centre, Hall (5); forwards, Gillespie (6), Lacheur (6); guards, Rogow (2), Moorhead (4); subs, Saunders, Richardson, Gardiner, Ferguson.

P. H. H. S.—(6)—Centre, Bongard (1); forwards, White, Guy(2); guards, Martyn (2), Hodgson (1); subs, Cotter, Trott, Staples, Smith, Minaker, Hodgert.

Close Contest.

The senior girl's chalked up the second victory for P. C. I. barely squeezing out a 21-19 victory after leading by 1 point at the half 9-8. It was close all the way with the lead zigzagging all through the game, P. C. I. barely managing to hold on at the finish. Both teams played fair basketball in spots but missed numerous good scoring chance from in close, spoiling good passing plays time after time with poor shooting. One player on each team shared the scoring spotlight, with E. Saunders getting 15 points for P.C.I. and M. Kearns accounting for 13 for Port Hope. E. Craig and G. Brundwood also turned in good games. The teams:—

P. C. V. S.—(21)—B. Cooper, J. Johnston, E. Saunders, G. Galley, E. Craig, F. Merrett, A. Richardson, D. Bateson, H. Beatty, D. Glover.

P.H.H.S — (19) — M Kearns, G Brandwood, B. Stalter, G. Hodson, K. O'Connor, C. Stalter, B. Colter, F. Jex, A. Smith, M. Doney.

Referee: A. Armstrong. Umpire, I. Wray.

The Garnet and Grey senior boys started the season in great style, completely trimming Port Hope's senior entry, 50-9, piling up a 20-3 margin at half time and then running in thirty more points in the final half. P. C. I. out-passed, out-checked and completely out-shot Port Hope celarly to earn their victory and looked good in doing it. The homesters with their first senior boy's team in some years battled hard all the way but were never in it after the first few minutes. Moorhead lead the victors with 22 points in a nice showing with Clarke and Johnston also standing out. Austin was the pick of the losers with 6 points and Dayman and Brown also were prominent The teams:—

LOCAL COLTS CAPTURE JUNIOR VICTORY OVER COBOURG SQUAD

Goodyears Trim St. Kitts 8-5 Avenge Defeats

Bob Eccleestone's Goodyears realized their pair of pre-game objectives last night in inflicting an 8-to-5 defeat on St. Catharines Saints at Maple Leaf Gardens:

1. They partially avenged three previous defeats at the hands of the surprising Saints.

2. They climbed back into a tie with their defeated foemen for first place in the somewhat-more-than-interesting O.H.A. senior race.

To accomplish these vital aims, though, the Tiremen had to really work overtime from Goalie Herbie Mortimer out. As 5,000 fans—4,431 pair and over 800 Shinny Club howlers—will attest, those Saints were mighty tough hombres to subdue. It took a third period scoring flurry, which netted four goals in the first seven minutes, three within the amazing space of twentythree seconds, to shove the Tiremen out of the claws of danger and into an insurmountable margin. Even then the Garden City gamecocks wouldn't say quit. They hit back with three markers before the Toronto team gleaned the clinching goal in the final minute.

Came From Behind Twice.

Goodyears had to come from behind twice in the first period to wind up on an even basis with their formidable foes. The fact the Men of Powers killed off three penalties to one for the Saints is fitting evidence of just how hot the Tire Troop was last night. The Saints gleaned their first goal when Drummond was preparing to return to action after drawing a penalty in the first minute.

Murray Ezeard, the lean and lithe left-winger of the second line, was another major reason why the Tiremen came out of that scrappy first period on a level footing. Ezeard, who topped the Goodyear marksmen with three goals, scored twice on relays from Paul Mundrick to obliterate leads gained for St. Catharines by first Boyd and then Mocha.

Fred Apostoli Beats Bettina

NEW YORK, Jan. 6—(AP)—Fred Apostoli, heavier and slower than he used to be, but a more deadly puncher, was back in pugilism's top drawer today, a menace to the 175-pound division.

The San Francisco star, knocked loose from his middle-weight crown by Cenerino Garcia and widely regarded as "washed-up" returned to Madison Square Garden last night to win a gruelling 12-round decision over Mello Bettina of Beacon, N.Y., former light-heavy king.

It was so close that a big portion of the crowd of 5,707 roundly hooted the verdict. The referee and one judge voted for Apostoli. The other judge gave Bettina the nod, while the Associated Press score sheets had them dead-even.

Toward the last both fighters were almost too tired to lift their sodden gloves. Blood flowed from a deep cut on Bettina's lip, smearing the exhausted pair with crimson. It was a brutal fight.

Bettina, the southpaw knocked Apostoli down in each of the first three rounds for counts of nothing, eight and nine. Apostoli, throwing his right like a sledge-hammer, half knocked, half-pushed Bettina down for nine in the 10th chapter. Neither ever looked like staying on the floor.

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

DIZ DESILETS
Chicago Black Hawks

(By Central Press Canadian)

Most dangerous player on the attack for Chicago Black Hawks last season, not counting Johnny Gottselig, who's made a habit of taking top team honors, was Diz Desilets, who posted 11 goals and 13 assists for the Stewart-Thompson team in his first season of play in Chicago. His major league puck career had begun in 1935-36 when he saw some service with Canadiens and some in the minors, and through the next two season he was Canadiens' property until traded to the Hawks in the summer of 1936 for Louis Trudel. The deal proved to be one of those that turn out fine for both teams. Diz is 24 years old and was born at Stratford, Ont. Played junior in his home town and senior in the Maritimes before hitching his hockey wagon to the financial star with the Flying Frenchman. Medium sized player, weighing around 170 pounds. Plays right wing. Joffre Wilfrid is the name he was given before hockey companions dubbed him Diz. Last year, needless to say, was his best, and during his short career, spent only partially in the N.H.L., where it appears he will be a fixture for some time, he has counted 31 goals, received credit for 38 assists and sat out 51 minutes for rule infractions.

Young Petes Take 8-3 Decision Over Scrappy Visitors In Fair Junior "B" Exhibition

The Peterborough Colts made it two in a row in as many starts here last night when they racked up an 8-3 score against Cobourg before a fair sized crowd of fans. It was a fair game of hockey—of the junior "B" variety—but was held up too long in the first period when both goalies had to retire for repairs.

Aside from the goalies' injuries — both cuts on the head—there was no particular feature to the game, aside possibly from a fist fight among players in the second period. Four players were given major penalties, and police stepped on the ice to prevent further hostilities as a possible free-for-all among players threatened.

The local Colts had too much beef and speed for the gallant visitors and clearly earned a margin the first two periods. The Lakeshore lads pressed in the third and easily their own in that heat. It was 4-0 for the homsters in the first stanza and 7-1 for them going into the third. Play was fast and fairly clean throughout with some good hockey shown in spots for so early in the season—though it was disorganized at times, too.

All Went Good.

The Colts' goalie went good and his defence checked effectively while both forward lines worked well going both ways. Craig, Wade, Foster and Parnell were probably the outstanding players in this game for the Weir squad. Goalie Bolderstone gave way in the thir dperiod to G. Cain of Cobourg and the latter looked good. Others on the team who stood out were Maher, Coogan and Parkinson. The rest of the crowd worked hard, also.

Early in the first, Foster tallied a nice one in close from MacDonald, and Parnell came back within a minute to make it 2-0 alone. Cain made Cournyea jump and then Foster bulged the hemp again with Wade assisting. The Cobourgh goalie left hurt and the game was held up for 15 minutes. When play resumed, Pammett glanced an angle shot in off a skate and then Foster went of ffor interference. He returned and the local goalie had to go off for a time injured. Later Winters was penalized for knee-ing and Foster followed for charging just before the period finished.

Cobourg Scores.

Right at the start of the second stanza, Maher got in close and tallied for Cobourg on a neat effort but Parnell wormed his way through a minute later to balance it up with a hot shot. Wade countered again for the locals in a scramble in close, the passout coming off a Cobourg stick. Foster was gated for roughing and Maher followed for slashing. It was rugged in spots, with the Colts having an edge on play and then a fight broke out. Three different pairs tangled and two police officers came out on the ice to halt a general freefor-all. When order was restored by the referee, Foster, Coogan, Maher and Parnell were given major penalties. Just before the finish of the frame, Craig skated in fast to pick a corner and make it 7-1.

All players were back early in the third and play was faster and more even. The Colts appeared disorganized in this chapter and the battling Cobourgites played on at least equal terms throughout. They tore up time and again to test Cournyea, who thrust aside half a dozen close tries. In the other net, the new goalie was good and stopped the Petes on several close-in stabs. Parkinson got one for the visitors on Cain's pass on an angle shot and they kept pressing. W. Cain tore in alone to tally another, but Parnell weaved his way through alone to get that back shortly. Maher was chased for slashing but the Colts failed to capitalize on it. Barely a minute before the finish, the Cobourg goalie was taken out and six forwards used but in vain for the visitors.

The teams:

Cobourg: Goal, Bolderstone; defence, Wilkins and McMana; centre, Maher; wings, Coogan and Zealand; subs, W. Cain, Winters, Haynes, Parkinson, Cullen and G. Cain.

Referee, Hoot Gibson of Cobourg.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.— (AP). — Here's one we heard: If Francis Schmidt takes the Stanford job (and he can have it if he wants it) the No. 1 choice at Ohio State will be Clark Shaughnessy of Chicago .... L. W. St. John, Buckeye Athletic director, has been one of the quiet Irishman's greatest boosters for years.

Rodney Ross, athletic director, South High School, Columbus, says: "The ideal basketball team consists of two Jewish lads, two negroes and a good tough Irishman .... the negroes would do the dribbling, the Jewish fellows would shoot the baskets and the Irishman would take the ball off the opponents' banking board." Challedon is training nicely at Columbia, S. C., but it's still a question whether he'll go in the $50,000 Widener at Hialeah... Morand and Mack (remember the old vaudeville team?) will fight it out for the substitute first basing job wth the Reds next spring .... The baseball gossips say big hearted Bill Terry has offered the Bees Slick Castleman and Manuel Salvo for Buddy Hassett. Haw! Does he think this is April fool's day?

Mr. Nathan Moog of Augusta, Ga., is back from the Orange Bowl game with a bank roll that would choke a heifer .... All he did was call all seven bowl games correctly, even the Tempe Teachers-Catholic U. tie .... Furthermore, he backed his cheroes with folding money....Why doesn't the guy turn pro?

Tennis Star Returns To Native City

CALGARY, Jan. 6. — —(CP) Miss Jean Saunders, one of the top-ranking British Empire tennis players who recently returned to her native Calgary from England, hopes to play tennis in Alberta and possibly in other parts of the Dominon in the future.

She is living in Calgary with her mother and father after spending 18 years in England. During her career she has competed in almost every major tournament in Europe and has at some time or other defeated almost all the leading players.

At present Miss Saunders is hopeful of finding a suitable position so that she will be able to continue her tennis career in major Canadian tournaments.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:
FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.
NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.
ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby house.

CHAPTER EIGHT

That meant that Fabienne had a whole week, with a long week-end in between, to wait to see Dr. Mallory again.

It was a week that she could have lifted out of her life and put in a frame. For the first time in her life she experienced anticipation. It was something that stole over her sweetly at unexpected moments and possessed her utterly. In those moments all her senses were quickened. It was a physical thing that made her aware of the breath in her body, the acceleration of her pulse, the beating of her heart. It was something that laid a touch on her making her cheeks glow and her eyes soften. It was something that made her look long and critically into her mirror in an effort to see herself as he might have seen her.

"Arrogant! Completely impossible!" she said distastefully to the mirrored reflection.

It had never happened to her before. This wanting just to look at a man again, to hear his voice, to have him touch her.

In her 24 years she had met many men whom she had found attractive, but none like this man who could make her heart beat faster just by thinking of him.

She had met handsome men, heroes, princes, earls and millionaires, and claimed them for her own. She was admittedly the most popular girl in whatever crowd she moved. She had only to lift the telephone—or her eyes—to the man who attracted her and the conquest was hers. And once they were conquests, she was done with them. She was bored.

This man, she thought, would not bore her because he would not let her be his world. He had a world of his own and she wanted to know what it was—that vast world of medicine—and look into it with him.

She didn't say that to herself at the beginning of that week of waiting. No, she told herself that she was piqued because he was the only man she had ever met who had treated her as he did.

But the week went on.

She went to the movies one night with Ken Hemingway. They saw a picture in which the hero was a physician. Sitting there in the darkened theater with Ken, Fabienne saw, not the cinema actor, but Dr. Mallory. Her finger tips tingled and when they came out of the theater she called herself an idiot for going romantic on herself.

If she was going romantic, she was going it headlong, for she soon gave herself up to thinking about him when she was with others and wanting to be alone to think of him.

On the borderland of sleep she tried to recall his face and found that it was blurred. She had only a SENSE of it.

Once she caught herself on the verge of asking Miss Huxley about him. Where did he practice? Was he successful? With what hospital was he affiliated? But she dared not give herself away.

She had no interest that whole week outside of Willoughby house. She would cheerfully have stayed there for 16 hours a day. He might come in at any moment and she not be there to see him!

It was sheer idiocy. It was madness. It was terrible. It was wonderful.

She frowned upon her expensive drawing room in the hotel, envisioning him there in one of her chairs. She filled the room with flowers daily and debated getting some of Gertrude's things from the apartment rented to the Derwents. She bought a hostess gown the blue of the sky, with a flash of silver like the swoop of a gull's wing slashing the length of its floating skirt. She put it on and inspected it as if it were a wedding gown. Then she put it away to wait.

And she had conversations with herself, imagining herself talking to him, asking him about his work, telling him the truth about herself.

For with all this she was learning something about herself and why she had gone to Willoughby house.

"All right, Miss Seymour," she said to herself, "Granted that your motive was almost a spite motive going there to work. Deeper than that there might have been something more gold than brass. It was selfish, yes, but who am I to question my sub-conscious self?"

At that point in her monologue, Sue Achincloss rang up to ask her to play bridge. Fabienne was glad to accept.

It was only Wednesday and she had two more days to wait. She had never waited for anything in her life before. She'd always been able to fill in the rare lulls. ("Hello, Ned? . . . This is Fabienne Seymour . . . How sweet of you to remember me! I rang up to see if you'd come and have a cocktail with me and some other people tomorrow? . . . Good!") And waiting was all she could do.

Thursday, she said casually, "Is it Dr. Hopkins or Dr. Mallory who takes the afternoon clinic tomorrow?"

"Dr. Hopkins."

Fabienne's heart sank. Then she remembered that she was going to call an extra rehearsal for the children's play. She called it for six-thirty. She'd be there when he came.

She woke at seven in the morning. She had over an hour to dress. But she had never had anything to dress for as she had that day. She tried on the black crepe Gertrude had sent her from Paris a week before. Too ornate. She took it off and put on a pale blue woollen. Skirt too short. She dropped it on the floor for the maid to pick up. Her black velvet called for pearls and pearls in a settlement house were like tulle at a bridge party.

"Good morning. Lovely day isn't it?" she caroled to the doorman who told her her car was parked on Fifty-eighth street.

A policeman stopped her for going through a red light and hadn't the heart to scold her when she smiled so brightly at him.

Oh, it was wonderful to be going to Willoughby house. Good old Elihu Willoughby!

She parked the car with a flourish and went in to fill the day with work that would pass the hours until night.

The evening clinic opened at seven.

It was November and darkness fell early. Fabienne got up to draw the curtains at five o'clock, and he hand on the fabric was arrested and shook a trifle when the voice she had been waiting an interminable time to hear spoke from the door:

"Hello," he said.

"Hello," she said. That was all for a moment. Then: "Aren't you early?"

"Got a date," he said. He wore a trench coat over his tweeds and the bulk of him was tremendous. "Been keeping up the good work all week?"

She nodded. "And thinking up all the right answers," she said.

"I'll bet you could."

"Some time when you have time—" she started to say.

Then suddenly Ellen Chapman, dressed in her inexpensive fur coat and a dowdy little hat, was at the door, walking into the room, tucking her arm in Dr. Mallory's.

And Ellen was saying, "So you and Bill have met?"

BILL. This was Ellen's Bill!

Fabienne's lips felt stiff. She said, "Yes, I've met Dr. Mallory."

Ellen wasn't hardly listening. She was saying, "Do you want to dine at Luigi's, Bill? Or shall I get supper at my place? We've an hour and a half."

"Your place, of course. Good night, Miss Seymour."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T GET DOWNCAST

THERE WILL BE plenty of times when you seem to be in for a terrific licking, if you play bridge enough. Opponents will pick some pretty unpleasant times to double your bids, just as you will do likewise to them. But when they seem to have you in a tight spot, you need not get too downhearted. Maybe the play will work out better than you expect, if you keep your head up and your eyes open. You may even wind up with a good score on the deal.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South's 1-Club on this deal was passed to East, who doubled. West made a business or penalty pass, then led the diamond K to A. All that the poor declarer could see immediately in sight amounted to two tricks in trumps and one each with his red aces. If he got no more, he would be down three tricks, for a loss of 800 points. But he went to work just the same.

The heart A was taken, then a heart led to the J. East led the club 10 to the J and Q, and West returned the club 9 to the A. The heart 2 was ruffed in dummy, for one trick above the originally counted four, then the diamond 9 sent to the Q. West's spade K was overtaken by East's A, then the spade Q taken, followed by the diamond 10, which South was afraid to ruff, so tossed off a spade. When the spade J was led, West could do nothing but ruff, as he had only three trumps left, the 8, 4 and 3. He had to lead back into the K-7, producing one more uncounted trick for the declarer.

Thus the contract was down only one, on a deal which could produce a heart game for East and West.

Death, Divorce And Court Troubles Keep Hollywood Circles Buzzing

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 6—(AP).—Death, divorce, difficulties and business deals in and out of the courts gave the film colony fuel for conversation today.

Flora Finch, noted comedienne of the silent films, died of blood poisoning and pneumonia yesterday. She was past 70.

Alice Day, former screen star, testifying she was doing her own laundry, won a court order requiring her former husband, Broker Jack Cohn, to pay $150 a month to support her and their two sons.

Another former actress, Mrs. Charlotte Buford Lieberman, gave testimony in court to support her petition for $445 a month temporary alimony pending trial of her divorce suit against Film Producer Donald Lieberman.

The will of Mrs. Margaret Fillmore, filed for probate, left only $1 each to her sister, Mary Miles Minter, star of the silent screen, and their mother, Mrs. Charlotte Shelby, and gave the rest of her $12,000 estate to a former maid, Elsie Brosten.

Mrs. Fillmore, whose differences with her mother and sister frequently reached the courts, became permanently estranged from them after they sought to have her committed to a psychopathic institution. She died Dec. 21. Miss Minter and Mrs. Shelby a week ago objected to appointment of Miss Brosten as administrator of Mrs. Fillmore's estate indicating they would contest the will.

On the brighter side, the newly-organized Retsama Film Company announced it had signed two former film stars, Mae Murray and Claire Windsor, and Geraldine Spreckels, sugar heiress and stage actress, to contracts.

Paynes in the same year, in the same position of Deputy-reeve, and who probably will be meeting for the first time when they are introduced to each other at the Cobourg sessions.

In ordinary county distances they are widely separated in residence, one living in the southeast corner of Northumberland, and the other almost diagonally opposite toward the northwest corner of Durham. For record purposes they may have to be distinguished by their christened names.

There are two other members of this year's council of the name surname, Reeve W. J. Ross of Seymour, elected by acclamation, and Deputy-reeve George R. Ross of Brighton township.

Candidates For Warden

A glance over the results of the elections suggests four possible candidates for the wardenship, Reeve Chas. Calver, Campbellford; Reeve Percy Gooding, Brighton township; Reeve Herman Morrow of Murray township; Reeve Chas. Quinn of Cramahe; and Reeve Ray R. Mallory of Percy.

The wardenship returns to Northumberland this year. Both Quinn and Morrow have previously been aspirants for the honor, but failed to get past the preliminary stages of procedure. Percy Gooding may not be in the field, although his experience and ability qualify him for nomination. At this distance the strongest candidate appears to be Reeve Calver of Campbellford, one of the younger members of the countie's council who is understood to be a candidate. He is personally popular, has been a prominent figure in the Conservative party of Northumberland, and is thoroughly versed in municipal administration. If Liberals had a majority in the council Ray Mallory might have a good chance of election.

Sixteen Members Gone.

Sixteen of the 40 members elected to last year's council will be missing when the January sessions open. That means a change of 40 per cent in one year.

Those who have passed out of the picture are; Harry L. Brisbin of Hamilton township, defeated for reeve at the polls; Charles M. Carruthers of Darlington, a township Liberal who was turned back in his quest for the wardenship a year ago, just another Darlington Grit who failed to make the grade.

J. Chris Cummiskey of Manvers who got up for a look at the top level and just missed making it. He has retired to the position of township clerk.

Robert Innes, reeve of Seymour last year, and one of the veterans of the counties council, provided one of the surprises in the township elections, by dropping back to the council field where he met with defeat.

P. M. Locke, deputy-reeve of Campbellford, also took a step backward, and was elected as a town councillor.

Reeve L. H. Wilson of Cobourg was defeated by Roy D. Dodge who was deputy-reeve in 1938, but retired last year.

Roy G. Whittington of South Monaghan decided that he had served his township long enough, and gave way to Reg. Perrin who was reeve some years ago. And there are new men in the seats occupied by C. W. Taylor, deputy-reeveof Brighton township, and H. R. S. Ryan, deputy-reeve of Port Hope.

Alnwick—Reeve J. L. Timlin.

Cartwright—C. P. Devitt. Cavan—Reeve T. G. Shields and Deputy-reeve W. W. Brown.

Clarke—Reeve T. A. Reid (1939 Warden); Deputy-reeve W. J. Patton.

lic is entitled to know the truth and the whole truth about Mr. Hore-Belisha's departure from the War Office."

The influential Cardiff Western Mail, a strong supporter of Mr. Chamberlain's Government, said: "We cannot say he (Oliver Stanley, now Secretary for War) has been a conspicuous success at the Board of Education and the Ministry of Labor, or at the Board of Trade."

The political correspondent of the Daily Express, Guy Eden, said that Mr. Chamberlain's decision to ask for Mr. Hore-Belisha's signature was taken under pressure from the Army generals who objected to the War Secretary's reforms and drastic changes.

Early Session.

"It was rumored," the correspondent wrote, "that parliament might reassemble before the appointment date of January 16 when Mr. Hore-Belisha will make a personal statement."

He added that the opposition is likely to ask for a full dress debate on what the minister will say and Mr. Chamberlain will give his version. The writer also said there may be a slight reshuffle in junior cabinet offices.

"Belisha sacked," was the blunt heading on this morning's Daily Herald. Hannen Swaffer, writing in the Herald, described Mr. Hore-Belisha's departure from the war office as a victory for the "brass hats."

"Soon the bore war had settled down," he wrote. "The British expeditionary force almost without casualty entrenched itself in Arctic cold and waited for spring.

"Things are going splendidly," said everyone.

"Then Neville started a blitzkreig of his own. He annihilated —his Secretary of State for War.

"Now what on earth has been going on behind the scenes? Whom has Leslie offended? What did he refuse to do?"

Praise From Critic

The Times, which in the past has criticized Mr. Hore-Belisha, praised his work and said editorially that the new army "thanks largely to him is in a fair way to come into existence."

"There is no reason to suppose," it said, "that this retirement marks the extinction of a political career which has been distinguished by the most essential quality of drive.

"These changes will not be taken as a last word either as regards men or as regards machinery," The Times said.

The Daily Mail explained the war secretary's resignation, saying that "Mr. Hore-Belisha has not been getting on well with the generals and he goes."

The News Chronicle gave the same reason, and said: "For some time past gossip has been unpleasantly busy with stories of a whispering campaign against the ministry in high army circles."

The same paper charged Mr. Stanley in an editorial with "putting the clock back" as Minister of Transport and said he "blundered over unemployment assistance" as Minister of Labor.

The Press Association said: "The resignation, it is declared, is the culmination of a whispering campaign which originated in social circles rather than political quarters and spread so high and so extensively that Mr. Chamberlain eventually could not but be aware of it. It is a sequel to the gradually widening rift between the war minister and the high command."

Hore-Belisha's Message.

Mr. Hore-Belisha's message to his constituents was as follows:

"The people of Devonport have always sustained me in the very arduous life that I have led in their service and the service of the state since my first election to parliament more than 16 years ago.

"I have worked hard in four different government departments, and in the last of these, the War Office, it fell to my responsibility to reorganize it drastically and to prepare thoroughly the British army for war.

"Many changes and enlargements have been necessary in the army and it now takes the field in ever-growing numbers and in a democratic organization. It will acquit itself with valor and distinction if and when the occasion comes.

"I am proud and privileged to have been for so long associated with it, and to have helped to mould its form and spirit. Whatever task may fall to me, I shall perform with vigor, but I have no thought at the present moment but that of winning the war.

"This concentration of purpose, I am sure, is shared by every one of my constituents. The fact that I remain the member for Devonport still gives me an opportunity for service."

have encountered opposition of Air Minister Sir Kingsley Wood when he urged a single command for the Air Force and Army in France.

Chamberlain After Peace

Although these undercurrents never came into the open, Prime Minister Chamberlain was reported, in order to preserve peace in the government, to have asked Mr. Hore-Belisha to take the Board of Trade portfolio, but Mr. Hore-Belisha refused. His letter of resignation said "for reasons I gave you verbally" he could not accept another office.

The Times, which never has been particularly friendly toward Hore-Belisha, said that "thanks largely to him," a new British army was "in a fair way to come into existence."

Military chieftains had looked askance at him, however, since he took office in 1937 and immediately placed the accent on youth by retiring several elder generals.

He got better pay, pensions and living conditions for enlisted men, sought equal opportunity for all ranks, and furthered the mechanization of a horse-loving army. He was extremely popular with the enlisted men.

The War Ministry change overshadowed the others, for the man in the street regarded Mr. Hore-Belisha as second only to Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, in prosecuting the war against Germany.

A commenator in the Daily Herald said Prime Minister Chamberlain had "started a blitzkrieg of his own," and inquired, "what on earth has been going on behind the scenes?"

The Daily Express said the choice of Oliver Stanley as Mr. Hore-Belisha's successor was "a most unsatisfactory appointment."

Son Of Ex-War Secretary

Mr. Stanley, also 43, is the son of Lord Derby, War Secretary in 1916-18 and 1922-24. Tall, lean and prematurely gray, he won a reputation for his mastery of detail as President of the Board of Trade.

Twice decorated for his services as a major in the last war, he became Minister of Transport in 1934, the youngest man in the Cabinet. The same year, he became Minister of Labor, and Mr. Hore-Belisha took the transport job. Mr. Stanley later served as Minister of Education.

Mr. Stanley, who shuns publicity, whereas the retiring War Secretary is not averse to it, was in bed suffering influenza last night when his appointment was made known.

Sir Andrew Duncan is chairman of the executive committee of the British Iron and Steel Federation and a director of the Bank of England.

The new Board of Trade President twice headed commissioners in Canada. Fifteen years ago he was called to head a royal commission inquiring into grievances of the Maritime Provinces and afterwards wrote the famous "Duncan report." Earlier he had headed an investigation into the Nova Scotia coal industry and in 1932 he made another inquiry into the province's coal problems

Sir Andrew is not now a member of parliament but a seat in the House of Commons probably will be found for him.

Sir John Reith, new head of the much criticized Ministry of Information, is noted for his organization of the British Broadcasting Corporation and his direction of that system from 1922 to 1938, and as chairman of Imperial Airways.

Much Criticized

Since the ministry was organized hastily at the start of the war last September, it has been assailed in the House of Commons and in the press, largely over the handling of official news.

Sir John was expected to work for speedier reporting of war news by government departments and correlation of various offices of the ministry.

The son of a United Free Church of Scotland pastor, he is known as a moralist who shuns tobacco and alcohol. He was a major in the last war and, after being wounded, he was placed in charge of British munitions contracts in the United States in 1915-18. His predecessor, Lord MacMillan, 66-year-old former judge, told the Prime Minister in a letter of resignation:

"You have been good enough to tell me that impending changes which you have in view, as well as the embarrassment which has been caused by the fact that I have no seat in the House of Commons, render it expedient that I should place my appointment at your disposal."

LONDON, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Through London's darkened streets, the big car purred along, its blinds drawn so that three newspapermen in the rear seat could not see. They were on the way to one of the most secret places in the country—the closely-guarded London Region War Room, nerve centre of the city's civil defence against air raids.

Ghosts of the fantastic characters Edgar Wallace and Sax Rohmer located in London seemed to ride along as the machine twisted and turned. It finally stopped and the guide opened the door. He shone a light furtively into dark corners and led them through a narrow passage between sandbags stacked high against the building's side.

The London region is one of the 12 civil defence regions into which England, Scotland and Wales are divided. It includes Greater London and parts of adjoining counties and the workers are responsible for the safety of 9,000,000 people in an area of 700 square miles.

This region is subdivided into nine groups of local authorities. Each has a direct telephone line communicating with regional headquarters.

Our party saw the brightly-illuminated, gas-proof control room at regional headquarters. Activity starts here once a "yellow" or standby warning is given that raiders are approaching. We saw a test warning. The nine men who work in that room enter four minutes after receipt of the warning. When there is no air activity, they work in other parts of the building.

It's the job of these nine men to keep a fast-moving record of the effect of the raid. They must mark two huge wall maps—one for current events to show communications disrupted, roads blocked and the other for bomb damage to such places as docks and buildings.

Reports from an adjoining room where girls receive telephone bulletins from local centres provide the material for maps and charts which record disposition of mobile hospital units, stretcher parties, ambulances, motor cars, decontamination squads, light and heavy rescue parties and repair squads.

Tabs, colored differently for each of the nine groups, are placed on the hooked chart boards to show, for instance, if an ambulance has been moved from one group to another. Pins on the maps record bomb damage while on the current events map appear indicators showing bridges blown up, streets blocked or water mains damaged. The current events map is kept up to date for 48 hours.

The girls in the telephone room spend their off-time knitting at their stations—cubby-holes separated by a partition from their neighbor. A map of the London area is pasted on the wall at the back of each booth but the region for which the phone girl is responsible is colored. Just in case anything happens to the phone service— although officials say it's impossible for one bomb to disrupt it—a 70-man squad of motor cycle dispatch riders stands ready for action.

To keep the girls familiar with their London geography, a map of the entire region has been cut into a jig saw puzzle. It's their job to fit the pieces together correctly.

Although 150,000 men and women are enrolled in London's air raids precaution organization which has manned posts night and day since the war started, One-third are paid, the rest serve voluntarily. Men receive £3 ($13.20) weekly and women £2 ($8.80) a week. The A.R.P. service is costing the country about £3,750,000 ($16,500,000) a month, Sir John Anderson, Minister of Home Security, recently told the House of Commons.

PARIS, Jan. 6—(CP).—One of the safest and probably the most interesting bomb shelter in Paris was built by a Roman general. But he little realized what its ultimate use would be when he set his soldiers to work on it something around 2,000 years ago.

His chief concern at that time was to build a first class arena capable of holding 8,000 spectators who enjoyed the amusement of seeing the lions eat the Christians—or an occasional battle between Roman gladiators.

Not far from the Mouffetard in the Latin Quarter—where the treasures of golden coins were discovered last winter when some 10th century buildings were torn down—a workman discovered what appeared to be a series of stone steps covered by earth. This was just a little over 30 years ago. He uncovered several and an archaeological expert looked over his find, declaring they were part of a Roman arena.

Parts of that ancient arena have been used over and over again down through the centuries in each series of buildings built on the spot. Pry a brick out almost anywhere in the quarter and you have a museum piece of Roman vintage.

Arena Uncovered

The buildings were torn down and after the war the whole arena was uncovered. It was found to be one of the finest in existence and very well preserved. The wide stone steps, divided in several series, led down gently into the playfield in the middle. Here the spectators sat. Under the seating and separated by protecting walls, were to be found caverns. These opened into the arena but their openings were covered with iron bars. Here the lions were kept—and sometimes they held captives. Other rooms were dressing rooms— and all of them up until a month or two ago remained in their original state.

Deep in the earth—running back under the streets and buildings — these serve today as excellent "shelters" so that the iron bars have been given a coat of anti-rust, they have been walled in; notices outside indicate seating accommodation. Here are the modern bomb-proof shelters which Caesar himself ordered built. The axis was the Rome-Paris and Hitler might well be expected to protest to Mussolini about it.

There are many strange shelters in Paris. The underground railway is, of course, the biggest, and serves as a natural one. But wine caves are excellent—according to those who drew them—and it is rumored that even the catacombs may come back into use. The walls, lined for miles with 10,000,000 bones and decorated with garlands of skulls (the humor of the workmen who piled them) might not be too cheerful company while waiting for a bomb.

Les Oubliettes (the forgotten) used to be a prison in the middle ages in which prisoner were walled up. Today, it is a little music hall —but here too if the sirens scream out, the ancient cells—or at least some of them—ordinarily open to inspection and to give tourists a thrill may serve once more.

HASTINGS

George Whitred Is "Enthroned"

HASTINGS, Jan. 6—(ENS)—The Taken by surprise, George "Sandy" Whitred was lifted unceremoniously by two fellow employees and placed in a lounging chair in the rolling-room of the tannery Thursday evening. The chair, a gift from his fellow-employees, was covered and as an address was concluded he was "enthroned." Other fellow-employees came forward and presented him with a pipe and four pounds of tobacco. The occasion marked Mr. Whitred's retirement from the tannery after forty-eight years of service. He announced his retirement at Christmas time, and at New Year's he punched the time clock for the last time.

Most of the tannery employees gathered in the rolling room after five o'clock to bid farewell to Mr. Whitred, who was oldest and longest employed man in the plant. His retirement was his own decision.

"Dear George,—On behalf of the employees of the Hastings division of the Breithaupt Leather Company, Limited, we wish to extend to you our congratulations for your extended time of employment with us and our good wishes upon learning of your retirement after so long on active service with this company.

"Your association with us in the past has been a pleasure. And, in appreciation of your fine friendship, we wish to present you with this gift, hoping that it may give you pleasure and comfort during your leisure time to come.

(Signed)

"Your Brother Employees."

PURSUANT TO the provisions of The Mining Tax Act (Chap. 28, R.S.O. 1937), the following list is published of mining locations, mining claims, and mining rights, in respect of which taxes imposed by the said Act are more than two years in default, and notice is hereby given that unless the amount due as shown on the said list shall have been paid on or before June 30th, 1940, the property in respect of which the taxes so remain unpaid shall on the day following the above date become forfeited to and revested in the Crown.

In the arrangement of the list, lands are given in the judicial district in which they are situated, commencing from the west, and in each district the lots in townships are placed first and in alphabetical order, according to the townships; then follow the locations or claims not originally in surveyed territory, also alphabetically arranged and in sequence. Owners of property thus advertised are advised that extra costs are incurred if payment is delayed beyond February 29, 1940, as the Act requires an additional notice to owners of claims on which the taxes have not been paid by this time for which there is a statutory charge.

MARYSVILLE, N.B., Jan. 6.—(CP)— The man with the job that nobody wants has announced for the second time his decision to retire. He is Percy G. Long, who for the last year has been Mayor of Marysville against his will.

Last January, too, Mayor Long said he would retire, having at that time served two terms as Mayor of this little cotton manufacturing town three miles from Fredericton.

However, he soon found that wanting to retire was quite a different thing from actually retiring. He learned that according to the act incorporating the town the Mayor must remain in office until his successor is sworn in. Unfortunately for Mayor Long nobody wanted to be mayor last year, so he was left with the chief Magistrate's chain of office fastened securely around his neck for another year.

This year he hopes things will be different. "I'm hoping somebody will step into the breach," he said yesterday. "I've been mayor for three terms, you know. I feel I've done my duty and now I want to give somebody else a chance."

"But what if nobody comes forward as a candidate?" he was asked.

"Then I suppose I'll have to carry on again for another year."

Mayor Long's term of office expires January 27. Also expiring on that date are terms of four members of the Marysville town council. It is understood the four are willing to be come candidates for re-election.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy. 103

44TH RED DIVISION WIPED OUT, 1,000 CAPTURED

Finnish Booty 42 Tanks And 102 Guns

Tragedy Is Second For Russia In Central Area

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Finnish forces destroyed the 44th Russian division, killing thousands and taking more than 1,000 prisoners, near Suomussalmi, a special army communique reported today.

It was in the northern part of the Suomussalmi region, at the narrow 'waistline" of Central Finland, that the Finns, a week ago, reported wiping out the invaders' 163rd division.

In the new victory the communique said large quantities of arms and material, including 42 tanks, were captured.

Heavy fighting has been reported in the Suomussalmi sector for days but today's communique was the first mention made of Russia's 44th division.

(Neutral military experts have estimated there are from 15,000 to 17,000 men in a Russia division.)

Much War Booty

The communique said:

"The main object of fighting in the south part of the Suomussalmi sector in the direction of Raate during the last few days has been the defeat of the 44th enemy division.

"This objection has been achieved.

"The enemy forces in the main were destroyed.

"The war booty was large including 102 different guns, 43 tanks, 10 armored cars, one airplane, 20 tractors, 278 different cars, among them 16 anti-aircraft cars, with four anti-aircraft guns each, 75 automatic rifles, a number of other arms., 1,-170 horses, 47 field kitchens, et cetera.

"Clearing up operations and the collection of spoils continues. On other fronts, except for the customary skirmishes and artillery exchanges, it was a fairly quiet day. Our patrols have been active and destroyed during the course of the day numerous enemy patrols."

No Violating Neutrality.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 8—(AP).—Sections of the Scandinavian press declared today that any attempt to violate the neutrality of Swedn, Denmark and Norway would mean a fight.

This was the newspapers' response to German press allegations that Great Britain and France are using aid to Finland as an excuse to gain

Liner Bests Sub, 2-Hour Thrill

They said the submarine fired two torpedoes, one of which passed perilously close to the bow and the other just as close to the stern.

When the submarine appeared the liner's crew manned her guns—one four-inch gun mounted aft and one anti-aircraft gun. The crew fired on the submarine, which then submerged and disappeared.

Passengers asserted that the passenger died from injuries received in a crush aboard ship during the fight, but official British sources denied there had been any death.

Passengers said the submarine fired two torpedoes at the liner, missing her.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(CP Cable.)—Reports of suspicion and rumor throughout the country over resignation of Leslie Hore-Belisha from the war cabinet crowded the columns of the afternoon press today. Editorial writers demanded that Prime Minister Chamberlain make a swift explanation to satisfy public opinion at home and remove misgivings abroad.

The Evening Standard drew a point parallel with the Biblical story of Mordecai the Jew who refused to raise his hand to Haman outside the gates of the Palace of Shushan and was reduced in favor.

"We are informed that Mr. Chamberlain may tell the House of Commons that Mr. Hore-Belisha refused to make proper obeisance before the traditions of army discipline," the Evening Standard added, "The Prime Minister's account must be full, frank and open, for only by such means can damage to the nation's cause be avoided."

The Star said the most disquieting feature of the resignation was the widespread report that it was due to the pressure of social circles.

"We wonder if those 'social circles' that engaged in the whispering campaign overlap 'those circles that feted Von Ribbentrop (Joachim Von Ribbentrop, Nazi foreign secretary and former ambassador to Great Britain) and gave him so false an idea of British life.

"We are struggling to protect our standards and create out of the present chaos a nobler world. In such a crisis the pressure of stocial influences is at best frivolous and irrelevant, and at the worst a danger to us all."

The Daily Express said the public would "not be satisfied" with anything less than proof from Mr. Chamberlain that the War Secretary's "dismissal" meant the war would be conducted with greate refficiency and bring victory closer.

The paper said support for Mr. Hore-Belisha was general, and asked: "If the minister must go, do all other members of the Government desire to stay?"

In its news columns The Daily Express said the Trades Union Congress will withdraw its co-operation with the Government unless Mr. Chamberlain assures the country that the appointment of Oliver Stanley to succeed the re-

Gambling Raids Local Police Job Says Conant

TORONTO, Jan. 8—(CP). — Responsibility for dealing with gambling dens said to be running full blast in Toronto suburbs on a scale only equalled by Chicago, was placed altogether on the municipalities involved by Attorney-General Gordon Conant today.

In reply to charges made yesterday by Rev. E. C. French, Wesley United Church, that eight gambling dens are in operation fully guarded, the Attorney-General said in a prepared statement:

"The municipalities on the outskirts of Toronto all have police forces. It is for them to deal with alleged gambling dens. Every complaint received by me or by the provincial police is immediately forwarded to the chief of police of the municipality involved. The provincial police will assist any municipal police force when requested so to do by the chief of the local police, or the head of the municipality."

If Ontario's Attorney-General was really anxious to hunt down subversive tendencies in war-time, he might find that gambling dens on the borders of Toronto were doing a lot of damage in the diversion of much money into pockets already overflowing, French told his congregation last night.

Mr Conant had shown "more keenness on the trail of the 75 ministerial witnesses against war than in prosecuting the big gambling houses," said Mr. French, answering a query in the question box period. The question asked whether or not there is basis for the common talk about gambling houses and what the police are doing about them, and on whom responsibility rests.

Montreal, Jan. 8 (CP)

PREMIER GODBOUT said today he has asked Dominion authorities to suspend any recruiting campaigns in Quebec rural districts because of the necessity of keeping the province's young farmers on their lands.

The Quebec premier explained at a press conference that the gravity of the province's unemployment problem and the urgency of maintaining agricultural development had prompted his request.

Italy Advising Hungary To Ease Claims

ROME, Jan. 8.—(AP)—In the interest of maintaining the status quo in the Balkans for the duration of the war, Italy appeared today to be dissuading Hungary from pressing territorial claims on Rumania.

Hungary's foreign minister, Count Stephen Csaky, hurried back to Budapest from a conference with Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italy's foreign minister, and authoritative Italian sources said he carried advice to keep the Balkans quiet as a safeguard against any Soviet Russian moves in Southeastern Europe.

It was believed Csaky was asked not to press Hungary's claims on Rumania for the return of Transylvania, lost in the breakup of Austria-Hungary after the last war.

(Russian naval manoeuvres in the Black Sea have caused Rumania to halt all merchant shipping temporarily. The Rumanian liner Bessarabia was ordered to put into port at Istanbul on her voyage to Constanta, principal Rumanian port. The Russian manoeuvres were the second reported within a month in the Black Sea.)

Fascist sources said the danger of possible Russian invasion on the Balkans, similar to her moves into Poland and Finland, had made Hungary's friendly co-operation with neighboring countries advisable for self-protection.

Italians have declared their intention of blocking any possible Soviet move but some foreign observers believed Italy may have made any promise of defence for other countries conditional upon the assurance of general amity in the Balkans.

Fascist commentators suggested that Hungary give Rumania time to modify her uncompromising stand against a revision on the Rumanian frontier in Hungary's favor.

Hungary Italy Draw Up War Alliance

Rome Said Pledged To Aid Against Nazi, Red Invasion

BUDAPEST, Jan. 8 — (AP). — A high authority to-day reported the Foreign Ministers of Hungary and Italy had agreed on a military alliance assuring Hungary of Italian support against any invasion by Germany or Russia.

The agreement was said to have been reached by the two Foreign Ministers, Count Stephen Csaky of Hungary and Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy, in Venice where they have been conferring over the week-end.

This authority said Count Csaky was expecte dto arrive in Budapest to-morrow to submit the text of the agreement to the Hungarian Crown Council. If the Council approves he then will return to Rome for formal signature of the pact.

(In Rome the authoritative Fascist writer Virginio Gayda denied any formal agreements had been reached in the Venice talks, but high Fascists said Italy would support Hungarian territorial ambitions in return for aid in checking Russia in the Balkans.)

Yugoslavs Steer Clear.

Yugoslavia, lying between Italy and Hungary, was understood to be unwilling to join any outright alliance with her two neighbors. It was reported, however, that she would join in a triple friendship pact which presumably would permit Italy to move troops through her territory in going to Hungary's aid if that became necessary.

Count Ciano was said to have urged Hungary to seek at least a temporary agreement with Rumania over the Magyar minorities in Transylvania, territory which Rumania won in the break-up of the old Austro-Hungarian empire after the First Great War.

Despatches from Bucharest said Rumania's Foreign Minister, Grigore Tafencu, was planning to visit Count Ciano in connection with Italy's efofrts to settle Rumanian-Hungarian problems peacefully.

The reported decision of the Hungarian and Italian Foreign Ministers to recommend an alliance to their governments was said to have been reached not only because of fear that, Russia might strike against a south-eastern neighbor, but also because of disturbing advices from Germany.

GILBERT BEESMEMYER, 54, who plundered the Guaranty Building and Loan Association of Hollywood of an alleged $8,000,-000 and was sentenced to 40 years' imprisonment, goes free on parole today after serving nine years, barring a last-minute hitch.

Prosecutors at Beesmemyer's trial accused him of leaving a trail of want and suicide among the thousands of investors caught in the firm's collapse.

Mayor Hamilton Forecasts Lower Tax Rate

Beginning the third year of his administration, Mayor Hamilton predicted a substantial surplus from last year's financing of the city's affairs, mentioned a $25,000 reduction in the current bank loan, and suggested the possibility of lowering the 1940 tax rate in his address at the inaugural of the council this morning.

He expressed appreciation of his re-election to the head of the council, welcomed Aldermen Fred L. Roy and Wm. G. Ovens, with the three members of last year's council: Aldermen Cotton, Stocker and Gordon, and paid a tribute to the City Hall staff for its efficiency.

"Another important factor in Peterborough's administration of its civic affairs, in my opinion, has been the continuity of service granted to various councils," His Worship commented.

After reference to the war and the prospect of greater problems arising out of Canada's engagement, Mayor Hamilton continued as follows:

"For some years one of the chief worries of municipal government has been unemployment relief. I am glad to be able to report that the number of unemployed has declined steadily during the past six months and there is every indication that it will continue to do so. The drop in our relief costs is the result of generally increased production by our factories, and the much appreciated co-operation given us by factory managers in putting relief recipients on their payrolls. However, the problem of caring for the unemployables, who are made so, through age or sickness, still looms large.

"I suggest that consideration should be given to placing in our budget for the Board of Works sufficient funds to permit of a works program for older men who may be unfit to enter factory employment.

France Calls Parliament To Review Daladier's Conduct Of The War

PARIS, Jan. 8. — (CP).—The French Parliament was summoned to-day to meet to-morrow in its first ordinary session of the war for a general debate of Premier Daladier's conduct of the conflict.

Daladier called the cabinet for a session to-morrow morning preceding parliament's opening in the afternoon.

Parliament held two extraordinary sessions in 1939 to adopt special war measures and the 1940 budget, but discussion of general policies awaited the first ordinary session.

Mobilized deputies were granted leave to attend.

Edouard Herriot and Jules Jeanneney were uncontested candidates for re-election as presidents of the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate, especively, at the opening sezion.

Debate will start Thursday, with the Socialist group proposing a secret session for discussion of military affairs.

This morning's official communique on activities at the front reported the night had been "calm as a whole," except for "patrol activity in the region west of the Vosges."

He Must Agree

St. Clairsville, O., Jan. 8 (AP)

ASKED if there were any reason he couldn't serve on a jury, F. D. Kirkpatrick said his wife was in the panel. "Well," smiled Judge C. L. Belt, "you two could agree for once, couldn't you?" So Kirkpatrick joined his wife in the box.

A heavy blanket of fog yesterday practically barred air operations, although a lone German plane was sent out over Eastern France on reconnaissance.

Land operations were featured by the attempt of two German patrols to surprise French outposts in the wooded zone to the west of the Vosges foothills. The attackers used hand grenades, but were easily turned back.

Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, toured Royal Air Force bases in France Sunday and visited the British sector of the front to-day.

Men Are In Line Long Before Daylight Seeking To Enlist With Two Toronto Units

TORONTO, Jan. 8. — (CP) — Men fought in line for position as more than 1,000 flocked to join the colors at University avenue, armouries at 9 a.m., today when the recruiting depots, the 48th Highlanders and the district depot opened.

Before daylight the first recruits were in line. As the lines grew, officers decided to let the men in out of the cold, but the file two and three deep extended so far around the armouries that it blocked the doorway and those who arrived after 9.30 were sent upstairs to wait in the gallery. It will probably be two days before they reach the head of the line.

Candidates came from near and far. Wearing identical windbreakers were Brown brothers, John and Archibald of Peterborough.

The big demand was for cooks, clerks and typists, fitters, expert machinists and mechanics, artificers. Many of these are needed at once, and officers went along the lines picking out men with the necessary training and experience.

In the file was one man who had come from Prince Albert to join the army. "The name's MacPherson," he burred at the Sergeant-Major of the 48th. "Hoo's my chances?" "Good," chuckled the Sergeant Major.

Monckton Replaces Chief British Censor As Latest Step In Major Shuffle; Cry Grows For Airing Hore-Belisha Case

Opposition Heads Pressing For Early Session

LONDON, Jan. 8—(CP).—A more liberal news censorship policy was foreshadowed today by the resignation of Vice-Admiral C. V. Usborne as director of the censorship division of the press and censorship bureau.

A storm continued to revolve about the circustances of Mr. Hore-Belisha's resignation as Secretary for War, and opposion leaders, not expecting a full account from Prime Minister Chamberlain in a speech at the Mansion House tomorrow night, were reported ready to press for a meeting of parliament before the regular reconvening set for January 16.

The Home Office announced that Admiral Usborne, a developer of the paravane to protect ships against mines, would enter new work of national importance in connection with specialized naval construction. (Modern paravane sare blade-like devices to cut mines from their cables).

Monckton Steps Up.

Sir Walter Monckton, director general of the bureau, who had offered his resignation because of difficulties obstructing fuller war news reports, assumed personal charge of news censorship with Admiral Usborne's assistant, Vice-Admiral George Thompson, remaining as his aide.

News censorship has been criticized widely since the outbreak of the war, when Admiral Usborne assumed his post. Although he had a distinguished naval record, Admiral Usborne was believed to have proved too deeply trained in the navy's traditional silence to administer a liberal censorship.

Sir Walter, noted barrister and friend and adviser of the Duke of Windsor, is known, on the other hand, to hold the view that censorship is necessary only for the most urgent security reasons.

Aired in House

There was general agreement that the real reasons for the unexpected

40 Of Canada's Air Training Dromes Ready Thousands Of Planes On Order States Howe Lauding Nation's War Spirit

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—(CP)—Forty of the 80 airdromes needed for the Empire air training scheme are ready for immediate use and several thousand airplanes are on order, Transport Minister Howe said in a broadcast address.

Negotiations are underway with Canadian manufacturers for construction of 1,282 training planes which will be built in this country except for the engines, the minister stated last night over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. The broadcast was one of a series by cabinet ministers outlining the war effort.

There are 870 complete aircraft on order in England and will be assembled in Canada and 593 planes are being manufactured in the United States. In addition, 1,622 aircraft, without wings are on order in England and will be assembled here with the wings manufactured by Canadian companies.

Mr. Howe said that aircraft deliveries from abroad are expected to start next May.

The War Supply Board is organizing the Canadian aircraft industry for maintenance and overhaul of the training aircraft and is establishing necessary depots for overhauling aircraft engines. When the training program is at its peak, the minister said, it is expected that between 3,000 and 4,000 airplane engines must

19 Below Zero Year's Low Shown Sunday

Peterborough was hit hard by Old King Winter and his chief of staff, John Frost over the week-end and spent Sunday principally engaged in stoking the furnace and lamenting the inroads made on the fuel pile.

The thermometer started a nose dive Saturday night and dipped to a low for the winter of 19 below zero around daybreak equalling the low record of the 1938-39 winter. It was still 16 below at 9 o'clock Sunday morning but moderated rapidly during the morning and at noon the reading was nine above zero. Sunday night registered five above at 9 o'clock and it did not drop below that point during the night.

Coming as it did on Sunday the cold dip did not cause Peterborough much distres sas it would have on a week day. Home life gained appreciably for the day's trend was to stay close to the fire.

Pipes Frozen

"Lots of them" was the reply of one plumber when asked as to Sunday calls to thaw out water pipes. "It was a busy Sunday," he added. Other plumbers told the same story of receiving SOS calls from citizens who found that Jack Frost had tied up the water supply.

Hood and Cumming whose garage was the only one open Sunday under the agreement reached some time ago reported a busy day especially in the morning when calls for assistance for frozen cars kept the staff busy.

C.P.R. telegraphs had trouble with snapped wires as a result of the cold snap and most of it seemed to be concentrated in this area. The report from Marmora was that thermometers in that village recorded 26 below Sunday morning while Apsley was comparatively mild with a temperature of 22 below.

Canada Reopens Recruiting Office Doors

OTTAWA, Jan. 8 (CP)—Doors of recruiting offices swing open again today and the first of thousands of young Canadians will don the King's uniform in 1940 will be enrolled.

Over the week-end the national defence department announced recruiting of reinforcements for units in the Canadian Active Service Force would start Monday and that the first of three initial training schools under the British Commonwealth air training plan is being prepared for occupancy at Toronto.

As the C.A.S.F. is based on the non-permanent active militia and the units mobilized for it from the militia are to retain their identity, recruiting of reinforcements will be done through the depots left behind by each of the unite now overseas.

Some units in the Second Division which remains in Canada had not received full war strength when the order to stop recruiting was issued in November. These may now be brought up to strength. Other units in the Second Division, however, are somewhat over strength.

In the three initial air training schools close attention will be paid to the adaptabilities of the men in training for at the end of the four-weeks' course a selection must be made. Some may be directed into non-flying branches of the air force.

Some wil lbe chosen to proceed to the air observer schools for training, others will be sent to bombing and gunners schools for instruction while those likely to make good pilots will proceed to the elementary flying schools to learn to fly.

The opening of the Toronto school, for which no date has yet been announced will set the Commonwealth training plan in movement.

PUBLIC FUNDS are being raised for construction of a new warship to be called the Admiral Graf Spee, it became known today. Churchill Pays War Chiefs Visit

AT B.E.F. HEADQUARTERS, "SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE," Jan. 8—(CP-Havas).—Winston Churchill, First Lord of the British Admiralty, arrived here today and met commanding officers of the British and French armies.

Mr. Churchill was accompanied by General Sir Edmund Ironside, chief of the Imperial general staff, Viscount Gort, commander of the expeditionary force, welcomed them to G.H.Q.

To luncheon came General Gamelin, the Allied commander-in-chief, and General Alphonse Georges, commander of the French armies in the field.

New Aerial Motors To Make Return Ocean Hops Cinch

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP).—Aeronautical engineers forecast to-day airplanes capable of flying to Europe with a full load of bombs, or passengers and cargo, and returning non-stop if necessary.

This probability, expected to become a reality in the next year or 18 months, grew out of two technical reports to the United States Congress by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

Two apparently simple changes in wing design, and the "finning" of airplane engine cylinders promise to increase vastly the range, speed, payload and efficiency of airplanes which already are being designed.

The present military and civil aircraft, which have brought Europe and Hawaii within a day's flying time of North America are regarded by Langely Field engineers as lumbering trucks compared with the planes which will be "coming out of the jigs" in a year or so.

The new streamlined wing will cut through the air with only one-third the resistance, or "drag," of present wing designs, permitting speeds of 450 to 500 miles an hour. It still is a closely-guarded

LONDON, Jan. 8. —(CP Cable)—Coupons were torn from the royal ration cars at Sandringham today when supplies of sugar, bacon, butter and ham were delivered to the King and Queen and Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose at the Royal residence.

The royal family have been issued "commercial travellers' cards" similar to those used by all people who have to move about the country.

Rationing of the royal family, at the King's request, will be as strict as possible. The Queen has drawn up special menus which eliminate two courses from lunch and dinner, and has given special orders for the use of more fruit and vegtables.

Down in Stepney His Majesty's humblest subjects began the coupon existence too. There is no favoritism and most housewives regard the amount as adequate.

Said Mrs. W. S. Morrison, wife of the Food Minister, "I am sure we shall be able to manage beautifully."

The rationing plan allows each person 12 ounces of sugar, four ounces of butter and four ounces of bacon or ham per week. Rationing of meats will be instituted next Monday.

New Treaties To Hurt Nazi Trade

Allies Make Deals With Neutrals, U.K. Under Rations

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(CP).— Great Britain's drive to corner Germany's world markets by negotiating new trade treaties with German customers was accelerated to-day.

Objective of the tightened economic warfare, supplementing the Allies' two-way sea blockade of German commerce, was described as twofold:

1. To assure maintenance, as far as possible, of normal peacetime trade relations with neutrals and expand British export trade to provide foreign exchange for buying war materials.

2. To assure that not more than normal peacetime trade goes on between Germany and the neutrals with whom she can deal overland and, where possible, to cut down Germany's European import-export business and deprive her both of supplies and foreign exchange for buying them.

Apparently linked with the trade drive was the return here of a Netherlands commercial delegation and the arrival of Paul Van Zeeland, former Belgian minister, on an undisclosed mission.

In the drive to wrest markets from Germany, reports from Istanbul said Britain and France are trying to absorb most Turkish products which, before the war, were sold mostly in Germany. The Allies are expected to sign agreements with Turkey shortly. France concluded a trade exchange agreement with Greece over the week-end.

All Neutrals Involved.

Authoritative sources said Britain had held or is holding trade talks with "virtually all European neutrals," as well as campaigning for all possible American and Asiatic markets. German overseas trade has been dried up largely by the British naval blockade.

Trade agreements with Italy and Sweden already have been completed. Britain is negotiating now with Spain, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Rumania, and the Balkan countries, among others.

Rationing of some commodities became effective in Britain to-day.

Woman Driver Fined For Passing On Hill

After a hearing that carried over the lunch hour Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., on Saturday afternoon registered a conviction against a Toronto woman charged with pulling out to pass another vehicle when the roadway ahead was not clear of approaching traffic. His Worship imposed a fine of $10 and $14.50 costs.

The charge arose out of an accident in which the woman's car was involved with two trucks on the Springville hill. She had already pleaded guilty to driving without a licence but on the other charge entered a plea of not guilty. She was defended by Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., while Provincial Traffic Officer Lloyd A. McClure prosecuted.

The drivers of the two trucks were the principal witnesses for the Crown. They told how the woman after passing one truck had collided with another approaching from the opposite direction.

Convoy Is Saved As Fliers Spot 2 Mines

LONDON, Jan. 8.— (CP)— The Royal Air Force coastal command is a combination bloodhound and shepherd dog. Fliers bomb German mine-laying seoplanes in the bases and guard against sea perils.

The resource and initiative shown by the crew of one R.A.F. coastal command aircraft on patrol duty over the North Sea saved several inward-bound merchant vessels from possible damage by German mines.

Just before dusk while the plane was on patrol the front gunner observed two black specks in the water. Coming down low in the poor light, the pilot recognized them as mines and they were in a shipping lane used by scores of vessels passing to and from English ports.

A few minutes earlier the plane saw a number of merchant ships that soon would be traversing that lane in the darkness so the problem was to destroy the mines. The pilot spent some minutes circling the area while the crew prepared to machine-gun them but he found that visibility was so poor he would have to fly low to accomplish the purpose and this involved risk to the plane from the exploding mines.

The pilot set off for mine sweepers he had seen in the vicinity, called them with lamp signals and guided them to the spot where he saw the mines. Darkness had fallen just as the second mine was destroyed and an hour later the first of the incoming merchantmen passed over the spot.

Japanese Set Up Chinese Regime

TOKYO, Jan. 8.— (AP). —The Japanese program for establishment of a central government under Wang Ching-Wei for all occupied territory in China received final cabinet endorsement to-day after long discussion.

A government statement disclosing details of the projected government is expected to-night. Wang, former Chinese premier, who split with General Chiang Kai-Shek, has been living at Shanghai.

The new centralized Chinese government would supplant regional regimes now sponsored by the Japanese for control of occupied territory in North and South China and the Yangtse River Valley.

Wang Chang-Wei has wielded a powerful political influence in China since 1905. A companion of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen in the foundation of the Chinese republic, he was named National Government chairman in 1925.

The 59-year old leader has renounced his goal of an independent China to assist the Japanese in establishing a "new order in East Asia." He has explained his stand thus: "We cannot defeat the Japanese, therefore we must be friends with them. They have offered us an honorable peace."

The new cylinder "finning," based on the principle that the faster heat is carried away the more efficient an engine becomes, will increase the speed and efficiency of an engine by about 300 per cent. This principle is the one which every automobile driver knows — that an over-heated engine lacks power in climbing a hill.

The aeronautics expert said that airplanes superior to any now in use would be produced by combining these developments with other advances in propellor design, "safety fuels" which explode only in an engine cylinder, a new device for synchronizing two or more engines to keep them in step, a new type of cowling and better radio facilities.

Ralph Davis Case Enlarged One Week

"I am ready to go ahead if the police have the other three people who were in the car," said Ralph Davis in police court this morning when asked if he were ready to proceed with the hearing of the charge against him of illegally selling liquor.

"What car?" asked the magistrate.

"I presume he means the car that called at his place and as a result of which he is alleged to have sold liquor," said Crown Attorney V. J. McEldery, K.C. "I am ready to subpoena any witness that he wants if he will give me the names," he added.

"The police will have them better than I can," replied the accused.

"The case was enlarged until next Monday when it was discovered that one of the police officers concerned in the case was ill and unable to testify. Bail was renewed at $500.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

Rumania's determination to defend the province of Bessarabia against a possible Russian attack makes the situation in the Balkan States a little clearer. This province was part of Imperial Russia before the first Great War and Soviet Russia has never recognized Rumania's right to it. It has long been regarded as the jumping off point for combined Russo-German operations in Southeastern Europe.

Saturday, however in an unusually frank speech King Carol declared Bessarabia would always remain Rumanian by the force of "our arms." As if to forestall any Russian claim that the people of Bessarabia wished to return to Russian rule or that minorities were ill-treated the King visited the capital of the province, only 12 miles from the border and publicly received the allegiance of Russian, Ukrainian and German minority leaders.

Only the King and his advisors know to what extent the failure of the Red army to conquer Finland prompted this bold gesture, or what other factors, such as assurances of help from Italy, Great Britain or France, may have contributed to the decision.

The King's declaration should stiffen the determination of other smaller states in the Balkan area to defend their territory and their independence. Long-standing grievances between the Balkan countries offer opportunities to the aggressor powers.

Since the start of the second Great War the influence of Italy has been steadily exerted to minimize these grievances. The week-end conference between the Hungarian and Italian Foreign Ministers is believed to have had this as one of its purposes for Hungary has a claim against Rumania for territory annexed after the last war.

Hastings Boosts Wage Rate Paid For Labor

HASTINGS, Jan. 8 (ENS). — Wages paid by this municipality for labor were raised from 25 cents to 30 cents an hour and man and team labor was raised from 40 cents to 50 cents per hour at the first regular meeting of Council this year, held on Friday night. During a lengthy discussion on the matter, Councillor Bond said the Hastings Hydro Commission were following the low wages paid by the municipality and were taking advantage of the men by making them climb poles for 25 cents an hour. "I wouldn't work for the Hastings Commission at that rate under any consideration," he said. Adding further charges, he said the Commission was receiving 10 cents commission per hour on rural work "out of the ribs of the men working for them." Offering explanation to the latter charge, Reeve Kelley said the Commission did not receive 10 cents per hour commission, but they received 10 per cent. commission above the actual cost of labor for financing rural work for the Ontario H.E.P.C. "I don't think this discussion has anything to do with Council. The Hydro Commission is the body to tell of your grievance," Reeve Kelley said.

Living Costs Be Higher.

Councillor McEachnie expressed himself on the matter of higher wages for man and team labor, as being in favor of it. Councillor Stevenson, offering a far-sighted suggestion, told the meeting he believed living costs would be higher in another few months due to the war ,and consequently wages would be higher. Reeve Kelley said it was usually men, not able to do hard work, who were given municipal labor, but added he would not object to a slight increase. On a motion of Stevenson and McEachnie, the new wages were put into effect.

Council acknowledged a letter of appreciation from Denys Ward, who received a gift of a fountain pen by mail as a token of remembrance from this municipality. His name was included among the Hastings soldiers, who were honored at a send-off party here recently.

a Scandinavian foothold for an attack on Germany—allegations which neutral observers saw as a move to intimate the Scandinavian neutrals against helping their invaded neighbor.

The Berlin papers also had cautioned northern neutrals against providing transport facilities for allied war materials consigned to Finland. Through Scandinavia passes the main line for shipment of war materials to Finland.

Finland's success in holding off the Soviet Russian invasion has heightened the anxiety of Scandinavians, because with the lengthening of the conflict, pressure for outside aid has been increasing. German hostility toward Scandinavian participation in League of Nations collaboration on assistance to the Finns has added fresh fears.

signed minister means there is to be no cessation in Mr. Hore-Belisha's program of reform for the army.

The paper also reported that 32 National Liberal members of Parliament will ask their leader, Sir John Simon, to obtain a promise from Mr. Chamberlain that their proportion of ministerial posts will be restored at the earliest possible moment. Mr. Hore-Belisha was a National Liberal.

Cause For Suspicion.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(CP).— The New York Herald Tribune discussing editorially the resignation of Leslie Hore-Belisha as British Secretary for War, says to-day the shock Prime Minister Chamberlain "has managed to administer to his people" has given rise "to a maximum of dramatic suspicion."

"Is there a controversy between the Army and the Air Force?" asked the newspaper. "Have the 'Colonel Blimps' arisen in revolt to destroy Mr. Hore-Belisha because of his Jewish ancestry, his socially undistinguished antecedents, his assaults upon the 'old school tie' and the comfortable inefficiencies of the caste system it symbolizes?

"Are the soldiers sabotaging civilian control? Are they thirsting for the glory (and the bloodshed) of big offensives from which Mr. Hore-Belisha, known to have been deeply imbued with the theories of the Liddell-Hart 'defensive' school, would save the rank and file?

"Such public questioning are no help in war time, and one cannot help feeling that the manner of the war minister's departure is another example of that curious ineptitude which seems fated to dog the Chamberlain statesmanship and which may yet hasten Mr. Chamberlain's own departure."

The times confined itself to discussing the appointment of Sir John Reith, chairman of British Overseas Airways, as Minister of Information succeeding Lord MacMillan.

"The Ministry of Information was misconceived, misshapen and mishandled; it will be his job to make it work," said the newspaper. "Sire John is not the man to cringe before an Admiral or a General. He should be able to argue on even terms with the most formidable of the brass hats.

"The results are unpredictable, but one can be fairly sure of this: The fur will fly before long."

These reports, which high sources said played an important role in the Venice talks, were that Nazi leaders, disgruntled with Rumanian refusal to send greater food supplies to Germany, were strongly considering marching through Hungary to Rumania.

Another reason for such a move was said to be Germany's fear that Great Britain, France and Turkey were planning to create an eastern front and that Germany must find good defensive frontiers deep in the Balkans quickly.

These reports were without confirmation.

Soviet Campaign Breaks Down On All Fronts

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 8. —(AP)— The Soviet Russian campaign against Finland was reported stalled today on all fronts.

The most severe January cold in years—temperatures ranging 15 to 40 degrees below zero Fahrenheit—has combined with stubborn Finnish defence and counterattacks to halt the Red invasion, with 5,000 square miles, 1-48th of Finland, in Russian hands after 40 days of fighting.

The Russian command, exmulating ski patrols tactics which the outnumbered Finns have used with success, was said by the Finnish high command to have lost the outstanding engagement in the guerrilla fighting that persisted over the week-end.

The high command communique reviewing Saturday's operations said that in the Salla sector of the Central Eastern front "an attempt by an enemy ski detachment to outflank our troops was defeated.

"The bodies of more than 300 enemy dead remained on the field, together with 14 machine-guns and other material."

Whole Outpost Freezes.

(A Finnish patrol was reported to have come upon a Russian outpost, protected by barbed wire in the drifted snow. The Finns were amazed at the silence of their enemy's guns as the patrol inched closer. The Finns, it was said, finally closed in on the silent outposts and found the entire force, 150 men, frozen to death).

Military experts expressed belief the Finns had forced the Russian command to revamp its winter campaign plan. The Finnish communique said that in the main theatre of the war, the Karelian Isthmus, "the enemy has begun digging in and setting up barbed wire entan-

U.S. Group Lays Campaign For Waterway

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)— With a United States mission already in Canada to conclude negotiations for a new St. Lawrence seaway treaty, a bipartisan group in the House of Representatives is planning a campaign to win support for the past when it is submitted to the Senate for ratification.

A similar treaty was rejected by the senate several years ago, but Representatvie Francis Culkin, New York Republican chairman of the unofficial seaway steering committee, said today he would call a meeting of the group probably this week.

"We will arrange to put this matter before the country and convince the people of its economic soundness," he said.

Culkin said the House group's strategy would include frequent speeches on the House floor designed to build a fire of public opinion under the Senate favorable to the St. Lawrence pact.

He said there had been "a tremendous revival of interest" in the proposal throughout the country, "especially in the West."

Representatives of the state department, headed by Adolf Berle, assistant secretary of state, left for Ottawa Saturday for the announced purpose of concluding negotiations with the Canadian government for joint development of the seaway.

Expressing the hope negotiations would be completed speedily Culkin said he was confident the project could "stand the test of scrutiny" by the Senate.

"It will pay for itself so there can be no objection from an economy standpoint," he said. "Nothing would make for greater industrial development in New York than building this seaway with its accompanying tremendous power development."

Toronto Driver Hit By Train

TWEED, Jan. 8 — (ENS). — Richard Stitt, 137 Waverly Road, Toronto, narrowly escaped serious injury on Friday, when his automobile crushed into the fast 1.10 p.m. C. P. R. passenger train, at the intersection on Highway No. 37 in Tweed. It appears, that while proceeding north on Highway No. 37, Stitt failed to hear the train approaching the crossing, and drove into the first coach of the train, resulting in the front bumpers of the automobile being ripped off the car, further damage being done to the car front. The moving train turned the automobile around, and the steps of the passenger coach ripped the rear fenders from the car. Fortunately Stitt escaped injuries.

Police Constable J. C. Hayes is investigating the accident and charges are pending. A clear view is afforded drivers at this crossing, who are approaching the village from the south, and the area is well posted with crossing signs. It was fortunate that on account of the inclement weather, the train was not travelling at full speed.

Marrying Girl 10 Sends 2 To Jail

ATHENS, O., Jan. 8—(AP).—Ten-year-old Mary Alice Limberg, whose four-day marriage to a young coal miner was ordered annulled, clung today to a Bible her husband gave her for Christmas as she packed for a trip to the Ohio Girls' Industrial School near Delaware.

The child insisted that she would spend her years in the school studying to be a better wife to Charles Schall, 21, when they remarry.

Schall, starting a one-year term in the Nelsonville Jail, promised to "wait" for the girl from whom he was separated in a courtroom on Saturday.

Mary Alice's stepfather, Donald Hudnall, filed delinquency charges against his wife, who falsified her daughter's age in a marriage licence application, and the newlyweds.

The child was committed to the industrial school, Mrs. Hudnall was sentenced to a year in the women reformatory at Marysville, and Schall was sent to jail for a year.

MOONLIGHT SONATA

By ALICE ALDEN

HERE IS the moonlight sonata in fashions. Fresh white ranunculi, instead of jewels, add beauty to the white chiffon of the Grecian-styled gown that is draped over the shoulders and banded below the bust. The flowers are used with dark green gardenia leaves, twined to outline the heart-shaped neckline of the dress. A few of the blossoms nestle in the hair but would be equally effective as a corsage on the wrist. All it takes to accent your costume with floral fragrance and color is a little time and ingenuity. It's sometimes impossible to find the right earrings or necklace in a hurry, but florists never fail the lady in distress, whether she visits the shop or asks wire service.

Visit of Spanish Dancer Is Much Anticipated

Members of the Canadian Concert Association branch in Peterborough are eagerly anticipating the visit of Argentinita and her Spanish Ensemble, who will bring with them the true flavor of the Spanish folk art when they appear at the Collegiate Auditorum on Wednesday evening of this week. The famous dancer is appearing at Eaton Auditorium tonight (Monday) in a program which contains 24 numbers, the mosa variegated all-Spanish scenario ever presented in Toronto. The premier danseuse appears in 18 numbers as soloist and with her two featured co-dancers. The dances picture Spanish life in many famous provinces. The music is all traditional and modern Spanish, and the costumes are gorgeous.

Argentinita started her public career at the age of seven by tying up traffic and, according to the policeman who booked the charge, "altering the public order."

Walking with her mother in the public gardens in San Sebastian on Spain's north coast, Argentinita was attracted by the band playing a "Jote Aragonesa" for the cafe crowds sipping drinks at the tables. The ingenuous child prompted by the irresistible music began to dance. The tables and drinks were abandoned as an audience quickly collected. Handclaps, "Ole!" and "Vaya tu madre!" (Spanish equivalents of "Let 'er ride!") punctuated the little girl's dance, and at the conclusion rose to a wild crescendo of "Otra vez!" (encore) which took the bandleader by complete surprise, especially when he realized that the demonstration was not for him.

The excited applauders had just convinced Argentinita to repeat her performance when the law entered the scene and conducted the child and mother to the district police station. The charge was "altering the traffic or public order." No doubt a couple of "zapateados" and a "desplante" (rhythmic heel taps and a proud dance gesture) would have served Argentinita just as well, but the enthusiastic manager of the local theatre rushed to make explanations for her and engage her to appear on his stage.

Since then Argentinita has rocketed to international fame, been dubbed "Spain's No. 1 Dance," and knocked the dance critics for a row of superlatives at her New York performance in early November.

An extra skirt is a boon to your wardrobe. There are so many times when an attractive skirt and a pretty blouse fills the bill. Now that two tone ensembles are so smart a daytime skirt and an evening length are both essential. Plaid wool, plain crepe or wool jersey are all very practical to wear with tailored and more formal blouses. For evening choose velveteen, taffeta or crepe and top it with lame, chiffon or a bright evening sweater, the new cover-up mode, for holiday parties.

DOROTHY DIX

Most Married Women Want An Occasional Orchid In Place Of a Beefsteak, Or, In Other Words, a Mite Of Praise Instead Of That Taken-For-Granted Attitude.

What is the chief fault of husbands? What is the one particular thing that husbands do, or leave undone, that takes the gilt off the gingerbread of matrimony for their wives and turns it into ashes?

You would be surprised to know, for it isn't drinking. It isn't philandering. It isn't being lazy and no-account and making their wives support them. The unforgiveable sin of husbands in the opinion of wives is in their not making a fuss over them.

In a way this column is a clearing house for domestic troubles. To it every day come loads of tear-sodden letters from wives telling their woes — how disillusioned and disappointed they are in their marriages and how their husbands are breaking their hearts by their cruelty. But where one wife charges her husband with being a villain, the sole grievance of scores of other wives is that their husbands are not kissing bugs. Indeed, most of these disgruntled ladies give their husbands a fine bill of health. They say that they are as domestic as the house cat and never cast an eye at another skirt; that they are faithful and kind and generous and good providers. They say they have pretty homes and nice cars and charge accounts at the best shops and that their husbands are easy to get along with, but—boo hoo, boo hoo—their husbands just take them for granted.

Their Johns don't notice what they have on or when they get a new hair-do. They don't rave over the good dinners they prepare for them. They don't tell them how beautiful and wonderful they are and that they love them more and more every day. And, worst of all, they don't kiss them every time they go out of the house, or, if they do, they give them a peck on the cheek or the back of the hair that is as cold and flabby and clammy as the flop of a pancake.

The poor dears wail out that they are starving for affection when their husbands are working themselves to death every day to prove their love for them, only they are saying it with beefsteaks instead of orchids. And so real is their suffering over their imaginary sorrow that they let it spoil all the happiness of marriage for them. Frequently they even let it drive them to Reno or into sordid affairs with gigolos who trade honeyed flattery to them for their husbands' good money.

Now, why adult married women are so insistent upon their husbands making a public parade of their affection for them is one of the mysteries of feminine psychology that nobody can understand. It isn't to test their husbands' feelings toward them, because even a female moron knows whether her husband loves her or not. Also, they know they are asking the impossible when they demand that practical, unromantic, hard-working business men shall give a continuous performance of a Great Lover. And certainly they know that nothing is so flavorless as the duty kiss and nothing so flat as the compliment one must beg for.

Yet women go on crying for cinema romance like a girl baby for an all-day sucker and rating the success or failure of their marriage according to whether their husbands give them lollypops or checks. It is a literal fact that so long as a husband will give his wife flattery he need give her very little else; that so long as he takes an interest in holding her hand she will cheerfully work it to the bone for him and consider herself privileged to do so.

Of all the curious peculiarities of the female, nothing is stranger than the desire of middleaged women to be made a fuss over. Probably they cant help it, poor souls, but it makes a lot of trouble for them and their husbands. It is a pity that they can't see that so long as a husband brings home his pay envelope and spends his evenings at his own fireside he doesn't feel that he has to tell his wife that he thinks she is the greatest little woman in the world.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—We have a family of five children. Four of them are very fine, co-operative and considerate of others. The other child, a girl of 14, is very aggressive and ambitious. She has no inhibitions about anything and apparently little sense of right and wrong. Somehow she managed to get the best of everything and dominates the others, and she has always been that way since she was a baby. How can I protect the other children against this ruthless egotist? And what can we do for the egotist? All of us know families who have been crushed by a lominant brother or sister and have wondered how it happened. Do you know the answer to my problem? — PUZZLED MOTHER.

ANSWER:

No, I don't. I doubt if anybody does. Some people just seem to be born go-getters, determined to take what they want of life regardless of the rights or feelings of others. They are strong and they trample down the weak without mercy. They are conscienceless and they have no regrets for the sufferings they inflict upon others. The only person they ever love is themselves.

Evidently your daughter belongs to the female dictator type and at 14 it is too late to change her. Possibly you might have made her less selfish if you had started making her play fairly with the other children when she was a baby, but I doubt it. Nature would have been too strong for you. The only thing you can do is to try to protect the other children from her ruthlessness as much as you can.

DOROTHY DIX.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, January 9

A DAY of strange adventures and memorable experiences is the augury based on the predominant lunar and mutual aspects. An element of the startling, unforseen and dramatic determines events, which probably involve radical upheavals, new objectives and plans, with a complete change of scene as well as associates. This combination, while drastic and far-reaching in consequence, is likely to bring much unlooked-for happiness and benefit, if managed with calmness and discretion. Elderly opposition must be placated. Romance seems to fill the air with glamor.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a "devastating" year, with swift and dramatic events moving to the fore. These may disrupt old obligations, objectives and ties for new, thrilling and breath-taking experiences of the utmost significance in shaping the future fortune and destiny. Romance or some other high adventure is on the tapis, calling for extreme prudence, wisdom and compromise, with forces set to resist such glamorous programs. The climax of personal happiness is imminent.

A child born on this day may be unusually talented, progressive, ambitious, original and independent, probably attaining conspicuous position or renown in the realm of romance and adventure, science or invention.

Enquiry Column

Mrs. MARY MOORE

Question: Have you a recipe for Russian Cake? I do not know if this is the right name, so will describe the cake to you as well as I can.

It is made in layers (about 10), which are very thin and resemble shortbread. These are put together with a filling which tasted like butter frosting, although it is cooked.

I hope you can get this for me if you have not got the recipe in your files.

I enjoy your weekly page in the Examiner and would appreciate it very much if you would print menus and recipes suitable for an income of $75.00 per month, of which I allow about $25.00 for groceries and meat. Thanking you, Mrs. G. R. F.

Answer: Thank you for your letter. The nearest recipe I have to the Russian Cake you describe is called Russia Strata Cake, Canadian Style. It is made using pound cake as a base, and a rich cream filling between layers, the top is either sprinkled with powdered sugar or whipped cream is spread over. This is the method for it:

Russian Strata Cake
(Canadian Style)

One lb. butter, 1 lb. sugar, yolks 10 eggs, 1 lb. flour, whites 10 eggs, ½ teaspoon mace, 2 tablespoons brandy, or 2 teaspoons true vanilla. Cream the butter, add sugar gradually, and continue beating; then add yolks beaten until thick and lemon colored, whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry, flour, mace and flavoring. Beat vigorously for 5 minutes. Bake in 3 layer cake tins buttered and floured, for about 35 minutes at 300 to 325 deg. fahr. (For loaf pound cake bake 1¼ hrs. at 300.)

When done cool on cake cooler and slit each cake into 2 or 3 layers depending on the thickness. Spread between layers.

Rich Cream Filling

Seven-eighths cup sugar, 1-3 cup flour, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1½ cups scalded milk, yolks 2 eggs, ½ cup heavy cream 1 teaspoon vanilla. Mix sugar, flour and salt and when thoroughly blended, pour on scalded milk. Cook in double boiler 15 minutes, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and afterwards occasionally. Add yolks, slightly beaten and cook for 2 minutes. Cool, add cream, beaten until stiff, and flavoring.

Attention Readers—Help!

If any reader has the original recipe for "Russian Cake" or the cake Mrs. F. describes we would be most grateful if he or she would mail it to us.

To give you an accurate list of menus with a monthly expenditure of $25.00 per month for food I would have to know how many people there are in your family.

This amount works out to be about $5.75 per week. Last week we printed a list of proportions of types of food into which your money should be divided regardless of the amount.

In last week's list of budgeted food proportions we considered a family with children. If there are children in your family look up this issue of the cookery page. The following list is for a family of adults —out of every dollar it is well to use for

Bread, flour and cereals	15c to 20c
Milk and Cheese	15c
(Higher if children)
Vegetables and Fruits	30c to 25c
Fats and Sweets	20c
Meats, fish and eggs	20c

The less money a family has to spend for food, the more important it is that is should be spent approximately in this fashion.

The following list of menus will give you some idea of how economical meals can be prepared to conform to the above list.

Dinners and Suppers

No. 1
Beef Goulash (see note)

WINTER SPORT ASSET

By ALICE ALDEN

THOSE BRIEF walks we all like to take when a good snow's prettied the landscape are more fun if we don't have to stride in our office or Sunday best. But walking is only one excuse for adding a smart little winter wrap to the wardrobe. Anita Louise uses this camel hair jacket lined in plaid as an all-around sports asset, combining it with a paid skirt and a cherry-red sweater. Change the skirt for ski or skating trousers and the result is an active sports ensemble, and, of course, the jacket alone is perfect for after-ski warmth, tobogganing and sunning on deck, if you're taking a cruise.

W. A. Secretary Completes 10 Years Of Service

Ten years of faithful service as secretary of the Women's Association of St. James' United church was completed this year by Mrs. M. Stokes, and as a token of their appreciation, the members presented her with a gift at their January meeting. Mrs. A. Wilson made the presentation, and a short address was read by Mrs. A. Brumwell.

The meeting was held in Wesley Hall with the president, Mrs. M. Drysdale, in the chair. During the devotional period, Rev. F. W. and Mrs. Craik sang a beautiful duet, "My Lord and I." Gratifying reports of the year's work were presented.

Mr. Craik conducted the installation of 1940 officers, and afterwards gave an inspiring New Year's message to the members which stressed the necessity of co-operation, and service with prayer.

A social half hour, when lunch was served by Mrs. J. O. Fife and her committee, was held after the meeting.

It Also Concerns Us

To beat back to an old phrase Britain has changed horses while crossing the stream. In days of peace the shifting of one man or several in cabinet rank means little enough, but in days of war it takes to itself added significance particularly when one of the changes affects the Secretary of State for War. If a similar change were made in Germany it is likely we would talk about it and draw the inference that things were not going well.

London has its own blunt way of doing business, and it does not put up much of a screen when operating. When the air defences of London and other cities were found to be in miserable condition late in 1938 the matter was not put straight behind the closed doors. It was made to walk right into the House of Commons from which it was spread all over the world.

Our own impression was that Leslie Hore-Belisha was making a real job in the War Office. He never did fit in exactly with the "old school," and he paid a deal of attention to privates and non-commissioned officers. He increased the pay of the private, saw that he was better clothed than ever before and made certain his living arrangements were adequate.

There is sufficient in the news from London to indicate that Hore-Belisha was not hitting it off any too well with Viscount Gort, V.C., Commander-in-Chief of the British army in France, and the difference seems to centre in the question of the supreme control having been delegated to General Gamelin, head of the French army. Apparently there was a feeling that the British should not be "taking orders" from the all-high of France. We had the feeling that this business of unified control had all been settled. In the previous war it was a bone of contention, and a costly one and it took a long time to arrive at the conclusion that unified control was the only way out.

Hore-Belisha was regarded in our country as a man of dynamic energy, one who had learned much regarding mechanized warfare and was insisting on its adoption throughout the British forces. There may be much behind the scenes which has not been stated, but there will be the fond hope—and also the insistence—of this country that the British Government shall have its War Office matters put in order at once, and that there shall be nothing else considered apart from a successful and unified prosecution of the war effort. The extent to which Canada is involved in this war makes the whole business in London very much our concern.

We're Spending Money Now

This business of taking snow from one place and dumping it elsewhere is growing to major proportions. And the automobile is the cause. Controller Hamilton of Toronto heads a committee which recommends the apportioning of $200,000 for snow removal in 1940, $50,000 for cindering and $75,000 for the purchase of new equipment. He wants 53 new snowplows and four mechanical snow loaders, explaining that Toronto has 575 miles of city streets. According to that Toronto would spend $325,000 to deal with snow, and that would be not far from 40 per cent. of the total tax rate for all purposes in Peterborough.

Looking back through the years to a village we recall there was just about nothing at all spent dealing with the snow. The one place where the snow was removed regularly would be from the steps and board walk around the village hall, and that would be done by the handy man who also acted as constable. That effort did not affect the tax rate in the least as the man would be paid whether it snowed or not.

Along the business streets merchants took the snow and heaved it to the edge of the road and there is remained, and there the size of the embankment grew. On other streets people did what shovelling they felt disposed to perform. If the path were narrow the ladies would have to elevate their skirts slightly. After a snowfall the early riser had to break the track and that's all there was to it. We do not believe the village ever spent a red cent on snow removal.

It was the same with the roads. There were no cars to consider. It was all horse-drawn traffic and good sleighing was considered preferable to poor going. Today on this continent we are certain the combined spending of cities, towns, villages and counties would run into millions of dollars annually, and the time was when many of the municipalities were spending not a cent for that purpose, and others nothing more than a nominal amount. We move about a great deal more today, and we pay for the moving.

When Enemy Sailors Met

There was a rather odd story coming from Buenos Aires, where British sailors off the cruiser Achilles were on shore. That is the place where members of the scuttled German battleship Graf Spee are interned.

The story goes on to tell that members of these two groups, British and German, met at some down town place, bar or club, and there they polished off their differences by having a drink together. A few weeks ago while the Graf Spee was still afloat, the two groups would have been busily engaged trying to put each other out of business.

There is probably nothing strange about this, as during the war of 1914-18 there was a good deal of fraternizing across no-man's land between the trenches. There were occasions when those in command considered it was going too far and they considered it well to put a stop to it.

We have heard a good many returned men say they felt no particular hatred toward those whom they were fighting. There was a war on and that was what they were chiefly concerned about. They knew if they did not defeat the Germans then the Germans would defeat them.

The trouble at the moment is with a handful of men who are in charge of Germany. Hitler may be a genius, but he is also a plotter, and he has Germany absolutely within his hand. What the German sailors at Buenos Aires think, or what they would like to do, matters not at all. Hitler makes the decisions and the Germans on land or sea carry them out. That is why there is war in the world today. If Hitler decides to send troops to invade Finland the troops will go whether they want to or not. It is somewhat like a few rotten apples in a barrel being sufficient to spoil the whole barrel. There can be no peace until Hitler and all for which he stands has been thoroughy crushed.

Nothing Romantic In It

One can profoundly wish that people who forward news from Hollywood would know enough to drop the word "romance" from their despatches. We read that "William Powell, 47, sauve and debonair film star, and Diana Lewis, 21, auburn-haired actress, were married today beneath a bower of flowers on a Nevada ranch, climaxing a three-weeks' romance."

That word "romance" is lugged in there and it has no business to be is such a setting. The word was used first in the decline of the Roman empire to distinguish provincial or rustic Latin from the classical language. From there it is broadened to describe a form of writing dealing with unusual adventures or with something mystic or strange. Common usage has brought it into the larger field where it is applied to the love affairs of the world.

But there is nothing strange or mysterious in the marriage of William Powell; there is nothing at all romantic when a man of 47 goes on to capture a bride of 21. Powell has been married twice before, the last time to Carole Lombard, who is now the wife of Clark Gable. So when a man of 47 gets married for the third time, and when his second wife is apt to meet his third wife on the street or around the film colony, there is nothing romantic about it.

He Had The Right Idea

A gentleman who would not write anything for publication with his name attached was in the office a day or so ago. He said he had not noticed much improvement about observing "Stop" signs in this city. There could be no argument on that point because a good many others must notice the same thing every day in the week.

Our visitor said he was certain drivers of cars had not grasped the right idea. Too many of them seemed to believe these signs had been put up in order to make them obey something or other, or do something which they did not want to do.

Getting into the subject he put it this way: "I long ago came to the conclusion that a "Stop" sign had been erected for my protection, and I am interested in anything which is going to further that good purpose. I know when I come to one of those signs it means I am approaching a through street where other cars will not be looking out for me. When I come to a stop and take a look up and down that street I am protecting myself because that sign suggested it. It keeps me from going right out in the path of some car. I prefer to look upon these signs as the work of some individual who was putting them there for my own good, and if I am not interested in my own good and my own safety then there is something wrong with me. If people would look at them that way there would be a change in observing the law. Never mind all the other motorists. Think about yourself. I know as long as I observe those signs I am not at all likely to get into trouble. Now you fix that up, and be sure to put that idea in—that those signs were erected for my special benefit and protection."

So there it is just as it was related to the Examiner, and the idea is so sound and practical that it needs nothing in the way of added comment.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Some people manage to gain the reputation of being generous by giving away anything they no longer want for themselves.

United States plans to spend another two and a-half billion on defence, and when that is done will the nation feel any more secure?

Man in London, Ont., was jailed for ten days and his car was impounded for three months. He had allowed a friend to drive it while drunk.

There are sections in Western Ontario where water is being sold to farmers at from $2 to $3 per tank, and possibly when water is so scarce the stock will appear to develop an unusual thirst.

We read that the City of Flint is on the way home to United States. Let's see—wasn't there something in the news about that vessel in one of our recent wars?

Car driver at London, Ont., told court he had sore eyes and that made him sort of zig-zag when he drove. He was fined $10 just the same, being $5 for zig and $5 for zag.

Fenelon Falls fire department went to help out at a fire in Coboconk, but when they arrived the foot feed was frozen and the hose blown out. We understand that's bad, but apart from that everything was fine.

Resident of Tamworth, Eng., was fined $44.50 for keeping two lions in an unsuitable place. No doubt the lions could have looked after themselves if they had merely opened the door and given them a chance.

There were only three lynchings in United States in 1939, lowest on record since they started keeping records. Another thing that may affect the situation is that they've been cutting down a good many trees in the South.

A good many people seem to think that instead of the British Premier having retired Hore-Belisha he would have been better advised to have taken similar action regarding one named Hitler.

Two gunmen in Ottawa handed a note to a clerk telling him to hand over the money. It was written in French which the clerk could not read. Possibly there would have been a job for an interpreter there, but no person seems to have thought about it.

A board of inquiry has found "reckless flying" to be the cause of an airplane crash near Sudbury. If we are to have much of this it will take caution to keep from making use of that more familiar phrase "reckless driving."

A few days ago the Examiner spoke of the 18 inches of snow in Stratford the first three days of the year and virtually one in Peterborough. As though sensitive of the remark the Weather Man on January 4 and 5 put down 6 1-5 inches in Peterborough.

Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union is going into session at the O.A.C. in Guelph for its 61st session. After experimenting that length of time it will be interesting to see if they have found any newer or better way for teaching a calf to drink out of a tin pail

INSTRUCTION

¶ My Uncle Ebens wise I know, he tried to tell me long ago, just how to get along; he used to tell me what to do, and how to watch each movement through, that way I'd not go wrong.

¶ My uncle speculated too, a risky thing for him to do, 'twould fill some folk with fright; but Eben always seemed to win, and wealth came rolling in to him, he always came out right.

¶ In after years I thought of that, when my finances rolled out flat, and credit rather lame; I thought of how my uncle planned, of goodly things he used to land, so I would do the same.

¶ Remembered too some things he'd said, about the way to get ahead, I'd know which way to go; I'd always sell when things were high, and then the proper time to buy, was when they went down low.

¶ That seemed to me quite right enough, so I set out to get the stuff, and I picked here and there; I listened to what salesmen said, and found that I went in the red, and I was stripped and bare.

¶ I'll ask my uncle yet once more, to tell me what he did before, just how and what he bought; for I'm as sure as I can be, it's plain as mud for me to see—there's something I've forgot.

The Allies Have No Illusions About Germany

A GOOD many speeches have been delivered by prominent statesmen throughout the Empire concerning the Allies' war efforts from almost every conceivable angle, but very few have attempted in any way to indicate what the Allies expect will happen. Therefore the address delivered last night by the Marquess of Lothian, British Ambassador to the United States, to the Chicago Council of Foreign Relations is, in our opinion, one of exceptional interest and importance. Lord Lothian in opening dealt with the oft-repeated expression of opinion that Great Britain and France should have gone more vigorously to the rescue of Poland last September, and asserted that to have tried to save Poland, once the Russian-German Pact was signed, by diverting planes or troops from the west to the east, or by flinging Britain's still undeveloped forces against the Siegfried line, would simply have been to play the German game. "Serbia, Belgium, Greece, and Roumania were all overrun in the last war," he said, "as Poland has been overrun in this war, because the Allies could not effectively help them. But they were all released, with their independence restored, in 1918, and so will it be with Poland."

With this preamble, notes Montreal Star, the Ambassador proceeded to tell his hearers "something about the way the war itself is going." He stressed the fact that the real prize for which the combatants are contending is not territory, but sea power. That, he said, is the real key to victory. "If Germany can defeat England either by direct attack upon her naval and her sea communications, or on France through Belgium or the Maginot Line, and compel us to surrender our fleet or a large part of it and the naval bases whereby fleets may travel all over the face of the globe, Germany will then be on top of the world. The opposition to her in Europe will disappear. Most of the other nations will hasten to get upon her band-wagon, and she will be able to dictate the basis upon which world politics shall be conducted. If the German thrust for sea power fails, it is only a question of time before the relentless pressure of the blockade upon her capacity to carry on the war effectively will end in the defeat of her purpose, and the Democracies will then have the chance of determining the kind of world in which we are to live."

So far, the Ambassador continued, the struggle has been indecisive, but the British view is that everything today points to the probability that Germany will attempt early this spring to gain a decision against England and France by a terrific attack by land, air and sea, in which she will use every weapon in her armoury. "The object of war," he pointed out, "is to reach a decision, and Germany cannot afford to wait."

Nazi Germany, Lord Lothian told his audience, is in a better position to win today than she was in the last war, when she had to fight on two fronts, because now she can concentrate almost every force she possesses in the west. In the last war she had no effective long-distance air power; today she has the most terrific air force in the world, and is daily adding to it. He recalled the German General Staff's three desperate bids for world power in 1914, 1917 and 1918. If, he declared, the German submarines had been able to continue for a year the rate of 800,000 tons of shipping per month they sank in 1917, the Allies would have lost the war. For the Chief of the German General Staff, Ludendorff, it was world power or downfall. "Today, we hear exactly the same story. Doctor Goebbels said only a fortnight ago that the issue before Germany was world power or downfall."

Lord Lothian suggested that we have all of us perhaps been a little misled by the relative calm of the war in the west so far, and pointed out that while Britain has been overtaking her own shortage, Germany has also been expanding her armaments "with all the frenzied energy of Nazi totalitarian drive." He said it was certain that "if and when the attack comes, it will be with all the ferocity and ruthlessness the Nazis have taught us to expect." "We are," he went on, "in no way dismayed by the prospect. We in the British Commonwealth are prepared for it, as France is, morally and physically. The European neutrals are standing on the sidelines, most of them, I believe, gambling on the hope of an Allied victory. We believe that we shall successfully repel the German attack and that if it is repelled, as it was in 1918, it will not be long before Hitlerism itself goes down in defeat. But we have no illusions as to the terrible nature of the clash if and when it comes, or of the prodigious consequences for mankind which hang upon the result."

The Ambassador closed with what he described as "one actual point to which we in Britain attach supreme importance." "We feel, he declared, "that the only foundation for a stable and liberal world will be the control of the sea on agreed principles by the Democracies." That was the foundation of the remarkable Victorian age, in which the most important factor was "a rudimentary police power in the world, the control of the sea by Great Britain and the United States, which made world-war—though not local war—impossible until some other nation was strong enough to challenge their power on the seas."

CASE OF SHOCK

"I only asked him to come and have one at the milk bar, sir."

• The Editor's Life's Ambition

MR. ROBERT CHETWAY and Miss Alice Broadkin were married at noon Monday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Broadkin, Rev. M. L. Gassoway officiating.

The groom is a popular young bum who hasn't done a lick of work since he got shipped in the middle of his junior year at college. He manages to dress well and keep a supply of spending money because his dad is a soft-headed old fool who takes up his bad checks instead of letting him go to jail where he belongs.

The bride is a skinny, fast little idiot who has been kissed and handled by every boy in town since she was 12 years old. She paints like a Sioux Indian, sucks cigarets in secret, and drinks mean corn liquor when she is out joy-riding in her dad's car at night. She doesn't know how to cook, sew or keep house.

The house was newly plastered for the wedding and the exterior newly painted, thus appropriately carrying out the decorative scheme, for the groom was newly plastered, also, and the bride newly painted.

The groom wore a rented dinner suit over athletic underwear of imitation silk. His pants were held up by pale green suspenders. His number eight patent leather shoes matched his state of tightness and harmonized nicely with the axle-grease polish of his hair. In addition to his jag he carried a pocket knife, a bunch of keys, a dun for the ring and his usual look of imbecility.

The bride wore some kind of white thing that left most of her legs sticking out at one end and her bony upper end sticking out at the other.

The young people will make their home with the bride's parents — which means they will sponge on the old man until he dies and then she will take in washing.

Postscript: This may be the last issue of the Tribune, but my life ambition has been to write up one wedding and tell the unvarnished truth. Now that it is done, death can have no sting.—Bob Quillen in Fountain Inn, S. C. Tribune.

• Intense Cold Adds To War Horror

WITH WAR raging on the ground, in the air and over and under the sea, it would seem impossible to find a new element into which to project fresh horrors. Yet one has been found. It is Arctic cold. Fighting in the Finnish campaign goes on under condition almost as strange to our previous conceptions of warfare as if they had been imported from another planet.

The dominating factor in this war of the Far North is temperature. When it falls below a certain point it reduces everything but death to slow motion. Where men are fighting the weather as well as each other, casualties rise fabulously. If a soldier is even slightly wounded and cannot be promptly moved, he dies almost at once, a victim of bitter cold. If troops stray or cannot find shelter, they freeze to death. But the heavy Arctic snows come down and impede every movement, either forward or back. Tanks are immobilized, camions are blocked. Hands not heavily gloved freeze to the triggers of guns. Cannon have to be warmed before they will shoot. A strange stupor descends even on the hardiest who struggle across these white wastes swept by subzero winds and briefly lit by a blood-red sun.

Correspondents send moving stories of battlefields where dead men still stand or crouch like wax-works, frozen into the grotesque positions they assumed at the first onslaught. Unhappy Russians, ill prepared and poorly equipped for this new kind of war, are the chief victims. Better-clad Finns hidden under white capes, skim across the snow-crust on skis, to strike, run and strike again. But even troops trained to these Arctic rigors find them difficult to sustain. The relentless cold grips both sides and in the end holds both forces to minor forays. As the Winter lengthens, it tends to become as impenetrable as a wall. That is what the hard-pressed Finns are praying for.—New York Times.

BEST SAILORS WIN

THAT it is "men" rather than machines who win wars is an old maxim, but also it is an essential truth. The Exeter Times-Advocate uses the battle of the Plata River to point a moral:

Results are the great test, in war as in other things. When it comes to this stern criterion in any enterprise, the human element counts tremendously. Take the matter of the British navy, for instance. It was seamanship that won Drake his renown and Nelson his imperishable fame. Compared with his rival Drake's equipment was decidedly inferior. When it came to the management of his ships and to taking advantage of wind and tide, his opponents were as children in his strong hands. The same principle holds in the present war. Very wisely the British Government is going the limit in preparing her sailors for any encounter. Detail in this particular must be left to naval experts. But the struggle will be won by the best sailors. This naval battle off Uruguay is highly significant in this particular. Mechanism, before now, has only stood in the way of success. While it is true that it is the man behind the gun who does the work, it is even truer the sailor who gets the ship into position to fire effectively who makes victory possible.

CREDIT SALES SPREAD

R. H. MACY & COMPANY, New York department store, a strictly cash store for 81 years, is now selling on credit terms. The new way is called "cash-time" service. The credit accommodation is limited to a 16-months period.

The reason for the cash-time service is, says Stylewear Buyer, a realization on the part of Macy's that for years installment selling has been growing in popularity and has been extending to all income groups. "We recognize, the president of Macy's is reported as saying "that a customer may have good reason for paying out of income instead of out of capital, and just as emphatically we believe that a person who has cash should be able to buy at cash prices which are not weighted by the added cost of credit operations."—J. C. Kirkwood in Financial Post.

CHINESE GIVE PLAY

PROBABLY the best of Washington's communities of foreign blood is her large Chinese colony—self-respecting, industrious, and law-abiding. A few nights ago the local Chinese staged a drama of their native country to aid those suffering from the ravages of war in their ancestral land. It was a 24-act play of the Ming Dynasty, in which Mook Lan, a Chinese Joan of Arc, takes the place of her sick father, who commands the armies of his country against an army of foreign invaders. The part of the heroine was played by Mary Wong a lovely Chinese girl from New York. Not all the audience were Chinese, and local theatre-goers enjoyed the show as much as did those who understood the dialogue and the minor modulations of the Oriental music.—The Argonaut.

FREEDOM

"GOODWILL toward men" — the phrase we have been hearing so often the last few days. While it is true that there is an obvious lack of this charity in the democracies, still we do better here than elsewhere for the most part. The Blenheim News-Tribune expresses something of this faith in the system which prevails with us here in Canada:

There may be many faults with our system of party politics and responsible government, but until something better comes along we should stand behind it to a man. Only by standing behind it wholeheartedly will democracy be successful, and every one of us should have utmost faith in democracy.

We should even go as far as to deport or place in concentration camps those who would do anything to hinder the progress of democracy. We may be living in a free country, but our freedom is based on responsible government, and anything against responsible government and our freedom should certainly be stamped out.

WAR AND CANADA

NOT MUCH of a war? Look well at the British Islands? Looking at them, it would be well that we take thought that something of what has come to Britain will, before this war is over, come to us in one way and another. Come to us perhaps, sooner than we think. For there is altogether too much smug complacency here in Canada about this war; too much of the "blecher" spectator spirit; too much of comfortable participation.

This war may not be "much of a war" for us now. A day will come when it will be a war for us—a war of desperate reality, a war in which we shall all have to make real sacrifices, to dig deep into our purses for taxes—to save ourselves as people of the British Empire.—Ottawa Journal.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Praise ye the Lord. Praise ye the Lord from the heavens: praise him in the heights. Praise ye him all his angels: praise ye him, all his hosts. Praise ye him, sun and moon: praise him all ye stars of light. Praise him, ye heavens of heavens, and ye waters that be above the heavens. SHIPPING CREAM

A WORD ABOUT sweet cream shipping. I think something should be done to raise the price of sweet cream, especially in the winter time. We hear and read a lot about the whole milk shippers and the price of whole milk is set at well over the $2 mark. But what about the farmer, and there are many of them, who cannot ship whole milk? To be able to ship sweet cream, the farmer has to go to practically the same trouble and expense as the whole milk shipper, to have his barns, etc., in shape to score high enough to satisfy the Board of Health. At the present time sweet cream shippers are receiving 38c per pound of butter fat, which from milk testing 3.5 would bring $1.15 per hundred.

True the cream shipper has the skim milk, but I have yet to hear of any farmer who would consider the skim milk worth more than 15 cents per hundred at the highest. That brings the price up to $1.30. Of course the cost of hauling and delivering whole milk to Montreal is a good deal higher than cream but when figured out it leaves a difference of approximately 70c per hundred and besides there is the price of a cream separator. So how can a farmer who is shipping sweet cream do so in the winter time and make a profit?

MY LADY'S WHATISIT

SCHIAPARELLI, the Parisian designer, predicts that there will be no extremely short skirts or funny looking hats in the feminine wardrobe next spring. Of course, her definition of a funny looking chapeau may differ from the male slant, because she once popularized a bonnet the shape of a shoe.

Perhaps Schiaparelli means that the headgear next spring won't be any funnier than it has been been. Such a meaning still leaves plenty of opportunity for bizarre developments. Actually, though, the eye of the stronger sex has become used to whirligig designs, fantastic shapes featuring towering feathers and little insouciant models perched rakishly on milady's coiffure.

Maybe the male of the species has attained a saturation point where nothing new can shock him as some of the recent creations did when first they flashed across his retina. Secretly, however, we hope not. We also hope Schiaparelli is wrong in her forecast, for a walk down Delaware Avenue or Main Street without a bobbing whatisit nearby would be excruciatingly dull. — Buffalo Courier-Express.

LAKE'S PECULIAR

Lake Ladoga, where the Finns and Russians are fighting, is the largest lake in Europe. It has an area of 7,000 square miles, or almost as great as that of Lake Ontario. One of its peculiarities is a difference of seven feet in its levels by reason of atmospheric changes. Seventy rivers empty into it.—Toronto Star.

RevenueOnFarm Due For Rise Claims Dewan

TORONTO, Jan. 8. —(CP)— Increased prices for farm products in 1940 was predicted Saturday by Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Agriculture Minister.

"These increases may be small in some cases but in others they are certain to be more substantial than anticipated a few months ago," the minister said in his agricultural outlook for 1940.

"War conditions have naturally upset the ordinary calculations of farmers," he said. "They have brought about increased overseas demands for some farm products and reduced the demands for others."

"Altered market demands due to war call for careful thinking and planning for 1940."

The minister urged farmers to use increased incomes to the best advantage. Farms mortgages should be reduced and farm surroundings improved in preference to "unwarranted investments in more land at inflated values as was the case in the last war," he said.

Raise More Fodder

"With a wartime demand for bacon, cheese and concentrated milk products, the Ontario farmer must first produce field crops with which to feed hogs, dairy and beef cattle."

"He must wrest from the soil every bushel of oats, barley and mixed grains it will produce," Mr. Dewan said.

The minister forecast continued demand and increased prices for cheese and powdered and evaporated milk for army supplies. In October 1939, cheese exported to the United Kingdom totalled 15,280,000 pounds compared with 11,583,000 pounds in the same month in 1938. A slight increase in tobacco exports to the United Kingdom is also anticipated.

Based on the increased purchases of seed potatoes, a bumper potato crop is expected in 1940 with prices likely to hold firm. Recent exports of canned fruits to the United Kingdom have increased and the demand is likely to carry over to 1940, Mr. Dewan predicted.

"Taking all the available agricultural data into consideration, the outlook for the Ontario farmer is brighter," the minister summed up.

National Guards Short Of Arms

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP). —General Albert H. Blanding, chief of the National Guard Bureau, reported yesterday that the citizen soldiers were seriously short of arms and equipment.

He also said in his annual report that the United States War Department's objective wa sto whip the Guardsmen ino shape as a mobilization day "combat force."

Officials have estimated that under present conditions one to two months would be required to train the Guard units in the event of war and an even longer period would be necessary for acquiring critical items of armament.

Under appropriation estimates pending in Congress, the Guardsmen are to be given twenty-seven days' field training annually.

Strangling Economic Rope Tightening On Germany

Here is a map-digest of the current situation in Europe, showing how the British-French blockade is slowly, but surely, drawing a strangling economic rope around the throat of Germany. Gradually the Allies are either buying up materials which would normally be exported to Germany, or they are making the blockade so tight that the exports could not get through, anyway. Since Russia has more trouble with Finland than she has any use for, Moscow is not being the "great help" to Germany that Germany expected when that famous pact was signed.

700 Scholars Enrolled At St. James'

A resume of the year's work in St. James United Sunday School given at their annual meeting shows that it has been a year of unqualified success under the able superintendency of Mr. E. R. Frost.

A brief devotional service was opened with prayer by the Superintendent and business followed.

Reports from the various departments from Cradle Roll to Treasurer's statement were received while the Superintendent gave some highlights of the activities for 1939.

Complimenting the classes upon their accomplishments for the year he thanked all for their hearty co-operation and urged its continuance so that the New Year may bring still greater success.

700 scholars were reported on the roll, with 45 teachers, 11 other officers for 53 Sundays was 358 scholars and 37 for teachers.

48 scholars received awards for attendance and the total numbers of visitors was 361.

18 white gift baskets were dispensed to needy families.

Officers Elected.

During the election of officers, Rev. Mr. Craik presided, and spoke of St. James School over another year. He commended all for their earnest support in the arduous work being carried out so efficiently.

The staff of officers for the present year includes: Superintendent of School, E. R. Frost; assistants, 1, J. English; 2, E. G. Kitney; primary supt., Mrs. Ernest Lee; junior supt., Mrs. E. R. Frost; secretary, H. Welbourn; assistant secretary, H. Fife; treasurer, John Sanderson; pianist, Mrs. R. C. Searles; asisstant, Mrs. H. F. Doig, lantern operators, A. McLaren, R. Hardie, A. Passenger Liner Hits Mine But Makes Port

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(CP).— After a week of quiet at sea, warfare was renewed Sunday, with the sinking of the 2,888-ton British steamship Townley by a mine off the south-east coast of England. Her crew was saved.

It raised the estimated toll of all nations to at least 292 ships with an aggregate tonnage of 1,033,895.

One seaman was killed and thirteen were injured aboard the 8,317-ton British passenger liner City of Marseilles, which was towed into port after striking a mine off the east coast of Scotland.

The shock of the explosion is said to have done little apparent damage to the hull, but the interior of the liner was badly wrecked. The blast came just after the City of Marseilles had picked up her pilot. Immediately after the explosion lifeboats were launched. Two capsized and fourteen men were thrown into the water. They were picked up later.

The entire crew of seventeen men of the 449-ton British trawler Kingston Cornelian were lost when she collided with the 8,920-ton French liner Chella in Gibraltar Strait, despatches reaching here said yesterday. The Chiella was damaged. It lowered boats but failed to find any survivors.

At least 2,739 lives have been lost in the eighteen weeks and one day of maritime warfare.

Sinking of the British trawler by a mine was disclosed Saturday with the landing at an East Coast port of six survivors rescued by a sister ship. The name of the trawler was said to be the Eta.

The war in the air was marked by little activity during the week-end. The Royal Air Force was reported authoritatively to have carried out reconnaissance flights over Northwestern Germany, in addition to the usual security patrols maintained over German seaplane bases.

"Composer Of "Rock-a-Bye Baby" Dies Penniless

BOSTON, Jan. 8.—(AP).—Eternal sleep came Sunday to Mrs. Effie I. Canning Carlton, 84, whose slumberous melody to the long-loved lullaby, "Rock-a-Bye Baby," brought the sandman to the bedside of millions of babies—but never to one of her own.

In impoverished circumstances, she died in Boston's City Hospital—victim of a cerebral hemorrhage suffered several days ago—in a room provided by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers.

A former actress who once toured the country with William Gillette, she composed the melody to the old Mother Goose rhyme to lull to sleep the restless baby of a neighbor.

She took her composition to a Boston music published at her teacher's urging and he snapped it up as a find and popularized it by permitting its use in a road show.

He had the song copyrighted. Within a few months the sales ran to $20,000, and before he died several years later more than 300,000 copies were sold.

Twice renewed, the copyright was allowed to lapse when the music publishing firm changed hands. Investigating Mrs. Carlton's finances shortly after she went to the hospital, the American Society of Composers found she had received few royalties from her song.

With The Boy Scouts

Along Murray Street

Peterborough's youngest pack is coming along in fine style and at the last meeting a new assistant was introduced to the council rock. He was Earl McNabb and along the jungle trail he will be known as Baloo.

The pack is getting all practised up for January 26, when they will entertain their parents. Games played were Crocodile Race, Shoe Relay and Duck Relay.

Cub songs and stories brought to a close a successful evening.

Nine of the pack went on a tobogganning party on Saturday; all having a thoroughly good time.

A recent pack good turn was the group calling in at the Anson House and entertaining the old folk with a small concert. Don Grant, Jack Sutcliffe, Howard Hempstead and Gary Zavitz all gave their best. The pack sang several songs and carols and enacted the Bible story of the "The Good Samaritan" in pantomime.

More Boys in Scouting

Nothwithstanding the unsettled war conditions and the loss of leaders, the membership of the Boy Scouts in England has been rapidly expanding. This has been due in part to the public attention attracted by the really splendid service rendered by scouts in connection with the city evacuation of children. Many evacuated lads have applied to join cub packs and scout troops of their new home localities.

At St. John's

Almost full attendance was present to start 1940 off right in the St. John's pack and to enjoy the games of Birds Fly and Two Dogs and a Bone.

Skits for the cub concert, "Cubs on Parade," to be held February 5 were rehearsed under the direction of Akela, Raksha and Rann. Tickets for the concert were issued to each cub and a ticket sale contest was opened. One point will be given for each ticket sold, and the leading Six will be given a special treat.

James Blaiklock was appointed second of the Brown Wolves and Ken Simmons second of the Grey Wolves—both being presented with their arm badges of office.

The Green Wolves gained highest points in the Six competition and will hold honor pennant for next meeting.

Cubs are reminded that concert practice is on Wednesday of this week at 6.45 sharp. All present, please.

The Crew.

St. John's crew held its first mixed social in the home of Rover Art Winslow and an enjoyable meeting was carried on.

Sunday next is the Corporate Communion, when All Saints' will join with St. John's both at divine service and breakfast following, at which Rev. Canon Robertson will speak.

On Tuesday next, January 16, St. John's rovers will hold their annual banquet, which all members new and old are requested to attend. Uniform is expected at both occasions.

Scouts Combine Fire Prevention And War Relief

A contribution of $65 toward the Vancouver war chest fund by the 13th, 21st and 27th Vancouver troops was raised by the collection, bundling and sale of 13 tons of waste paper. The joint effort was launched through the discovery of piles of old newspapers and magazines in the basements of homes, when scouts of the three troops were on Fire Prevention Week inspection and instruction work in co-operation with the fire department.

At All Saints

The troop had a fair turn out of boys and divided up in three groups for instruction. First class signalling under the scouter; 2nd class under Stan Brook, and tenderfoot under A.S.M. Bartlett.

Plans were discussed regarding Parents' Night to be held some time in February.

With St. Andrew's

Both the pack and troop are going along fine. At the last meeting the troop did a good turn for the church by delivering the yearly envelopes to the various members' houses.

Plans are going ahead for a Parents' Night that will be held on January 25, of which further details will be given next week.

Scouters' Club

Thursday night is the Scouters' night. No official notice has been given by the president, but the hall will be open and fire ready anyway; so come along.

Reeve John McColl Bags Cornered Fox

HASTINGS, Jan. 8.—(ENS)—Asphodel township's reeve, John McColl put the finishing touches to a brisk three hour hunt for a fox the latter part of the week when the animal badly wounded came near Mr. McColl's farm and was trapped in a fence corner by his dog. Over hill and dale for three hours, the animal led a merry chase with at least four hunters and several dogs on its trail. Humphries Brothers succeeded in getting three shots at reynard and the last slug seemed to have reached its mark.

The fox gave the dogs a fair chase despite its injury but when it ran directly into the path of Reeve McColl's dog, the fatal error was made.

Each winter several farmers of the district engage in the sport of fox hunting. They claim that foxes would become so plentiful in a few years their farmyards would soon be left without any fowl. To hunt fox means to be ready to walk several miles when a pursuit is on.

Rescued Fisher Likely To Live

VANCOUVER, Jan. 8 (CP) — Captain George Skinner, hardy-middle-aged veteran of the Canadian Pacific coast fishing fleet, was given a chance of recovery today after passing through a shipwreck and three weeks of starvation and exposure.

Captain Skinner, whose fish-packer great northern No. 5 was driven ashore on an isolated stretch of Vancouver Island in a pre-Christmas gale, now is in hospital at Port Alice, pulp mill settlement at the head of Quatsino Sound.

His physician said that "with rest, nursing and proper food, he has a chance for recovery."

Captain Skinner and his two-man crew—his son, Hugh, and engineer Ted Barnard—were given up for lost when they failed to report after their craft encountered a heavy blow in stormy Quatsino Sound, on the north end of Vancouver Island.

Barnard was swept overboard and drowned. His son Hugh was sighted by a searching airplane as he trudged along the rocky shore in quest of help. Hugh was brought to Vancouver two weeks ago and has been in hospital since. Two of his toes have been amputated.

Expert Solves Hollywood Triangle With New Set Of Commandments

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 8—(AP)—A set of psychological "10 commandments" was employed by Dr. S. L. Katzoff, marital expert, in solving an "internal triangle" case in Hollywood.

Dr. Katzoff believes they can be applied successfully to most such domestic rifts, he said today.

The Hollywood case involved a prominent film couple. The wife contended her husband had fallen in love with another woman. Denying this, he said his wife had hurt and antagonized him by criticizing his intellectual interests and friends.

Seeking Dr. Katzoff's aid, the actress insisted she still loved her husband and wanted to keep him, but seemed inclined to do something rather drastic about the other woman.

Dr. Katzoff told her that was not the way to work it.

To build a solid reconciliation, he came here a few days ago from San Francisco, where he is medical director and consulting psychiatrist of the Institute of Human Relations. He talked with both wife and husband.

The upshot was that the couple went off to a secluded resort for a second honeymoon.

Ten Suggestions.

Following are Dr. Katzoff's "commandments" for winning back a straying mate:

1. Pretend to know nothing of the infatuation or new love affair.
2. Do not criticize or condemn the third party.
3. Do not criticize or condemn the mate.
4. Take an inventory of your own emotional assets and liabilities.
5. Begin to do the things one has neglected to do and shun things which should have been left undone or unsaid.
6. Try to remember that the greatest mischief maker is the human tongue.
7. Begin a campaign of undermining a mate's resistance by being unusually kind and attentive.
8. Give him merited praise, more than ever before. (Feed him mostly through his ears.)
9. Compete with your competitor in every way.
10. Keen on visualizing the goal—that of re-winning him, and do everything in your power to accomplish that aim. Give particular attention to: Tactfulness, praise, and making him feel important.

Col. Macdowell, V.C. To Lecture Troops

With the Royal Air Force in France, Jan. 8 (CP)—Lieut.-Col. T. W. Macdowell, V.C., hero of the first Great War, is expected here next week with Beverley Baxter, M.P., publicist and journalist to lecture to members of Royal Air Force units in France.

They will discuss matters of topical interest. A long list of lectures has been compiled to give the airmen informative talks. First to come will be H. M. Abraham, British Olympic champion, now working in the ministry of economic warfare, who will lecture on athletics.

He will be followed among others by Bernard Newman, author, Lieut.-Col. Macdowell, Mr. Baxter, Wedgwood Benn, M.P., former secretary for India who was a pilot in the first Great War, and Admiral Sir Edward Evans.

Colonel Macdowell received the V.C. and the D.S.O. in 1917.

Ursula's Crew Decorate Themselves

Quite obviously the crew of the British submarine, Ursula, knew it had performed valiantly when it sunk one of Germany's Koln class cruisers at the mouth of the River Elbe, and so, rather than wait for decorations from official sources, the sub crew decided to decorate itself with "iron crosses," such as Chancellor Hitler presents to his submarine crews after a victorious voyage.

17,600 Ambulance Drivers Ready At Moment's Call For Raid Party

LONDON, Jan. 8 — (CP). — The tall brunette in trousers lisped "Mr. Horner, there's a warning," and the men in a little room beneath a London borough hall sprang to action. They took their places around tables in the room painted a gaudy yellow and decorated with angels and proceeded to show the clock-like efficiency of London's Air Raids Precaution service.

In the basement, reached by a winding stair from a dark alley, was one of London area's nine local report centres to which requests for aid come in event of raid damage. Newspapermen saw them work during a surprise visit late one cold, wet night.

The reports were passed by the brunette who took them from a wicket between the control room and the next one in which women of all ages and degrees of beauty received them by telephone. Men in the control room recorded on a chart marked "Services Called" whether it was a stretcher party, an ambulance or a squad to release people from a burning buiding that had been summoned. A call went out to an appropriate station and two minutes later a tab appeared on another board, marked "Services Sent," to show the party had been despatched.

These people, many of them voluntary workers, were some of the 150,000 men and women who keep constant day and night vigil to protect the 9,000,000 people in Greater London against death from the sky.

Women Drivers.

Women ambulance drivers at what was a peacetime garage showed at our next stop how they respond to a call. The alarm sent women who had been playing darts or practising bandaging scampering across the cement floor to their ambulances which included everything from a big truck to a large private car. They roared out of the garage into the darkened street.

One marvelled at their driving in the blackout. "Really, it's nothing," said the youthful commandant. "You should have seen it before they painted that post box outside white."

There are 390 emergency ambulance stations in London region with 17,600 drivers and attendants. Of this total, 9,380 are men and the balance women.

From an evacuated convent the reporters say an assortment of men—most of them victims of wartime unemployment but now paid £3 ($13.20) weekly—line up at the alarm, don rubber boots and gas-masks and rush to a mythical centre where casualties had been reported.

Rescue and repair parties had a tougher job. It was about 1 a.m. when we reached their depot—a former borough workshop. When the alarm sounded, they got into their boots and the yellow slickers they wear for gas decontamination jobs, boarded trucks and left. We say the extensive system of showers for cleansing them after such work, the new garbage tins standing ready to receive clothing after a gas attack and the new underwear waiting in their lockers.

Repair Jobs.

Bricklayers and building trades workers in peacetime, these men will have to prop up or demolish falling buildings, rescue people from debris, block off damaged or gas-affected streets when an air raid comes. A former moving van used for transporting furniture from houses disinfected for vermin has been changed to a gas decontamination machine.

The repair squad's storehouse was like a contractor's headquarters. It contained oxy-acetelylene cutting tools, extra supplies of underwear, gulleys, jacks, rope, tin hats and rubber boots.

Firefighters also play a big part in the civil defence scheme. Nerve Centre is the London Fire Brigade headquarters which soon will be moved to an underground shelter that can withstand a direct hit from a 500-pound bomb. In addition to regular fire stations, there is an auxiliary fire service (A.F.S.) numbering 27,000, including 5,000 women who do telephone and watch duty.

We saw one auxiliary brigade routed from sleep in a one-time school about 2 a.m. and sent to a nearby dock. Other reserves were called out and in no time there was a big concentration of fire-pumps, drawn behind commandeered taxi-cabs. Beside the Thames, they put on a demonstration in conjunction with a firebcat that would gladden the heart of the most enthusiastic fire-engine follower.

BONARLAW, Jan. 8.—(ENS)—The annual Sunday School banquet and concert held by St. Mark's Sunday School on Tuesday evening in the Sunday School rooms was a splendid success.

The result was as follows: Recitation by Jackie McComb, Bobby Stocker, Jean Brown, Walter Marriatt, Helena Marriatt, and Ralph Haslett; dialogue, "Betty's Blunder," by Helen Eastwood and Jesse Barlow; piano duet by Misses Dorothy Walt and Phyllis Barlow; vocal solo, Master Ray McLaren; piano solo, Chester Baker; vocal duet, Miss Hilda Brown and Mr. J. In addition to this bags of candy and gum were given to all the pupils. The special prize for best attendance in the primary class was won by Audrey Brown and Ralph Baslett.

A feature of the evening was the presentation to Mr. Harry Skerritt on behalf of the congregation of St. Mark's Church a New Testament and Eversharp pencil. Mr. Skerritt has resigned his position of sexton after seven years' faithful service owing to the fact that he has enlisted in the army. In making the presentation, Canon Swayne, Church Wardens Barlow and Baker, and men's club president, A. B. McComb spoke in glowing terms of Mr. Skerritt's faithfulness to duty. Mr. Skerritt, taken completely by surprise, thanked all the members for the gifts and expressed his regret in having to give up the post.

resignation Friday of the War Secretary who had extensively remodelled the British Army would be aired in Parliament, with a statement by Mr. Hore-Belisha and a reply by the Prime Minister.

With all its unanswered questions—about "prejudice,' 'intrigue and army caste—the resignation remained the centre of a political tempest. Some members of Parliament talked of a secret session to discuss the matter.

Mr. Hore-Belisha arranged for last goode-byes today to the office he had occupied since 1937. This is the first working day for the new ministers named in the shake-up: War Secretary Oliver Stanley, former President of the Board of Trade; his successor, Sir Andrew Rae Duncan, and Sir John Reith, who replaced Lord MacMillan, Minister of Information.

Newest theory concerning the resignation of the War Secretary was advanced by The Daily Express, which said he may have quarrelled with Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, over announcement of the arrival of Canadian troops in England.

The Express political commentator, Guy Eden, reminded his readers that Mr. Churchill made known the arrival of the first Canadian contingent during a broadcast, and said he may have done so before "the War Office wished it announced."

Announcement of the news had been scheduled for 24 hours after Mr. Churchill made his broadcast.

The memory of Sir Arthur Currie, Commander of the Canadian forces in the First Great War, as a civilian who "succeeded where conventional brass hats had failed," was evoked by The Daily Herald.

The political commentator of The Herald, criticized Prime Minister Chamberlain for what he claimed was bowing to pressure of the Generals against Mr. Hore-Belisha.

Soldiers from the Dominions found "to their disgust that the old gang is on top again," the commentator said.

He went on:

"Canadians remember how in the last 'do,' their Chief General, Sir Arthur Currie, who had been a mere real estate agent, had succeeded where conventional brass hats had failed."

The Press Association declared the Government must give "a frank explanation" to "allay an unpleasant feeling tat something unusual has happened in British politics"

The agency said that in a final interview between the Prime Minister and the former war secretary, Mr Chamberlain offered him the presidency of the Board of Trade "and could not understand why he declined."

Prejudice But No Criticism.

Mr. Chamberlain, it said, praised Mr. Hore-Belisha and told him "he could have no word of criticism against him, but said 'there is prejudice'."

Calling the resignation "the first really serious mistake this country has made in the war," the News Chronicle added:

"It is disturbing enough that the army chiefs and their associates should have been able to exercise such power. It is even more disturbing that they should have deemed it proper to do so at a time when their country is fighting for its life. The fact that the Prime Minister should have given way to pressure of a clique is additional cause for justifiable resentment."

The News Chroncile's political writer, A. J. Cummings, wrote that "there is going to be a whale of a row over this unsavory business. The part Mr. Chamberlain played in the intrigue against the war minister reflects no credit on his high office."

The Daily Mirror attacked the government "dope press" for what it saw as attempts to smooth over the situation and demanded answers to a dozen questions on the resignation It concluded:

"Failing an explanation we repeat that the government has dealt itself a staggering blow. It has relapsed with a thud lower into the morass of its mediocrity"

The Times, however, rejected any notion that Mr. Hore-Belisha's retirement was the result of friction between him and army officers.

"It would be unfortunate, apart from being manifestly wide of the facts if the facts of Mr. Hore-Belisha's resignation were really to become stereotyped as the outcome of a quarrel between the civilian head of the war office and 'the generals,'" the paper said.

"To a far greater extent than in 1914, the whole population is engaged in a titanic military struggle. There is no question of a clean-cut division between soldiers and civilians. Nor is there any longer the slightest doubt about the quarter in which the ultimate responsibility for great decisions must lie."

Recalling that the former war secretary himself promoted Viscount Gort to be his first chief of the general staff, transferred him later to the command of the British Expeditionary Force and named Sir Edmund Ironside to succeed him, The Times declares: "It is absurd to suppose that the army as a whole is not profoundly grateful to Mr. Hore-Belisha for celaring the channels, absurd to suppose that the men who profited by the clearance bear him any personal grudge, most absurd of all to suppose that there is anything but warm approval for what is called democratization of the fighting forces in the sense of quicker and more extensive recognition of qualities of leadership in the rank and file.

"Not a word of doubt on this point has been heard in any single quarter, civilian or military. A far simpler and more natural explanation, particularly to those who have been brought into daily contact with the late war secretary's expansive nature, is that a cumulative series of minor personal frictions—none of them, as we are assured on both sides, in any way connected with the policy of conducting the war—had gradually driven the prime minister to the conclusion that a change at home would make for smoother working both in the department and the cabinet.

"But in any case the responsibility lies, as it must lie, with Mr. Chamberlain and not with the generals. There will be no complaint if he finds it desirable to make more and more frequent changes."

Outlining other aspects of the work of the War Supply Board, Mr. Howe said that tenders have been asked for some 72 boats, ranging from 18-foot dinghies to steel ships of the British whale-catcher design, involving an expenditure of $17,000,000. "Our shipbuilding industry will have its hands full in meeting the required delivery dates. Both the Canadian and British governments will share in this program."

The minister said that the large British orders anticipated by Canadian manufacturers have not appeared as yet "for the obvious reason that the tempo of war activity has not been as rapid as had been anticipated.

"I think that none of us should feel badly that this is so. Large munition orders for Canada may well reflect long casualty lists at the front. We can well afford to lose the orders, if we can be spared the casualties.

"Great Britain has had a large and distinguished group of purchasing experts in Canada since the outbreak of war, who have been studying our productive capacity and who are prepared to place orders when the time of need comes. Canada has already been organized as a second source of supply for British munitions and there is little doubt that our full productive capacity will be needed before the struggle ends."

Mr. Howe said that war buying is a difficult task and every war in history has had its series of scandals connected with the purchase of war supplies and food stuffs. "In this war, Canada is making every effort to prevent dishonesty, inefficiency and profiteering. I feel that our war purchasing machinery will prove itself capable of doing a job that will win the approval of the Canadian people."

Profiteering will be very difficult during the war, the minister continued. "I sincerely hope that it can be prevented altogether. Certainly the spirit of industrialists and workers at the moment is to perform their functions efficiently and without inflation of costs. There exists every patriotic motive likely to ensure that this spirit will continue."

Orders placed by the War Supply Board amount to about $65,000,000, exclusive of $25,000,000 for railway equipment. In this war, Canada must fight on two fronts—first on the overseas front with Canadian troops fighting with the British and French, and second on the home front where the citizens must carry on with equal enthusiasm.

"I can offer you no message that will find a quicker response in your hearts than the promise that I and all those associated with me in the activities of the War Supply Board will spare neither personal effort nor any resource at our command, to see to it, without consideration personal of political, that the armed forces of the Dominion are the best fed, the best clothed and the best equipped in the world."

"I GO PRETTY NEAR CRAZY WITH DRIVER'S ACHES ... So I'm grateful for the quick relief I get from Sloan's"

Driving is no child's play. Take the wheel of a bus, truck, transport or car for hours on end and you'll know how muscles can play out. Arms, legs, shoulders and back generally feel it most. But Sloan's gently patted over the weary muscles brings quick relief. Fatigue poisons in the tissues are generally the cause of the trouble. The action of Sloan's stimulates the circulation and so helps the blood carry off these poisons. And that is why quick relief follows.

There are many things that we do while at work or at play, which may strain muscles or tire them so that they soon ache exasperatingly. When this occurs, Sloan's is the sensible treatment. Better keep a bottle of this fine liniment in the house. 119

CITY COUNCIL NAMES CHAIRMEN OF STANDING COMMITTEES

Only Two Changes Made In Heads Of 1940 City's Committees At Inaugural Meeting Of Council

Only two changes in the appointment of committee chairmen were made by the council in its reorganization for the new year this morning.

Alderman Herbert Bradburn was transferred from the Legal to the Manufacturers Committee, and Alderman Gordon resumed the chairmanship of the Legal Committee which he had held in 1938, vacating it last year in favor of Alderman Bradburn.

The feature of the first meeting of the 1940 council was Mayor Hamilton's address which is quoted at length elsewhere. Citizens generally passed up the council's formal inauguration. Police Magistrate O. A. Langley was one of the small gallery of six men who attended.

Rev. Fred W. Craig, president of the Ministerial Association, at the invitation of Mayor Hamilton, began the introductory proceedings with prayer, invoking the blessing of God on the city and its council, and also on their Majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth and the British Commonwealth.

"This is certainly an honor to me," Rev. Mr. Craik said in a personal address to the council. "It is the first time in my life that I have appeared before a city council in this special privilege. I bear the greetings of the Ministerial Association of the city, a group of men who are with you for the improvement of the community, and also in trying to keep the moral tone of the city and district where it ought to be."

On his own behalf Rev. Mr. Craik wished the council a most successful year in conducting the city's affairs. World conditions were imposing new problems that called for faith in the help and guidance of Almighty God, assisting the council to go forward in the assurance that right would prevail and that justice and freedom must rule.

"I wish you well in making Peterborough a city that people will continue to love to live in. I pray that God will bless and direct you in all you do, and give you health and prosperity in this year."

Mr. Craik mentioned the series of services being held in the churches this week, and invited the council to attend one or all of them.

Declaration of Loyalty

The first resolution adopted by the new council was moved by Alderman Cotton, seconded by Alderman Bradburn, "that this council of the City of Peterborough renew its expression of loyalty and devotion to His Majesty King George Sixth, its loyalty to the British Commonwealth and its willingness to co-operate fully with the Government of Canada in its successful prosecution of the war."

This motion was passed by a standing vote and the singing of "God Save the King."

The only other business of the session was the acceptance of the Rotary Club's invitation to attend their luncheon at noon today.

The two new members of the council, Alderman Fred L. Roy and Alderman William G. Ovens were welcomed by their associates and greeted by Mayor Hamilton in his address. They replace R. M. Glover and James Juby.

The personnel of the committees as chosen in Committee of the Whole this morning follows:

Board of Works—Alderman Wilson, chairman, and all the other members.

Fire, Water and Light—Alderman McIntyre, chairman, and Aldermen Dutton, Ovens, Wilson, Cotton and McCannan.

Parks—Aldermen Stocker, chairman, Cotton, Roy, Ovens, McIntyre and Dutton.

Relief—Alderman Dutton, chairman, and all the other members.

Scope Extended

Alderman Gordon suggested that a "ways and means committee" be added to the standing committee, but after some discussion of his idea, he changed it by adding its proposed duties to the Legal Committee. Some of those duties are to inquire into and report to the council property both real and personal owned by the city. Also to inquire into and report upon all debts due the city either by way of taxes, levies, license fees, or from any other source, including monies owing to the Queen Mary Hospital and Nicholls Hospital, and to make recommendations for more efficient collection of such debts.

Alderman Gordon said he included the Nicholls Hospital because the council might be able to render some help, and thereby assist in reducing the amount the Hospital had to requisition from the council.

Nagging Wife Is Given Beating

"I guess it was because she was nagging and it got under my skin," said a 35-year-old Trent River man in explaining to Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. in police court this morning how it came about that he assaulted his wife on Sunday. The husband pleaded guilty to the charge.

"This is the first charge of any kind against this man," said Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. "I think that if he were bound over to keep the peace and allowed to go on suspended sentence it would serve as a lesson."

Reminding the accused that he had pleaded guilty to a serious offence for which the punishment could be two years' imprisonment and a whipping Magistrate Langley agreed with the Crown Attorney's suggestion.

He reminded the man that he had little sympathy for men who beat their wives. They should understand that they had vowed to take their wives for better or worse" and that included nagging.

The president explained to the meeting the result of the visit of a deputation from the association to the City Council regarding midnight shows. The Council, he said, was in favor of putting an end to these shows, and was corresponding with the Provincial Government regarding a change in the law regulating picture houses.

Canon J. D. Paterson introduced the matter of the association presenting a cup for the Boys' Church Hockey League. On the motion of Dr. E. W. Young and Dr. A. T. Barr, a sum of money was allocated for that purpose, and Canan Paterson and Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt were appointed to make the purchase.

Dr. A. T. Barr reported that Dr. Northcote Deck would hold a series of meetings to begin to-night in All Saints' Church. It was decided to advertise in the local papers and that Dr. Young report the meetings to the press.

Rev. R. T. F. Brain asked the association to sponsor an annual interdenominational meeting for the laymen of the city similar to that which was held last year. This was agreed to and the following committee was appointed: Revs. E. W. Young, R. T. F. Brain, Adjt. Buckley, Messrs. L. J. Pettit, Ald. J. J. Dutton, Arthur Pitchford, Albert Cuff, E. R. Frost, Clarence Corbett, and Ken Kingston.

Canon W. W. Judd, M.A., D.C.L., secretary for Social Service for the Anglican Church, will give the address.

Dr. Northcote Deck was introduced by Canon J. D. Paterson, whom he had met at the Canadian Keswick Conference. The speaker dealt mainly with his work on the Solomon islands, in which he had been medical missionary for many years. He said that ancestor worship still prevailed in the islands. There are 10,000 Christian men and women there. They have formed separate villages, of which there are 400. All the natives work freely because of their intense love of Christ, there are 1,200 of these native workers. Their one book is the Bible. These people are not negroes, they are South Sea Islanders, and natural gentlemen. They are small and brown. Dr. Northcote Deck spent some years in England recently and took an active part in the great Keswick movement in England. He had seen 10,000 people of the better class in a mass meeting in the Albert Hall, London, at the annual meeting of the Scripture Union.

The tide of religion is rising in the Old Country, there is much open Godlessness, but the mass of thoughtful people are turning to Christ and the Bible. In the London Times much space is given to Biblical and spiritual topics. Dr. Northcote Deck has been six times around the world. He will address special meetings in the city this week:

Monday, All Saints'; Tuesday, St. Andrew's; Wednesday, St. Paul's; Thursday, St. James'; Friday, Murray Street; Saturday, Salvation Army.

Three Children Hurt By Cars

Three Peterborough young folk were slightly injured in three different traffic accidents on city streets Saturday evening. Running across Aylmer street to go up town to "get something for her dollie" 11-year-old DoreenToplis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Toplis, 241 Murray street, ran directly in front of a car being driven south by C J. Ruth, 492 McDonnel street. The road was very slippery and the driver was unable to swerve his car in time to avert striking the child. The front bumper of the automobile hit the little girl on the calf of the left leg and threw her to the road. Fortunately she was not badly hurt, escaping with a bruised leg and a cut over the left eye. The accident happened at 5.15 o'clock in front of Silverwood's Dairy.

Vernon Marshall, 501 Bethune street, 12 years old, had his left knee hurt when he was struck by an automobile driven by Joseph Murphy, 497 Elm street, on Saturday night and knocked from his bicycle. Murphy had pulled to the left to avoid another car that was turning into Park street as Murphy's machine came from the south.

Kenneth Lee, 14, of 62 Sophia street was another young bicyclist who was in collision with an automobile Saturday night shortly after 9 o'clock. He was struck by a car being driven north on George street by Gordon LaPlante, 164 Lake street and was shaken up when knocked to the ground. Laplante told police he was blinded by the very bright lights of an approaching car.

Adult education is to be introduced into Jamaica.

History Reading Is On Decline At The Library

A slight increase in the circulation of books in the Peterborough Public Library last year as compared with the 1938 total is noted by Librarian F. M. Delafosse in his annual report to the Library Board.

Mr. Delafosse calls attention to an unusual decrease in the departments of history and philosophy during the year and remarks that the effect on circulation was not noticed inasmuch as there was a corresponding increase in the demand for books of biography and fine arts. Why history reading fell off in a year that was making plenty of new history itself and full of events that might reasonably have been expected to have created an appetite for history is not made clear.

The report is as follows:

I beg to submit to you herewith my annual report on the work accomplished in the Library during the past year.

Our circulation figures do not show much variation from the preceding year save in the departments of History and Philosophy. In these there has been an unaccountable decline of interest which has been counterbalanced, however, by a marked increase in Biography and the Fine Arts. So far as mere circulation is concerned there has been a slight increase over the figures of 1938.

Taking into consideration the fact that work was somewhat hampered for several days by the necessity of having the building re-decorated I think that quite a satisfactory showing has been made.

Reading Rooms

Our Reading rooms have been as well patronized as ever and it has been gratifying to note that there has not been as much mutilation of books and magazines as in former years, the public seeming to have recognized in large measure the principle embodied in "Noblesse oblige."

Books

The number of books obtained for the Library during the year amounted to 2374 in the adult department and 773 in the Juvenile, an increase of 247 books over the preceding year. There was considerable depreciation in both sections of the Library. 720 Books were cancelled in the adult section and 527 in the Juvenile.

Registration of Borrowers

At the beginning of the year a new register was started. On December 31st the number of borrowers amounted to 1257 men and 1507 women, a total of 2825, which is good evidence that the library is very well patronized by readers.

Red Cross Society

On the outbreak of war the top flat of the building was handed over to the Red Cross Society for the duration of the war and no difficulty has been experienced in any way in the prosecution of the ordinary work of the Library.

Improvements in Building

There has been a most marked change in the temperature throughout the Library since the repairs that have been made and the effect is seen in the comfort experienced by frequenters.

The Juvenile Department

This department has been kept in excellent condition by the staff engaged in that work and Miss Fowler has been able to add to the attractiveness of the rooms by having all the volumes shellacked and cleaned.

Several visits have been paid to the different schools, and it is a pleasure to note that teachers are taking a keen interest in the books, not only of the Juvenile branch but in the reference books to be found in the Adult department.

Work in Both Departments

The year that has passed has seen a considerable amount of useful compilation of matter made by the staff in the Library. In the Adult department a great deal of work in collecting valuable data on different subjects has been done and everything has been properly catalogued and made easy of access. In the Children's department many pictures have been collected as well as clippings. Appended are the figures of Library circulation as well as items showing what has been accomplished.

The Rambling REPORTERS

LITTLE DOG IN CHURCH.

At the Sunday morning service of Murray St. church a little black dog with a friendly nature entered the building. Prior to the opening of the service he was carried carefully out, but at the first opportunity he entered again. At the time for the first hymn he was up at the front looking over the premises. Pastor and one of the officials moved down to gather up the little visitor, but the small dog wasn't having any and started travelling under the pews. When passing upder one of the seats near the front a lady reached down, scooped up the wee dog and handed him captive to one of the pursuers a neat exhibition of the art of dog catching. The dog probably heard the first line of the second verse as he was going out the door.—K.

Rotarians Are Hosts To City Council

Members of the city council were guests of the Peterborough Rotary Club at luncheon to-day and listened while their hosts got themselves entangled with a quizz program in which they demonstrated that there are a number of things about Peterborough concerning which they are not too accurately informed.

The event took the form of a contest between two teams one consisting of Rotarians T. W. McKay, Dr. Harold Long, H. L. Garner, Mel. Jamieson, G. M. Stenton and J. S. Mark, and the other of Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, Morley Shaver, Jas. Juby, Ron. McGrath, Max Comstock and Tom Dutton.

The first-named sextette eventually proved the winner with a score of 60 points as against 45 compiled by the losing team. They were presented with cakes as an award for their victory while copies of a booklet concerning Peterborough were given the losers, Mayor Hamilton making the presentations.

Rotarians Ald. James Dutton and Ross Dobbin were in charge of the quizz while Ald. H. I. Bradburn and W. G. Ovens acted as judges.

The questions were all concerning Peterborough. The contestants were asked for example to name the man who served longest as mayor and they fell down on that one, the general answer being Roland Denne, while the correct reply should have been James Stevenson. The correct name of the bridge across the Otonabee at Park Hill Road also proved puzzling. Not one of the contestants thought of "Inverlea Bridge." There were few who could give the proper name for the Hunter street bridge, either. It is officially known as the "Ashburnham Bridge." Another catchy question involved the number of cemeteries in the city. Everybody named the Little Lake cemetery, whereas as a matter of fact there is only one burying ground within the city limits, and that is the old Methodist cemetery on Hilliard street.

Ross Dobbin had been announced as a possible speaker and made his annual attempt to deliver an address but the mass opposition of the gathering was too much for him and the quizz contest took the place of the -yea-to-be-heard Dobbin masterpiece.

President E. L. Sackville in welcoming the visitors congratulated Rotarian Fred L. Roy upon his election to council and Rotarians T. J. Carley and D. T. Diplock upon being chosen for the Board of Education. He also especially congratulated Ald. W. G. Ovens as a Kiwanian.

Guests included Mayor Hamilton, Ald. Stocker, R. S. Cotton, Herb McCannan, W. G. Ovens, Herb Bradburn, City Clerk S. R. Armstrong and Deputy City Clerk E. A. Outram, and D. G. H. Melton, chairman of the Board of Education. Ald. James Dutton and Fred L. Roy were present as Rotarians as well as members of council.

Grading Of Fowl For Market Being Suggested

Possibility that fowl on the farmers' market here may be graded according to quality was the good news for Peterborough housewives in the opening session of a 'farmers' co-operative short course" at the Normal School this morning.

The meeting, poorly attended, was featured by an attack on the problems of marketing farmers' products, F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative, brought forward the suggestion of grading fowl as a means of increasing sales. He believed that if housekeepers could be sure they were getting good quality they would buy on the market more frequently. Vivian Milburn of the Ontario Milk Producers' Association, pointed to the increase in milk sales since strict rules had been laid down, and to the increase in the amount of eggs sold since grading had been introduced, as an indication of what farmers could expect if fowl were graded.

Up To Farmers.

The discussion arose during an address by Roy Lick of Oshawa, secretary of the Milk Producers' Association, and one of Ontario's leading farmers. Only the farmers themselves can solve thei rown problems, Mr. Lick declared. "We've been relying on the government or on somebody else to help us out of our difficulties," he said. "The government has been interested, concerned, but not as much as we ourselves should have been." Farm people today are faced with the impossibility of paying their way, living decently, educating their children as intelligent citizens, he said, and they now find they must solve their own problems.

He found that one of the farmers most serious problems was that of marketing the products they grow. Much of that marketing has been done in a way that has reflected badly on those products, he claimed, pointing to the sale of apples as one instance. Apple marketing has been a disgrace, he declared, claiming that housewives have been sold culls that farmers should be feeding to their livestock and have been hoodwinked into thinking they are the best apples this country has to offer. He blamed buyers of apples for this condition, along with the farmers for selling them. He had hoped that the new marketing law would help to correct this situation, but had found poor quality apples still on sale.

Lasts Three Days.

The course, which will last three days, is under the sponsorship of the U.F.O., and Clarence Mann, president of the Peterborough branch, was chairman this morning. Director of the course is Leonard Harman, vice-president of the provincial organization. He showed the U.F.O.'s first lantern slides on co-operation at the opening of this morning's school, outlining the growth of the co-operative movement in Canada and in other countries. In all the world there are some 100,000,000 co-operative members, he said, and related that in Great Britain between 1929 and 1934 —the early years of depression—co-operatives returned in dividends to their members a total of $600,000,000 besides taking on more employees at a time when other industries were laying off workers and nearing bankruptcy.

Roy Lick was introduced by Vivian Milburn, who congratulated the committee on its work in arranging the short course.

Other speakers during the three-day course are to be R. J. Scott, president of the Ontario Co-operative Company; Ernest Drope, manager of the Harwood Co-operative Company; George Wilson, chairman of the Marketing Board of Toronto, and Miss Agnes McPhail, M.P., who will speak Wednesday evening.

C.G.E. SHOP LEAGUE OPENS PUCK SEASON WITH FOUR GAMES

Quakers Get Win Over Bees In Cage Contest

A three-point margin in the first half gave Quakers a thrilling 26-23 victory over the Bees in a fast, airtight battle that opened the Senior City Basketball series at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night before a small crowd. Independents, who were scheduled to open the night's double bill with C. G. E. won by default when the Electrics failed to put a team on the floor. However, a pick-up team, with several C. G. E. men aboard went down to defeat 38-18 to the Independents in a fast game that was played as an exhibition contest.

Independents piled up an 18-8 margin in the first half and then added another nine point edge in the final period to stay comfortably ahead of the losers most of the way. Both teams played a strictly offensive game, concentrating on scoring rather than defence but poor shooting kept the count down. Independents were called 9 times for fouling and the losers but 6, the winners making 4 tries and C. G. E. dropping in 5 of their chances. MacIntyre lead the winners with 11 points, with Dyer counting 9 and Sedgewick starring at guard. Holmes and Ferguson each counted 8 points for the losers. The teams:

C .G. E.—(10)—Centre, Ferguson (8); forwards, Watts, Holmes (8); guards, Rennie (2), Gemmell (1).

Independents — (38)— Centre, Stewart (6); forwards, Dougherty (2), Dyer (9); guards, MacIntyre (11), Sedgewick (8); subs, West (2).

Referee—Curly Krug. Scorer—R. Rogow.

Great Finish.

Gaining a 3-point lead in the first half, Quakers barely held off the Bees in the final period, just clinging to their narrow edge to the finish. Throughout the opening period the teams battled, neck and neck with the lead zig-zagging just before the finish of the period. From that point on they were never headed, although the losers cut their margin to one point on several occassions until Kingdon scored near the finish to bring their edge to the original three points. Each team lost one player with four personals and the losers were guilty of 19 fouls with Quakers having 15. The Bees missed a good chance of, at least, cutting down their deficit in counting only 5 free throws in 18 tries, while the winners made 10 points from the free throw line. Murray lead Quakers with 7 points, although their scoring was split up amongst several players, with Jakafby and McPherson also standing out. Thorburn with 9 points was the scoring star for the losers with McArthur also showing well in a losing cause. The teams:

Quakers—(26)—Centre, McPherson (3); forwards, Ward (3), Murray (7); guards, Gillespie (1), Jakafby (2); subs, Kingdon (2), Thomas, Galley (4), Patterson (4).

Referee—Curly Krug. Scorer —R. Rogow.

New Contracts Go Into Mails

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Like a siren of spring, Dizzy Dean's holdout squawk over the week-end aroused slumbering baseball fans to the fact that contract time is here again.

In the next week or two the documents with the dotted lines will have been mailed to just about every eligible major leaguer, but the chant of "Old Diz" isn't likely to get much of a chorus.

Championship clubs are popularly supposed to face the most trouble rounding their players into line, but the Cincinnati Reds at this early date have 14 under contract for 1940 and the New York Yankees, who won't put their papers into the mail till next week aren't expecting much fuss. That world series bonus every year seems to keep the Bronx Bombers happy.

The first of the Reds to sign was Third Baseman Bill Werber, who has a pretty practical opinion of his own value, and one of the first was Paul Derringer, the big pitcher who used to be quarrelsome about his figures.

Pitcher Bucky Walters, the National League's most valuable player, and First Baseman Frank McCormick slapped their names on two-year contracts without hesitation.

The Detroit Tigers already have Charley Gehringer and the New York Giants Carl Hubbell. The Chicago Cubs have most of their stars and other clubs have numerous lesser known players in line.

By HERB MARTIN

It was a full house down at the Charlotte street curling rink on Saturday afternoon. Every inch of curling ice was in use, and the best part of these week-end games is that so many of this year's new players are getting in on the contest and some very successfully. Without a doubt these bonspiels are becoming more popular every week. The boys know now that to get in they must be on time. The wining rinks were skipped by Fred Green, Rufus Payne, Wm. Cruthers, and E. R. Shirley.

In the evenig the ladies' section staged their first mixed bonspiel of the season and a nice crowd turned out. We understand these are to be weekly affairs, any any curler who woud like to play is advised to phone Miss M. Patterson or Mrs. E. Metcalfe.

Information has come to us that the ladies intend starting their schedule some time this week.

Here's one we picked out of the waste paper basket:

"Halt! Who goes there?"
"Ration party, with rum."
"Pass, ration party. Halt, rum!"

Tweed Terriers Beat Stirling

TWEED, Jan. 8 —(ENS)— Tweed Terriers went into the Stirling team on Friday night and emerged with a 5-2 victory, in one of the wildest games in several years. After showing slightly more than equality for 18 minutes of real classy puck chasing, the Stirling Bombers yielded slightly to the sizzling speed set by the Tweed boys and could do no better than bounce their way through to a close second. The game after the first period was a series of bouncers and 18 players bounced themselves into the penalty box. When the going was rough the Terriers proved themselves equally able to take and dish it out.

Teams:

Lakefield Squad Is Getting Set

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 8—(ENS)— Lakefield Intermediates lost to Sutton last Friday in Sutton, but as this is about the third time on ice for them, they feel they can beat Sutton before the season ends. They had some difficulties also as no coach went along with the team, and players went on the ice whenever they thought the rest were tiring. The team is split up more this year, with new forwards coming up from Peterborough and the loss of Blewett. They have never played with each other before, but as time goes on will be getting better and hope to ice a strong squad long before play-offs come along.

Cleveland Team Relegated To League Cellar

The ways of the champion are hard as Cleveland Barons of the International - American Hockey League can vouch for today.

Champions of the circuit last season, the Barons are in last position in the western division, 16 points out of first place. True, they finished third in their section last spring, just catching the last play-off position, but it still is quite a comedown from the championship to the cellar.

Two losses during the week-end dropped Cleveland to the bottom, one point behind Pittsburg and Syracuse who are tied. In both games the victories went to the league leaders, Indianapolis winning 3-2 Saturday and New Haven marking up a 4-2 triumph last night.

In other games Saturday Pittsburg beat the Ramblers 3-1, Syracuse won 3-4 from Springfield and Hershey stopped Providence 3-1. Syracuse and Pittsburg played a 2-2 tie last night while Providence beat Hershey 4-1 and Philadelphia and Indianapolis tied 2-2.

New Haven's newly formed line of Marcel Tremblay, Polly Drouin and Glen Brydson accounted for two of the goals against the Barons last night, Tremblay and Brydson doing the scoring with other members of the line drawing assists.

Cleveland's game Saturday went into overtime with Rookie Sany Ross and Bill Thompson scoring for Indianapolis and Lorne Duguid counting for the Barons in the extra session. Buck Jones scored both Indianapolis' goals against Philadelphia last night. Lloyd Ailsby and Germann tallied for the Ramblers.

Providence and Hershey almost had the fans joining in the fray as they battled tooth and nail Saturday. The game was halted while spectators showered the ice with debris in the third period after Captain Wally Kilrea of the Bears had been banished. Later in the period Shill and Starr of Providence and Bruce and Roulston of Hershey were sent off for their part in a free-for-all.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Another hockey league started its wintry campaign on Saturday, the big C.G.E. Shop Loop swinging into action at the Brock St. rink. After company officials—Messrs. McRae, Cranfield and Hardie—did their stuff in ye opening ceremony, the puckists tore into it and dished up some lively puck-chasing. Toolroom took a 3-2 nod o'er Machine Shop "B"; Wire Dept.—sparked by Art Heal—threw a monkey wrench into the Cabinets with a 8-2 upset; Industrial Control controlled Induction Motors for a 6-1 snirk; and Switchgears won by a short nose over Machine Shop "A", final tally being 3 to 2. Two former players, Tommy Miller and Shrimp McDougall, did the refereeing. Another batch of C.G.E. games on tap for next Saturday aft.

Southend Hockey League schedule—which is in tonight—begins Tuesday after twilight in the Sacred Heart rink. It has bantam and midget divisions, but had to drop the juvenile section as there was trouble lining up four squads which could be depended upon to ice full teams every game. On account, chiefly, of those two juvenile entries in the O.J.H.A. Loop can't help it this season, but hopes to get a juvenile division going another year—as a flock of those ex-juveniles are now in junior O.H.A. company, and it's good training. But some will have to miss out this year.

No Thaw In Sight

There is definitely no sign yet of a January thaw around this section of woodland, and therefore the ice should be faster than a Finn ski attack tomorrow eve when Lindsay Midgets resume their O.H.A. junior "B" grudge 'gainst the local Colts here. The large Midgets edged our boys last semester and, at present, are leading the loop with three wins in as many starts. But the Colts have two victories and no hopes so far this season, and something has to give tomorrow after supper. It ought to be a rip-snorter of a junior joust and the scrappy Scugog squad had better be good or the improved 1940 Colts will gallop off with the oats this time.

* * * * * *

Only a fair-sized crowd of cash customers took in proceedings as the Colts trounced Cobourg here Friday, but the crowds should improve every game from now on, as this "B" bunch of battlers—they put the "fist" in pacifist!—look like they're going somewhere this cold spell. They travel faster than a scandal, bump like railwaymen in a depression, and toss up more action than cats in a fight back of a fish store! Well, what if we do exaggerate a mere trifle? They're good and they'll give folks 75c worth of action for two bits or 35c. We're kinda high on these lads now.

Red Makes A Move

A lady kindly called us up the other day to inform us that Red Geddes has moved from Sudbury to London, where he'll play in the Mich.-Ont. puck setup. Seems Red had a baby girl born a week or so ago—besides already having a son—and he thinks he'll do better working down where the towns are thicker. The peppery redhead played hockey here, after coming from Toronto, before moving north—marrying a local lass, meantime. He told us last summer he didn't crave the mines and would like to land back here. But he should do okay in London, and will hold his own in the rugged Michigan-Ontario hockey circuit.

* * * * * *

Following the Redmen's scalping at the hands of the Fliers, the Quinte key-pounder taps out: "Maybe the Peterborough scribe really had something when he predicted the Petes were all but in the O.H.A. intermediate 'A' playoffs, etc." (However, we didn't say just that, declining to make any predictions till we've seen the Airmen in action.) He also says: "Actually, better teamplay and the strong reserve strength of the Fliers took its toll this game, as three or four players cannot hope to cope with a complete hockey team of today, such as Coach Holway iced Friday." The Petes will practice nightly this week to be set for the R.C.A.F.-ers here on Friday e'en and, after that game, folks will have an idea of the Petes' chances of repeating their group championship this year.

A 7-Cylinder Job

A brand new hockey league—so new it fairly glistens — opens this coming Thursday p.m. in the Brock with a triple-header. It's the Industrial Puck Loop, commencing at 7.30, other tilts following at hourly intervals. Canada Packers pull the zipper against Outboard Marines, with Raybestos clashing next with Westclox, and Quakers in the nightcap 'gainst Brintons as Watercraft takes a bye. Admish is 15c, first four teams being in playoffs—two sudden-death semi-finals and then a best-of-three final serial. If the teams' pilots would give us a jingle tomorrow, we could tell the public in advance something of the competing lineups, which will include a lot of former O.H.A. stars.

* * * * * *

Up at the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday night, with the crowd by no means bulging the side of the building, Quakers opened the men's Senior City Basketball League with a 26-23 gasp over the Bees. The latter buzzed around angrily in the last half but couldn't quite put the sting on the porridge punchers who rode home on a three-point lead from the initial spasm. C.G.E. defaulted their tilt to the Independents, the latter then staging an exhibition scrap with a pickup gang to win 38-19. Dominions had a bye. Two more scheduled tussles next Saturday sunset.

PORKY DUMART
Boston Bruins

By Central Press Canadian

When you speak of Woodrow (Porky) (or Woody) Dumart, you almost have to mention three people at once—he, plus Milt Schmidt, plus Bobby Bauer. Together this trio make up "Kraut line" the famous Boston Bruin one of the most effective attacking units in the N.H.L. Not only do they play on the same line but they come from the same town of (Kitchener), and that about play, sleep, eat and drink together. Porky is the biggest member of the triumvirate, nature having spread better than 200 pounds over his six-foot frame. He is also the least penalized and lowest scoring of the three, although in all departments ony a few points separate them. He first played for the Bruins in 1936-37, spending part of that season in the N.H.L. and part in the Canadian-American league. He was up long enough to score four goals, to which he added 13 the next season and 14 last year his statistical totals up till the start of the current campaign reading: 31 goals, 33 assists for 64 points, plus 10 minutes spent serving penalties. Celebrated his 23rd birthday two days before Christmas. Moved straight from Stratford juniors to pro company. Packs a heavy shot. Scored N. H. L.'s only successful penalty shot last season, got another this year.

Form Of Ideas For Further Development Of Big League Ball Shows Game Young

By FORD C. FRICK
(President of National Baseball League.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP)—One very inspiring outgrowth of the centennial celebration is the forward-looking attitude and activity of the baseball world which was manifested itself this winter in the form of ideas for further development of the national game. Regardless of whether or not the suggested rules, changes, etc., are put into effect, this widespread spirit of advancement proves that baseball is really young, vigorous and forward-looking.

The National League's centennial year pennant race was again true to our tradition—a hard- fought campaign decided in the last throes of the September drive. There is every indication that our spring tradition will hold true again in 1940—an even chance for every contender Our picture portrays an array of good, fast, well-matched ball clubs launching into competition in which the question of eventual supremacy will be fought out on the playing fields with the favorite pennant contenders emerging out of the vicissitudes of keen conflict.

I look forward to the coming season with the same keen anticipation as do the followers of our respective National League clubs. Each National League fan knows his club has a fair chance to figure in the pennant at the start and a fighting chance to be in the race right down to the finish.

Track Veteran Wins With Big Finish

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Still the man the crowd watches, Glenn Cunningham already has proved in this young indoor track season that he remains the man to beat on the boards.

The 30-year-old veteran opened his eighth indoor campaign Saturday night by running a 1-minute 56.1-second half-mile in the Columbus Council Knights of Columbus games in Brooklyn. He won it with his famous finishing kick, only this time, since he was running but half his customery distance, he had to "kick" for half a lap instead of the customary full one.

There is more than a suspicion about that this will be Glenn's last whirl around the spiked-shoe circuit. For one thing, there is a feeling that the University of Kansas, to reward him for his years of faithful missionary work, will give him a good job. For another, Glenn himself feels it's time he settled down to the teaching for which he has been preparing himself all these years.

If the race was any indication, Glenn should be in for a rousing finale. Although he had a touch of ptomaine poisoning Thursday, he didn't show it. He simply bided his time until he was ready to go, then cut loose to overtake Curtis Guddings, former New York City star, and hold off the home-stretch bid of the University of Maryland's Jim Kehoe.

From the other races and their times in the year's first board meet, this should be a good season for others besides Cunningham. Don Lash was back in his old stride in winning the two-mile. Jim Herbert looked to be back in form in winning the 500 in 58.6, only a second short of the record.

HASTINGS

Hockey League Is Organized

HASTINGS, Jan. 8. —(ENS)— At an enthusiastic meeting in the Clarendon hotel for the purpose of forming a town hockey loop, officers were appointed and several delegates from Roseneath, who read of the meeting, were present to enter a team from that center. Russel Jones will head the loop as president. Jack Arber of Roseneath was elected vice-president and Fred Crate of Hastings will be secretary-treasurer. It was decided by the meeting to allow the Roseneath team to enter providing they played all games in Hastings. This idea was favorable to the delegates from out of town. The tanners will have two entries and the Clerks one team. Although no delegates were present from Elgin, it was believed they would also enter their team.

It was proposed to start the first game of tonight (Monday) at Riverside rink with one team from the tannery and the Clerks meeting to rthe curtain raiser game. An endeavour will be made to have a game every second night and possibly run one double header each week.

The committees were chosen, two from each team, to form balance of the executive. They are: Tanners—Alton Thompson, Nelson Scriver, Earl Hahn, Clifford Scriver; Roseneath—Jack Pacey, Bill Halstead; Clerks—Ray Boyle, Stanley Stevenson.

Referees will be chosen from non-participating teams on the night the games are played.

The C. G. E. Shop Hockey League opened its schedule Saturday afternoon in the Brock St. rink with four games, before a fair sized crowd of fans. I. McRae, H. A. Cranfield and E. G. Hardie officially opened the season, the latter dropping the puck as the others faced off. In the absense of C. A. Salmonsen, Mr. Hardie wished the league every success. Toolroom beat Machine Shop "B" by a 3-2 score, Industrial Control took a 6-1 win from Induction Motors, Switchgears nosed out Machine Shop "A" by a 3-2 count, and Wire Dept. defeated Cabinets 8 to 2.

Toolroom, junior winners last year had a 2-0 edge in the first frame and were in front 3-1 going into the third. Conroy opened the scoring early on a long shot and King made it 2-0 on Stinson's pass in the first. Play was tight in the second Williams scoring alone for Toolroom and Collins counting for Machine Shop "B" in the final heat, the winners were shaded a bit by their rivals and Murduff beat the goalie halfway through but they failed to tie it up. Only English and Croakam, drew penalties in a neat tilt. The pick of the players were Williams, King, Conroy, Mason, Collins and Murduff. The teams:

Referee:— Tom Miller.

Heal Is Star.

Led by Art Heal, the Wire gang pulled a surprise win on the strong Cabinets in a fast clean game — Brady getting the lone penalty. Heal played grand hockey to ram home six goals, Ferguson and Pryde getting the other two. Starr scored the first for the losers on a pass from McNulty and Parnell tallied the other. It was 2-1 for Wire in the first and 6-2 to end the second. Brown, Starr and Parnell stood out for the Cabinets, as Heal, Pryde and Harding shone for the other side, the latter making some great saves. The teams:

Referee—Tom Miller.

In a fast, hot tussle, Industrial Control handed Induction Motors a 6-1 reverse. Play was clean with Coursey getting the lone thumb wave. The winners got two markers each frame and the losers scored in the third when Johnston counted from Vitarelli. For the winners, Watson, Gall, Evans, Creighton, Watson and Hoag bulged the hemp in that order, Coursey, Watson, and Creighton went best for the Control crew, as Johnston, Vitarelli and Howarth looked good for the other side. The teams:

Industrial Control: Goal, Clarke; defence, Crowe, Heard; centre, Coursey; wings, G. Creighton, Carpenter; subs, Hoag, Kent, Evans, Gall, Watson.

Referee—Shrimp McDougall.

A Tight One.

The final game saw Switchgear nose out a nod in the best tilt of the day. It was fast, close and with nice hockey shown. Both goalies were brilliant. Tompkins tallied early and later in a scramble for a 2-0 edge in the first. There was no count in the second, but Mortimer scored from Nicholls and Creighton tied it up in the third. Just before the last bell, Daniels took Leggitt's pass in close to win the contest. There were no penalties. Tompkins, Daniels and Agnew starred for the winners; and Creighton, Jones and Mortimer went best for the Machinists. The teams:

Referee—Shrimp McDougall.

(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Slogging grimly ahead on the treacherous treadmill that is the National Hockey League's upper bracket, Toronto Maple Leafs used Montreal Canadiens for traction Saturday night and slithered back for a short-term stay in first place beside New York Rangers. But the uncertain footing was backtracking under their idle skates twenty-four hours later as Rangers grasped the handiest pikepole in sight, the Detroit Red Wings and struck out for the lonely pace once more.

Gordie Drillon

Cost Is Heavy

Leafs fought hard for the victory and paid for it in hard coin. The immediate toll was the loss of Wingers Gordon Drillon and Nick Metz, both severely injured in the heavy firing, and the long-range cost won't be determined until the team, already working under the handicap of Sylvanus Apps' enforced absence, has faced the rigid test of games this week. After playing the Americans at New York tomorrow they meet Boston Bruins at Toronto Thursday and the leading New York Rangers at Toronto Saturday.

Coach Dick Irvin moaned: "We farmed Don Metz and Hank Goldup to Pittsburg too soon." But Manager Conny Smythe, philosophizing that "it might have been worse," said Lex Chisholm would go to bat for Drillon and make good.

So on the square-jawed Chisholm, just recovering from two successive injuries, fell the mantle of the National League's scoring leader. It may not fit him too badly at that, for Chisholm led the Ontario Hockey Association senior series in scoring before turning professional last season.

Drillon's injury came in the first period while he and Captain Walter Buswell of the Canadiens were chasing a loose puck. Buswell's right skate cut into Drillon's right foot for a gash that required two stitches.

That took the sting from the Leaf attack for a while and the crowd had to be content with hard checking and swift skating until Reg Hamilton found the range in the fifth minute of the third period. He sped away from a four-man Montreal attack and used the lone defenceman, Cliff Goupille, as a shield for the 20-foot shot that gave Toronto a 1-0 lead.

Rushed To Hospital

Metz incurred a possible ruptured kidney when he bounced into Cy Wentworth behind the Habitant net late in the game. At first he thought it was merely a superficial bruise, but by 2:30 Sunday morning the red-haired utility forward was in such pain he was rushed to Wellesley Hospital, where Drillon was already bedded down. Metz was fed intravenously yesterday, although it may be another twenty-four hours before the injury can be diagnosed. At the best he is not likely to play for two weeks.

After Goalie Claude Bourque had fought them off gallantly for nine more minutes, the Leafs struck again through Robert (Red) Heron, who punched in Gus Marker's rebound on a play started by Bucko McDonald. Toe Blake reduced the margin to 2-1 on a rink-long dash with Louis Trudel at 17:02, but Nick Metz made victory sure just 44 seconds later.

It was the ninth successive defeat for the Canadiens, but they came back last night in Chicago to break the string by whipping the Black Hawks 2-1 before 12,608 spectators. George Mantha gave the Habitants a lead in the first period and then potted the winning goal in the third after Cully Dahlstrom had scored for Chicago in the second.

By defeating Detroit Red Wings 3-0 at New York last night the Rangers advanced to within a game of tying the league record of 18 straight games without defeat. Kilby Macdonald scored in the second period and Babe Pratt and Bryan Hextall in the third, while Dave Kerr registered another superlative shutout.

Defeat left Detroit in a last-place tie with the Americans as the Bruins licked the Americans 6-2 at Boston. The Bruins' Kraut line from Kitchener, Ont. featured the attack, Bobby Bauer scoring twice and Milt Schmidt once, while Woody Dumart supplied three assists.

Rose Bowl Tribulation

Pity the poor player on a team that gets a bid to the annual Rose Bowl game at Los Angeles! Here's the kind of treatment the players gets in sunny California, hard by Hollywood, hub of the cinema world. Centre of this group is Johnny Butler, fast-stepping halfback with Tennessee Volunteers, who were defeated by Southern California, 14-0, despite the sterling efforts of Johnny. In this pre-game still, the southern star was giving a few tips—or something—to starlets Florence Rice and Lana Turner.

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP)—News and Views: Red Dutton, coach of New York Americans, calls the rival New York Rangers the greatest hockey team he ever saw in action . . . If Joey Archibald and Jimmy Perrin are signed for a featherweight title bout in New Orleans, the N.B.A. will not recognize the match as such.

Selected Shorts: Jack Kearns wants to have Burman vs. Pastor shifted from Miami to Detroit where he would use his old tie-up with Jack Dempsey for publicity purposes . . . When Jimmy Londos appeared in Boston recently, Promoter Paul Bowser was mean enough to advertise Jimmy's age as 48, which ain't fair if it is almost right.

Personals: Larry MacPhail of the Dodgers will be chief speaker at the annual dinners of the Boston baseball writers . . . Hank Soar, the nifty New York Giant backfielder, wants to be a big league umpire . . . Master Mickey Rooney was a bit burned up when he was denied admission to Tropical Park because he is a minor . . . The gent you see reading books between rounds at the Garden fights is John Kieran, the "Information Please" know-it-all, catching up on his home work.

Two Canadians May Lose Boxing Crowns

TORONTO, Jan. 8.—The Canadian Boxing Federation decided at a meeting here Saturday to declare three Dominion championships vacant unless the present titleholders defend their crowns within thirty days after receiving notification. President Frank Hogan of Montreal said notifications would be sent to the three fighters within a few days.

The titles involved in the decision are: Welterweight, held by Sammy Luftspring of Toronto; bantamweight, held by Lefty Gwynne of Toronto, and flyweight, held by Aurelien Lamothe of Montreal.

The federation also voted that in future new champions must defend their titles within ninety days of winning them. The position of present champions in the other divisions will be discussed at a meeting to be held here in about six weeks.

A list of current champions recognized by the federation follows: Heavyweight and light heavyweight, Tiger Warrington, Liverpool, N. S.; middleweight, Len Wadsworth, Hamilton, Ont., welterweight, Sammy Luftspring, Toronto, lightweight and featherweight, Dave Castilloux, Montreal; bantamweight, Lefty Gwynne, Toronto; flyweight, Aurelien Lamothe, Montreal.

Pending receipt of Western ratings in the various divisions, expected at the next meeting, the Federation postponed issuing a list of contenders for the championships. However, the following list of top Eastern aspirants was drawn up.

Heavy and light-heavyweight, Eddie Weinstob, Edmonton, Alta.; middleweight, Battling McIntyre, Halifax, N. S.; welterweight, Maxie Berger and Doug Marsh, Montreal, and Frank Beaudin, Montreal and Vancouver; lightweight, Billy Marquart, Winnipeg and Harry Hurst, Montreal; featherweight, Jackie Callura, Hamilton, and Spider Armstrong.

Bill Calladine Scores Twice

RIVER VALE, N.J., Jan. 8.—(CP)—River Vale Skeeters and Baltimore Orioles battled to a 4-to-4 overtime tie in an Eastern United States Amateur Hockey League game here Saturday night.

Baltimore's goaler, Omer Kelly, received a skate-slashed throat that required several stitches, but he was able to resume. Bill Calladine scored twice and Archambault and Hunt each once for the Orioles, while Shoquist with two goals and Allen and Bell with one each accounted for the River Vale scoring.

Remember When—

France Chance scigned a $25,000 three-year contract to manage New York Americans, now the Yankees, 27 year sago today. Member of the still-famous Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance Chicago Cubs combination, Chance piloted the Yankees in 1913-14, and was succeeded by Bill Donovan.

"Whew! Do They Give Me Plenty Of Work Here?"

Synthetic Slope Is Made By Skiers

WINNIPEG, Jan. 8.—(CP).—This winter has been a sad one for Winnipeg skiers.

Here it is, nearly the middle of January, and they have not enough natural snow for one good slope but they have carried snow—mostly ice scrapings from hockey rinks — to make a synthetic slope.

There were strange scenes at every skating rink here on Saturday as the skiers prepared for their week-end of fun. Trucks from the two rival ski clubs—the Winnipeg and the Puffin—travelled the circuit, asking for the privilege of removing the excess snow.

The abnormal activity brought results, for on Sunday both clubs began instruction classes. Tons of rink scrapings provided the surfaces. Two Banff-raised skiers, Ted Paris and Norman Knight, were in charge of the classes.

Lindsay Squad To Play The Colts Here

Lindsay Midgets meet the local Colts here tomorrow (Tuesday) night at 8:30 o'clock in the Brock St. arena in a scheduled O.H.A. Junior "B" fixture. It will be the first meeting of these teams this season, both squads being undefeated to date. The big Midgets have won three in a row and the Colts have taken two, beating both Port Hope and Cobourg in handy fashion. Pointing toward a group title—after several lean years—the Peterborough juniors are rounding into fine shape and playing good hockey. They deserve plenty of support from the fans this tussle, and the spectators can bank on a speedy scrap all the way. The prices have been reduced for the junior jousts.

The Scugog squad is big and fast, playing a bumping brand of hockey, but the husky Colts will match them in speed and bumps every minute. Coach Archie Weir will likely start the same lineup as played against Cobourg here Friday, with the addition of DeCarlo. It may be the best junior fray to be seen here this season.

WIN BRIDGE TOURNEY.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 8.—(CP).—Helen Harrow and G. E. Macklin, both of Toronto, won the Western New York masters pair bridge tournament Sunday with 479½ points. J. H. Anderson and C. E. Israel, Kitchener, finished 22nd.

Yanks Put Gehrig's Name On Retired List Uniform Number 4 Will Not Be Allotted

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP). — New York Yankees gave another bow to-day to Lou Gehrig, the great first baseman who was forced to retire last season because of a form of infantile paralysis.

President Edward G. Barrow of the baseball champions announced that Gehrig would not be given an unconditional release, but instead his name would be placed on the voluntary retired list.

Furthermore Barrow said Gehrig's uniform number—a big four—never will be allotted to any other Yankee player and that his locker in the clubhouse will not be used by any other player. Gehrig's name will remain on the door, and it will always be available for his personal use.

Camera "Freezes" A Neat Basketball Tableau

Split-second camera action catches a play on the basketball floor as three players go down in a heap. The ball-carrier or ball-dribbler) gets the worst of it, taking the position next to the floor, while his checks use him as a cushion. The boys were about half way to a hard landing when the shutter clicked.

Careful thought should be given to such a works program to assure the greatest civic benefit. It is possible that the Dominion Government might assist as in some projects in the past.

Industrial Harmony.

"The prosperity of our city depends upon our industrial development. I have already pointed out how the increased activity in the city's factories has benefitted our relief situation. This Council must continue its efforts to secure new industries by making known the advantages Peterborough offers for successful manufacturing and to contact companies both at home and abroad who may be contemplating the establishment of new factories. At the same time nothing must be permitted to upset the fine relationship which has existed for years between civic authorities and our present companies. The high calibre of our manufacturing companies and the men who direct them was exemplified to me last year when I discussed with them their facilities and plans for supplying war materials. Their response was what I had expected it would be, splendid.

"Our financial position at the end of 1939 shows a marked improvement over the same period a year ago since our loans at the bank were $50,500 less as of December 31, 1939, than they were of December 31, 1938. One factor contributing to this improvement is the change in our banking arrangements which we succeeded in making last year whereby we are permitted to maintain one account at the bank instead of two, one for the current year and the other for the previous year. This removed the necessity of borrowing at the end of 1939 to take care of deferred necessary payments for the year but even allowing for this I believe there has been actual reduction in our current loans of approximately $25,000. This change in our banking arrangements also results in material savings annually in our interest payments to the bank.

Surplus From 1939.

"I am glad to report that the city's affairs for 1939 were financed well within the appropriations set out and it is indicated from information available that the revenue account for the year will show a substantial surplus.

"I am optimistic that a further reduction in the tax rate can be made this year. To secure a lower rate we must have the co-operation of the other municipal spending bodies, since the council controls the expenditure of only one-third of the taxes and a large percentage of this third is directed to fixed charges. I believe we will have the continued co-operation of these bodies.

"Last year the Council set its appropriations and struck the tax rate a month earlier than was customary. I hope this Council will do the same since it makes for smoother office efficiency in the City Hall and a saving in interest charges which is passed on directly to the taxpayers.

"The ratepayers approved the by-law for financing the construction of a foot-bridge across the Otonabee River near London Street. This Council must proceed with the construction of the bridge, plans for which are being completed.

"This Council is fully impressed with the desirability of having an aviation field to serve Peterborough. Negotiations for such a development are continuing with the proper authorities at Ottawa and we have had throughout these negotiations the fullest aid of Mr. J. J. Duffus, M.P.

"I have outlined some of the matters which will require the attention of this Council. I am confident that this Council working as a co-operative unit of good management will perform its duties to the satisfaction and benefit of all citizens."

Step To Senator

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—(AP). — Political circles speculated to-day on the possibility that the appointment of James H. R. Cromwell to be minister to Canada might be a prelude to his candidacy as a senator from New Jersey next fall.

Cromwell, frequently identified as the "husband of the world's richest girl" because of his marriage to the former Doris Duke, was considered a democratic senatorial possibility in 1937.

CULINARY APOLOGIST

MELBOURNE, Australia—(CP). Upholder of Australian cooks, E. L. Morton returned from a 2,400-mile tour of Victoria to say he had "not had one bad meal all the time." He deplored the European idea of pickling kangaroo tails.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:
FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.
NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.
ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby house.
DR. BILL MALLORY, close friend of Ellen's.

CHAPTER NINE

FABIENNE WAS having a bath and trying to enjoy it when the telephone rang. It was the kind of bath that should bring a girl to her senses. It was foaming and fragrant with bath salts that had cost as much as a poor doctor's wife pays for six pairs of stockings. There was a rubber pillow at the head of the tub and great, fluffy towels warming for her. Outside it was sleeting and the wind howled across the park. But in that room it was warm and luxurious and bright with lights.

The wife of a poor doctor would live in a walk-up and be lucky to have a cake of soap, she told herself angrily, and picked up the phone.

Camilla Morse was at the other end of the wire.

"Hello, darling ..... Will you serve on my committee for the Velvet ball?" she wanted to know.

"No." Fabienne bit off the word. "How many time have I told you, Camilla, that I simply wont serve on ANY committees."

"But, darling, I thought since you'd got so charitable, doing all that settlement work and that .... why .... I ...."

"I'm fed to the teeth with charitable work, Cam. Sorry."

"But, look, darling, we never see you. What about dinner a week from Thursday? I've a fascinating man who wants to meet you."

Fabienne said, "Hold the wire."

She hugged her woolly robe closer to her wet figure and stretched across the bed to reach her engagement pad. She thumbed through it hastily and picked up the telephone:

"Can't make it then, Camilla, I'm booked solid for two weeks."

"Anything exciting?"

"Terribly," Fabienne said bitterly. "Theatre tonight. Marcia's for dinner tomorrow night. Ned Webster's opening the next night. The hockey game at the Garden the next night. The Grainger's shindig the next. Shall I go on? It's all pretty much the same."

She could hear Camilla gasp at the other end. "How do you do it? Ye gods, Fab, why do you persist in doing the Big Sister act for eight hours a day? I'm dead if I stay up until midnight, and I hear you're doing the town up night after night."

Fabienne smiled wryly. "I'm unique," she said. She might have said she was desperate.

She might have said that she had to go out where there were lights—bright lights and music—loud music—and people and more people so that she wouldn't think, so that she could sleep when she got home.

It was true that she was unhappy, but it was also true that Fabienne had brains and used them.

It was not thwarted love that made her mentally ill; it was disappointement and frustration. For the first time in her life she had seen something that she thought she wanted and found she couldn't have, and she was wise enough to call it frustration and only that. She was not sick with the pangs of love at all. It was true, and she knew it. But she knew, as well, that with the abrupt end of her anticipation the flavour of life had grown tasteless. The meaning of days was gone when she compared these days since the night that Ellen Chapman had tucked her elbow into Bill Mallory's—Dr. J. W. Mallory's.

Now, because she had known something else briefly, she knew boredom for what it was.

The night Ned Webster's club opened and Rose O'Day took New York by storm with her torch singing, Fabienne was there with Ken Hemingway.

Rose O'Day had magic in her voice and she was singing from her heart. Her voice was like a palpitating heart held in your hand.

The mask was off Fabienne's cool face as she listened.

Ken said softly, "I give up."

Fabienne drew her brows together questioningly.

"Some other guy has got your heart. It's all over your face, baby. Who's the lucky guy?"

It was Rose O'Day's singing that did it. She played on Fabienne's emotions. Fabienne bubbled over. At least it was bubbling over for Fabienne. She said, "I met that man that a girl meets once in a lifetime— or, at least, he looked like that kind of a man—but when I went to collect him, I found I'd be poaching."

"Married?"

She shook her head.

"Engaged?"

"I don't think so."

"Then what's stopping you? All's fair in love and—"

She stopped him. "There's no use talking about it. It's just out as far as I'm concerned." There was no point in trying to tell Ken why she couldn't cut in on Ellen. She didn't know why exactly herself. Other girls she had known were not above pirating when it came to men, but Ellen wasn't like any other girl she had known. Ellen had offered her real friendship. It was more than that. Ellen gave her something to live up to, demanded as much as she gave. Ellen would never do that to her. Fabienne had her code, too. She played opponents' rules in fair games.

She said, "Forget it, Ken. I'm not really in love. I haven't had a chance to be. I'm the kid who wanted a doll that Santa Claus brought to another kid."

"What's he like?"

That was bad stuff. She couldn't tell him what Bill Mallory was like. She didn't know. All she had had to go on was her instinct. She couldn't say, "Oh, he's a doctor and he's handsome and I wanted him to take me in his arms because I know that life could hold nothing else like it."

So she said: 'He's poor and he sings in a church choir.'

Ken said, "My God! And you a sybarite! Well, if it isn't love that's getting you thin around the edges, it must be work. Why don't you give it up for a while?"

She hadn't thought of that. She'd only thought how long the days and nights were, and that every week she'd have to arrange her schedule to be away from Willoughby house when Bill Mallory was to be at the clinic, that she was finding it more and more difficult to evade Ellen Chapman's invitations. They had spent a great many evenings together in the three months she had been at the settlement house.

Three months! Her three months were up, she realized suddenly.

The next day she made two long distance calls: One to Nicky to ass him it is was gay in Maryland, and the other to her Uncle Mark to say that she was coming down.

To Ellen Chapman she said, "Well, Ellen, have I or haven't I lived up to what you expected of me?"

Ellen said, "You have, and I expected a lot, Fab. You've done wonderful work here and the girls adore you."

Fabienne looked brittle and gay and impervious to flattery. She said, "I always live up to my bargains. It's been three months. Remember?"

"It's gone quickly," Ellen said, perplexity in her eyes."

"Sometimes. Not always. But it has been interesting and I'll always remember you, Ellen."

"What do you mean?"

"I'm leaving," Fabiene said, as she expected the other girl to understand. "I said I'd work for three months, now I'm through. I'm leaving for Maryland Saturday."

"Fabienne!" Fabiene wished that Ellen wouldn't look as if she were hurt. "But what about the children's play? You can't just leave things in mid-air."

"Sorry. They can do the play without me. Goodby, Ellen."

The two girls shook hands, but Ellen would not say goodby.

Fabienne left Willoughby house with never a backward glance.

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

"The Authority on Authorities"

READ THAT MESSAGE

WHEN SIGNALING length in the suit your partner led against No Trump, asking him to continue it, your conventional play is your next-to-highest card when the declarer wins the first trick, then your fourth-best if you later get a chance to lead the suit back. This will help a careful partner to know what is the highest card you still retain, and guide him as to whether he should play a higher one in order to unblock the suit for you.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South opened this deal with 1-Heart. North bid 2-Hearts, South 3-No Trumps and North passed, fearing that a bid of 3-Hearts from him would urge South to game.

Properly preferring clubs to spades, because the latter suit would furnish an entry to help bring in the former, West led his club 2. After dummy put on the K, East properly played the 9, his next-to-highest, which should have shown West he had the 10, but did not because West does not pay attention to such "unimportant" things. The declarer took this with his A, then led the heart 2 to the K and A. East returned the club 4, West playing the 6 and North the Q. Next came four heart tricks. West discarded the club 6, diamond 6 and spade 4, keeping the club J.

When East then won a spade lead with the Q, no matter what he returned, the contract was safe. He fired back a club to the J, but the suit was blocked. West was end-played between spades and diamonds, able to get only two tricks out of them. Had West used the club J on the second trick of that suit, or as one of his discards on hearts, the side would have made three club tricks instead of one and would have set the contract a couple of tricks.

Two Tug Crews Beat Ice Floes

PORT BURWELL, Ont., Jan. 8.—(CP)— Six weary fishermen rested at their homes today and told a story of a fight against crushing ice floes that added another chapter to the sage of Lake Erie.

Safe in harbour were the sturdy fishing tugs Kenteau and the Dover Clipper. They docked early today after a shift in the wind allowed them to find paths through jammed ice. The crews said they suffered no hardship except lack of "smokes."

The Kenteau, in command of Captain Bunn Matthews and carrying a crew of four, was caught in the floes Friday night while attempting to make port. Late yesterday she had battered her way to within one-half mile of port after the larger vessel, Dover Clipper, in charge of Captain John Matthews, brother of the Kenteau's skipper, put ont to her aid.

Together the craft progressed a mile toward shore after two members of the Kenteau transferred to the clipper to aid Captain John Matthews, who went alone to the aid of his brother. Then huge ice jams caught them up. A midnight wind shift carried away bulk of the floes and the vessels, owned by the Kolbe Fish Company, glided proudly into harbor.

Canadian Troops In England Cheered During Marches

The arrival of the first division of the C.A.S.F., under the leadership of Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, has won the enthusiastic acclaim of the Britishers, who never tire of watching the Canadian troops as they swing smartly past during route marches. Scottish troops of the first division receive a hearty cheer, BOTTOM, as they swing along an English country road. Wearing their battle dress, the Canadian "Scotties" are shown lining up for inspection, TOP.

Large Offering Of Meats On Farm Market

The first produce market of 1940 looked a lot like the morning after the night before, and a festive night it was. The holiday turkeys were only a memory, except an odd bird that escaped the season's universal hatcheting.

Folks were apparently "eatin' reg'lar" again, down to steady fare of beef, lamb, and pork, for the outdoor meat stands had a busy morning in spite of that forerunning frost that announced the Sunday morning Finnish chill that sent the mercury scurrying to 19 below zero with the kind of deather that would nickel-plate an iceberg.

The meat men were back in the picture again with the great outdoors a natural refrigerator for them. Harry Gill quoted pork at 14 and 16 cents a pound; beef 12 and 14 cents for front and hind quarters respectively; mutton, 12 and 14 cents; and lamb, 18 and 20 cents. No evidence of profiteering in those prices that should be a benefit to consumers who take the trouble to order a quarter, and cut it up at home.

Great Open Spaces.

The outdoor market was down to about half the regular producers, and in the upstairs hall there were wide open spaces of bare benches marking the absence of township friends who hadn't recovered from the Christmas holidays. More than half the December average of vendors were missing.

"I'm not kicking," one young farmer remarked. "I brought in a dozen chickens, and I've sold them all but that one at twenty cents a pound."

The weather had kept quite a number of buyers at home, but the voids in the ranks of the producers seemed more conspicuous.

Several turkeys were quoted at 25 cents and the last of them was down to 23 cents. Chickens were 17 to 20 cents. A few geese were marked at 20 cents, butter was generally 30 cents with only a light offering. Eggs were 22 and 23 cents up to 25 and 27 cents. There was no sparkle to the market. Business had lapsed into the January groove, and as a result of the slump in attendance prices were fairly steady.

Demand for Wood.

Woodmen were getting attention. George Stephens of Apsley was one of those who had a three-cord truck of hardwood at $7.50 a cord. Shearer men from Buckhorn way were in again, and in the some place, with the same price tag of $7.50 on their maple. There are worse market jobs than selling wood from the seat of the truck cab.

Offa Williamson was the only representative of the honey group. Four pounds of the best white variety for 50 cents was the same price as in recent months.

The fruit and vegetable men were fewer than usual. The hazard of loss from frost forced them to the expedient of using oil stoves in their trucks. These are the producers who are especially interested in some improvement of market conditions.

Pleasant View Gardens of Bowmanville quoted 35 cents a peck for McIntoshes. 35c for Spies, and 30c for Snows.

Norman Moneriet asked 40c for his No. 1 Spies, 35c for McIntosh Reds, 30c for Greenings, and 25c for Baxters, Milwaukees, and Tolmans.

The vegetable men showed well filled order books as evidence that buyers had not neglected them. Prices were steady, ranging as follows, according to Fred Stenson: Carrots 25c, onions 35c, turnips 3 for 10c or 50c a bushel, parsnips 25c a peck, and potatoes $1.00 a bag.

Harold Doig's price list included carrots at 75c a bushel, parsnips 25c a peck, onions six-quart basket for 25c; turnips 3 for 10c.

Erle Tully reported sale of twenty bags of seed potatoes for delivery in the Millbrook district. His table stock was $1.10 a bag.

24 POLES GRABBED.

BERLIN, Jan. 8—(AP).—German naval forces today apprehended 24 Poles reported bound for England when they halted a small Swedish passenger and freight vessel. The vessel, the 735-ton Konung Oskar, was en route to Stockholm from Riga, Latvia. She was taken to a German port for further inspection.

Possible Governors?

London, Jan. 8 (CP Cable). "PETERBOROUGH," in his column of gossip in the Daily Telegraph today, mentioned the Duke of Devonshire as well as the Earl of Elgin as a possible successor to Lord Tweedsmuinr as governor general of Canada.

The Duke's father and Lord Elgin's grandfather each served as governor general. Peterborough said the Duke of Devonshire, who is under-secretary for the dominions, has the advantage of political experience, while Lord Elgin is known as an agricultural expert.

Herricks Hidden For Honeymoon

NORTH CONWAY, N.H., Jan. 8.—(AP) The romance of Eileen (Juliet) Herrick and George (Romeo) Lowther, which bounced from Habeas Corpus writs to games of hide-and-seek—but always under the frown of Eileen's parents—blossomed today into a honeymoon as secret as their courtship was public.

Eileen, 20, and her 30-year-old Insurance salesman swain were married here yesterday after a mystery-cloaked trip by auto, train and plane from New York city, where she had eluded her objecting mother and father by taking her dog out for a walk.

Immediately they hid from the public, moving into a honeymoon cottage, but spending their first evening of married life last night at the nearby Eastern Slopes Inn where Champagne had started their wedding breakfast yesterday.

Eileen's parents, Walter Herrick, former New York City Park Commissioner, and Mrs. Herrick, forgave her for the marriage, but they were unrelenting toward the handsome bridegroom.

Sound Locaters Set Range Air Raiders Over England

LONDON Jan. 8.— (CP).— It would sound almost like Jules Verne or H. G. Wells to say that British factories are making machines which enable observers to determine whether an airplane will be by the time an anti-aircraft shell reaches the sky.

But that's true.

tl's only half the story, however. These same factories make sound locators fulfilling a similar function. The two add to Britain's feeling of security against whatever threats of mass air raid the Germans may make.

Both are made in a big factory whose peacetime function to turn out radios, television sets and phonographs by the hundreds. While on the "supply front" I visited this factory and saw how a plant can be "turned over" from peace work to war purposes.

The predictor as the plane forecast apparatus is called is based on mathematics and trigonometry. A telescope would locate the plane but by the time a shell reached that point the plane would be somewhere else. By a system of telescopes, wheels and gears the position is calculated and then the apparatus is connected to receivers at the gun station.

Through one telescope an observer follows the plane in a horizontal position. He turns a wheel to keep up with the plane and this is translated inside the terms of speed. Another observer checks for height.

The irony about these predictors is that certain of the machinery used in the manufacture comes from Germany. Now however, British firms are busy making equipment.

Sound Locators.

Resembling huge dishpans mounted on a motor car chassis, the sound locators make it possible for a well-trained crew to pick up the sound of an airplane motor seven miles away. The locator is linked electrically to a searchlight which moves in sympathy so that once the plane is picked up it remains in sight—a prisoner of the beam.

This factory makes fuse shell cases, prismatic compasses, and wooden airplanes for training purposes. The wood is British Columbia spruce. Great accuracy of manufacture is necessary because in case a wing breaks it must be possible to obtain another from stock and clamp it on to the plane in a hurry.

Workmen who made television sets before the war manufacture special high-powered radio receiving sets for the navy. They are so powerful that a British ship anywhere in the world can hear home programs. The sets receive a special eight-hour vibration test to make sure their mechanism will withstand the roughest sea or the rocking that follows gunfire.

Trent River Pupils Aid Red Cross Work

TRENT RIVER, Jan. 8—(ENS)— Pupils of the public schools are planning to "do their bit" for the Red Cross, commencing Friday afternoon, the teacher, Mr. R. W. Umphrey, invited Mrs. George Dart, president of the War Workers organization, to visit the school and outline suitable work for the pupils. A Red Cross quilt block and patchwork block, personal property bags and socks were demonstrated. The pupils were asked to bring material for quilt blocks and will begin the sewing of patches for a quilt. This work will be done as a "craft" study during school hours. The "Examiner" visited the school section at Norham during Christmas holidays and learned there that pupils of Norham public school, under instruction of their teacher Miss Bragg, have recently pieced three quilts, two of the quilts realizing $50 by selling tickets, the third quilt was sold for $6, making a total of $56 for the Red Cross.

Murphy Raise Gives New Dealers Control Of Tribunal Two Decades

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 — (AP). — Elevation of Frank Murphy to the United States Supreme Court will give appointees of President Roosevelt majority control of the tribunal for possibly two decades, barring deaths, resignations or removals.

Nomination of the 46-year-old Attorney-General last week as Mr. Roosevelt's fifth appointee on the nine-man court may wel limprint the new deal hallmark on its opinions for many years after the President's own retirement from office.

Discussing Mr. Roosevelt's lower court appointments, Murphy himself said yesterday that "for years the country will watch the work and receive the benefits of the wisdom of these men of learning and integrity."

Senate comment indicated that Murphy would be confirmed promptly.

He will be the second youngest member of the court. The oldest Roosevelt appointee is Felix Frankurter, 57, who would serve 20 years more if he remains until he is as old as Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and Justice James McReynolds.

The youngest is William O. Douglas, 41. Should he remain on the bench only until reaching the average age of the four non-Roosevelt appointees, he would still be serving 30 years from now.

Besides comparative youth, Murphy shares with three other Roosevelt appointees a background of government service. He has been Mayor of Detroit, Commissioner to the Philippines, Governor of Michigan, and Attorney-General.

On the bench he will join two of his predecessors as Attorney-General—Justices McReynolds and Harland Stone.

Distance Sights Are Very Essential In Modern Arms

LONDON, Jan. 8 — (CP). — The British government, realizing the optical industry is important in national defence, took steps to protect it after the First Great War. That policy has borne fruit and the industry's products are described as equal to any in the world.

In a tour of Britain's "supply front" I saw work done in the country's biggest optical factory—one which in 1905 "resighted" the navy with variable power telescopes. This factory is one of the many in Britain turned over to war work.

The factory makes high-powered binoculars, telescopes that enable a person to see around corners, powerful lenses of the type used in the cameras with which the Royal Air Force photographs Germany, gun sights and "magic lanterns" that throw on a wall enormous natural-colored photographs of anything placed inside them.

It took two years to work out the mathematics of that powerful lens which consists of five different kinds of glass. The lens makes it possible to photograph 50 square miles of territory from a height of 22,000 feet. The lens costs only $1,500.

Mass production of the most delicate instruments is virtually impossible. The big problem is training skilled labor, a task which often requires six or seven years.

Use Of Spider Webs

Scientific instruments are used in other places than at the front. Steel for guns and shells must be heated uniformly and the temperature of modern furnaces is controlled automatically.

This factory made no use of spider webs for the graticule or cross lines in a telescope but etched the line in the glass. At the ministry of supply's armament inspection department, however, these webs, favored because of their thinness, are used in certain high-powered telescopes.

I saw a man split a web with a sharp pen-knife. Of the fine thread he made the cross lines. He said spider webs from dahlias gave the best results. This man proudly displayed several boxes full of webs which he unrolled when needed.

Northern Mine Output Averages 20 Millions

EDMONTON, Jan. 8—(CP).—Annual value of northern mine production passing through Edmonton within five years will approximate $20,000,000, L. E. Drummond, secretary-manager of the Alberta and Northwest Chamber of Mines, predicted in his report to the annual meeting of the chamber here last night.

He placed at $7,000,000 the total value of bullion and products for refining, including some Yukon bullion shipments, that passed through the city from the north in 1939.

He said mineral production of the northwest now averages about $17,315 a day, the figure including values of gold, radium, uranium oxide, silver, and petroleum products from Fort Norman, N.W.T.

Nazi Raiders Swoop On 11 Ships

Sink Danish Vessel, Wound 33 Men Then Escape In Fog

LONDON, Jan. 9 — (CP). — Thirty-three men were wounded, mostly by machine-gun fire, and one Danish vessel was bombed and sunk as German warplanes were reported to have attacked 11 ships off Britain's coasts to-day.

Crowds on the cliffs of the North-east Scottish coast saw a bomb hit the stern of a Danish vessel which sank in about three hours. The crew of this ship, the name of which was not disclosed, was rescued by nearby vessels.

So near the coast was part of the encounter that onlookers heard the rattle of machine guns.

One of the vessels attacked, it was reported, was a lightship which was machine-gunned intermittently for half an hour. This vessel was relieving another lightship off the East Coast of Scotland when attacked.

German planes also were reported to have machine-gunned five fishing smacks off the East Coast of Scotland. The boats were said to be returning to shore safely.

One of the vessels attacked, it was reported, was machine-gunned and 10 men aboard were hurt. This vessel was relieving a lightship off the east coast of Scotland.

Another ship was attacked in the same region and two more farther south. A fifth ship, location of which was not given, was reported damaged by bombs from a German Heinkel. The attacks were made under the cover of mists.

British aviators failed to engage the enemy due to the poor visibility.

Over 3,000 Flock To Recruit Call

TORONTO, Jan. 8—(CP) — Enthusiastic recruiting scenes that have not been duplicated since 1914 were witnessed at local armouries today as more than 3,000 men answered the call "for a limited number of men."

Rrecruiting opened again throughout the Dominion yesterday for men to bolster the units already in training and an officer of the 48th Highlanders said that yesterday "we could have recruited a battalion — 800 men—with ease.'

This officer said that he was at the recruiting depot in the first two years of the First Great War "and I have seen nothing like yesterday's demonstration since the early months of the Great War."

Dog Fasts 24 Days

Lynbrook, N.Y., Jan. 9 (AP)

RUSTY, an airdale, lived 24 days without food or water.

Inadvertently locked in the home of the late Arthur Erickson, a bachelor, when surrogate's representatives searched the place for a will, it survived with the help of newspapers—for a mass of chewed fragments littered the floor when it was found.

A passerby, Lealie Ott, peered through a window and saw the dog stretched on a bed. Police broke in and found the dog had lost about 20 of its 30 pounds.

After breaking the dog's fast, they said Rusty soon would be able to chase cats.

Bomb Shatters Post Office In Londonderry

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland, Jan. 9 — (CP). — Police expressed belief today that the explosion which wrecked the main entrance of the special constabulary headquarters last night was a reprisal for the suppression of Christmas Day rioting by Irish Republican army men in Londonderry jail.

The blast occurred while the city was blacked-out in accordance with war-time regulations and came just a week after the bombing of the central fire station 30 yards away from the constabulary headquarters.

Police recalled that a detachment of special constables were called out to quell the I.R.A. rioters in the Christmas Day prison disorders. It also was recalled that firemen played a part in quelling the outbreak.

During the past two weeks police have investigated numerous complaints of suspicious persons in the vicinity of the constabulary headquarters and the fire station. In the past few days the fire department has received an increasing number of false alarms and an armed police escort has accompanied the fire-fighters on all calls.

About a dozen special constables were in the constabulary headquarters at the time of last night's blast. None was injured. The bomb struck the iron grill inside the glass door panel and bounced to the concrete landing at the top of the entrance steps. All windows in the building front were blown out.

The headquarters building was only slightly damaged. Besides the destroyed window panes, only the two lower panels of the main door were blown in. A shirt factory was hardest hit of nearby establishments, most of its windows shattering under the impact of the blast.

May Head Army, Navy R.A.F. In New Defence Set Up

LONDON, January 9 — (CP). — There were reports that a new

There were reports that a new ministry of imperial defence would be created with Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, as co-ordinator of the army, navy and air force.

The diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Mail said that Viscount Gort, commander-in-chief of the British Expeditionary Force, had "triumphed again" in having the Royal Air Force placed under the army high command. This was one of the issues which were said in some quarters to have brought about a rift between Mr. Hore-Belisha and the army command preceding the war secretary's resignation.

The authoritative Press Association said, however, that the Daily Mail report could not be verified. It added: "R. A. F. circles in France have learned with some relief of the signs that the controversy whether the R.A.F. will control its own destiny or come partly under the army, is tending satisfactorily."

The Daily Mail report said an air officer commanding-in-chief in France is to be appointed shortly and "will be directly answerable to Lord Gort."

It was learned that the Royal Air Force has chosen a staff of instructors to go to Canada to assist in the Empire Air Training scheme there. Flying instructors, engineering officers, equipment officers and staff officers will leave in a comparatively short time to man the service flying schools constructed by the Canadian government, it was learned.

More Troops To Be Sent?

Reinforcements of the British expeditionary force in France was predicted by the Daily Express.

"Heavy reinforcements are to be sent to the B.E.F.," the paper said. "More and more front line duties are likely to be taken over by our fighting men, so that soldiers over 30 might return to their peace-time employment.

"France, eager to restore her industrial machine to full activity, pointed to our army of unemployed and asked to send her 200,000 or more of our workers.

(Statistics issued Monday by the Labor Ministry placed Great Britain's unemployment roll as of December 11 at 1,361,525).

"But the cabinet did not regard this as feasible. There are important differences between French and British wages and working conditions, and other complications. So younger Britons will take the place of older Frenchmen at the front as an alternative. At the same time the Cabinet are considering plans to absorb unemployment in this country."

Double Theft

CAMDEN, N.J., Jan. 9.—(AP). — Roy Moran admitted he stole one electric iron, two men's shirts, two pairs of socks and a five-pound box of candy.

Moran looked sad.

"Somebody,' he said, "stole them all from me."

Holland Faces Renewed Nazi Threat

Big Guns Are Set Up Moves Indicate Drive Inside Month

LONDON, Jan. 9 — (CP).—The Amsterdam correspondent of the Daily Telegraph predicted to-day that within the next two or three weeks Holland will be as seriously threatened by German invasion as it was last November.

The correspondent said he learned from "a reliable source" that a new German army headquarters had been established at Beckling-hausen, about 40 miles from the Dutch frontier.

"Heavy artillery positions have been prepared near the Dutch frontier, particularly in the wedge of German territory which protrudes into Holland in the Kleve district. This artillery is of sufficiently heavy calibre to bombard the city of Utrecht.

"New military airfields have been prepared during the last few weeks at various points along the whole at various points along the whole Dutch frontier from Emden to Aachen (Aix-la-Chapelle).

"Although it is a serious statement to make, there is every reason to believe that the Germans count, in the event of an attack, on the co-operation of members of the Dutch Nazi Party. It is to be hoped they are mistaken."

Patrol, Turned Back.

PARIS, Jan. 9 — (AP).—French military sources said to-day German patrols attacked French advance posts west of the Vosges Mountains and the Saar River during the night with machine-guns and hand grenades, but were "easily repulsed."

Canadian And U.S. Officials Clarify Seaway Snags In 2-Day Session

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.—(CP).— Officials representing the governments of Canada and the United States to-day concluded a two-day discussion of the draft treaty relating to the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterways project which was transmitted to the Canadian government in May, 1938.

A statement issued after the close of the conference said he "discussions resulted in a clarification of the various engineering and financial problems involved."

During the next fortnight it is expected that the various aspects of the question will be considered by the Federal governments and by the interested Provincial and State authorities of both countries.

It is planned, the statement said, that a further meeting will take place in Washington, beginning Monday, January 22.

The United States delegation will leave for Washington this afternoon.

Conference Ends.

OTTAWA. Jan. 9 — (CP).—Conferences which opened yesterday between Government experts representing Canada and the United States on the St. Lawrence Waterways project were concluded early this afternoon.

It was understood the discussions concerned technical details and methods of procedure for the more formal negotiations later.

A. A. Berle, Jr., Assistant United States Secretary of State, headed the United States delegation which included Leland Olds, chairman of the Federal Power Commission and J. D. Hickerson, Assistant Chief of the Division of European Affairs.

Dr. O. D. Skelton, Under-Secretary of State for External Affairs, headed the Canadian representatives.

Royal Governor?

London, Jan. 9 (CP Cable)

THE WRITER of the "Talk of the Town," a column of gossip in the Daily Sketch, today spoke of the possibility of a member of the Royal family being appointed governor general of Canada to succeed Lord Tweedsmuir.

The Earl of Athlone, brother of Queen Mary and a former governor general of South Africa, was mentioned as a possible choice.

Lord Athlone was appointed governor general of Canada in 1914, a few weeks before the outbreak of the first Great War. The appointment was cancelled on the outbreak of hostilities to allow the Earl to undertake active service.

500 Canadian Flying Recruits Soon To Start Training Under Empire Scheme

OTTAWA, Jan. 9—(CP).—The first batch of Canadian recruits for the British Commonwealth air training plan will number approximately 500. The first initial training school on the property of the former Eglinton Hunt Club at Toronto will accommodate about that number.

Preparations are going forward for setting the plan in operation and a large group of instructors and technicians from the Royal Air Force will leave for Canada shortly to aid in training pilots, air gunners and observers at the rate of 20,000 to 30,000 a year.

The Department of National Defence is expected to announce further details of the program shortly, including the time schedule for the start of operations at the 67 different schools now being developed.

The plan is arranged to come into operation by stages so that neither weather nor delays in the construction of new flying fields due to a late spring can interfere with the schedule.

The arrival of Australian, New Zealand and British students for service training in Canada will be timed to coincide with the availability of training facilities here.

As the initial training period is four weeks and the Toronto school will be the first of three, facilities for elementary flying training, training on observation and air gunnery will be ready to accommodate the first 500 candidates four weeks after they enter that school.

Later as the other two initial training schools open more advanced schools will be ready to carry on the training in those institutions.

From the intial training schools the men will pas sinto elementary flying schools, air gunnery schools and observer schools according to their adaptability as shown in the first four weeks of ground training.

For the elementary flying stage to which prospective pilots will pass, arrangements are being made to use some of the facilities of the civilian flying clubs now used for elementary flying training of members of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Discretion Allowed In Mothers' Cases

OTTAWA, Jan. 9—(CP). —Regulations followed by the Dependents Allowance Board state that allowances will not be given soldiers' dependent mothers who are on relief, a Defence Department spokesman said today but the board may use considerable discretion in dealing with individual cases.

Commenting on Mayor John Queen's criticism of this regulation before the Winnipeg City Council last night, the spokesman said the rule was not new and has been in force since the war started.

However, many of the allowance regulations are under review at present, particularly mothers' allowances, and may be altered.

Pledges Real Assistance For Finland

Anglo-French Deal Likely To Be Permanent Bond

LONDON, Jan. 9 — (CP). — Prime Minister Chamberlain in a militant address to the Empire today declared Britain's aid to Finland "will be no mere formality," and said that events in the war with Germany thus far were "merely preliminary to the main struggle to come."

"It is only on the sea," he said, "that the war may be said to be in full operation."

The Prime Minister declared that the British-French alliance should become permanent in the interests of "peaceful reconstruction" after the war is over.

For 55 minutes, he reviewed the progress of the hostilities to date in an address at a Lord Mayor's luncheon at the Mansion House. It was Mr. Chamberlain's first public appearance of the New Year, a year which he said would be a fateful one in the history of the world.

He said the "unbelievable" quiet of the first months of the war could only be interpreted as "the quiet of the calm before the storm."

Real Help for Finland.

Speaking of Finland, Mr. Chamberlain said:

"And now it is the turn of Finland to be attacked by the power (Soviet Russia) with whom Germany made an unholy pact and for whom she sets the example of aggression. Finland is fighting against the forces of unscrupulous violence just as we are ourselves. She is fighting for the same thing, for liberty and for justice.

"That valiant people can rest assured that our response to that resolution (for aid to Finland) which has passed so recently at a meeting of the league in Geneva will be no mere formality."

Mr. Chamberlain said bitterly that the leaders of Germany would like to treat the British people as they are treating "their conquered people."

"But we on our side have no such vindictive designs," he said.

He labelled as a "vicious invention" of German propagandists the thought that Britain would attempt to annihilate the Germans. He described Germany's policy as a threat and a menace "to the moral standards on which western civilization is built."

Still Master of Seas

Mr. Chamberlain declared that Britain's mastery of the seas was unimpaired and that Britain was ready to repel any invader from the air.

"Four months have gone by and the air raids have not come," he said after mentioning blackouts and other precautions.

He drew laughter a moment later when he said:—

"Some people are disappointed, perhaps."

"I do not consider that the risk of air raids is over or diminished," he said, "and I am certain that we should make a capital mistake if we became lax in our policy or changed it.

"It is only on the sea," the prime minister said, "that England can see the trend of hostilities.

"If we take a survey we can look upon it with satisfaction. The oceans of the world have been swept clear of German shipping."

Last Minute News Flashes

HELSINGFORS.— (AP)—A high Finnish official said today that a lull prevailing on all fronts indicated the invading Russian forces were "momentarily exhausted" and were gathering strength for a new assault. "We can't have a victory like yesterday's every day," the official said, "but today's communique is very significant."

AMSTERDAM—(CP Havas) —The 176-ton Netherlands motorship Trulda was blown up by a mine at the mouth of the Escaut river today and sank. All of the crew were saved.

MOSCOW—(AP) — The newspaper Godak, organ of the Soviet railways, apparently referring to Great Britain, the United States and France, declared today that "the Governments of the three imperialist countries have devoted themselves to the erection of fortifications against the U. S. S. R." In Finland in recent years. "Death dealers such as Armstrong (British) Dupont(American) and others have organized munitions factories much in excess of Finland's needs," the paper said.

MONTREAL—(CP) Officers at Royal Canadian Air Force headquarters here disclosed today that 600 men have responded in the last few days to a call for "general duty" French-speaking recruits.

Reds Flee Into Wilds Death On Heels

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 9—(AP). — Dispatches from Finland today declared thousands of terrified Russians, facing death or capture, were aimlessly roaming the bleak region east of Suomussalmi, Central Finland, as a result of the Finns' destruction of the Red army's 44th Division.

Finnish ski scouts were said to be rounding up the fleeing Russians or annihilating them as the rout continued.

Great numbers were doomed to death in the intense cold, reports said, while others were dying of starvation. Remnants of the Russian 163rd Division, which the Finns reported cut to pieces late in Decem-

Freight Crashes Skidding Bus Injuring Nine

OTTAWA, Jan. 9 — (CP).—Nine persons were in hospital here today following a level crossing accident on the southern outskirts of the city last night when a freight train hit the rear of a bus carrying 25 passengers.

The Colonel Coach Lines bus was nearing the end of its trip from Kingston, Ont., when it skidded along the ice-covered highway on to the railway tracks after the driver, Paul Duhamel of Ottawa, had attempted to stop at the crossing.

The Canadian Pacific Railway train, travelling about five miles an hour, banged into the bus and carried it along the tracks for 50 feet but the vehicle did not turn over.

The injured were taken to hospital all suffering severe bruises and minor cuts. They are:

Stanley Rendall, Toronto, Fred Robinson, Kemptville, Ont., George Lewis, Mrs. Mabel Albert, Mrs. Douglas Currie, Miss L. Miller, Miss Sadie Patterson, Miss Mary O'Neill, and Miss J. McFarlane, all of Ottawa.

Canadian Money Useless In U.S.

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—The Canadian dollar, to those who try spending it in Canada, is still worth 100 cents, but across the border in Niagara Falls, N.Y., or Buffalo it is something else.

The other day a Toronto man in the United States reported he had tried at five banks to obtain United States currency for Canadian money. The banks refused him, even when he offered $20 in Canadian funds for $16 of United States money.

Faced with starvation, he travelled to his sister's home in another part of the United States where he was taken in and fed.

In Buffalo yesterday a Toronto reporter went to gasoline stations, restaurants and tobacconists, offering a handful of Canadian silver money in return for enough to eat, enough gasoline to return to Canada and a couple of packages of cigarettes.

Income Fades Finns Ask Foreign Aid

Claim Peace Policy Has Left Her Without Munitions

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 9—(AP). — Finland's national income is "sinking rapidly," in the words of Prime Minister Risto Ryti, and she must have foreign credits to finance her defence against Soviet Russia.

Ryti's statement picturing the war-time crippling of Finnish export trade was issued last night.

"As a peace-loving nation, we previously have paid little attention to the munitions industry," the Prime Miniser said.

"As a result of this, now that we have been attacked, we must procure arms and munitions on a large scale from abroad. Our exports are sufficient to pay only for a part of the expenditure."

With national income "sinking rapidly,' the statement went on, "the time has come when foreign credit is essential to us." It added that Finland would meet any new obligations "as faithfully as we have done up to now."

There were scant reports on warfare along the snowbound frontiers with Russia to add to word yesterday that thousands of Russians had been killed an d1,000 captured in destruction of a Russian division, identified as the 44th.

A Russian communique told only of scouting activities, artillery duels and sporadic rifle and machine-gun fire after saying, "on Jan. 8, nothing important took place at the front."

May Ask Nazis Free Canadians

OTTAWA, Jan. 9 — (CP). — The External Affairs Department is examining the possibilities of obtaining the release of some Canadian civilians held in Germany since the war started.

The number of Canadians in Germany is not significant, it was stated by a Government official here last night, but efforts are being made to deal with various individual cases.

The Department is considering various methods of freeing these Canadians and it might be achieved by an exchange of Germans, held prisoner in Canada as enemy aliens. Great Britain has been following method of exchanging prisoners by this general policy while the French categories, such as a scientist for a scientist or a businessman for a businessman, may be the one adopted.

Vegetable Men See Share In Victory For Them

TORONTO, Jan. 9. —(CP) — The vegetable-growing industry is in good condition to do its part in the war by supplying the necessary foodstuffs, declared George Reeves of Islington, Ont., delivering his presidential address today at the opening of the 25th annual convention of the Ontario Vegetable Growers Association.

He said that at the start of the First Great War there were not the great surpluses of agricultural products that are available at present. "During the last few years the production of vegetables has greatly increased, and as vegetables has greatly increased, and as vegetables, with the exception of processed vegetables, are not exported, this industry is in good condition to do its part in supplying necessary foodstufs," he said.

"I feel that every one of us will do everything in his or her power assist in bringing victory to the Empire."

Mr. Reeves declared that the prospects for the vegetable growers appear a little brighter for 1940. He mentioned the high ex-Canadian funds in the United States which should assist the "inadequate tariff," the possibility of a bigger market for canned goods in the British Isles, the fact that better prices on farm products may induce the grain and dairy farmers to stay strictly to those lines, and the fact that higher wages to farm help may decrease production.

Regarding the problems that confront the vegetable growers, Mr. Reeves said that the past year had proven the truth of his previous statement that "the Canada-United State strade treaty has dealt a staggering blow to our

13 Gaming Tips Passed On No Aid Asked, Says Conant

TORONTO, Jan. 9. —(CP) — Since March, 1939, the Provincial police have forwarded to the municipalities around Toronto 13 reports they have received about gambling houses in those districts. No request has come from the Chiefs of Police or the municipal councils for the Provincial police to take any action.

This statment was made by Attorney-General Gordon D. Conant today as the result of the attack by Rev. C. E. French on the department for not closing up gambling places around Toronto, and also the suggestion by Mayor Jackson of New Toronto, that the Provincial Police should police these clubs because they had Provincial charters.

"This is a democratic country and the municipalities do not like the Provincial Police going in on their territory," said the Attorney-General. "We have dozens of instances when there has been complaint when we did step in.

"At the last session of parliament, I introduced a bill to co-ordinate the police forces, and there was such a furore raised that the bill was dropped. Now it is up to the municipalities to ask us for help before we will act."

On May, 1939, the Attorney-General sent a letter to the Warden of York County offering to put five Provincial police officers and one officer to act as High County Constable for the county On June 14, the department received a letter from the York County Council declaring the suggestion was not acceptable and declining the offer. It is a matter of record that York County and Lanark County are the only two in the Province which did not pass a by-law to have a Provincial police officer as a High County Constable.

Roosevelt Mum On Stand For Third Term

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—(AP) — President Roosevelt's Jackson Day address, lauding independent political thinking and joshing everyone from Republicans to himself, brought cheers and laughter—but left unanswered today the question of his future plans.

Democratic leaders who heard Mr. Roosevelt make a jovial and philosophical talk at last night's $100-a-plate Democratic party fund-raising celebration interpreted his remarks variously as an indirect bid for a third term as president, as a valedictory, or merely as a studied effort to "keep 'em guessing."

Most party leaders laughingly agreed with Mr. Roosevelt's own comment, however, that he was a "self-made riddle" and predicted that the riddle would go unsolved for weeks or months.

Even though the president failed to allude to the third term issue, Agriculture Secretary Harry Wallace, speaking in Des Moines, said flatly that he hoped the "nominee in 1940 would be President Roosevelt." And at Cleveland Robert Jackson, newly appointed Attorney General, came almost as close to advocating a third term.

Deeds Count

Taking as his theme "by their very motives may ye know them," Mr. Roosevelt told his hearers in Washington and at 44 other party dinners in other cities that it was not so much the party to which a leader belonged, but the deeds he performed in the interest of the general welfare that counted.

Putting "Motives" about political ties, the president said Alexander Hamilton, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln, and Andrew Jackson

Nothing In Gain In Market Boom

Farmers at a co-operative Short Course at the Normal School were warned to-day against "plunging" into crops in the hope of war profits, by Leonard Harman, director of the course.

He admitted it is possible that this country will see an increase in domestic and overseas demand to some extent, but added that the farmer is not to gain by a boom. "There is nothing worse than a boom," he declared. "The only men to profit by it are a few stock market gamblers."

"We have to be careful not to let farm people think war is going to solve their economic problem. In the long run war is bound to raise for us more problems than it will solve."

He urged upon his listeners the need of perserving democracy in this country. "If we call upon some of our young men to go out to fight for democracy, we must be sure that we keep in Canada the thing they are abroad fighting for," he challenged.

Dr. E. W. Wilson Heads Hydro Commission

HASTINGS, Jan. 9 (ENS)—Reading a copy of The Examiner last night at the Hydro Commission meeting, Commissioner Howard Fairman branded the statement, reported at the last council meeting and made by Iden Bonds, Sr., as false." The reported statement read in part: "Adding further charges, he said the commission was receiving 10 cents per hour commission on rural work out of the ribs of the men working for them." Commissioner Fairman said Mr. Bonds had been misinformed as to how the commission did receive this bonus.

He explained that the Hastings Commission received a 10 per cent commission over and above the wages paid to local hydro employees. This commission was paid to the local board as a remuneration for handling rural hydro construction for the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission. "The only reason we are handling this work is to give local men employment in place of having outside gangs of men coming into the district," he said.

Dr. W. E. Wilson was again appointed chairman of the Hastings Commission.

HOW TO OVERCOME ITCHING PILES

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Stores or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost. —(Advt.)

industry." He said the revised treaty came into effect January 1, 1939, and in the first nine months of last year there was a further increase of 14 per cent in the value of vegetables imported into this country from the United States, making a total increase of 83 per cent over the total value of vegetables imported in 1935. "There is no doubt that the extra importation has added to the uncertainty of our industry."

He pointed out also that "We are now producing more vegetables than our present limited markets can consume, yet we are faced with an even greater acreage of vegetables due to the Vacant Land Cultivation Act. I feel that the governments did not give the matter of necessity for greater production of vegetables careful enough study."

Another problem he mentioned is that of the menace of the Chinese or Oriental vegetable grower, a type which he said is increasing steady in numbers. He said that thi type owing to a low standard of living is in a position to produce and still carry on at the very low prices now being received for vegetable produce.

Game Costs 3 Lives

PITTSBURG, Jan. 9—(AP)—Police dragged the freezing waters of the Ohio river to-day for the bodies of two of three schoolboys who drowned during a dangerous game of "dare" on the ice.

One of the trio, Clyde Slofer, a negro, died shortly after he was hauled from the river yesterday. Paul Sirirko, 10, and John Usher, 11, a negro, were the other boys.

In the game of "dare," the boys challenged one another to walk farther out on the ice, each gingerly laying down a stick to mark where he himself had ventured.

War Office Digs Into Attack On Hore-Belisha

LONDON, Jan. 9.—(CP Cable)—Anonymous, expensive press advertisements demanding the return of Leslie Hore-Belisha to the war cabinet and the revelation that the war office is investigating the origin of a letter written on official note-paper attacking the former war secretary intrigued Londoners today.

It was learned that large-scale pro-Belisha advertisements were submitted to a number of national newspapers last night but were rejected because the advertising agency refused to divulge the name of the sponsor.

However, a half-page advertisement printed by the Evening Standard was headed: "We must have Hore-Belisha." The resigned minister's services to the state were enumerated in the advertisement.

"You cannot reform and reinvigorate the entire tradition of an army without treading on some people's corns, it added.

Meanwhile war office officials examined an unsigned letter headed, "Call to all royal Englishmen." It contained a violent attack of Mr. Hore-Belisha and on the Jews.

It was written on war office notepaper, presumably stolen, and had been widely circulated through the mails. Copies of the letter, which alleges the army, navy and air force are under the control of Jews and aliens, are said to have reached army officers.

Leeson Awarded $3,280 Damages

Alexander Leeson, elderly Havelock merchant and father of Alderman E. J. Leeson, was awarded $3,280 from the village of Havelock as a result of a fall he suffered on icy streets last March. Mr. Justice Roach handed down that judgment at Osgoode Hall yesterday.

Mr. Leeson had entered a suit for $10,000 damages for a broken hip and loss of work. W. J. Arthur Fair of Peterborough appeared for him and the action was heard last month. An earlier action of a like nature, brought by Mrs. Mae Hill against Havelock for $5,000, was dismissed at the time of hearing.

Mr. Leeson fell near the Havelock post office and broke his hip. He claimed that the sidewalk had not been sanded for two days and that a dangerous condition had existed for that time. Mr. Fair argued that such a lapse on the part of the village constituted more than a reasonable time in which to care for the safety of pedestrians and that, as a result, Mr. Leeson's fall was due to gross negligence on the part of the municipality.

W. J. Arthur Fair, Peterborough, appeared for the plaintiff in the action, while the defendant corporation had T. N. Phelan, K.C., of Toronto looking after its interests.

National Marketing Legislation Is Favored By Group Of Farmers

Taking a policy of grading on Peterborough farmers' market in their stride yesterday afternoon, some 40 agriculturists passed on to the tremendous problem of farming on a national scale and unanimously announced themselves in favor of national marketing legislation.

Their decision to back such a policy followed a stirring address by Vivian Milburn of the Milk Producers' Board, a leading light in the Chamber of Agriculture's drive towards farm legislation and unity of farmers.

The 40 farmers were attending the opening afternoon session of a 3-day co-operative short course. In the morning a small group had discussed the advisability of grading fowl on the local market. In the afternoon a much large group decided that such action would be of benefit to both farmers and city patrons, and went even further to recommend grading of all produce sold on Saturdays.

It was pointed out during the meeting that prices all over the market could be made standard by grading, and that grading would give housewives more confidence in making purchases. Another result would be to discourage purchasers from door-to-door peddlers who, presumably, would not grade their wares.

But while these actions were recommended, no practical action toward putting them into force was suggested. Nor was any on the much-criticized parking facilities offered shoppers on market day. None but were in agreement the lack of parking facilities reduced the number of market shoppers by a great degree, but no suggestion of a remedy was forthcoming from the meeting.

National Policy.

Greater interest, however, centred around the establishment of a national policy for agriculture, as outlined by Mr. Milburn and by Roy Lick of Oshawa.

Mr. Milburn scored farmers for their lack of organization, charged that the predicament in which they find themselves is largely their own fault. Governments will not listen to farm representatives because no one can lay claim to representing any sizeable group of Canadian farmers, he said. He pointed to the Canadian Government's recently signed agreement with England to supply the Mother Country with pork. Of tremendous importance to Canadian farmers, the entire deal was completed without a solitary farmer or farmer's representative being consulted, he said. But, he charged, the packing industry was consulted. "their books were gone over in order that they might be assured of a profit at the established price." But, he challenged, "who was there to ask whether the farmer

German shipping is either bottled up or confined to Baltic ports, he declared.

"If we subtract from our losses by enemy action, our gain by capture from the enemy or by new ships or by transfer from foreign flags we have lost 132,000 tons, less than one per cent of our merchant fleet.

"Every day, every day now there are passing 11,000,000 tons of British shipping over the several oceans of the world.

"In this period we have lost two large warships, the Royal Oak and the Courageous, and several smaller vessels."

Mr. Chamberlain said "our command of the sea is unimpaired and the defeat of the Graf Spee in one of the finest naval actions in all our history, followed by her self destruction rather than face a renewal of the fight, has not only cleared the South Atlantic of that raider but it has inflicted irreparable damage upon German naval prestige in the world.

"Meanwhile inexorable pressure of sea power upon the enemy has added to her difficulties to carry on the war."

Taking It Out On Poles, Czechs

If the results are not yet visible at home, the prime minister continued, the people should read the Christmas orations of the German leaders to guess their state of mind.

"Germany used her brute force upon unhappy Poland and today we can see how she is treating the Poles and the Czechs—starving and shooting the people, tearing and uprooting them from their homes, forcing them to leave the lands where their families have been settled for generations.

"And today it is the turn of Finland."

He spoke of Finnish "heroism" and of the gallant fight the smaller country was putting up, calling the Finns a "valiant people."

Sympathy For Turkey

"There is another country to whom our sympathy goes out today—Turkey, a new Turkey, which is not at war but which in a few days through floods and earthquakes has suffered more casualties than the belligerents have suffered in the war.

"Even today we do not know the extent of the casualties."

Then he spoke of the relief work and declared the Turks are taking their tragedy with "the stoicism that has always characterized them as a nation.

Turning back to the west, he went on:

"I can't help thinking that our experience of this association with France will be so valuable that neither of us can give it up.

"It might even develop into something wider and deeper because there is nothing which would precipitate the start of peaceful reconstruction which would make permanent its results" than such a union.

Such an Anglo-French union would benefit the whole world, Mr. Chamberlain declared amid cheers.

He spoke of the French "readiness to accept any hardship" in the face of national danger.

"I am confident that we in this country will not lag behind the French in our resolution in the inevitable hardships of war."

Over 2,500,000 Registered.

Switching his topic to "the home front," Mr. Chamberlain spoke of the conscription of British citizens and declared that "the total number of men registered since the introduction of compulsory service amounts to between 2,500,000 and 2,750,000." Added to the regulars, he said, the number is "prodigious." Then, speaking on aerial defence he said Britain was ready to repel any invader from the air. He enumerated the various branches of this service, spoke of the balloon defences, anti-aircraft guns, the blackouts.

"Four months have gone by and the air raids have not come," he said. A moment later he drew laughter when he said:—

"Some people are disappointed, perhaps."

He could not agree with the view of some people, he said, that Britain has gone too far in her preparations.

"I do not consider that the risk of air raids is over or diminished. And I am certain that we should make a capital mistake if we became lax in our policy or changed it."

Mr. Chamberlain said he regretted that "some of the evacuated children have returned to London," not merely because their presence in the city might be perilous in times of air raids.

These children, he said, had benefitted enormously in the country, growing in height and weight, and expressed the hope that parents would consider that the "sacrifices" they were making were necessary.

A United Nation.

The Prime Minister said he was certain the British people were "united in their determination" to end the war and so end the spirit of German policy which he believed made war inevitable.

Yet Britons must understand the facts more thoroughly than they do, he continued.

"We musn't think that because this war hasn't taken the form that it did in 1914 that we can carry on our lives as if we were at peace. We must do without many things which we shall miss."

Because of the necessity of producing arms, Mr. Chamberlain said, fewer men are available to produce civilian goods. He spoke at length of the production of goods and their importation and of the difficulties of shipping from foreign ports.

"Since our supplies of gold and foreign securities are limited—and we must keep reserves of these since this may be a long war—we are driven back upon exports, and in order to do our job successfully we must increase the exports and lessen the imports, doing without the things we migh do without."

He was confident, he said, that Britons would not complain, remembering as they must the hardships of the men in France, on the sea, and in the air.

Taking Profits Out of War.

Turning to taxation, Mr. Chamberlain said the Government was doing its utmost to take the profits out of war.

"The Government is trying to show that in this democratic country we can carry out the plans necessary to insure our victory," he said.

"What I want the country to realize is that the war is going on, though in a form that is unfamiliar and that the restrictions imposed on the people are necessary to make victory certain.'

If everybody makes sacrifices "our combined efforts will see us through."

"It is becoming increasingly clear that the German Government had long planned the successive stages and it sappetite grows upon what it feeds upon."

The German leaders, he said bitterly, would like to treat the British as they are treating their conquered people."

"But we on our side have no such vindictive designs."

The thought that Britons would attempt to annihilate the Germans was branded by Mr. Chamberlain as "a vicious invention" made for German consumption.

Germany's policy, he declared, is a threat and a menace "to the moral standards on which western civilization is built.'

He referred to President Roosevelt's message to Pope Pius XII—the plea for peace—and said "I profoundly agree" with the President.

'In our determination to achieve our purpose we are united . . . and supported by the moral approval of all who realize that the fate of civilization is bound up with our success."

Thus, he said, Britain will await the future "with faith in our arms and our cause."

Peggy a Swimmer

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 9—(AP)—E. T. Johnson, deaf-mute, was afraid he lost his "ears" in a fire that destroyed the Henshaw Hotel. Peggy, his fox terrier which pulls Johnson's leg when anyone approaches, was missing. Later firemen found Peggy, swimming in the water-filled basement.

Claims Germany Has Whip Hand In Russian Deal

MONTREAL, Jan. 9 — (CO). — Germany holds the upper-hand in the Russian-German pact which will prove to be the beginning of the end for both totalitarian regimes, Alexander Kerensky, head of Russia's provisional government in 1917, said here last night.

Kerensky, an opponent of the Russian government and now a United States resident, told the Montreal People's Forum that Hitler, at the start of the present war, had not expected either military assistance from Stalin or appreciable quantities of raw materials or supplies

"Germany, and particularly her general staff, knew very well the internal conditions in Russia and the fighting capacity of the Red army," he said. "What Hitler needed was not the aid of the Red army but the assurance that he would have a free hand on the eastern frontiers of Germany and that the German people would not have to fight a war on two fronts."

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 9 — (CP). — Mid-season gains of about a cent were erased near the close of to-day's session on Winnipeg Grain Exchange, when wheat futures prices yielded to the pressure of late weakness at Chicago. Quotations closed ¼ to ½ lower, May 86⅜, July 87¼ to ⅜, and October 88¼ cents.

In the cash wheat market terminals bought some No. 1 Northern while mills were credited with picking small amounts of the lower grades. Fair purchases of oats and barley, together with a few sales of rye at Chicago against purchases of the same commodity here, accounted for most of the activity in the coarse grain pit.

Wanted Diamonds, Patrol Gets Them

The captain of an Italian ship, unsympathetic toward the British officer who came aboard, said no one on the liner spoke English. The inspector held the ship six hours while he sent ashore for an interpreter.

Then through the interpreter the inspector asked the captin if he had 1,250 sacks of mail from the United States.

"Yes," replied the captain.

"We would like to have sack 350," the inspector said. "It contains a registered package of diamonds consigned to Germany."

Sack 350 yielded the package of diamonds—which was confiscated as contraband.

temperature, which transformed them into walking glaciers, firemen fought the stubborn blaze for four hours before bringing it under control. Three firemen were slightly hurt as they made their way through the burning building, carrying hose pipes to the heart of the fire.

Lieut. Sam Gaston crawled out of the smoke-filled building, his face covered with blood pouring from a deep cut over his eye. He said he struck his head against a pipe. He was given first-aid and returned to his position.

The freezing temperature turned the streams of water played on the buildings into columns of ice as they smacked against the walls. The area surrounding the large building became a skating rink.

An official of the company set the value of the building at $30,000, the equipment at $100,000, and the stock at $20,000.

Cause of the outbreak was not determined immediately.

W. A. Group Completes Year Of Fine Work

A busy year, with all obligations met, was recorded by Miss A. Milburn, financial secretary of the Evening Branch of the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Church, at its meeting on Monday evening, which opened with prayer and services taken from the W.A. leaflet. The financial report for the year amounted to $199.61. Although only a comparatively small organization, this branch may well feel a glow of pride in its achievements of the past year. Five bales were sent, one weighing 100 lbs., and contents included discarded clothing which had been taken apart, washed, pressed and remade into coats, dresses, trousers, helmets, and many other garments. Thirteen mothers' bags were also included. In a letter from W.A. House, these bags were described as "miniature stores sent to Western housewives, which are indeed a blessing."

The Dorcas report was given by Mrs. B. Ottewell.

An informal talk on the life of St. Stephen, the first Deacon of the church, was given by Canon W. P. Robertson, whose brief talks at the meetings are always anticipated with pleasure by the members.

Mrs. J. Bell presented the Bible reading. Correspondence was read, and Mrs. J. W. Bryett reported for the Extra-Cent-a-Day Fund.

Mrs. A. B. Fee of Brandon, Manitoba, who is spending a short time in the city, was introduced by Canon Robertson, and gave the members a few highlights of the W.A. in the West. Mrs. Fee is Deanery secretary at Brandon.

Miss M. Lancaster spoke of the study book, and reviewed chapter five, "Living Water of Evangelism," in her usual capable manner. The meeting closed with prayer, led by the president, Mrs. J. W. Downer.

War Sure To Have Affect on Dances

Just as "jazz" developed from the last war, another dance style will evolve during or after the present war, it is believed by La Argentinita, who will be here to present a Spanish dance festival under the auspices of the Peterboro Concert Association on Wednesday night, in Collegiate Auditorium.

La Argentinita.

Born in Argentine as her name signifies, but brought up in Spain, the raven-haired dancer said Spaniard since the civil war have rapidly taken up the "swing" developed on this continent. "Their natural rhythm has made them very adept at swing," she said.

In Wednesday's program La Argentinita, known as Spain's leading dancer, will again use her castinets to "chatter, scold, invite, reject or even wisecrack," according to the New York reviewer, who enthused over the same production there Saturday night. Miss Pitar Lopez and Antonio Triana again will take leading parts in the production of the Spanish dances.

Working Daughters Should Not Be Made The Family Goats—Most Of Them Put In Enough Strenuous Hours In Their Offices And Have Reason To Be Tired Out.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am secretary to an executive of a large concern and my work is so heavy that when I get home at night I am exhausted and my nerves are all on edge. Yet my family persist in thinking that I have passed a pleasant day amusing myself, and they can't see why I am tired "after sitting down all day." They won't understand that I am running on all six cylinders, working under a terrific strain trying to get routine dictation out of the way and being interrupted a hundred times answering the telephones, digging letters and documents out of old files, acting as a buffer between my boss and some irate customers or salesmen, and that I am up and down at my desk more time than I can enumerate. Then, when I get home worn out at night, they jump on me and tell me that there is no reason why I should be tired. My mother expects me to help get the supper and wash the wishes and do chores around the house afterward until I am so weary I am ready to drop. I wouldn't mind the hard work so much if even one member of my family understood and sympathized a little with what I go through.—A WORKING GIRL.

ANSWER:

We hear a lot about the Tired Business Man. Much is done for his diversion after his hard day's work is over, for it is realized that he needs rest and relaxation. At home he is petted and coddled and given the easiest chair and the softest couch and exempted from all household chores.

But we hear very little of the Tired Business Girl. Probably because she is so worn out that she hasn't the strength left to raise her voice in protest against the way she is treated by her family. She is the Forgotten Woman, the hardships of whose lot no one understands, whose burdens no one tries to lighten. Not for her are the prestige and privileges enjoyed in the home by her brothers.

Of course, there are exceptions to every rule, and there are some mothers who realize that it is hard for a young girl to have no playtime of life but to have to go from the schoolroom to the workroom. Also, there are mothers who appreciate that the 17-and-18-year-old shoulders sag under the burden of having to support not only themselves but also the family, and who try to save their girls from homework. And there are mothers who are just enough to know that the laborer is worthy of his hire and who do not take Mamie's and Sally's pay envelopes from them and dole them out a few pennies out of the dollars they have earned.

But these mothers are rare The average mother does not treat her working daughter as she does her working son. She never dreams, for one thing, of confiscating John's wages. She takes what he gives her and thinks he is so noble to help the family. And when he comes home at night, tired from his day's work, she doesn't expect him to turn in and help with the housework. But the minute poor, wornout Mamie puts her foot in the door, Mother bids her hurry and change her dress and get the supper, mop up the bathroom, and be quick about it, for she wants her to help her make over her old dress after she has washed the dishes.

Perhaps the myriads of mothers who make their daughters the family goats do it without realizing how cruel they are being. They can't put themselves in Mamie's place and understand how office work wears a girl to the bone and frets her nerves to fiddle strings, because they have had no experience along that line. To them going down town is always a party, full of excitement and thrills. So when they see Mamie put on a good dress and start forth in the morning to spend the day at a mahogany desk, they think of her as going out for a good time, and they can't see what in the world there is about it to make her tired.

If Mother could only change places with Mamie one day and know what it is to always work on a strain trying to be in top form; to bite back the tears when she is unjustly criticized by the boss; to be harried by contradictory orders; to be torn to pieces by people coming and going; to have to smile and look pleasant no matter how one's head ached or how she is inwardly seething with rage, then she wouldn't expect Mamie to do a day's housework after she had done a day in the office treadmill.

DEAR MISS DIX—There are two childless couples, each of whom have been married for about eighteen years. Neither marriage has been successful so far as filling the inner needs are concerned, although each bears the outward semblance of harmony. The couples have been friends for many years. Now Mr. A. and Mrs. B. have developed a very deep love for each other. Each has struggled against this, but hopelessly, and a decision must be reached as to the courageous and the right course to pursue. For three years this situation has existed and no solution seems in sight, unless a continuance of this endurance test can be called a solution. While Mr. A. and Mrs. B. are confident life would have a much fuller meaning for them if they were free to live it together, they doubt the possibility of finding happiness when it means trampling on the souls of two other people and disrupting two homes. Neither Mrs. A. nor Mr. B. know what has happened. Each of them is apparently satisfied to go on with a fairly happy marriage and would be shocked and torn at the thought of divorce. Mrs. A. would probably fight it to the last ditch. Are you wise enough to see through this muddle? Can you offer a philosophy that would be sustaining in one course or the other?—X.

ANSWER:

It would take a wisdom far deeper than any I possess to solve your problem because it raises the insoluble question of whether we have a right to take our own happiness at the expense of others, or whether, as the Good Book says, "Whosoever will have his life shall lose it."

Nor have I any comfort to offer you beyond the suggestion that has already occurred to you—that people as fine as you and Mr. A. are, in a way, the victims of your own nobility of soul. You cannot do the things that people of lesser character do, apparently with impunity and without regret. You cannot build your house of happiness on the wrecks of two other homes.

And so I see no way out for you that you can take, but I do believe with all my soul that if we walk the strait and narrow path and keep faith with our ideals that we find the strength to bear whatever comes to us, and the peace that passes all understanding.

Home and School Association News

"Education" was the subject chosen by Mr. J. R. Munro, Queen Alexandra School principal and guest speaker at the Queen Mary Home and School Association meeting on Monday evening. "This ward," he said, "is usually connected in our minds with children and school, whereas it is really a steady growth in all of us from birth until death." He regretted the necessity of so much speed in the curriculum of schools, and hoped for educational reforms which would result in a less automatic and a more leisurely process, giving the teachers time to study the child as an individual, and to draw him out. He urged that parents refrain from letting their ambitions for a distant goal for the child cause them to neglect the opportunity of training him today to meet today, and the needs of the immediate future. Help them now to form good habits, correct attitudes, and teach them to do right because it is right, "Not for any hope of reward, nor for any fear of consequence, but because it is right," he said.

Mrs. L. H. Ingram president welcomed with a few well-chosen words the parents represented, and expressed a hope for the continuance of their intrests. Mr. H. Lewis demonstrated the art of making comic cartoons, to the merriment of the audience and little Betty Mather, accompanied by Miss Laura Macfarlane, entertained with two pleasant song and pantomime numbers.

The European situation, as well as a probable Asiatic development, was covered by Mrs. T. J. Carley in her usual capable manner.

Mr. O. M. Steer, school principal, presented checks to the amount of 43.16 for the last paper collection, and moved a vote of thanks to those who had so kindly given of their time in making the evening an interesting one. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Still Leap Year In New Calendar

NEW YORK, Jann. 9. —(CP) — This may be Leap Year to you but to Elisabeth Achelis, president of the World Calendar Association, it's just another horrible example.

If and when Miss Achelis and the association have their way, the Gregorian Calendar, which has done service in most of the western world since 1751, will be booted out and an international calendar substituted to make all years uniform.

Under the World Calendar system each year would start with January 1, a Sunday,; each quarter would begin with a month of 31 days other months having 3?0 days. An extra year-end day as an extra Saturday would end the year.

The proposed calendar would have a Leap Year too, but the extra day would come between the second and third quarters so that the following January 1 would still be a Sunday.

The plan has been studied by the League of Nations, and 14 governments have shown willingness to accept it, says Miss Achelis. An international conference might have discussed it this year. But along came the war.

Mother, don't worry yourself sick over those miserable colds. Don't put up with the distress they cause. Now find out for yourself—without it costing you a penny—why thousands of modern mothers use Vicks VapoRub and bless the relief it brings so quickly and safely.

Vicks VapoRub is used externally—there is nothing to swallow, nothing to upset delicate digestion. And here's how easy it is to use:

At bedtime, massage Vicks VapoRub over throat, chest and back (from neck to waist). Then spread on a thick second layer and cover with a warmed cloth. Right away, VapoRub goes to work to relieve the misery of the cold two ways at once—two DIRECT WAYS.

First, VapoRub acts on the skin, stimulating like a warming poultice. Second, it gives off the soothing medicinal vapours of seven different relief-giving ingredients—vapours that penetrate to the irritated bronchial passages. And here's what this poultice-and-vapour action does.

It clears the air passages, loosens phlegm, checks the tendency to cough, relieves irritation—also eases soreness of the chest muscles. This comforting action continues hour after hour and invites healing, restful sleep. Often by morning, most of the misery of the cold is gone. Try this time-tested treatment FREE!

The Empire Should Be Told

The British Government, like that of other nations when at war, has a department which cares for publicity. This is done on the general plan that people should be kept informed; that news which might be of aid to the enemy should be suppressed, and that the public mind should be satisfied that nothing in the way of weakness or strength is being concealed or disfigured.

And yet the Prime Minister called for the resignation of Hore-Belisha, Secretary of State for War, and offered no explanation. The public and the press had to draw their own conclusions. They were left to look back and see if there was some place where an open break might have come.

Hore-Belisha may have quarrelled with Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, over the announcement that the first Canadian contingent had arrived. It was Churchill who ignored all plans regarding the time for the releasing of this announcement and made it on his own accord when he spoke in the House of Commons. It was completely at variance with all which had been planned.

There is the other report that he did not get along with Viscount Gort, V.C., commander-in-chief of the British army in France. Hore-Belisha was in favor of General Gamelin of the French army having supreme command, and the story goes on to say that Viscount Gort and his staff were not in agreement with that idea.

So it comes to pass at a time when there is all this machinery set up for the handling of news and the giving out of information that the resignation of Hore-Belisha is called for and not one word of official explanation is forthcoming. The people are left more in the dark than if there were not all the elaborate system of information in existence.

It is not a matter which concerns only the British Government because it has to do with the war, and the war belongs to every part of the Empire. It belongs to Canada, and from this distance it looks as though the situation were not being well handled because there has been that utter lack of helpful information or explanation of any kind which has left the question wide open to any kind of interpretation the press or public care to place upon it.

British papers are speaking of the removal of Hore-Belisha as "a victory for the Brass Hats," and by that they mean that the old school of precedent has had its way, and the new system of promotion from the ranks of the army has suffered a set-back. There had been nothing previous to indicate that Hore-Belisha was not functioning as he should; it was actually apparent that he was injecting a new feeling and new life into the whole organization. Premier Chamberlain should tell the people of the Empire exactly what took place and why.

Looking Toward 1940

In his inaugural address to the City Council Mayor Hamilton made reference to the need of more industries for Peterborough. There is a good case to be presented, but we do not believe it has been placed before the right people. Industries went to other communities in 1939, but they did not come to Peterborough. This city had to be satisfied with the tearing down of one industrial plant of impressive dimension.

A company looking for a location desires the very things which are to be found here. We take it that almost any city can show where a suitable site can be found, but that is only part of it. A firm desires location in a city where it will be desirable for its employees to live and own homes.

Taxation is on the way down in our city. And there is no juggling to produce that statement. The real test is the amount paid per capita, and that is coming down each year. Peterborough has made a formidable inroad on its existing debt, so it is in a desirable position. As a centre for winter sports and summer attractions there are few centres to compare favorably.

Before the war started the Examiner suggested it was time for the Industrial Committee to move more deliberately. The thing to do was to send a representative abroad when manufacturers in Europe were moving out to look for new locations.

It is quite probable that industrialists considering the Canadian field as desirable from their standpoint may know nothing at all about Peterborough.

The fact that Peterborough is the home of such outstanding industries as we possess is proof of the desirability and standing of our city as an industrial centre, and adding to the list would be about as direct a way as we know for making a frontal attack on what remains of our relief problem.

War time is admittedly a handicap, but the experience so far is that wartime is not one of cessation of effort, but actually is calling for increased production. It may actually be the reason for locating new plants in Canada. If the Industrial Committee desire to spend some money in order to make a consistent and unusual effort to secure results, then citizens would be in favor of the spending of the money.

What Finland Has Done

We are reading and believing things today which a few short weeks ago would have been regarded as fairy tales. For example the report of war loot which the Finns have taken from the 44th Red army division:

Guns: 142 different types; 43 tanks; 10 armored cars; one airplane; 20 tractors; 278 different cars, among them 16 anti-aircraft cars with four anti-aircraft guns each; 75 automatic rifles; 1,170 horses; 47 field kitchens.

At the end there was that peculiar little word, "etc." People who write out auction sale bills in the country have another way of concluding their list of articles offered for sale, by stating "and other articles too numerous to mention." That is probably what the Finns meant.

Not only was that amount of equipment taken from the Red army, but the 44th division was destroyed. Previously the 163rd division had met with utter defeat, and the 44th was sent in to the rescue, only to share the fate of those who first met with the initial reverse.

The weather has been in favor of the defending Finns. They longed for cold weather, hoping it would come in January as it did in December. It came although as a rule Finland looks for its coldest days in February and March.

Military experts are left wondering in a bewildered sort of way what Stalin had in mind when he ordered his troops to go in and subdue Finland at this time of year. They can find only one explanation—that he has some other military move in sight and desired to be done with Finland in a hurry and at once.

Apart from lesser invading parties the Red Army has sent two divisions into the north country of Finland, and each has been cut to shreds. The Russian army division is said to number between 15,000 and 17,000, so at the lower figure it means Russia has sent in 30,000 men against the Finns. None has returned and those now living are prisoners.

The attitude and successful attack of Finland on Russia is undoubtedly stiffening the spines of some of the lesser nations in other sections. Hungary for a long time has thought in terms of securing territory now held by Rumania, but on the advice of Italy has decided to conserve strength and keep an eye on Russia. Rumania meantime has informed Russia that any move on her part to invade Balkan territory will mean war to the finish. Russia has lost her right to be feared or respected. The Reds waded in with the intention of quick plunder from a decent people and they have been beaten to their knees by a nation which is just one-fiftieth the size of Russia. Finland has in the meantime not merely defended herself, but has given a vision and new strength to the hearts of the small nations.

Saying It Too Often

James Cromwell has been selected by President Roosevelt as the next Minister to Canada, and before long he will take up his residence in Ottawa. Mr. Cromwell says he ranks the Ottawa position as third in importance in the foreign service of his country, being headed only by London and Paris.

It was known some time ago that James Cromwell had married a rich lady, the former Doris Duke, who is reputed to be the wealthiest woman in the world with a rating of $50,000,000. It became a matter of interest, or perhaps only curiosity, to see with what frequence that fact would be mentioned when telling of the anticipated coming of these Cromwell folk to our country.

It gained a place in the first story, and we have noticed it almost every day since the announcement was made. Mrs. Cromwell has been in Los Angeles, but was going by plane to New York. Part of the trip was changed owing to weather conditions, and it was recorded that:

"The plane on which Mrs. Cromwell, formerly Doris Duke, 'the richest girl in the world,' was a passenger, was forced to halt at Salt Lake City."

That bit of information about her riches had to be polished off yet once more and pinned on her.

We hope it is not a detriment. Canadians know little of James Cromwell, but they take it that President Roosevelt would not have named him to the Ottawa post if he had not been satisfied of his fitness for the office. But Canadians have been informed many times through despatches running in papers all over the country that Mrs. Cromwell is the richest girl in the world. Not at all likely Mr. and Mrs. Cromwell desire to enter our country on that basis. Mr. Cromwell will be sent here for a serious and definite purpose and not because his wife is rich. A constant repetition of the riches feature is placing emphasis where it does not belong.

Printing Canadian News

London Daily Mail is making a bid for circulation among thousands of Canadian troops by advertising a daily feature, "Home Town News From Canada." It is reported the first budget contained items from Halifax, Montreal, Winnipeg and Ottawa.

The Daily Mail or any other paper which goes into this sort of venture will have to break a new field, because news from Canada has been of mighty little importance to the average London paper these many years back.

A Canadian in London could read and scan and keep on doing so day after day trying to find if there was anything from home, and he seldom succeeded.

But now that there are some thousands of Canadians in England the Daily Mail sees opportunity to pick up a bit more circulation by printing the news it considered previously to be of no importance whatever. It is not thinking more of Canada than before, but rather of its circulation figures. There is no sentiment in it; just plain business tactics.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A friend is the man who knows you quite well and yet continues to like you.

There was a national holiday in Sweden, but 100,000 workers went on with the day's chores and contributed the proceeds to the Finland war fund. The people of the little nations know they have a common danger.

Sugar is being rationed in Britain. It was done here during the last war. In restaurants there was a small container with a trifle of sugar which looked small to the individual who liked to dip into the sugar bowl as though he were bent on emptying the thing.

U.S. Guardsmen would take two months to be ready for war, according to one expert. They did not work on the same plan as the firemen who have to slide down the pole at a minute's notice.

Twenty-five years ago the bulk of bread in United States was made at home, while today commercial bakers have 85 per cent. of the trade. Instead of loafing at home the people prefer to do it elsewhere.

Court at New York was asked to set aside $1,000 a week, or $52,000 for the year to provide for Brenda Frazier, described as a glamor girl. The claim is "she must live in the manner to which she has become accustomed." But if the funds run low we take it Brenda would have to become accustomed to some other manner.

Many things happen during the night hours when most folk are tucked away in bed. Saturday night at 9 o'clock it was 2 below zero, but some place during the night in Peterborough that reading slipped down to 19 below. At 9 o'clock Sunday morning it was still 16 below, but in the three hours between then and noon the thermometer registered 9 above zero, making a change in those three hours of 25 degrees. And that record dip of the season took place when most residents were in bed and not much concerned about what was taking place outside.

HOW COLD?

¶ I used to hear grandfather say, about the winters in his day, that they were most severe; no matter if he piled on clothes, his feet and fingers would be froze, and next would come an ear.

¶ And next in order after those, would come the frost upon his nose, and frost would stop the well; grandfather then would cease his chores, and for a while he'd go indoors, and get thawed out a spell.

¶ I used to ask how cold it got, that caused grandfather deepest thought, he'd scratch his head and think; he'd have to recollect the day, before he thought it safe to say, how low the cold might sink.

¶ He said they measured cold by skill, when morning air was very still, and when there was no breeze; the temperature went down so low, he stated it quite loud and slow, to 45 degrees.

¶ He said at thirty it was mild, quite safe for woman and a child, for they could come and go; but when the men went forth alone, and left the other folk at home, 'twas forty-five below.

¶ There were no records in those days, kept in our scientific ways, if it was cold or hot; so when grandfather used to think, how low the temperature would sink—he 'magined quite a lot.

Jews In Poland Driven Before Hatred Of Nazi

COPENHAGEN. — Eyewitness accounts of a Nazi reign of terror against the 35,000 Jewish residents of "reservation" in what was Poland, were related here by reliable persons who recently returned from the territory.

For more than three months the city's Jews were the target of pogroms, systematic plunder, torture and expulsion, the report said. Those of the regular residents still left in Lublin have been stripped of all their possessions and are doomed to starvation.

Twice the Nazi authorities imposed huge collective fines on the Jews. The first was for 500,000 zlotys ($100,000 at pre-war rates). This later was reduced to 320,000 zlotys and collected in three days.

The second fine was 300,000 zlotys in cash, plus 500,000 zlotys worth of gold. This was imposed after a secret wireless station had been discovered in a Polish students' dormitory. In this connection, also, six priests and thirty students of the Lublin Catholic University were executed.

All Jews, irrespective of their age or sex, were forced to wear on their overcoats a yellow Morgen David (Jewish star), ten square centimetres in size.

Not a single trade or profession was left open to the Jews. Pogroms staged repeatedly. The report said hundreds were subjected to torture and many died of their wounds. Virtually every Jewish shop, house and apartment was stripped of fixtures, furniture and valuables.

SYNAGOGUES were similarly plundered and used to accommodate deporters from other parts of Poland and the Reich who were being dumped into the "reservation." Jews living in non-Jewish sections of the city were evicted from their apartments on half an hour's notice, and the apartments turned over to Poles evacuated by the Nazis from Silesia and Pomerania.

The Jewish Community was ordered to register all Jews from the ages of eighteen to fifty-five. No reason for the registration was given.

The buildings of the famous Jewish religious college, Yeshivat Hahmel Lublin, were transformed into a barracks for Nazi storm troopers and a torture chamber. Torture of Jews caught in the streets adjacent to the college was a daily occurrence, informants said.

Not less than 60 per cent of the younger generation fled from the city. Often Jewish notables were detained for several days for unstated reasons. Thus the triumvirate of the Community Board were frequently detained and released without explanation.

A similar reign of terror prevailed in the city of Chelm, second largest in the province, with a Jewish population of more than 35,000. All Jewish notables were arrested and a number of them, including physicians, were shot.

On one cold December day, more than 2,000 Jews were rounded up in the market place and ordered to leave the city. They were driven to a secret destination, reportedly the Soviet frontier. Many perished of torture and exhaustion.

PARIS—French newspapers reported that about 70,000 Jews in the Nazi protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia face expulsion, probably to the Lublin "reservation," under an edict ordering all Jews up to the age of sixty to leave before the end of 1940.

Deportation of Jews to the Lublin region of Nazi Poland had been temporarily suspended in the last few weeks, reportedly because of a sharp division of opinion on the matter between the German Gestapo (secret police) and the military authorities.

However, with the beginning of 1940, the deportations to Lublin are certain to be resumed, since it has been reliably learned that the Gestapo has succeeded in getting the upper hand in the controversy.

LONDON.—An average of 200 Jews daily have been executed by the Nazis in Poland since the war began, it was reported here. This would bring the total executions in the four months of the war to approximately 24,000.

NEW YORK.—A cable received by the New York Jewish Journal and Daily News from its London correspondent said that the congestion in railroad stations along deportation routes Poland had become so great that Nazi officials were obliged to slacken the pace of the movement while Jews were kept packed in freight cars in Lodz.

The cable said in part: "Cars are sealed, unheated, windowless and without food. In one car, opened at a Warsaw station, eight infants were found dead from cold and starvation. Jewish Joint Distribution Committee agents who brought milk and food were not allowed to approach. So great is the fear of Lodz Jews of these sealed cars that thousands have run from the city on foot."

• Sweden Makes A Very Bad Foe

NICHOLAS ROMANOFF found Finland a troublesome duchy of the Russian Empire. Josef Stalin finds it even more annoying as an independent nation. The early Romanoffs learned that Sweden, once aroused, could become a dangerous foe. The name of Gustavus Adolphus is writ large across the history of northern Europe. The present inhabitant of the Kremlin may discover that the Swedes—once more aroused—are a costly obstacle in the new Russian march to the west.

For all the professions of help which came from members of the League of Nations when Russia was dropped because of the invasion of Finland, Sweden is the only country which is giving the harassed northern state what it most needs—man power.

This, of course, is not being done officially. But there is no law which prevents Swedish citizens from enlisting as volunteers in foreign armies. It is estimated that by spring there will be at least 50,000 Swedes fighting with the Finns. Considering Sweden's long history as a peaceful, non-military nation this is a considerable number. It is exactly 50,000 times as much help of the most needed variety as the great powers are extending.

In addition Sweden is sending medical aid, clothing for refugees and extending credit. Swedish citizens have raised $2,000,000 to help the Finnish cause, the largest single contribution coming from the Confederation of Labor. Such aid is in marked contrast to the credit of $44,800 extended to Finland by France. What becomes now of the wild talk from Moscow that the western powers were financing Finland in its "aggressive attack" on the Soviet Union?

Sweden's action is not entirely in self interest, although Stockholm cannot be blind to the fate which awaits the nation should the Russians overrun Finland. It is motivated by a popular desire to keep Russian dictatorship out of western Europe. The Swedes are as much against Sovietism as they are against the German type of totalitarian government which they have successfully fought diplomatically for years. The descendants of Gustavus Adolphus intend to remain free.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

• More Shifting In British Cabinet ?

LESLIE BELISHA, as he was then known, was thrown out of a school debating class at the ripe age of ten because he talked too much. Now he has been thrown out of the most select debating society of all, perhaps for the same reason.

In Who's Who the Rt. Hon. Leslie Hore-Belisha is given as the son of Lady Hore, widow of the late J. I. Belisha. She married Charles Fraser Adair Hore in 1912. He became Sir Adair in 1925 and she became Lady Hore. Leslie Hore-Belisha, born in 1895 five month before his father's death, served in the army in the Great War, became a major, and was mentioned in despatches. His father had been a captain. But the ultimate Secretary of State for War in Armageddon never qualified for the military caste.

He offended past redemption, says Toronto Telegram, by his ruthless cross-cutting and slashing of all red tape, his betrayal of an insatiable fondness for doing things now, and his painstaking display of democracy in the War Office and in the front line trenches.

"Absolutely no conception of discipline" was the repressed criticism, uttered more in sorrow than in anger, to The Telegram in France when he who then wore the helm of Mars was under discussion. Coming from where it did it told that the energetic War Secretary's number was up.

His unforgivable sin was committed during his rapid fire visit to the Western Front last November, when he bundled three 18-year-old lads out of the ranks and sent them home to their mothers. He had said no British soldier would be sent into the battle line untrained, and no British youth would be sent abroad before he was 19. "A politician's promise" sneered his critics. He further offended against precedent by keeping it.

Mr. Chamberlain's Cabinet shake-up bears only a superficial resemblance to the Turkish earthquake. Both were equally unexpected by the men who read the newspapers. But the Downing street disturbance had been in preparation ever since war was declared, perhaps since last April. It is not an explosion resulting from the pressure of public opinion, for the public of the United Kingdom had no grievance except for the dislocation of earning power and the excruciating burden of taxation. For these, Hitler, not Hore-Belisha, was deservedly blamed. Hore-Belisha was not criticized because every lad who enlisted in the British army was still alive four months after war broke out.

The explosion came from internal forces which could not be combined satisfactorily in war effort. Mr. Chamberlain was apparently satisfied with his Secretary of State for War, but other factors upon which —or whom—he was dependent were not. Hore-Belisha's meteoric manner was not grateful or comforting to wearers of the old school tie or the old regimental cravat. While he achieved a miracle in four weeks by placing a quarter of a million trained British troops in the battle line abroad, with adequate reserves behind them and without one casualty, at the end of four months he had nothing to show for the setting up of this magnificent and costly machine. Poland had been eviscerated without one British shot being fired, and a thousand British sailors had died for each British soldier killed in action. The First Lord of the Admiralty had magnificent results to show for these magnificent sacrifices, but the Secretary of State for War had none.

The performance of the impressive army machine was not impressive or even visible, although it may have been complete perfection. Lack of display material gave point to the resentment of powers which considered themselves flouted by Hore-Belisha's career. He had not succeeded in winning those who could not forgive Disraeli the accident of his racial origin. Belisha had his way in placing Gort in France as Commander-in-Chief, but Gort is supposed to be one who resented the spectacular directness of the War Minister. What was hailed as a diplomatic and strategic triumph—placing Gort and the British Expeditionary Force under Gamelin as Generalissimo—is now cited against the dethroned Secretary as "his" doing.

Mr. Chamberlain was probably not concerned about the publicity challenging activities of the Secretary of State for War. Undoubtedly Winston Churchill was. Moving Hore-Belisha down or out gave Mr. Chamberlain an opportunity for a re-arrangement of the whole Cabinet. With unemployment showing no response to the styptic tendencies of war activities, and a Ministry of information developing into a white elephant, Mr. Chamberlain probably welcomed anything, even parting with his admired Hore-Belisha, which would bring about a new deal.

WHY CONTROL?

ANYONE still left who thinks compulsory powers over industry are not necessary in war-time should note the story of the woollen vests which Mr. Burgin told the House recently. The War Office needed 250,000 vests at once. But manufacturers offered to sell only 60,000. So the Ministry of Supply made an Order enabling it to take possession of all vests of this kind at the works of the manufacturers or in warehouses. In this way an additional 200,000 were obtained at once. If the Ministry had not had these powers the Army would probably not have got the vests when it needed them. And what is true of vests is also undoubtedly true of a good many other things as well.—London Daily Herald.

"PIE IN THE SKY"

IT IS an ironic fact that both Nazism and Communism promise their disciples "pie in the sky," untold wealth hereafter, but "temporarily" the emphasis in both cases is always on tightening one's belt. This "temporary" tightening of the belt has now gone on progressively for the nearly seven years that the Nazis have been in power, and for the more than 20 years that the Bolsheviks been in power. For neither is the end of the "temporary" belt-tightening period in sight. It is true that German Nazism, like Russian Communism, has kept its promise to bring about a greater leveling of classes. The German process, too, has been one of leveling down, not up.—New York Times.

RECRUITING AGENTS

THOSE Canadian soldiers who landed on Scottish soil singing and cheering are about the best recruiting agents that we know of. Canadians are at their best when faced with a bit of hard work with a tang of danger connected with it. Those men knew what was ahead when they enlisted. They knew what faced them as they stepped aboard their transports. They knew what faced them as they greeted the land of the heather. Their one request is to be first in the place where danger is greatest, first in the work that men must do for freedom's sake and the first to carry on till danger's troubled night break with the dawn of victory.—Exeter Times-Advocate.

SPEED LIMITS

R. RUSSELL FLEMING, of Whitby, son of the late R. J. Fleming, general manager of the Toronto Railway, came across a curious document among his old papers the other day. It was a summons issued to the Toronto Railway Company charging that "you did, contrary to law, drive or allow to be driven, your automobile, No. 1——, at a rate of speed exceeding ten miles per hour on Balmoral avenue on April 18, 1911." This recalls the fact that from 1906 to 1912 the speed limit was ten miles in cities and 15 miles in the open country. These speeds were increased to 15 and 20 miles in 1912.—Toronto Star.

Council Debates Use Of Team In Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 9.—(ENS)—The first meeting of the Lakefield village council in the council chamber on Monday evening, brought forth the appointment of the different committees for the ensuing year, with the usual argument in some cases.

Those present were Reeve Scriver, and Councillors J. R. Hull, George Charlton, George Graham and Earl Edwards.

The pros and cons of retaining a teamster and team was heatedly discussed, Councillor Hull claiming that help could be hired cheaper by the hour. However the motion carried for the teamster to remain, as last year. Reeve Scriver stated that the village has not owned this team for the full year as yet.

The standing committees remain the same as in 1939 except the charity chairman. Councillor Edwards asked to be relieved of this office. Reeve Scriver was appointed in his place. Other chairmen are: Property, George Graham; roads, George Charlton. Other members of the council comprise the rest of these committees.

Chief Wallace Hendren is holding his several offices of constable, weed inspector, assessor, caretaker of memorial hall, sanitary inspector, and works commisioner. He will also be supplied with a new uniform. Harry Hill was named tax collector.

T. A. Northey was appointed as pork inspector, his salary to be $50.

The Board of Health will consist of Doctors E. H. Moore, E. J. Morin and Reeve Scriver. The 1939 auditors are being retained for this year, they being Harry Armstrong and Frank Payne. Mrs. A. Davis was appointed on the Public Library Board.

The tax collector's roll showed the sum of $117.82 for 1937; $1,056.68 for 1938 and $2,650.74 for 1939, making a total of $3,827.24 as the amount of unpaid taxes. The time limit for the return of the roll will be the February meeting.

Correspondence received and placed on file was: Notice of the Good Roads Association convention in Toronto in February. No local representative will be sent. M. H. Park, Public School inspector, re assessment. Ontario Department of Agriculture re weed inspector, also the use of the chemical weed killer. Sterling Appraisall Co., re valuation of property.

Copp Clark Co., re Almanac.

Motors Vehicles Branch, Toronto, re licences.

Wr. McLaughlin, re auditing.

Fire Chief's Report.

Fire Chief A. H. Clark's splendid report was read by the clerk, as follows:

"I herewith submit for your perusal the annual report of the fire department for the year 1939:

Alarms.—Telephone, 26; general, 3; total, 29.

Water hose laid, 4,300 feet; chemical hose laid, 900 feet; ladders raised, 478 feet; chemicals used, S. and A., 66 gallons; Kilsoat, 8 packages; water pumps used, 25; salvage covered, used 900 square feet; Total estimated fire loss, $145.00.

In presenting this, the 14th annual report of the fire department since I assumed command I am pleased to report another small fire loss. While the number of alarms remains about the same as in other years, the number of actual fires is small; at no time during the year was it necessary to utilize the entire resources of the department on any one fire.

Fire prevention has been constantly practised by the citizens of the village and the department has kept this subject before the people at all times through the press, clergy and the schools. Inspections have been conducted in many cases with a view of eliminating fire hazards, which regular inspections have been made of the schools, churches, Grove school, Old Folks' Home, and the water tanks.

The alarm system has been ably handled by the Bell Telephone staff which enables the department to make prompt response to all calls for their services.

Last January I received the appointment of assistant secretary of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs by the board of directors while at the annual convention of that body held in St. Thomas last August. I was elected to the same office by the membership of the association.

At the council's instructions and in company of Reeve Scriver, I attended these meetings and had the honor of presenting a paper on Fire Department Problems. Both Mr. Scriver and myself also served on committees at these meetings.

I am pleased to be able to report that we have had no injuries in the line of duty among the personnel, while the discipline maintained has been of the highest order. Regular training periods have been conducted each month, the benefits which appear in the efficiency of the members of the department in the line of duty.

During the year the council purchased the fololwing: 100 feet of fire hose; one Burrell all-service gas mask; two extra gas mask canisters and one quart C.T.C. fire extinguisher.

The fire hall, apparatus, equipment, office and books are maintained in first-class shape at all times and are available for your inspection or that of any citizen at any time.

I would respectfully ask you to authorize the chairman of the Property committee to supply the following: 200 feet of fire hose and one H. & H. Inhalator.

In conclusion I wish to express my thanks to the council, press, clergy, school staffs, merchants, Chief of Police Hendren and the citizens in general for their support and co-operation and to the members of the Department for their loyalty and obedience to my orders in carrying out my duties as head of your fire department."

The necessary by-law was passed for the borrowing of $15,000 from the bank.

The report of the finance committee recommended payment of the following accounts: T. W. Chaplin, stamps, $1.50; S. J. Charlton, insurance re barn, $68.75; Bell Telephone Co., No.: 94, $4.94; A. H. Clerk, fire payroll, $69.40; D. H. Webster, livery, $5; W. J. Charlton, fuel and lumber, $85.50; Walter Madill, repairs, $2.18; Canadian Legion, wreath, $3; Municipal World, Ltd., stationery, $4.93; Whilier & Co., $16.92; Wong Kee, laundry, $4.45; T. W. Chaplin, stamps, $5; L.H.E. Co., street light, $142.50; hall light, $17.68; barn light, 75c; Spence & Sons charity, $39; Porter Co., charity, $40; T. C. Young, charity, $18.70; T. W. Payne, charity, $24. Total, $568.62.

Council adjourned at 11.35 p.m.

HALIFAX, Jan. 9. —(CP) — The Halifax Herald and Halifax Mail hailed 1940 with a New Year edition of 64 pages proclaiming greater production the keynote of the year and calling on Nova Scotians, "soldiers all," for their utmost effort in "the war against Hitlerism." Impressive Candle-lighting Rite Features Service At Havelock

HAVELOCK, Jan. 9.—(ENS).—In an impressive installation and candle-lighting ceremony at the Sunday evening service of the Havelock United church, the officers of the Women's Missionary Society, the Mission Band and the Women's Association were installed in their respective offices for the new year.

The installation was conducted by the Rev. Andrew McLauchlin, following which he acted as leader in the candle-lighting service of dedication. Miss Edith Roberts took the part of reader, and violin music was played throughout by Mr. Kenneth Hill, accompanied by the organist, Mrs. R. Campney. "Stewardship" was the title of a missionary sketch presented by Miss M. Seeney and Mrs. C. Price, assisted by the other members of the Women's Missionary Society.

The church was most effectively lighted for the occasion by dozens of small candles. The candle-lighting ceremony began with the Rev. A. McLauchlin first lighting a tall white candle, from which the members of the newly installed executive, one by one, lighted theirs.

The officers installed were as follows: Women's Missionary Society: President, Mrs. A. McLauchlin; 1st vice-pres., Mrs. T. Easterbrook; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. J. Cochrane; recording secretary, Mrs. Chas. Spencer; corresponding secretary, Miss M. Seeney; treasurer, Mrs. S. J. W. Clarke; community friendship, Mrs. A C Price; literature, Mrs. W. W. Hill; temperance and peace, Miss A. Young; supply, Mrs. A. Anderson; stewardship and finance, Mrs. H. Wing; Baby Band leader, Mrs. G. Denike; press secretary, Miss M. Seeney; pianist, Miss H. Watson.

Women's Association: President, Mrs. T. Easterbrook; vice-president, Mrs. A. Anderson; secretary, Mrs. A. C. Price flowers and cheer, Miss E. Wright; group leaders, Mrs. D. Weese, Mrs. G. Denike and Mrs. George Rigby.

The Holy Fire.

"The Story of the Holy Fire" was vividly told during the service by the Rev. A. McLauchlin. "Every year, on Easter Sunday, there takes place in Jerusalem in the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, he recited, a service know as the "Service of the Holy Fire."

"Early in the morning the Christian pilgrims, who are thronging the city at that sacred season, make their way to this ancient church, which, according to legend, stands on the site of the holy sepulchre. The pilgrims carry unlighted candles, some only one small candle, others as many long tapers as their hands can hold. Within the darkened church they stand in hushed expectancy, sometimes for hours, awaiting the Holy Fire. Then suddenly from an opening on the one side of the chancel is handed a flaming torch—the Holy Fire—and the church is illuminated by its radiant light. It is quickly grasped by a priest and passed from hand to hand along a line of priests who stand across the front of the church. Then it is carried out on the other side of the chancel, and the church is again in darkness. But not quite, for quickly, as the Holy Fire moved past, a few of the worshippers standing nearest to the chancel had reached up and lighted their candles at its flame. They hold them high that other candles may be lighted, and slowly back across that great church sweeps a blaze of light reaching to the remotest corner. The service is ended; quietly and reverently the people leave, carrying back to their own homes a flame from the Holy Fire, there to light other lamps."

Plan Oyster Supper.

On Wednesday afternoon the January meeting of the W.A. and M.A. was held in the basement of the church, with the president, Mrs. Edgar Wood, presiding. The New Year's program was very impressive and opened with singing 'Joy to the World.' This was followed by a prayer by the president. Short Scripture readings were given by different members of the society. The roll call was answered by 'What Effect Worry Has On Oneself,' followed by a reading by Mrs. Wood on resolutions.

The program consisted of readings by Mrs. R. Moncrief and Mrs. H. Moncrief; piano solo by Marion Moncrief and the opening chapter of the study book by Mrs. H. C. Howson.

The president suggested giving a prize to the lady who attended every meeting during the year. Plans were made for an oyster supper to be held jointly with the young people in January.

Plans Are Laid To Oil Streets In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 9 —(ENS) —Provision for oiling Campbellford streets next year was made by chairman of the Road and Bridge Committee, P. H. Macmillan who suggested that the Clerk should be instructed to obtain prices for oil so that the amount could be included in the 1940 budget.

"With such satisfaction expressed at the dust layer last year it would be impossible to dispense with it," declared Mayor Long. The feeling was expressed by the chairman of the Road and Bridge Committee that a smaller amount would be required due to the fact that last years application had consolidated the roads to such a great extent.

Library Grant.

H. R. Townsend addressed the council on behalf of the library board requesting that the grant of $1,550.00 made in 1939 be authorized again. He pointed out that the upward price trend had been reflected in books as in other commodities and suggested that a larger grant would be acceptable. Four years ago books averaged the board $1 each and during the past year the average had risen to $1.50. E. Brunelle also a member of the delegation intimated that approximately $650.00 of the proposed grant would be required for new books during the year. On motion of Reeve Calver and Councillor Macmillan the same grant as last year was made.

The clerk brought to the attention of the council a writ issued against the corporation by Llewelyn Reynolds on behalf of his daughter Lois Isobel asking for damages in the amount of $2,000.00 as the result of a fall she sustained while crossing the county owned bridge in Campbellford last fall. The matter was referred to the indemnity company carrying the insurance for the town.

A letter from the Department of Agriculture re the appointment of a weed inspector was read and on motion the clerk was authorized to riotify the repartment of the appointment of J. C. Birmingham. The council decided to give its customary donation of $10.00 to the Sick Children's Hospital and also ordered three copies of the Municipal World.

In his report to the council, Relief Officer J. J. Lewis Hay intimated there were nine families on relief at the present time. Tax collector J. C. Birmingham gave a comprehensive statement from his department which showed a drop in outstanding arrears of $6,511.00 in the past three years while current arrears were approximately $3,000.00 less than in 1936. Owing to the prepayment discount he had already collected $2,000.00 on the 1940 taxes.

Reeve Calver pointed out to council that in future all grants from County must be asked for in writing then proceeded to make a motion instructing the Clerk to ask the Counties for their grant of $50.00 to pay part of the lighting cost of the bridge here.

Annual appointments made by Council were as follows: Auditors, W. A. Kingston and F. S. Linton; Library Board, R. H. Townsend; Board of Health, John F. Clark; Board of Education as High School Trustee, Walter Henson.

Farm Land At Reaboro Said Picked For New Lindsay Airport

LINDSAY, Jan. 9. —(ENS) — It was unofficially announced Monday that the site selected in this district for the proposed air base had been a stretch of level farm land in the vicinity of Reaboro, seven miles east of Lindsay. The other sites inspected proved unsuitable. It is understood that instructions were sent to Ottawa to have the stretch selected surveyed.

Roy Johnson, trucker, of Haliburton and Tom Anderson of the same village had a thrilling experience on Long Lake on Saturday. They were driving across the lake with a load of cord wood when they heard the ice break under them. Johnson who had a door of the truc kopen on the driver's side, jumped before the truck was submerged. His companion, however, had some difficulty in escaping as the door had sprung when the truck went down and he was obliged to climb out the other side. The two escaped uninjured, but the truck was slightly damaged.

Mervin Mintz, was brought to the Ross hospital, Lindsay, on the weekend, suffering from injuries sustained in the bush. He was skidding logs with a team of horses, and as he stepped aside on a narrow draw road, one of the animals kicked at him and struck him in the forehead and chin. The wounds inflicted are quite serious.

Fred Bailey, of Beech Lake, Haliburton, is in the Ross hospital, Lindsay, as a result of serious injuries. He was operating a sawing machine when the pulley broke and he was struck in the face with considerable force. He was badly injured above and close to the eye.

That's No Way to Treat Constipation!

Dosing with cathartics may give temporary relief, but the real way to handle constipation is to get at the cause. Common constipation often results from a lack of "bulk" in the diet. "Bulk" doesn't mean the amount of food you eat, but a particular kind of food that helps to form a soft "mass" in the bowels and thus aid the bowel movement.

If you are troubled this way, just try eating Kellogg's All-Bran. It only takes a small amount—an ounce a day is enough for most people—but you must have it regularly and drink plenty of water. All-Bran is a crisp, tasty cereal which gives you two things you need . . . "bulk" and the intestinal vitamin B_1. See how much pleasanter life can be when you are "regular." All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in London, Canada. At all grocers.

Garbage Rate Is Unchanged By City Council

The tax rate for the collection and disposal of garbage this year was set at seven-eights of a mill (.7) by the Council, last night. This is the same levy as last year, and on $21,675,355 assessment it will provide the appropriation of $15,172.75.

The estimated expenditure is actually $16,189.69, but Alderman McCannan reported a surplus of $1,116.94 from the operations of his department last year, leaving $15,172.75 to be raised in the new tax structure which the Council began to fashion on an incidental rate parity with that of 1939.

Alderman Gordon questioned the propriety of carrying a reserve of $7,549.63 to the credit of the department, saying that the Municipal Act required taxes to be levied for the amount of money actually needed in the current year. By strict adherence to the law the sum of $7,549.63 be deducted from the appropriation of $15,172.75, which would cut the garbage collecting rate in half, he said.

Alderman McCannan replied that the reserve had been accumulated some years ago, and stood to the credit of the property committee when he was appointed chairman. It was intended to be a "nest egg" to help meet the cost of a new incinerator whenever the Council decided to erect a new plant.

Alderman McIntyre and Wilson supported the chairman's opinion that the reserve should be carried through this year.

Only $1.80 a Year.

"Perhaps the citizens don't realize that they pay very little for this service," Alderman McCannan said. "I pay $1.80 a year for the collection of garbage at my place. That works out at 3½ cents a week, and we get two collections a week. You can't get it much cheaper than that."

Alderman Wilson said the .7 mills was the lowest that had ever been charged for the disposal of garbage.

Alderman Dutton said he wasn't reconciled to the present system, but he had to pay tribute to "the excellent way the work is being done."

The readings of the bylaw were moved by Alderman McCannan and seconded by Alderman Ovens. It passed unanimously.

The Council a year ago appropriated $14,078.51 for this work. The estimates of the outlay amounted to $15,638 but there was a surplus of $1,559.49 from 1938, leaving $14,078.51 to be raised by taxes.

Expenditure in 1939 was $15,438.67, less $36.50 receipts, leaving the net cost at $15,402.07, which was further reduced by the surplus from 1938 to $13,842.68.

The levy of .7 mills on the assessment of $21,370,890 produced $14,959.62 which gave the surplus of $1,116.94 reported by Alderman McCannan in presenting this detail of his budget.

The new estimates include $10,600 for the 1940 contract for the collection of garbage, and increase of nearly $300 over last year, also $1,000 for repairs to the incinerator which may possibly be needed in the months ahead.

Public Library $13,200.

Another item for the Council's 1940 budget was the Public Library Board's requisition of $13,200.

The Board's financial statement showed estimated expenditure amounting to $14,390 as follows: books $2,750, binding $250 stationery $250, magazines $360, furniture and repairs $870, heating $600, lighting $300, sundries $830, insurance $140 and salaries $8,220.

Estimates receipts for this year are—credit balance from last year $126, interest on bonds, $525, government grant $200, fines, etc., $330, and $13,200 from the city treasury.

Loan Authorized.

A resolution by Alderman Cotton authorized the borrowing of $651,000, a routine provision.

"Is that all!" Alderman Roy jokingly remarked.

"We have to finance our needs until ne wtaxe sare paid," Alderman Cotton explained, "and it might as well be that figure as something less."

"That relieves my mind," Alderman Roy replied in the same jesting humor.

The Council is likely to need only part of the amount specified by Alderman Cotton, but it is customary to name the actual borrowing limit which the banks impose.

Canadian Aircraft Factories Speeding Production To Meet Increased Demands

While the Royal Air Force continues to prove its superiority in battle against the air force of rotund Herman Goering, Canadian aircraft factories are working at top speed to produce the many airplanes needed for the army of aviators to be trained in Canada under the empire air training scheme. These scenes taken at one of the De-Havilland aircraft manufacturing company's plants, are typical of scenes in a score of other aircraft factories across the Dominion. These men and women are busily engaged in turning out Tiger Moths for training purposes. In the near future a new ship will roll out of this factory each day.

Windsor Captive Has Bank Gun

WINSOR, Ont., Jan. 9—(CP). — Police investigation broadened today in the case of four Windsor men arrested early Sunday morning in the vicinity of a theatre as the discovery was made that one of the revolvers in their possession was stolen from the Provincial Bank of Canada branch at Stoney Point.

The revolver was taken when the bank branch was held up by four armed last August. Shotgun pellets found in the heads of two of the men arrested during the week-end also reopened another investigation into the gang of safecrackers who escaped through a hail of shot fired by Police Chief Cecil Babcock of Kingsville. Babcock surprised a gang at the Conklin planing mill and they fled in a running gunfight during which the police chief said about 25 shots were fired.

Chief Babcock was confident he had wounded at least one member of the gang. A hat riddled with shot holes and soaked in blood supported his contention. One of the four men arrested here was found to be wearing a new hat, and his initials are the same as those in the hat found by the Kingsville chief.

Joseph Bendick, 25; George Zelenko, 18; Fred Boshure, 20, and Fred Thibault, 32, were rounded up by the Windsor police and two of them were found to be carrying revolvers. Burglary tools also were found on the four men, who were held over night for investigation.

was going to get a fair profit?"

The fact that no one represented the farmer was solely the fault of the farmer himself, he declared. He pointed out that industrialists had long since moulded themselves into a unit and that their representative spoke with the voice of authority to the Government.

The scheme of national marketing, on the other hand, had been broached to the Government by the Chamber of Agriculture and its representative had been told, in effect, to form themselves into a strong unit, representative of a great body of farmers, before their plea would be acted upon. He said that the Milk Control Act had been won for Ontario in just such fashion— by the united effort of the majority of producers, and said that othe raction could be gained similarly.

Co-operation Needed.

Need for the cooperation of all farmers' organizations immediately was also voiced by Roy Lick, secretary of the Milk Producers' Board and a director of the Canadian Chamber of Agriculture.

"All these organizations will have to come together under the one head", he declared. "That has been done successfully in England and there, when they broach the Government, they are listened to. The Government here will not do anything until we farmers are a united group."

He cited the Chamber of Agriculture as one step in the direction of unity and said it is gaining support rapidly.

He favored control of exports to avoid "dumping" of excess produce indiscriminately abroad. For, he pointed out, that small excess has in the past decided the home price as well.

Mr. Lick and Mr. Milburn outlined a national policy based on the report of H. S. Arkell of the Canadian Chamber of Agriculture. Mr. Arkell's plan calls for standardization of farm products; the orderly and regulated export of surpluses; the financing of losses on export by a levy against the home-consumed product, a practice long followed by industry (farm products, on the other hand, are ungoverned and the home price is permitted continually to be dragged down to the level of the fluctuations in the export market); the stabilization of domestic prices; cooperative commodity warketing; and a planned production program.

were all heroes to him because they "did a job which had to be done."

"Motive in the long run is what counts — motive accompanied by good manners," he said. "If leaders have good motives and good manners and, at the same time, knowledge of the different parts of the country and plenty of experience, you can be fairly safe in assuming they won't wreck your government."

All speakers, including the president, expressed good-natured wonderment as to why Senators Charles McNary and Warren Austin and Representative Joseph Martin, Republican leaders, had not accepted free invitations to the dinner.

"Why didn't our guests come?" Mr. Roosevelt asked solemnly. "I guess the real reason is that, like the small boy, they didn't want to go to heaven with this bunch."

The president received his greatest applause when he declared:

"Most of those who complain now were the shouting optimists of 1929.

"I do not believe that the American people who swallowed that canned optimism in 1929 will swallow canned pessimism in 1940—particularly out of the same can."

His Fourth Car

London, Ont., Jan. 9 (CP). WITH four car thefts chalked against him in as many nights, London's khaki - clad phantom joy-rider was still at large today, in spite of increased vigilance on the part of police scout car crews.

All the thefts have occurred in east London, the latest on Saturday night opposite the gate of Queen's Park military camp. The auto was recovered several blocks away Sunday morning.

On three occasions the man in uniform has been seen driving away a stolen car, and police now have a good description of him.

All thefts have been successful probably on account of their daring, police point out. The soldier watches for motorists who drive up to stores for purchases. Giving the car owner time to get inside the store door, he steps into the machine and speeds off.

HAVELOCK

Institute Hears Fine Talk On Industries

HAVELOCK, Jan. 9 (ENS). — "Name a Canadian industry" was the roll-call to which the members of the Havelock Branch Women's Institute responded at their first meeting of the New Year, held on Monday afternoon in the Council Chamber. "Canadian Industries" was also the topic of an interesting talk given by the Rev. Andrew McLauchlin, substituting as speaker of the afternoon for his wife, Mrs. McLauchlin, who was absent through illness.

A period of business was conducted, with the president, Mrs. Clare Price, in the chair. The committee in charge of distributing the Christmas cheer boxes reported that 28 in all had been handed out, 12 to elderly persons and shut-ins and 26 to children. Thanks was extended to the Junior Institute, members of the Senior Institute, and to H. Bruce Puffer for their assistance in the above work.

A report from the auditors, Mrs. S. J. W. Clarke and Mrs. George Chiles, on the library finances was received. Mrs. Robert Jones was re appointed librarian for the ensuing year.

Proceeds of the bake sale held before Christmas were $6.00.

The afternoon's program, of which Mrs. E. Williams was the convener, opened with community singing, Mrs. R. J. McCutcheon acting as piano accompanist. Current Events, a monthly feature, was given by Mrs. S. J. W. Clarke.

Rev. Andrew McLauchlin, speaking on "Canadian Industries," made a comparison of pioneer day industries of those of the present.

"Father in Heaven" was the title of a vocal solo rendered by Mrs. F. Clarke, and a reading entitled "Thoughts for the New Year," written by Miss Florence Gordon, was given by Mrs. D. Weese. The program concluded with the singing of "Long, Long Ago."

Refreshments were afterwards served, the lunch convener, Mrs. Ross Brown, being assisted by Mrs. C. Price, Mrs. E. Williams, Mrs. S. J. W. Clarke, and Miss I. Morrison.

Special St. John's Service.

"Candlemas Sunday," marking the passing of the Christmas season, was observed on Sunday evening in St. John's Anglican Church by a special candlelight service. Lighted candles at the altar and in the windows provided a pretty setting. Christmas music was featured throughout by members of the junior and senior choirs under the direction of Mrs. D. J. Holdcroft.

The beautiful candle-lighting ceremony wa seffectively carried out by the choirs, led by Rev. R. E. Lemon, who lit the first candle at the altar, and passed it among the members, who in turn lighted their tapers. As the candles were lighted, the choir singing "Hark, the herald angels sing" marched in single file from the altar, down the aisle to the entrance and back again to their places. Candles provided the sole illumination during this ceremony.

No Further Tax Reductions Are Forecast By Campbellford Mayor

CAMPBELLFORD Jan. 9—(ENS) —There will not be a further decrease in the tax rate, neither were any major expenditures forcast for the current year in Mayor F. F. Long's inaugural address before the council at their opening session held Monday morning. He congratulated councillors on their election commenting on the fact that the only change was an internal one.

"We are proud of our record for the year 1939. Proud of the financial statement we placed before the ratepayers on nomination night, and it must be our earnest endeavor to obtain just as satisfactory results for the present year. To assist us in our endeavour we hope for and expect the hearty co-operation of the other municipal boards of our town. On account of war conditions this may be the most momentous year in the world's history.

"It will certainly not be a year to undertake any costly civic improvements. All non-essential expenditures should be eliminated and only such public work performed as is necessary for the comfort, health and prosperity of our citizens.

"It is to be hoped that the Provincial government will let the municipalities know as early in the year as possible just how much they are going to give us by way of subsidy. The extra half mill last year was very thankfully received, but as we had already struck our mill rate it made a great deal of extra work for our clerk, treasurer and tax collector. However, the different committees should estimate their expenditures and set their budget as soon as possible, and I suggest that we request the Board of Education to do the same. We will then be able to strike the mill rate as soon as we have something definite from the government to work on."

A. G. Thompson, manager of the local branch of the Bank of Commerce also addressed the council and in his remarks advocated that tax arrears beyond those of the immediate past year be shown on a separate statement. By keeping these separate from current arrears a more accurate account of the work done by the tax collector would be had.

The period of prayer with which it is customary to open the inaugural meeting, was conducted by Rev. T. S. Gault who wished the council continued success during the year.

As was expected with only one change on the council there was little re-shuffling of committee chairmanships. Deputy Reeve Harvery Donald will this year be chairman of the Hospitalization committee which was in the hands of the former Deputy Reeve P. M. Locke in 1939. He chose the Mayor and Councillor Macmillan to act on the committee with him. Other committees were as follows with the Mayor in each case appointing the chairman who is named first:

Finance — Reeve C. H. Calver, Deputy Reeve H. M. Donald, Councillors Battisby, Macmillan and Locke.

Canadian Fliers Train On Snow

OTTAWA, Jan. 9 — (CP) — Gull-like Westland-Lysander planes drove up and down the Ottawa valley these days and over the Gatineau ski hills as an army co-operation squadron trains for service overseas with the first division of the Canadian Active Service Force.

The pilots of No. 110 A. C. squadron of Toronto, chosen as the first Royal Canadian Air Force unit to be sent abroad, are spending plenty of time in the air with their gunners, theoretically spotting gun emplacements along the Aylmer road or scouting troop movements in the snow-clad hills.

The sub-zero Ottawa weather and the snow on Rockcliffe Airport are not slowing up training. The Lysanders sweep into the blue from the rolled, snow-packed runways and nearly every daylight hour Ottawans can hear at least one of these planes in the air.

The pilots in the squadron, augmented by airmen from Winnipeg and Ottawa, are all specialists in army co-operation which requires detailed knowledge of infantry tactics and ground manoeuvres as well as flying and technical ability.

Two advisors from the army are on hand to guide the airmen in their training and assist in co-operation with the ground units.

Red Bomber Down Behind Finnish Lines

The big red star seen on the fusilage of this grounded plane designates it as a unit in the Soviet air force. It is a bomber, one of the many sent on death-dealing missions to terrify the Finns grounded behind the Finnish lines near Viborg, key city of Finland at one extremity of the unbroken Mannerheim line of defence.

Council Fails To Name Board Of Health

A barrage of explosive expletives laid down by Alderman Stocker blasted last night a bylaw appointing members of the Board of Health, one of whom, Mayor Hamilton proposed, should be a member of the Board of Education.

His Worship explained that representatives of the School Board and the council had discussed in a friendly atmosphere a suggestion of combining their health activities. After the death of Dr. A. W. McPherson it seemed to both groups that the Medical Officer of Health might be able to co-ordinate the two services with better results and at less cost.

Reference to the conference and to the M.O.H. brought Alderman Stocker to his feet.

"They're just firing bullets for Fraser," he exclaimed. "He wants some one here as a stool-pigeon. The council should appoint a fully qualified man."

Mayor Hamilton interrupted the chairman of the Board of Health with a protest that Dr. G. Murray Fraser had enlisted for service with the Canadian contingent overseas. "He is not here to defend himself, and talk like that should not be heard."

"They have in mind a man who you have to get down on your knees to when he comes into the room," Alderman Stocker said in cryptic reference. Some of his aspersions at that stage are not repeated as a matter of prudence.

Never Suggested Amalgamation

They brought Alderman Dutton up almost as angry as Alderman Stocker. He flatly denied that Dr. Fraser had suggested the amalgamation of the two health services, "and though I hesitate to say it I'll take the responsibility on myself for having proposed it in the first place. And it should be emphasized that the first move was not made by the Board of Education to the Board of Health, but the other way round—"

"Inspired by Fraser," Alderman Stocker shouted.

"Our meeting with the Board of Education was pleasant and they were agreed that something could probably be done in bringing the two health services under one head, but no one was mentioned for the position. Dr. Fraser has done a good job," Alderman Dutton said.

"Sitting in his office at $7 for a military job," Ald. Stocker interjected again.

Lacks Common Courtesy

"I'm afraid Alderman Stocker is lacking in common courtesy," was Alderman Dutton's observation. "The quicker we get down to business and co-ordinate our health services the better for the whole community." He was obviously trying to keep his tone in control, but at that stage it slipped out of hand.

"I'm sick and tired of the destructive criticism levelled by Alderman Stocker. "It is no good to anybody, and if it doesn't stop it will cause loss of confidence in the health department. If he is going to continue in this way you can count me out, because I can't be bothered with that sort of thing."

The members of the Board last year were Mayor Hamilton, Aldermen Stocker (chairman), McCannan and Dutton and Dr. Fraser.

Alderman Stocker spoke about some joint supervising arrangement during the illness of Dr. McPherson, but Alderman Gordon stepped into the argument in the role of peacemaker recommending that the question of inviting the Board of Education to name a member to the Board of Health be referred to the finance committee.

"We should get less heat and more light in committee," he commented, advising that the committee of the whole in the second reading "rise and report progress and ask leave to sit again."

"Where do we stand now?" Mayor Hamilton remarked. "We should appoint a new Board of Health at this meeting. I am a member of the Board. Am I to carry on if anything comes up?"

The council's answer was "yes."

Week Of Prayer Services Being Held Here

Dr. Northcote-Deck, who has been six times around the world, and a medical missionary on the Solomon Islands for over thirty years, spoke Monday evening before a large audience at All Saints' Church in the first of a series of addresses connected with the Week of Prayer services, which opened on Sunday, January 7th, and will continue until Sunday, January 14.

The speaker was introduced by Canon J. Douglas Paterson, who met Dr. Deck at the Canadian Keswick Conference. Dr. Deck spent several years in England, where he took an active part in the great Keswick movement there.

The greatest art in life, Dr. Deck believes, is for man to get his treasures t othe other side of death, to transfer the result of his life's work from the bank of earth to the bank of Heaven. Pictures which symbolized the two ways of living, for self, or for God, were drawn by the speaker from his vast experience of life and human nature. Dr. Deck fears that the world is being submerged in a wave of realism in which God is lost sight of.

He described the Week of Prayer as a period in which men may be recalled to God, and a period in which they may gain a "right" perspective of life, and in their hearts a deepening of true religion.

Prayers of Thanksgiving, Confession, Intercession, and for those engaged in war were led by Mr. T. H. Boddy, lay reader of All Saints' Church; Rev. W. McArthur of Bethany Tabernacle; Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church; Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt of Knox United Church, and Mr. Leslie Cavalier, district president of the A.Y.P.A.

A tenor and bass duet from "The Crucifixion," was sung by Mr. George Chandler and Mr. T. H. Boddy.

A special meeting will be held this Tuesday evening in St. Andrew's Church; Wednesday, St. Paul's; Thursday, St. James'; Friday, Murray; Saturday, Salvation Army.

Farmers Urged Do Own Thinking

Harwood is an example of a locality in which people are working at co-operation, not playing at it as is frequently done in other centres, declared Robert Scott, president of the United Farmers' Co-operative Company, who spoke afterwards.

He cautioned farmers against permitting others to do their thinking for them, "because others always do it at their own price." He drew back the curtain of time to the origin of farms in this district. At that time farmers decided they must have a store and, brighter than the others, agreed to run the store at his own figure of profit. "And he did not overcharge them, but that was the beginning of something that has grown until it must not grow any longer." For, he pointed out, control of that profit has passed from the local storekeeper into the hands of great national groups, and the result of that change has seen the farmer slip to the bottom step of the ladder of wage levels.

Dire Essential.

Need of co-operative organization in Peterborough County to offset the inroads of big business was a dire essential to the livelihood of farmers, he said. He traced the increasing tendency of big business to gain a stranglehold on the origin of products, which he said would throttle, if successful, any efforts by co-operative societies. He urged upon his listeners the need for immediate action toward co-operation.

Keynote of co-operative success is intelligent business principle, he said. He wanted groups of intelligent farm people to meet together and claimed that by such meetings a highly successful co-operative could be had.

Fire Department Placed Second Among Cities Under 25,000

Peterborough's fire department was placed second among the cities of Ontario in the population brackets of 10,000 to 25,000 according to the award of the international committee of judges as announced to the council last night in a letter from W. J. Scott, K.C., Toronto, fire marshall for Ontario.

Chief Gimblett and his firemen stood 25th in all Canada. The awards are made on a basis of work done during 1939 with special emphasis on constructive programs for fire prevention week.

The council signified its appreciation of the high rating of the Department in a resolution by Alderman Cotton, "commending Chief Gimblett and his men on their excellent record work last year and the efficient work that is being done."

The council also gave Alderman McIntyre, chairman last year, "a bow" on the Fire Department's success, and instructed him to get prices on a new pumper with trade-in bids for older pieces of apparatus that will likely be tossed into the prospective deal.

Invite County Council

Assenting to Alderman Dutton's proposal, the council and the Peterborough Exhibition directors will be joint hosts to the members of the county council at a dinner which the Exhibition Board is planning for Thursday, January 18.

Alderman Dutton said he believed the citizens generally desired the cultivation of harmonious relations with the county as represented by its council. He had intended to suggest that the city give a dinner for the county councillors during their sessions here next week, just an informal affair at which they could talk about matters of common interest, and get better acquainted. He felt it might be made an annual affair.

"During the last day or two I have heard that the Exhibition Board has also decided to give a dinner and invite the county council to it," Alderman Dutton said, "and the proposal was made that we might all meet together, and that the Exhibition Board would share with us the cost of having the county councillors as guests. Personally, I think it is a good thing for the whole community in bringing about better relations between our rural and urban sections."

Details of the affair were left to the Legal and Reception committee of which Alderman Gordon is chairman. He told the council that he did not think he would be in the city that evening, but would depute the arrangements to Alderman Dutton and Alderman Bradburn, both members of the committee.

Mayor Hamilton recalled that last fall the county council had expressed a wish to give a dinner to the city council, but the latter's committee affairs interfered.

"I know the county council was quite disappointed about it," His Worship remarked.

Sudden Speeding Up Of City's Water Pumps Sends Utilities Men Out In Search Of Leak

The waterworks department of the Utilities Commission had a scare Monday night when the staff at the pumping station reported a sudden and unexplained increase in the rate at which water was being pumped. The jump meant that the pumps were working at a rate equivalent to one million gallons a day faster than normal and with no fire to explain the unusual demand, Manager Ross L. Dobbin and his staff began to have visions of a break in one of the water mains.

Several cars were sent out to tour the city in search of surface evidence of a leak and the police were asked to keep an eye out for signs of trouble. However, the demand upon the pumps fell off as suddenly as it had started and then the cause was discovered. A big C. N. R. water tank had emptied because of a frozen valve and when the railway men started to fill the tank again the result was a quick stepping up of pumpage for a short period.

The story in a Toronto paper that the pumping station had pumped a million gallons more today than the normal pumpage was of course an error. The pumps had been working at the rate of a million gallons more a day but kept up that rate only for a short period, quite a different thing, as the officials pointed out this morning.

Creamery Is Run For Farmers Supplying Milk

The story of the Harwood Creamery's rise to a position where co-operative enthusiasts point to it with just pride, was unfolded this morning by Major Earl Drope, manager, to a group of farmers at the Normal School. He spoke at the second-day session of the cooperative short course.

It was 35 years ago, he related, that a creamery was first started in Harwood. It was a privately owned company, but had a board of directors who were farmers supplying cream to the dairy. Twenty years ago the owner sold out to a large dairy company which immediately abolished the board of directors as being a body of men who should hold no authority in the operation of a private company.

That was in the fall of the year and the next spring when the company opened its doors for business, it found none. Farmers all through the district had decided during the winter to shun the new ownership and to ship their cream to other centres. The plant had to close its doors.

The following year the representative of the company offered to sell their closed plant to a farmers' group in Harwood. They were offered and accepted, half the price they had paid for it.

Delegates were sent to other neighboring farmers' clubs and all were keenly in favor of a cooperative creamery. A director of the newly formed company was elected from each club and the purchase price was raised by selling $8,000 in stock at $20 a share. "Most of us never had any hope of ever drawing a dividend, but the cooperative has paid 7 per cent ever since," Mr. Drope said.

Opposition by private companies in the district was severe at first, but the cooperative has gained for itself an enviable position in the district in the years that have passed. New buildings have been put up, new machinery purchased, and production has soared.

Production of butter has been jumped from 100,000 pounds 20 years ago to 900,000 pounds in 1938;

Toronto cream prices are paid to farmers and last year $16,000 in additional premiums was returned to them as well as 7 per cent to shareholders;

Trucking costs are low because there are no long hauls without customers since every farmer in the district is a customer;

Operating costs are only 3 cents a pound where city creameries average 7 cents;

Buttermilk is fed to pigs kept on the cooperative's adjoining 19 acres, eliminating waste—the pigs are raised to 60-75 pounds weight by member farmers before being shipped off to the creamery;

Operating in Harwood has advantages of low taxes, proximity to a city market, good spring water. "Some city creameries pay as much as $1500 a year for water," he pointed out;

The creamery keeps a staff of 16 in summer months, 9 in winter;

Most butter is sold in Toronto, none at all in Peterborough "because in this city the price of butter prints, for some reason, is usually less than the price of solids in other centres";

No friction is ever experienced, even in regard to grading of cream, and each district is still represented on the board of directors.

Prime reason for the long period of successful operation of the creamery is still that "we are running it for the people who keep the cows", declared Mgr. Drope. "We've never lost sight of that fact."

Month's Salary Is Given Bookkeeper

Miss Helen Banks who has resigned as bookkeeper of the Board of Works Department was given an honorarium of a month's salary by the council last night.

Alderman Wilson, chairman of the Board, said it was usual to give "young people starting out in married life" from the city's employ a month's salary.

His motion was seconded by Alderman Stocker. "As a senior member I can pay tribute to this young lady. I wish we had more of her kind of service around the city buildings," he said.

Miss Jean Elcombe has been appointed in Miss Banks' position.

Woman Lost $17

A lady living near Norwood lost $18 on Christmas Saturday while in the ladies' rest room on the market. Telling of the incident, she informed The Examiner it had taken a good deal of effort to produce the fowl which she sold on the Christmas market. There are five children in the family and the money was to go largely for expenditures of the festive season.

"There were only two girls in the rest room while my daughter and I were there. The money was in three five dollar bills, and a two and a one. I had not time to have a good look at the girls but one of them had on a grey fur collar on her coat and the other wore a wine-colored coat. When I went to pick up my purse the bills were gone. I need the money right now and of course if I can't get it I will have to do the best I can without it."

Game Preserve Is To Get Load Of Elk

The Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries is ready at any time to supply the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association with a truck load of elk from Petewawa, D. J. Taylor, deputy-minister of the department has informed President Kingan of the local association in a leter.

All that the department asks the association to do is to furnish a truck to transport the animals from Petewawa to their destination in the county game preserve. The deputy-minister suggests that the elk be moved here as soon as possible before the roads are blocked.

In his letter Mr. Taylor suggests in regard to the intimation that buffalo may be brought here, that the latter would have to be confined and the novelty would soon wear off.

Wider Bridge Is Proposed

That footbridge across the river at London street may broaden out to vehicular width if City Engineer Parsons doesn't get started on it too soon.

Alderman McIntyre enquired at last night's meeting of the council whether it would be feasible to construct piers wide enough to carry a bridge for general traffic, and Alderman Dutton conceived the idea of writing the Department of Transport whether they have in more or less scrap stock any more bridges like the one at the Locks which they brought here from the Welland Canal.

A motion by Alderman Gordon and Stocker appointed Aldermen Wilson, McIntyre and Cotton as a committee to be consulted by Mr. Parsons in his preliminary of obtaining plans, prices and other necessory information regarding the footbridge at London street.

"We are up against a rising market," Mayor Hamilton said, "and the quicker we get at it the better."

The by-law enabling the council to proceed with the building of a bridge has already been given its second reading, but the third could not be added last night because of a restriction that the by-law could not be passed until two weeks after the vote of the people.

Bruce Payne Is Named Auditor North Monaghan

Bruce Payne of Gilmour, who is building a new house on Lock Street in the township, was appointed auditor of North Monaghan at the first meeting of the township council Monday. He replaces Wm. Lauchlan at a salary of $60 a year.

For the first time in at least thirty years the inaugural of the council was opened with prayer by Rev. J. F. Everson, pastor of Springville United Church, who was introduced by Reeve M. H. Johnston.

Reeve Johnston welcomed the members and asked for fair consideration of all questions, and also pleasant and harmonious relations throughout the year.

Deputy-Reeve Archibald moved a vote of thanks to Rev. Mr. Everson, seconded by Councillor W. J. Grady.

At the morning session the two new members of the council were sworn in by the clerk, Bruce Johnston, for the first time. They are H. E. Cassan and James S. Roberts. The preliminaries induced an atmosphere that seemed to be an augury of goodwill for the council's year.

Road Superintendent Archie Patterson was present at the afternoon session, and the question of this year's road expenditure came up. It was decided that Mr. Patterson be asked to prepare a complete statement of the 1939 program with cost of construction, repair and maintenance, superintendence and machinery as a guide in preparing the estimates for 1940.

A resolution was passed giving the Reeve and Deputy-Reeve full authority to purchase 3,000 feet of snow fence from the county of Peterborough at $5.50 a roll of 100 feet; and also 170 metal snow-fence posts.

The following accounts were passed for payment: Election expenses, $85.15; printing, etc., $10.14; street lighting, $90; salaries, $30; administration of justice, $40; Herbert Carson, $7.75; Dr. Caldwell's Will Fund, Christmas baskets for poor, $42.88; roads and streets $27.83; relief and charity for the month of December, $316.27.

Court Of Revision.

The Court of Revision for Ann Street sewer and water mains will be held at the Court House Thursday, January 11, at 2 p.m., and for the Charlotte Street sewer and water mains at the same place Saturday, January 27, at 2 p.m.

A resolution was passed that the council advertise for an assessor. A young man with a good commercial education with a liking for municipal work and willing to apply himself is the type of applicant sought by the council in order that the appointment might give permanence to a new official. Bert Sanderson was re-appointed weed inspector.

After two years of holding the nominations meeting at the Court House, the council decided yesterday to return to May's School, changing the time to 7.30 in the evening instead of the afternoon meetings that used to be held there

A grant of $5 was made to the Salvation Army for rescue work. The next meeting of the council will be held on February 12.

NEW INDUSTRIAL HOCKEY LEAGUE COMMENCES ITS SCHEDULE

Norwood Hornets Edge Terriers 5-4 In Overtime

HAVELOCK, Jan. 9 —(ENS)— Winning in overtime by a 5-4 count, the fast improving Norwood "Hornets" copped a close decision over the battling Tweed "Terriers" last evening at the Norwood arena, for their initial win of the Trent Valley Hockey League schedule. Dropping their first two games to Campbellford and Madoc, the Norwood squad came back with a vengeance last night to win in a fast and furious tilt from last season's T.V.L. champs, practically the same squad that defeated them in the finals last year.

Sub-zero weather kept many fans from attending the match, but the real dyed-in-the-wool enthusiasts witnessed some first class hockey, which from the opening bell was packed with action, speed and heavy body-checking.

"Dude" Brady, a new recruit to the Norwood line-up this season, who has been switched from up forward to the rearguard, turned in a brilliant performance, leading his buddies to victory with three tallies all on solo efforts. Brady has been paired on the blue line with Archie Weir, another newcomer to the Hornet squad, and together they make up a pretty formidable duo, with the former showing plenty of zip in his rink-long rushes.

"Gordie" Puffer's goal at the six minute mark in the overtime session gave Norwood their much deserved win, after a hard-fought battle, which was nip-and-tuck all the way. The Hornets held a slight advantage during the early part of the first period, Brady putting them in the lead after 14 minutes of play, when he stickhandled through the entire Terrier team, to drive one past Reeves. Norwood's one-goal advantage was short-lived however for two minutes later Joe Cournyea took a pass from Elsbury to beat McMaster close in.

A Costly Goal

With less than a minute remaining, of the first session, Brady made a gallant effort to break the tie, and was right in the clear before the Tweed net, when Leal tossed his stick. Despite much heated argument from the visitors, Referee R. Ennis awarded Norwood a goal, giving them the lead once more.

Joe Cournyea notching his second counter of the game, after two minutes of the second period, evened the count again. Play began to roughen considerably from this point on, the first penalty of the game going to Aboud of Norwood for crosschecking Elsbury. A hard-earned goal by Rod Webb, assisted by Mickey Puffer gave Norwood the advantage again, just as the period ended.

Aboud and Elsbury went off together, for roughing it, after the third stanza had barely started, and an outbreak of heavy bumping followed, which resulted in another penalty to Norwood, O'Leary getting the gate. For a brief space then Tweed held sway, and in less than two minutes they had scored twice, Elsbury notching the first from Tummon and J. Cournyea and A. Cournyea the second from Elsbury, giving them the lead for the first occasion. Struggling hard to tie it up, Brady finally clicked for his third counter of the night, again following a spectacular solo flight down the ice.

Deadlocked at the end of regular time, the two teams reversed ends, and resumed play which continued at a terrific pace until G. Puffer picked up Weir's pass in Tweed territory to sink the winning tally.

Joe Cournyea with three goals and an assist and Elsbury with one goal and three assists were easily the standouts on the Tweed lineup, although Tummon and Orr also turned in a most effective game on the defense. Reeves in goal, Wagar and Marsh also were good.

Although Brady stole most of the limelight from his teammates on the Norwood squad, Weir, O'Leary, R. Webb, and McMaster were standouts among the remainder.

The teams:

Tweed—Goal, Reeves; defense, Tummon, Orr; centre, Wagar; wings, Lehl, A. Cournyea; alternates, J. Cournyea, Elsbury, Marsh, Woodcock.

Something To Train For This Year

Not a sculler of note, but a ball player in training, is this athlete, by name, Les Scarsella, by trade, a major league first baseman. Les has something to train for this winter, following his trade from Cincinnati Reds to Boston Bees. In two years at Cincy he never started a game, the Reds having a very capable gent named McCormick to look after those chores for them. "Watch me go this summer," or words to that effect, is the Scarsella 1940 slogan.

Soured On Zeke Last Season Giants Again Sign Bonura On

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP)— Among the 37 players to whom New York Giants announce they have mailed contracts for 1940 is Zeke Bonura, the zestful first-baseman of old New Orleans.

Now, the Giants have got themselves into something of a mess about Zeke. They bought him from Washington for $25,000 last winter and paid him the not unhandsome salary of $15,000 for his season's work.

Manager Bill Terry soured on Zeke about a month before the close of the race. He took Zeke off first and let him do only an occasional chore of pinch-hitting. Indications are that Bonura plays no part whatsoever in Terry's plans for 1940.

Yet the Giants, perforce, have written the big banana merchant out another contract calling for $15,000.

Benura has the Giants in a spot. He put them there during the recent big league convention, when the Giants were on the verge of trading him to the Phillies. The Phillies, being gun-shy, obtained permission from Terry to call Zeke long-distance and see if he would be willing to play for them at a salary considerably less than $15,000.

Sure—For $17,500.

Zeke, awakened from a sound sleep, said he would be delighted to first-base for the Phillies. He said he would be reasonable about his salary, too. He said he thought $17,500 would be about right. The Phillies spokesman only gasped before he hung up.

The news got around, of course, and since then the Giants have been left quietly in possession of Bonura.

The Giants don't want Zeke to get mad at them and hold out, because then their chances of trading or selling him eventually would be materially reduced. He is, after all, a fairly valuable baseball property.

Possibly they will have to fall back on him as their regular first-baseman in the coming race. Babe Young, a former Fordham star, has the inside track on the job, with light-hitting Johnny McCarthy in reserve. Neither is a ball of fire.

Trinity Juveniles And Mark St. Draw

The big Trinity Juveniles forced play against Mark St., but were lucky to get a 1-1 church loop tie at All Saints' last night as the Trinity counter was scored off an East City defenceman, Webster getting credit. Ralph put Mark St. up in the first before the lucky tally came. The Mark St. players checked well to offset superior speed and size on the Trinity team. Horton turned in a lot of speed for the Trinity gang, with none of the Mark St. bunch, aside from the goalie, being outstanding. The teams:

Referee, G. Smith.

By HERB MARTIN

James E. Harkness, chairman, vice-chairman and sec.-treas. of the one-man ice committee, is being congratulated from all sides on the appearance of the rink now that he has fulfilled his promise to produce white ice, and along with the white ice the blue rings stand out and are easily seen from one end of the rink to the other. When this new idea gets past the critics of No. 8, everything will be o.k.

In many rinks the ice is whitened just around the ends and this is the first time, at least as far as we can find out, that all the ice surface from T to hack has been made white. It certainly brightens up the whole rink, gives the place a much cleaner appearance and is a big improvement all around. It's just one of the many improvements that the club is doing to make curling better for curlers.

Norman Hawley, Jack Sedgewick, Andy Buck and Cecil Williamson motored over to Woodville yesterday afternoon and enjoyed a friendly game with the boys of the village.

H. F. Foote, Peterboro, umpire for Group No. 3 of the District Cup competition, has sent out notices to the different clubs advising them that the preliminary round of the competition will be played at Peterboro, Tuesday, Jan. 16, at 9.30 a.m.

The ladies commence their games for the "Gibson Trophy" to-morrow morning.

Scores.

J. Lowes 11, E. Wall 7.
R. Payne 15, I. Hamley 8.
E. Metcalfe 14, A. Smith 8.
E. R. Shirley 14, A. W. Pratten 13.
J. M. Williams 12, J. Sedgewick 11.

Church Juniors Battle To Draw

George St. Juniors, with a young squad, surprised All Saints' in a 2-2 church hockey fray at All Saints' last night. Deering and Reid for the Anglicans, and E. Routley for George St. counted in the first, while there was no score in the middle heat. George St. ganged up in the third and sewed up the count late in the game. They had a sound defence and fleet forwards to hold their own against their older and bigger rivals. Neither goalie was too busy. D. Smith was effective for All Saints' with D. Abraham best of the forwards. E. Routley was the fastest on hand and Willshaw was heady on defence for the Uniteds. The teams:

All Saints—Goal, Lacheur; defence, D. Smith, K. Smith; centre, Deering; wings, Hill, D. Abraham; subs, G. Smith, Roberts, L. Abraham, Reid, Robinson.

Referee—M. Board.

Irish Sweepstakes To Be Continued

DUBLIN, Jan. 9.—(CP Cable.)—The Publicity Department of the Irish Hospitals' Sweepstakes last night issued a flat denial that sweepstakes would close for the duration of the war after the scheduled Jan. 16 draw.

The Publicity Department statement read:

"Joseph McGrath, managing director of the Irish Hospitals' Sweepstakes emphatically denied a report appearing in some papers to-day to the effect that the Irish sweepstakes will close down and that the Grand National Sweepstake will be the last."

The newspapeh reports claimed that foreign exchange restrictions of many countries were said to have reduced support for the lottery below a profitable level.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

And ye extra large hockey attraction here tonight is the O.H.A. junior "B" melee betwixt Lindsay's Midgets and the local Colts in the Brock. Their first clash of the season and neither squad has suffered a reverse so far. It goes without saying that this will be the tastiest dish of puck au gratin to date between these old young rivals, the loop leadership being at stake. The Colts have been in three fights to date and the big Midgets split six major penalties their last tiff, so it sorta looks like two scrappy squads being tossed over the boards here this p.m. It ought to draw a big crowd of fans—at reduced prices—and the customers can bank on a whirlwind tussle throughout, speed, action, bumps and a tight count at the finish. An okay puck offering.

* * * * * *

Here are the Lindsay monickers with numerals: goal, Nichols (1); defence, Warrian (4), Sharpe (3); centre, Owen (5); wings, Ellis (6), Armstrong (10); subs, Elliott (2), Logan (7), Christie (8), McDonald (9), Brennan (12), Bolderstone (11), Brandon (13). And the Colts: Goal, Cec. Cournyea (1); defence, Bill Beggs (23), Bob Strickland (21); centre, Joe Rochetta (14); wings, Sid Craig (20), Duce Vitarelli (16); subs, Nels Foster (18), Dutch Pammett (17), Bucko MacDonald (19), Julian Wade (15), Bob Parnell (24), Al Mason or Rocky DeCarlo—wearing No. 22. With a Lindsay referee.

Midgets Kind Of Cocky

With three wins in a row tacked up, the Midgets—who aren't, by any means—are coming here rather cocky for probably their only appearance this winter in Peterborough. Sparking their attack are Owen, Ellis and Brennan, admittedly the three stars of the Scugog squad. Scouts Nos. 16½ and 4.4 have wig-wagged us word that the large lads from Lindsay-on-the-Scugog are plenty speedy, pretty tricky and they use their bodies for something more than to drape uniforms on. Which is fine with us. We love to see two well-matched junior gangs out there battling their young noggins off—they dish up more sustained speed and action usually than their older brothers on skates. And Lindsay had better be good tonight.

* * * * * *

Coach Archie Weir has a healthy pack of puckists to pick a team from this semester. Big boys with speed to burn, lots of hockey savvy and almost too much fight. Keep your peepers on the blazing speed of Wade tonight, the tireless tramping of Foster, the fine blocking and deadly dashes down the ice of Parnell. Just to mention a few. Watch their numbers and learn who these young stars—who will be senior aces in a few years—are. The writer has a hazy hunch (a second cousin to a slice of sixth sense) that the Colts are gonna hurdle through their group without a loss, win the playoffs and make a sizeable splash in the provincial playdown puddle. Yep, and you can sue us anyway up to a buck and a quarter if we're wrong! But don't pass up this promising fray on ice faster than a frightened fawn.

The Soldiers' Fund

Fred Marples of the Sportsmen's Patriotic Assoc. in Toronto writes this paper: "Dear Sir—On behalf of R. M. Glover, the Sportsmen's Patriotic Association wishes to thank all those who have contributed to the campaign on behalf of providing the soldiers in training with sports equipment." He continues to point out that this idea—same as in the last war—is most popular with the soldiers and that funds contributed are spent for soldiers from the locality donating the dough. Officers of the S.P.A. contribute their efforts freely, and Mr. Glover represented the association here. We didn't hear how much was raised in the local campaign, which is practically finished now.

In a Trent Valley League hockey duel last p.m. in Havelock, Alex Kempt's Hornets of Norwood grabbed a furious 5-4 nod over the Tweed Terriers. Several Peterborough puck-chasers are aboard the Norwood lineup this season, including Dude Brady, Archie Weir and Ike O'Leary. Our correspondent states the defence duo of Brady and Weir shows a formidable pair. The Dude led the squad to a win last eve with three solo tallies in a fine performance, and the account winds up with these words: "Although Brady stole most of the limelight from his teammates on the Norwood squad, Weir, O'Leary, R. Webb and McMaster were standouts among the remainder." The T.V.L. is shaping into a nifty puck circuit this winter.

Quakers Shaping Up

Quakers will ice a classy crew when the Industrial Puck Loop opens with a triple-header this Thursday night in the Brock. Coach Herb Ralph and Manager Jack Ferguson expect to start this lineup: Goal, Bill Merrett; defence, Webb Starr and Andy Delpellaro; one line, John (Finnegan) Hill, Ralph Howland and Webb Fisher; other line, Pat (Rocket) Calladine, Bud Kennedy and Frank Shine; other defence, Fred Innes and Hal Webb; extra players, Spook Scriver, Eddie Dixon, John Kirby and Lloyd Ash. A pretty promising pack, we believe.

Four tight tilts in the Church League last night as the rest of the 22 teams got into action. George St. Seniors trimmed St. James 6-3, George St. and All Saints Juniors went to a 2-all tie, Mark St. and Trinity Juveniles had a 1-1 draw, and St. John's copped a 7-5 win o'er Knox Bantams. Max Board has offered his services as referee for some games, doing the junior joust last e'en, and Gord Webb—a regular helper—handled the senior struggle. Others wishing to help in this way might phone the secretary, Don Charlton, at 6884. Ministerial Assoc. has presented a handsome trophy to be competed for yearly in the C.H.L., going to the player judged of most value to his team, with gentlemanly conduct and church activity also counting. Rev. Canon Paterson and Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt form a committee to act with the loop executive in lining up a system to choose the winner. It would be something to be chosen out of over 250 puckists for this award.

8 Aging N.H.L. Stars Play On N.Y. Americans Team

A couple of Red Dutton's aged-on-the-ice hockey warriors, two of his eight regulars serving out at least their tenth season in the National league. ALONGSIDE is Harvey Jackson, patrolling left wing as an American for the first time after 10 years of starring for Toronto Maple Leafs. ABOVE, that player who never seems to grow old, Reginald J. (Hooley) Smith, in his 16th major league campaign, mostly this years as a defenceman.

(By Central Press Canadian)

TORONTO, Jan. 8—The recent purchase of Johnny Gagnon from Canadiens by Red Dutton, gave the latter's team undisputed possession of first place in the Collection of Aging Hockey Players league.

With such phrases as the "Ancient Americans" and the "Old Men of Manhattan" used to describe New York's second best National league team, it was generally accepted that Red had a corner on the market in used hockey talent, a perfectly correct assumption, but the purchase of Gagnon gives his team a wide lead over their closest rivals in this quaint department, Canadiens.

Johnny will give Dutton the very handsome total of eight of his regulars now in their 10th season of major league puck-chasing. They are Charlie Conacher and Hooley Smith on defence; centres, Nels Stewart, Art Chapman and Doc Romnes, plus Harvey Jackson, Johnny Sorrell and Gagnon.

Canadiens Next In Line

Before Gagnon's departure Pete Lepine's team had had seven 10-year men in the line-up, but not regularly. Marty Barry, George Mantha, Cy Wentworth and Paul Haynes are the "decaders," who hold down regular posts, while Armond Mondou and Earl Robinson have seen occasional service.

Third place in the C. of A.H.P. league is taken by Detroit Red Wings, who can wheel out for display Tiny Thompson in goal, Ebbie Goodfellow on defence and forwards Syd Howe and Cec. Dillon to whom can be added the durable Hec Kilrea, unless he is away on one of his minor league missions, strengthening the Detroit Indianapolis farm team.

Behind these squads come Boston and Chicago, each with a couple of better than 10-year men, Toronto Leafs with one and Rangers without any, which probably makes only the other teams mad, the way Frank Boucher's boys have been travelling of late.

In the Boston pair is included Eddie Shore, who has seen longer service with one club than any other player in the N.H.L., this being his 14th season as a Bruin, although he might easily be declared ineligible for the high honors being distributed here, with but four games in the record this season.

Excluding the Great man there are five players next in line for continuous - service - with - one-club honors (using the world in its broadest sense), all going through their 12th major league campaign. In the five are both Chicago Black Hawks' 10-year representatives, Mush Marsh and John Gottselig; the other Bruin, Dit Clapper; Maple Leaf, Red Horner, and Canadiens' smooth-skating George Mantha.

Everybody Knows This

Players with the longest service, including all teams, as has been mentioned already this season about 3,422 times, is Hooley Smith, in his 16th N.H.L. winter, followed by his American team-mate, Nels Stewart and Hec Kilrea (when he's up), in their 15th.

Art Coulter is the best Rangers can muster when the conversation turns to age, the talkative blue line guardian spending his ninth season in the Calder loop, while his fellow defenceman, Ott Heller, boasts the longest continuous mark with the high-flying New Yorkers, this being No. 8 for him.

As some kind of an obscure moral to this tale of age's battle with onrushing Young Canada on skates, it could be noted what positions the Leafs, Rangers and Bruins, possessing the fewest 10-year men, hold in the league standings; while at the same time casting a downward glance at the rungs held by Americans, Canadiens and Red Wings, dealers in aging ice ivory.

HOCKEY DRAW

The draw for the Peterborough Hockey Club will be held on Friday night, January 12th. All stubs must be in at Ed Riley's store by 6 o'clock that night. The referee will make the draw.

Tanners Win 3-0 In Hastings Loop

HASTINGS, Jan. 9—(ENS). — Tanners copped a 3 to 0 win over the Clerks last night at Riverside arena in the opening game of the Town Hockey Loop. Players on both teams showed lack of practice and changes in the lines were made at short intervals when the hockeyists became "puffed out." Despite the chill of the evening a fair crowd was in attendance although visibility from one end of the rink was poor at times due to a heavy fog coming over the ice surface from the river, adjoining the rink.

Defence seemed to be the winning feature of Tanners' outfit as Cliff Scriver and Fred Crate diverted many attacks from the Clerks and Bob Scriver in the nets turned away a good many hard shots Neither goalie had much of an advantage over the shooter due to inadequate lighting near the nets. Opening up scoring, Cliff Scriver slipped the puck past McColl in the closing minutes of the first period after two players had accompanied him to the blue line. From a scramble, he picked up the loose rubber and zoomed it into the nets. Gerrard Scriver opened scoring in the second stanza off the face-off on a long shot. Fred Crate, assisted by Joe Edwards, counted the Tanners third goal a few minutes later after they stick-handled right in close. The third period went with plenty of action on the part of the Clerks but, although they kept Scriver in the nets busy, he proved worthy of his job and turned in a shut-out for the team. The teams:—

Summary:

First Period:

1—Tanners, Cliff Scriver.

Second Period:

2—Tanners, Gerrard, Scriver.
3—Tanners, Crate (Edwards).

Third Period:

No scoring.

Referee, Alton Thompson; Timekeeper, Lew Scriver.

Former Smokies Perk Up In 20 Below

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., Jan. 9—(CP)—Perhaps it just needed Arctic blasts to start three former members of the Trail (B.C.) Smoke Eaters, now with Kirkland Lake Blue Devils, towards the hockey form they displayed with the Smokies last season.

Defenceman Mel Snowden and Forwards Johnny McCreedy and Dick Kowcinak didn't perform as well as expected in the first few games this winter with the Devils, Ontario senior finalists last season. They came into their own last Saturday, however, when the Devils whipped McIntyre Mines 8-2 in 20-below-zero weather.

On lightning-fast ice, the former Smokies accounted for four points and played their best game of the season in the one-sided exhibition victory.

Co-Captain Snowden didn't tally any points but he played a strong game on defence beside Ray Milton, member last season of Port Arthur Bear Cats, Dominion senior titlists, McCreedy, slim winger who had a trial with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National League two seasons ago, scored twice, while Kowcinak's heady playmaking earned him two assists.

It was a sad opening of an exhibition tour for the Miners, who will play in all cities of the eastern United States Amateur League during the 12-day trip.

Goodyears Hand Moosemen 16-4 Trimming

(By the Canadian Press.)

Those "down east" teams are not the only ones with a formula for livening up hockey games and opening up the sport. Niagara Falls Cataracts and Toronto Goodyears also have a knack of pumping goals behind rival netminders that leave goalies mumbling to themselves.

The revamped Cataracts, gunning for a play-off berth in the Senior "A" section of the Ontario Hockey Association, entertained Hamilton Dominions last night and skated off with a 13-3 triumph. The Goodyears invaded Galt and handed the luckless Moosemen a 16-4 trimming.

Niagara Falls went all out in the first period in search of victory, rapping home five goals without reply. They picked up two more in the second and then collected six in the final.

4 Goals To Morrison

Steak Morrison paced the Falls sniping brigade with four goals and one assist. Art Stuart grabbed three and Scotty Stirling two. Tony Pavone, Eddie McCracken, Sammy Phillips and Paul Allen each scored one.

The Moosemen suffered their 17th consecutive loss in losing to Goodyears and still have to enter the league's win column. Johnny O'Flaherty and Eddie King led the scoring parade with four goals each. Punchy Imlach picked up three and Turney a pair. Jack Draper, Mundrick and Laurent got the others. Liscombe with two, Fox and Morrison scored for Galt.

With snow conditions leaving only a little to be desired, the first good skiing week-end at Bethany turned out to be most encouraging. Enthusiasts from Peterborough, Lakefield, Lindsay, Port Hope, Oshawa and Toronto were on hand and the hills were in use continually from Saturday morning until the closing hours of the week-end. One cannot help but notice how rapidly the junior skiers are advancing and the instructors of that section are to be congratulated on the work they are doing toward the betterment of the sport. Our good friend, Fred Roy, was on hand taking shots with his camera and we noticed a good many non-skiers had come out from town to look the place over. To them we say, next time you come, we hope it will be with skis.

Seems like there was a bit of a cold wave south and east of us last Saturday night the mercury reached down to its shoe laces and chalked up some thirty degrees below which is plenty cold in any man's country, which leads us up to the reason why about twenty members waited for a bus for a half hour. Yep, you guessed it, she was frozen up tight and refused to budge. However, the bus operator who hails from Keene, by the way, assures us that he will have it on hand next Sunday at 10:30 a.m. sharp and again at 1:30 p.m. Return trip to Bethany is only thirty-five cents per person and the bus will leave the Empress Hotel at the above mentioned times. The bus is a new one and can accomodate about 25 people comfortably. The fare is very reasonable indeed and you positively can't run a car out there and back for that much money. Let's all give it a try out next week-end.

Junior instructions got under way on Saturday afternoon in fine style up in Victoria Park with a good representation of the junior section on hand. These young people are really going to show the advanced skiers a thing or two in the next couple of years so don't say we didn't warn you about the senior instruction classes every Tuesday and Thursday evenings at Victoria Park.

Membership badges have been mailed out to all paid-up members and you should all have them by now. In case you haven't, and you are a paid-up member, please communicate with the treasurer. After the fifteenth everyone has to wear either a membership badge or a guest ticket on all club properties. That's all for now.

DUTCH PAMMETT

On the forward line here tonight for the Colts, who play the Lindsay Midgets, will be Dutch Pammett (above), one of the locals' main snipers on the attack.

Little Snatches Coast Open By One, In Rain

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9—(AP). — It may take the staid old Los Angeles Country Club a year to recover from the beating it took from the rain, the trooping feet of thousands of golf addicts and Mr. W. Lawson Little in the 1940 Los Angeles open.

A steady downpour had reduced the club's already tough north course to the status of a quagmire. And then came Lawson Little to hammer par into submission and wreck what had looked like a peaceful finish to the 16th annual open and victory for a large young man from Linville, NC., Clayton Heafner.

Little, hungry for laurels, he hadn't found in nearly five years of professional campaigning, finished with a 65 for the round, a 72-hole total of 282. He won a one stroke victory over Heafner, whose 71 for 283 was one too many.

Olin Dutra, Los Angeles, finished with 285.

Stanley Horne, Montreal professional, was far back with 298. He carded a 78 in yesterday's round.

Moore Plugs Net As Wings Take On Bruins

(By the Canadian Press.)

Bushy-haired Alfie Moore, who has stepped into National Hockey League breaches before, enters the nets for Detroit Red Wings when they oppose the Bruins at Boston tonight in just the sort of setting the Toronto goaltender likes.

Everything happens to Moore and this time he has been called from the shadows to substitute for the great Tiny Thompson, who is out of action with a strained back. Few would rate Alfie in a class with the veteran Thompson, but he still might bring some sort of incentive to the failing Red Wings.

Twice in the past Moore has been called in to tend goal for New York Americans, first in place of Roy Worters and then for Earl Robertson. His greatest bit of pinch-hitting, though, came in the Stanley Cup finals of 1938, when he replaced the injured Mike Karakas in Chicago's nets for the first game with the Maple Leafs at Toronto.

The Hawks wanted to use a major-league goalie but when they were ordered to use Moore, they got so tough and Alfie got so tough that Chicago won the opener 3-1. The rest is history. The Black Hawks went on to win the world championship in four games of the best-of five series.

In a Rough Corner.

Again Moore is on the spot— this time because the Red Wings are tied for last place with the Americans and because the Bruins are fighting to gain the top. He might make the Red Wings as fighting mad as he made the Black Hawks that spring evening in '38.

Toronto or Boston, or both, can leap into a first-place tie with the New York Rangers. The Maple Leafs play the Americans at New York in their first test without both members of their high-scoring combination, Gordon Drillon and Sylvanus Apps.

Examination showed yesterday that Drillon may not be out for another 10 days, as feared when he was injured Saturday night. His foot injury may heal sufficiently to let him play against the Bruins at Toronto Thursday.

Montreal Canadiens, who broke a losing streak of nine games by winning at Chicago Sunday, will play the Black Hawks again tonight in Montreal.

Boston Biffer At Tee and Till

"Whack" and "tingle" are two highly-musical sounds to the ears of James Emory Foxx during the winter months. The Boston Red Sox first baseman, who has hit more home runs than any other player still in the game operates a couple of golf courses in Florida during the off-season and is seen here on both sides of the business fence. At the LEFT he gets in the "whack," something he can do in a handy manner, and at the RIGHT he greets another customer and hears the "tingle" as he salts away the shekels. Next!

Conn Sure Of Heavyweight Crown —Soon As He Can Meet Louis

By SID FEDER
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, Jan 9.—(AP) — The big boys in the boxing business may be interested in learning that Billy Conn has it all figured out right now how he can be heavyweight champion of the world just as soon as Manager Johnny Ray "okays" a fight with Joe Louis.

The Pittsburg pretty boy, who makes his bow as a full-fledged heavyweight in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night against Henry Cooper, is so convinced of this that one fine afternoon within the next six months you're going to read where he has abdicated the light heavyweight championship to go against the big fellows exclusively.

"Those big guys are all the same," he said. "They tire easy. When you fight one of em, you just let him wear himself out in the first few rounds. Then you just lean one hand against the top of his head, cock the other—and wham!

"I love to fight those big clowns more than the guys my own size. A guy who can box around with you always gives trouble. But never those stuffed pillows. They're all the same to me."

Going Places in Year.

This is undoubtedly a large order for the "fighting harp." Just one year ago yesterday, he showed up in New York for the first time, unknown and weighing a mere 168. Now he's king of the 175-pounders, and, after his final workout for tomorrow's tussle he weighed an even 175, which probably means he'll go into the ring at 176 or 177.

"At the rate I'm going," he added, "I should be 185 or 190 in another year. I'm going to give up the light-heavyweight title when I can't make the weight any more. That'll be sometime in the next few months. If no title fight is arranged before then, I'd like to hand the championship over to Gus Lesnevich. He deserves it— and maybe he'll buy me a new shirt for it."

Night Baseball Here To Stay Says Harridge

By WILLIAM HARRIDGE
(President American Baseball League.)

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—(AP)— The season of 1939 brought considerable satisfaction to the American League and to me personally.

Thanks to the inauguration of night baseball in three of our cities —Philadelphia, Cleveland and Chicago—the attendance figures practically equalled those of 1938, despite the fact the pennant was decided early in the season.

There is no doubt of night baseball's popularity. We know what it did in the three cities named above. The fans enjoyed it immensely. I feel sure night baseball is here to stay when limited to seven games a season for each club.

Naturally the American League is happy because it won the All-Star game and the World Series. It also took great satisfaction in the development of such star youngsters as Outfielder Ted Williams and Third Baseman James Tabor of Boston, Pitcher Atley Donald and Outfielder Charles Keller of New York, Shortstop Louis Boudreau of Cleveland, Outfielder Barney McCosky of Detroit and Catcher Mike Tresh of Chicago.

The season of 1939 will go down in history as the one to which the most sentimentality was attached, because it was "Baseball's Centennial."

The observance of the Centennial of baseball was purely sentimental. No effort was made to commercialize the event and I believe the public now knows that the owners of baseball clubs can be as imbued emotionally as deeply as any other class of business man.

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

RAY GETLIFFE
Canadiens

By Central Press Canadian

Playing his first season with Pete Lepine's Canadiens is Ray Getliffe, who for the three seasons previous had been a regular at left wing with the Boston Bruins. Last season was not so good for the blond sniper and on June 29, he was sold to the Flying Frenchmen in a straight cash deal. Ray was first the pro property of the Rangers, who signed him on the strength of his play with St. John Beavers during the 1934-35 season, but he was farmed to the London minor league club, there to be spotted by Bruin scouts. A deal was made and he finished that season (1935-36) as a member of the Boston cast, seeing only occasional service. However, the next season, his first complete one in the major league, was the best he has yet enjoyed as he bagged 16 goals and was credited with 15 assists. Along with Bill Cowley and Charlie Sands (the latter also a Canadien now) he made up Boston's most effective forward line for a couple of seasons. Born in Galt 25 years ago. Played his first organized hockey with Stratford Midgets—then to St. John, then to the Bruins. In three season and a small portion of a fourth (this first) he has counted 37 goals, 40 assists for a point total of 77, and has looked on from the penalty bench for 87 minutes.

Ray Getliffe

Should Be Happy

Here's one ball player who will probably go into the 1940 season well satisfied with things. His name is Lee Grissom, a rookie pitching star with Cincinnati Reds a couple of seasons back, who never quite lived up to his original promise. The other day he was waived out of the National league (at least that's the way the deal was made) and went to the four-time world champion Yankees in exchange for Joe Beggs.

Lindsay Meets The Colts At Local Arena

Lindsay Midgets meet the local Colts here at 8.30 tonight (Tuesday) in the Brock St. rink in an O. H. A. junior "B" fixture. First place in the group standing will be at stake, neither team having lost a game so far this season. A first-class junior contest is likely with two strong and well-matched clubs dishing up sustained speed and action from start to finish. This tussle deserves a big crowd of fans as both clubs are classy, it's an important duel, and a fine sheet of ice is ready for the oldtime junior opponents.

Cec. Cournyea (No. 1) will be in goal for the locals, with Bill Beggs (23) and Bob Strickland (21) on defence; centre is Joe Rochetta (14) with Sid Craig (20) and Duce Vitarelli (16) on the wings. Alternates will be Nels Foster (18), Dutch Pammett (17), Julian Wade (15), Bucko MacDonald (19), Bob Parnell (24) and either Rocky DeCarlo or Al Mason (22). Lindsay's lineup is: Goal, Nichols; defence, Warrian, Sharpe; centre, Owen; wings, Ellis, Armstrong; subs, Christie, Logan, McDonald, Elliott, Brennan and Eberts.

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Joe Louis seconds Homer Williams vs Cocoa Kid in Baltimore Thursday night, then moves into Pompton Lakes to get ready for Arturo Godoy ...Coast grapevine says Kayak II isn't the same hoss he was when he won the 100-grander Sanita Anita a year ago...Cincinnati papers are among those wondering how in the world the Reds ever got Lee Grissom waived out of the National League.

Izzy Dizzy?

Things look black for Dizzy Dean,
Who swears he'll quit the baseball scene
If they reduce his pay.
The Cubs have offered him a mere
Ten thousand cocoanuts a year,
Which Dizzy says is hay.

(We wish we had that kind of cinch Ten grand a year to warm the bench!)

Lew Jenkins, co-pride of Sweetwater, Tex. (Sammy Baugh is the others), fights Chino Alvarez in Dallas Jan. 15 or 19...Toronto Maple Leaf Hockey players take regular army machine gun drills during their spare time at home...Ken Washington, the U.C.L.A. football star who wants to be a fighter, laughed at a Los Angeles promoter who offered him $500 for his debut out there. Rumors have it your old pal, Mike Jacobs, is at the controls ...One of the reasons New York Rangers are going like a house afire is that young Lynn Patrick stays right in there, busted beak and all.

WAVED FANS AT BALL GAME

Quebec Coaches Favor Ban On Summaries

MONTREAL, Jan. 9 —(CP)— A suggestion that in future no scoring summaries be compiled or issued to newspapers was placed before a meeting of the Quebec Senior Hockey League last night.

President George Slater of the Q.S.H.L. made the suggestion after talking to several coaches who said they felt scoring statistics did not give a true picture of events. Coaches, he said, felt they would get more out of their players and that there would be a minimum of arguments.

This suggestion, and another that only one assist be given on a goal, was discussed but was left over until next season.

George St. Seniors Cop A 6-3 Decision

St. James' Seniors of the C.H.L. were down 5-0 to end the first frame last night at All Saints' rink but they came back strong ere losing 6-3 to George St. West got two markers and Snarr, Hough and Dunfield one each for the winners in the first, the latter getting one more in the third. Saunders scored one each in the second and third, as Huggins tallied in the second for the losers. St. James' iced some veterans who will come along shortly, Manager Huggins, Saunders and Meredith especially. Snarr is a former Toronto puckist and looked good for the victors, as did the perennial Parnall. The teams:

St. James'—Goal, Shea; defence, English, Meredith; centre, Lackey; wings, Lawson, Huggins; subs, Heard, Saunders, Taylor, McMahon.

Knox Bantams Win

Knox Bantams of the Church Hockey League last night at All Saints' rink pulled an upset by handing last year's champions, St. John's, a 7-5 setback. Knox had a better goalie last night, the Saints' custodian fanning on several. Covert, Batley and Slaughter scored for Knox with Frank and Clark counting for the losers. Some good defence work by the victors' blueline guardians aided their goalie in keeping out the smart scoring threats of Clark and Frank for St. John's. Teams:

Knox: Goal, Parnall; defence, Gertley, Braund; centre, Covert; wings, Batley, Slaughter; subs, Haines, Craig, Milburn, Pine, Seabrooke.

St. John's: Goal, Howard; defence, Lech, Frank; centre, Clark; wings, Hooper, Gray; subs, Greirson, Marshall.

Referee, A. Neiman.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:
FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.
NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.
ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby house.
DR. BILL MALLORY, close friend of Ellen's.
YESTERDAY: Attracted by Bill Mallory, but afraid of hurting Ellen, Fabienne suddenly leaves Willoughby house after three months, having won her bet with Nicky.

CHAPTER TEN

GERTRUDE, Comtesse de Ligne, maintained a nine-room apartment in New York and a small house in Paris, both rather handsome menages. But it was Willoughby hall, old and white and gracious as the beauty of the belle who had come to it as a bride, nestling in a Maryland valley twenty miles from Baltimore, that was home to Gertrude's daughter, Fabienne Seymour.

It had not always been known as Willoughby hall. It was Carl Seymour who had left it to Mark and Edna Willoughby— having nothing else to leave to his brother and sister-in-law who had been father and mother to his children after his divorce from Gertrude Willoughby, who had cared less for her children than the glitter of European society. It was his one gesture to leave the security of a home to his children.

Richard Seymour had built it for his bride, lovely, spirited Fabienne de Courcy, who came from France to attend a ball in New Orleans and never returned to her native land. They had met and married a decade before the Civil war. None of her dark beauty, but all of her love for the hall and her spirit, she had left to find its clear trace in her grandaughter.

The room that had been Fabienne's since she could remember had been the bridal chamber of that first Fabienne. It's walls were hung with the now-faded hand-woven silk that had been brought from France. The painted fire screen, the long oval mirror, the flowered carpet and the spindle-legged chairs that once had served Fabienne de Courcy, were tributes to her grace and femininity.

Lying on the big bed with its headboard of tufted satin, Fabienne Seymour, on that first morning of her return to Maryland, let her eyes sweep lazily over the room and was aware for the first time that it no longer seemed like HER room. It was the room of another woman—a belle. But was not she, Fabienne, a belle?

She arrived at dinner time the evening before and already the invitations had come by telephone and messenger. "Yes, yes," she had said to them all. The invitation to the Hunt ball, the Bachelor's dance, the Hallowell and Jackson parties. "Yes, I'd love to!" To ride with Tom and Jane and Nicky; to tea with young masters at the school that Uncle Mark headed.

She was, and she intended to continue, being a belle. Those three months of service in New York would mean nothing to her. No more than they should mean. She'd done it merely to prove to herself that she could. She'd done it and now she would go back to being what she really was. True, she was no longer a rich girl who could send her bills to her great grandfather. But she had enough money to live pleasantly. She'd always have this home with Uncle Mark and Aunt Edna. Gertrude would finance a trip to Europe if she wanted one. And when she wished to marry, there was Nicky waiting for her. And days of grace and comfortable living.

There was a silver cord that hung beside the tufted satin bed. A touch of her hand would summon old Molly. But the habit formed during three months of routine, eating breakfast when she was dressed, with an eye on the clock was upon her; she threw back the soft blankets and ran into her bath.

She brushed her silky hair, powdered her nose and hastily applied a scarlet lipstick. Haste. She had no need of haste now. It was not yet nine o'clock, and she had nothing to do on schedule for the rest of her life. It was a strange feeling that she experienced, being used by now to crowded hours.

Her trunks were not unpacked. Molly would do that later. She hunted about in the closet and found an old pair of jodhpurs, boots, and a riding jacket. There were some silk shirts in the highboy drawer.

She dressed hastily, feeling a longing to ride, feeling her first sense of anticipation in weeks.

Mark and Edna were breakfasting before the fire in the library.

"Well!" they greeted her with smiles, surprised.

"Hello, darling," she said. "Any breakfast for me?"

"We thought you'd have it in bed, dear," Aunt Edna said. "You look as if you needed a rest.... Hector! Breakfast for Miss Fabienne."

Hector brought in a tray of dishes —hot breads and eggs scrambled with chicken livers, a steaming pot of bubbling chocolate.

He put a fresh log on the fire and dropped a cushion in back of Fabienne, who had drawn a big chair up to the table.

In the hall, the grandfather's clock chimed ten musical bells. Fabienne sipped her chocolate and a row of little bright-eyed faces came before her and the headlines of the newspaper Mark had placed before her. Bright, hungry eyes in little wan or swarthy faces. Bright little smiles as those faces turned to her each morning when she poured hot cocoa into thick mugs. The ten o'clock morning lunch at the settlement house. Cocoa gulped hungrily. Crackers that disappeared into baby mouths. Always hungry little mouths.

Well, she wouldn't have to think of that any more. That was the way the world was. Always filled with hungry little children. And there were always people to feed them. Fabienne Seymour wasn't needed. That was over and there was something else for her to do.

"Riding this morning?" her uncle asked her.

"Trading," she said. "Hoss-tradin'."

"On Sunday?" Edna asked gently.

"Not exactly trading, darling. Collecting a bet. From Nicky. His mare Betsy is mine now." She told them about the bet she'd made with Nicky that September morning.

"I wouldn't take Betsy, Fabienne," Edna said. "But, of course, you know best."

"Edna's superstititous," Mark said with an affectionate glance for his wife. "She thinks that good should be done for goodness' sake alone."

"That's because she is good," Fabienne told him. "But I'm not good. I'm one of the selfish girls. Hard, that's me. Out for what does the most for Fabienne. Now I've got to run along. I don't want to waste this beautiful morning. I'll see you some time this afternoon. I'm lunching with the Jacksons."

It was a beautiful day. Cold and crisp, but dry. Not like the cold, damp mornings in New York. The evergreens were bright and the sky sparkled overhead as she marched across the fields and scaled the hurdle fences as easily as a slim-legged boy.

The Bartlett's place was a half-mile across the country and coming in sight of its many wings, Fabienne whistled softly to herself. She had forgotten how imposing it was. And one day it might all be hers.

She skirted the grounds and entered from the back, making her way to the stables.

Nicky, as she had supposed, was already in the saddle.

He greeted her with a sleepy wave of his arm.

She said, "Well, Brighteyes! All set for a canter Isn't it a heavenly day?"

He groaned. "You're the only woman in the world that could get me up at this hour on Sunday. I've told Sam to bring Betsy around. I'll have her papers transferred tomorrow."

The sun went behind a cloud for a moment. A rooster crowed somewhere off to the left and one shaggust of wind blew across Fabienne's face. She shivered slightly.

"Edna's superstitious. She thinks good should be done for goodness' sake alone."

Fabienne said, "Are you superstitious, Nicky?"

"Not much. I guess we all are a little."

"Not me," she told him stoutly. "There's going to be no pay off on that wager, Nicky. I'm not going to take Betsy."

"Why not?"

She said casually, "Oh, I can't afford to keep a mare. You keep her and I'll borrow her."

It was pretty silly of her, she thought, when she was mounted on the spirited little mare, but she felt better about it.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, January 10.

Generally propitious and progressive configurations contribute to make this a pleasant, profitable and satisfactory day, despite some trivial delays or obstacles, which might be due to a depressed physical condition. It is a particularly favorable time for dealing with large corporations, big business, political, diplomatic, or fraternal organizations, regarding promotion or financial support in putting over new projects of importance. Move toward high goals with assurance and initiative.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a generally progressive and fortunate year, with much success in dealing with those in influential positions whose co-operation may be desired for developing new projects of major importance. Government, political or secret bodies may be approached for favors with confidence. There may be interference with such ambitious plans by a depressed physical or mental condition unless these be safeguarded.

A child born on this day may be ambitious and capable, with splendid creative and executive ability, which may attract the support and friendly co-operation of those in influence and standing.

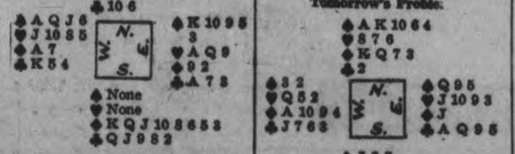
"The Authority on Authorities"

THE LATE INTERRUPTER

IF ONE of your opponents has kept silent in the early bidding, then unexpectedly jumps in with a call at some high level, it is well to pause and think. Maybe he is offering you a chance for a luscious double which will produce more points than were originally dealt to you. Or perhaps he knows his business, and has purposely adopted delaying tactics to tempt you into letting him play the hand. He may have such a long string of cards that you haven't a chance to set his contract.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

After North's pass here and East's 1-Spade, South decided to go deceptive. Though he seemed able to lay his hand down for 4-Diamonds, he passed. West, with his powerhouse opposite an opening bid which he fitted perfectly, felt slammish and so forced with 3-Hearts. East showed rebiddability with 3-Spades and then South cut in with 4-Diamonds.

This put West into an awful stew. He knew South as a trickster who was always trying to interfere with his opponents' easy bidding, and decided this was the time to punish the varmit. "Double," he said, foreseeing a juicy set, and of course everybody passed. Needless to say, South made his contract without effort.

East and West can make 5-Spades against perfect defense, and a small slam if North is foolish enough to cover one of the heart leads with his K, which would set up a chance to get a club discard.

Tomorrow's Problem:

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

If the defenders take the diamond A, a diamond ruff and the club A, then lead another club, how should North try for a double squeeze to make 4-Spades, and how can West thwart him?

Canadian Chiefs Entertained By Connaught

By GILLIS PURCELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

ALDERSHOT, England, Jan. 8 (C P Cable)—The Duke of Connaught, 89-year-old former governor-general of Canada, gave evidence Sunday of his continuing interest in the Dominion and the Canadian Active Service Corps.

At his nearby home at Bagshot Park, Surrey, he was host at luncheon to Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, and two senior brigadiers, Brigadier R. Fearkes of the Second Infantry Brigade, and Brigadier James Stewart, commander of the Royal Artillery.

Discussion centred on the care and entertainment of the Canadian troops and the progress of their training. The Duke expressed active interest based not only on his knowledge of Canadians but on intimate association with their quarters in Aldershot. He was closely associated with Aldershot when it was laid out more than half a century ago.

General McNaughton was able to say that the utmost has been done by the British authorities to make the Canadians comfortable and to assist in their training.

Princess Patricia, daughter of the Duke of Connaught, asked about the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry unit in the First Canadian Division. She said, in fact, that she would like to see them on parade sometime soon, and this was regarded as an indication that an early visit from her at Aldershot is in prospect.

Lord Beaverbrook wrote in the London Daily Express that the United States demand for war debt payments forced Britain off gold and brought other economic dislocations.

"I don't accept his theory at all," said Bankhead, a member of the banking committee. "England went off the gold standard before we did and forced us off.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 9—(ENS).—Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Dawson entertained the executive of the Young People's Union of St.a Andrew's United church for its initial meeting of the New Year, at their home, King street, on Friday at 8 p.m., Bella Sisco taking charge of the opening devotional period.

Discussion of business items brought the dicision to hold regular Y. P. U. meetngs on Monday nights for the next month instead of Tuesday, to see if it would benefit the attendance; also arrangements were made to hold a party at the church on Friday, January 19, that will be open to the public and increase funds; the committee in charge is Jean Fisher, Bill Kerr and Earle Edworthy.

The year's plans were under general discussion, and the reports for the year showed 24 meetings held, with an average of 27 in attendance; three special parties, and over $90.00 raised of which $28.00 was given the local church, and over $8.00 was given the M. and M. fund.

Mrs. A. Coyte was hostess for the second meeting since organization of the Young People's Society of Grace Presbyterian church, held at her home, north of the village, on Friday evening, with a good attendance, and the president, Miss Margaret Armstrong, in the chair.

Miss Gertrude Forsyth read the lesson, and the minister, Rev. Raeburn-Gibson gave the address, taking up the subject of "Differences Between the Christian Religion and a Dictatorship."

After defining what the word "Christian" means, the speaker asked the young people to give their individual opinion about a dictatorship as seen in three of the leading countries in Europe to-day—Communism, Nazism and Fascism being discussed. In the end, the young people placed themselves firmly on record "that we will strenuously uphold our heritage of Christian civilization and our birthright of liberty and democratic government, throughout the coming year."

The report of the treasurer, Gladys Cotye, showed a goodly balance for the beginning of the year, and five dollars was voted to the church board of managers for the 1939 budget. It was decided to have an open offering each meeting rather than a specified membership fee, and the society will hold a Valentine party in February. Rev. Mr. Gibson outlined the duties of the departments of worship, fellowship, and service, and after prayer a social hour was enjoyed with Mrs. Coyte, and her daughter, Miss Gladys, serving lunch, games and contests.

Bonus Paid Brae Cheese Patrons Highest Per Pound In District

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 9—(ENS) —Patrons of Brae Cheese and Butter Company had every reason to be pleased with the report presented at their annual meeting. According to District Dairy Instructor J. A. Murray the bonus, or premium on quality, as it is preferred to be called, netted the producers nearly an extra cent per pound of cheese. Actually the bonus brought .92 cent per pound, or a total of $734.87 to the company's thirteen patrons.

During the course of the meeting which was presided over by President and Secretary Percy Oddie, it was revealed the factory had been in production until December 14 this past season. This was approximatel three weteks later than operations are generally carried on. Mr. Murray in his address to patrons, said: "Your bonus is the highest per pound of any factory in my district." He recalled that the annual meeting was generally held on the first Saturday in December. The bonus would, in his opinion, be continued again during 1940, as he felt the improved quality brought about by it would cause the Government to continue their present policy despite the war. Changes in the sewage disposal plant at the factory and fetter support for the curing room floor were his recommendations to the patrons.

Mr. Oddie told the patrons they had been under considerable expense during the year having installed a new boiler at a cost of $490, as well as making other minor repairs which he felt had been justified by the splendid report the factory had for the season. "If we hadn't installed the new boiler we wouldn't have had such a good report and our cheesemaker, Sam Hobbs, deserves a lot of the credit," he said. "Though the Cheese Patrons' Association has not made a success of buying cheese they have certainly gone far in their efforts to improve quality and thus have justified the five cents a box we pay to the association."

Prices might well go up despite Government control, according to J. D. Mills, local manager of the Bank of Montreal. He stated there were five million pounds of cheese less in storage this year than last.

Less Milk Delivered.

The financial report for the year showed a total of 885,684 pounds of milk had been delivered to the factory from which 79,245 pounds of cheese had been made. This was approximately five thousand pounds below last year's total. Butter fat totalled 30,936 pounds and an average of 11.17 pounds of milk was required to make one pound of cheese. Sale of cheese brought a total of $10,223.94 at an average price of 12.89 cents, not including the bonus, which would bring the average price to 13.81 cents per pound. Average price for butter fat was 30.03 cents per pound. One pound of butter fat made 2.56 pounds of cheese. Total received from sale of cheese and whey butter was $12,000.56, with whey cream bringing $437.66.

Directors for the year were re-elected as follows: Alf Linn, Bogart Linn, Harry Bedford, and R. C. Cleugh. Election of a president was left with the directors.

AFL Demanding Trade Deals All Be Scrapped

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—(AP). — A demand that reciprocal trade agreements with 21 nations—including Canada—be scrapped was sent to the United States Congress today by the American Federation of Labor.

The Federation's voice was added to the opposition to the government's trade program through the Wage Earners' Protective Conference, A.F.L. Tariff Group. It came out against continuing the President's power to exchange tariff concessions with other countries.

The battle over the trade agreements will be formally opened on Thursday when the House of Representatives' Ways and Means Committee begins hearings on a resolution to continue the program for three years. The present authority expires on June 12.

The A.F.L. group made three specific demands. It asked repudiation of all treaties which "have not, as the constitution specifically requires, been ratified by the Senate." Administration supporters contend that the trade pacts, concluded through the state Department, are not formal treaties.

As the law stands, the agreements already signed with foreign nations would continue in force regardless of the extension of the program.

Second, the A.F.L. would levy a tax sufficient to make the delivered cost of foreign products equal to the cost of American-made goods with which they compete.

Third, it would enforce against foreign products the same "fair labor standings" now demanded of good moving in inter-state commerce. These standards call for a minimum wage of 30 cents an hour and a maximum work week of 42 hours.

Ontario War Power Plans Laid

Speech From Throne Seen Indication Of Seaway Action

TORONTO, Jan. 10.—(CP)—Ontario has adequate power resources for "any present wartime needs and plans that will take care of possible future demands are underway," said the speech from the throne delivered by Lieutenant-Governor Matthews today at the opening of the fifth session of Ontario's 20th Legislature.

Many interpreted the reference as a forecast of Ontario's participating in power developments that will be a part of the St. Lawrence River deepening plan.

The speech was largely a review of 1939 and references to coming legislation were brief. The mortgagors and purchasers relief act will be extended. The succession duty act is to be amended to overcome difficulties that the government has met in collections.

Since the outbreak of war my ministers have pursued a vigorous policy within the scope permitted to them by the British North America Act," the speech said. This policy included:

Steps to get adequate financing at low interest rates.

Strict economy with "a virtual holiday" on capital expenditure.

Placing of provincial resources at disposal of the federal government.

A special Labor Department committee is cooperating with manufacturers working on war orders.

Rural Power Up 15 P.C.

Increased activity in Ontario industry was shown by the growth in Hydro loans, the speech continued. Extension of Hydro services to domestic consumers continued and the aggregate load supplied rural power districts increased 15 per cent in 1939. Adequate steps were taken to safeguard Hydro properties.

Ontario's mining industry registered an all-time high record in 1939 with production estimated at $237,000,000 against $220,000,000 in 1938, the speech said. The year also saw the recumption of iron mining in the province when the Helen mine, near Sault Ste. Marie, was re-opened. The mine is producing 1,200 tons of ore daily and this will shortly be increased to 1,800.

Capital expenditures in the Highways Department will be limited to replacements which are essential if salvage value is not to be lost and to the rebuilding, particularly in Northern Ontario, of worn out bridges.

The speech noted that more than 170 member of the Ontario Civil Service have enlisted for active service. All new appointees to the service are being required to sign a declaration that their services are to be of a temporary character.

All Aid to Ottawa.

The Province placed immediately at the disposal of the Dominion Government all its resources. The new hospital at St. Thomas has been turned over to the Royal Canadian Air Force and Provincial highway engineers and forestry patrol service have been engaged on Dominion projects. I am particularly proud of the way in which Ontario once again demonstrated its loyalty, said Mr. Matthews. Men

Finland's Canadian-Run Nickel Deposits Seen Sting Behind Nazi Impatience For Red Win Over Berlin-Betrayed Nation

PARIS, Jan. 10.—(CP-Havas)—French observers believe that Finland's Canadian-controlled nickel deposits are the key to Germany's impatience for a speedy Soviet victory in the Finnish campaign.

These observers point out that of the 120,000 tons of nickel produced annually, the Allies control about 92 per cent. Canada's International Nickel interests have major control of this ore. Canadian-owned mines account for 102,000 tons of the world's total annual production. French New Caledonia, in the South Pacific, yields anothers 9,000 tons a year.

No war machine can run long without nickel, these sources point out. It is a required alloy in a large part of the steel which goes into the making of airplanes, tanks, warships, submarines and other armaments.

Greater Germany's peacetime consumption of nickel was approximately 14,000 tons. At least another 6,000 or 7,000 tons must be added now to cover the needs of war.

To meet these vast requirements the Reich must look to foreign sources, as its own mines produce at the most 300 tons annually.

Observers claim the Nazis saw three paths of partial solution open to them:

1. In the months just before the war they built up the largest possible reserves. These could hardly have been extensive, however, or International Nickel would have known about it.

2. They estimated that by withdrawing nickel coin from circulation and melting it down they could obtain 2,500 tons.

3. They hoped through the Russian conquest to share in deposits discovered a few years ago in Lapland.

An International Nickel subsidiary holds concessions for the latter mines from the Helsingfors government. Sampling began four years ago and experts did not count on any important yield before 1941.

Even if the Russian victory over Finland develops as the Nazi-Communist partnership hopes, Germany must be content with inferior steel in its armaments production for at least another year.

During the First Great War the Imperial Reich, which had much bigger reserves than Nazi Germany, had to send the commercial submarine Deutschland to the United States to purchase nickel. To-day such an exploit is regarded as being out of the question.

Charmed Life

Hamilton, Jan. 10 (CP)

THE SECOND TIME since war broke out, Alex Kinnaird, aged 28, brother of Mrs. George Trevithick of Hamilton, has escaped a watery grave due to a combination of good fortune and British seamanship.

Second engineer aboard the Rothesay Castle, which struck a reef off the west coast of Scotland today, and is believed to be breaking up, he was rescued along with other members of the crew and the passengers. The 7,016-ton liner was pursued for four hours by a German submarine last October on her trip back to Britain from South Africa.

200 Russians Die In New Rout At Lake Lagoda

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 10—(AP)—Two hundred Russian dead were left on a battlefield North of Lake Ladoga today when Finish Forces dispersed a Soviet battalion and took 40 prisoners a Finnish communique announced.

Finland also reported that remnants of the Russian 44th division, which was routed in fighting several days ago, had been thrown back across the Soviet frontier in the vicinity of Raate.

It was the fourth point on the border where Finland said the Red invaders had been pushed back to their own soil.

Finns Hold Border Again.

WITH THE FINNISH ARMY AT THE RUSSIAN FRONTIER, Jan. 10—(AP)—Finnish troops established positions along a 30-mile stretch of the Russian border in Central Finland today after 14 days of heavy fighting in which two Russian divisions were smashed.

Ski troops were completing the work of mopping up the fleeing Russians of the 44th and 163rd divisions of the Red army, which were routed and thrown into retreat after thousands of them were killed.

The area directly east of Lake Kianta for some distance North and South is in Finnish hands.

Fighting is continuing with reports that another Russian division is being surrounded at Kukkammo to the South.

The biggest victory of the war for the Finns was the route of the 44th Division southeast of Suimussalmi along a 4½-mile stretch of highway.

Juneau's Maria

Juneau, Mis., Jan. 10 (AP)

JUNEAU has no patrol wagon but Police Chief Max Arndt gets along all right with his one-wheel, one man-power substitute. The chief felt the need of a "black maria" in arresting an intoxicated transient sleeping on the street. Stumped only a minute, Arndt loaded the man into a wheelbarrow and trundled him to the jailhouse.

Unity Held Farmer's Solution Of Success As War Brews Vast Changes, Sacrifices

GUELPH, Ont., Jan. 10—(CP)—Farmers may have to make drastic changes in their plans, and may be called upon for many sacrifices as the war progresses, but they must not lose sight of the fact that only by united effort can success be achieved, W. C. Barrie, of Galt, declared in his presidental address at the opening of the two-day conference of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union at the Ontario Agricultural College today.

"The members of the Experimental Union, equipped with the valuable information gathered through many years of experimenting, are in a position to do their part in any production program they might be called on to take part in," he said. "As yet, the Government has not advised us as to the line of production most essential to the furtherance of our war efforts." It is expected, however, that as the war progresses, calls will be made of us for certain lines of production which all should be ready and willing to accept.

"One thing that should not be lost sight of in any production program is the effect it will have on agriculture when the war is over. Increased production should be brought about by the more general use of seed of good varities suitable to the district, by the judicious use of fertilizer rather than by bringing into cultivation

Hungary Out For Chunk Of Rumania

Will Aid Against Reds Only If Carol Yields Transylvania

BUDAPEST, Jan. 10 (AP)—Apparently united with Italy in a determination to block any Russian expansion in southeastern Europe, Hungary sought today a settlement of her differences with Rumania for a common front in the Balkans.

Informed persons said King Carol would be pressed for a speedy reply to Hungarian overtures for settlement of territorial questions. Foreign Minister Count Stephen Csaky reported yesterday to the crown council on his week-end talks with Italy's foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano.

Hungarian and Italian sources made it clear that should Rumania act to remove the 21-year old bitterness over her acquisition of Transylvania, she could be assured of full support from both nations against any possible Russian thrust into Bessarabia.

Bessarabia went from Russia to Rumania and Transylvania from Hungary to Rumania in territorial changes following the first Great War.

If Rumania ignores an invitation for a settlement with Hungary, these sources indicated, Italy and Hungary are prepared to leave her to her fate. Moreover, Hungarians said that should the Red army penetrate the Rumanian frontier, Hungary would enter Transylvania.

It was not disclosed whether Hungary would press for immediate cession of a part of Transylvania, or be content with a promise to transfer of territory after the war.

Accept a Promise?

Some informed persons said Ciano had brought pressure on Csaky to be content with a promise backed by an Italian guarantee of its fulfillment.

The newspaper Uj Magyarsag (New Hamburg) said Italy was prepared to protect southeastern Europe against a Soviet attack, and that Rumania, as well as Hungary, could couht on her support.

"This Italian support, however, has an ideological basis, and consequently Italy could not support a goal of selfishness," the newspaper said. "Revisionism remains a basis of Italian policy, and Rome continues to support Hungarian legitimate national claims."

Rumania has refused to yield any territory heretofore, but the Bucharest press has taken a friendly attitude toward the Venice conversations of Ciano and Csaky. This was regarded in Budapest as an indication an agreement could be reached.

Meanwhile, Rumania was expected to discuss Bulgaria's territorial claims on Rumania with her Balkan entente allies—Turkey, Greece and Yugoslavia — at a Belgrade meeting called for Feb. 2.

The Italian-Hungarian defensive alliance reported agreed on at Venice was seen by foreign observers as forcing Germany to make a choice between her new friendship with Russia and, on the other hand, older ties with Hungary and Italy.

R.A.F. Carries Battle To Germany

Raid Isle Of Sylt As Nazis Attack 12 Ships, Sink Two

LONDON, Jan. 10—(CP).—The Royal Air Force carried the war to Germany's shores today in an outburst of renewed air and sea warfare coming only one day after Prime Minister Chamberlain's warning that grim days are ahead.

The R.A.F. sent warplanes over Germany's northwest coast in reconnaissance flights and "security patrols" over German mine-laying bases in the Frisian Islands.

Dispatches from Copenhagen indicated the Britons ran into battle. Vivid flashes through the early dawn and the rumble of cannonading along with the sighting of numerous aircraft indicated an air battle over the Island of Sylt, German air base.

This followed a sudden bomb and machine-gun attack by German warplanes upon 12 ships in British coastal waters yetserday.

The 10,002-ton passenger liner Dunbar Castle of the Union Castle Line struck a mine and sank off the southeast coast of England. Three persons were known dead and two missing of the 198 passengers and crew aboard.

Another major loss—due to the hazards of navigation rather than to enemy action—was the 7,016-ton liner Rothesay Castle, which struck a reef off the west coast of Scotland. The liner was expected to break up. No lives were lost.

The 1,985-ton British steamship Oakgrove was attacked by enemy aircraft and went down with an undetermined number of its crew, 20 of whom have landed safely.

The Admiralty announced the Danish ships Ivan Kondrup, 3,369 tons, and Feddy, 955 tons, reported sunk yesterday, were still afloat and probably would be brought into port. The British steamship Gowrie, 684 tons, was sunk by German warplanes off the east coast.

Captain H. A. Causton and two of the Dunbar Castle's crew were killed; two others were reported missing. Huddled in blankets, the 48 passengers and remainder of the crew of 150 were brought to London early today by rescuers. Nine children and several women were among them.

The Dunbar Castle, which just had begun a voyage for South Africa, was the largest liner mined in coastal waters since the 11,930-ton Japanese ship Tarukuni Maru was sunk Nov. 21.

Many of the survivors were injured. The rush of water into the hole in the side made launching of boats difficult and the ship broke in half within 20 minutes. Just as the last boat got away.

Danish Ships Damaged.

The Admiralty announced the Danish freighters Ivan Kondrup, 3,369 tons; Feddy, 955 tons, and the British steamship Gowrie, 689 tons, were damaged by German warplanes off the East coast. Ten were missing from the Ivan Kondrup, and the fate of the Feddy's crew was unknown.

Paris Reports Canadians In France Ottawa, London Officials Deny It

LONDON, Jan. 10 (CP)—Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton and his brigadiers of the First Division of Canada's Active Service Force are in France, but no detachments of the rank and file have left England, it was stated authoritatively here today.

General McNaughton's arrival in France was announced last night. Today both the Havas News Agency and The Associated Press said the arrival of "several detachments" of Montreal and Quebec regiments had been reported—the reports possibly growing out of General McNaughton's landing with his staff.

The stories brought quick denial from London and Ottawa that Canadian troops had reached France. At Ottawa a defence department official said there was "no truth" in the reports.

Montreal, Quebec Troopers?

PARIS, Jan. 10 (CP) — Unconfirmed reports from The Associated Press and the Havas News Agency today said several detachments of Canadian troops, the first to join the British Expeditionary Force, had arrived in France.

The arrivals were said to be members of the Montreal and Quebec regiments.

The commander of the Canadian Active Service Force, Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, and his staff landed in France last night from England, where Canadian troops have been undergoing training before moving to the continent. A full division has reached England.

Britain's army in France already has been joined by detachments from India, the first overseas troops to reach France.

Denied In Ottawa

OTTAWA, Jan 10 (CP)—Lt.-Col. H. DesRosiers, acting associate deputy minister of national defence, today denied unconfirmed reports from Paris that several detachments of Canadian troops had landed in France.

"There is no truth in the reports," said Col. DesRosiers.

A Breathing Spell

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 10—(AP).—Six weeks of fierce defence and counterattacks against the Soviet Russian invasion appear to have won a breathing spell for Finland.

Finns suggest their foe is temporarily exhausted. Russian acknowledgment of a withdrawal on the central eastern front tends to bear this out.

How long the lull will last Finnish military quarters can not say, but they presume it is merely the quiet before the storm of a great Red offensive mostly likely to break on the Karelian Isthmus.

No Fanfare For British Home Force Chief As General Sir Walter Kirke Sees Canadians Go Through War Drill

ALDERSHOT, Jan. 10. — (CP Cable)—General Walter Kirke, commander-in-chief of the home forces, "dropped in" today on the First Canadian Division for an informal tour of inspection and to meet the officers and men.

He was accompanied by Lieut.-General Charles Broad, commander of the Aldershot area, and a group of staff officers, including Viscount Dunsford.

In the absence of Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, general officer commanding the Canadian Active Service Force, and his brigadiers, who are now in France, General Kirke was officially welcomed by Colonel E. W. Sanson. With him was Lieut.-Colonel A. E. Walford.

An escort of four sturdy officers of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who were mounted on drab colored motorcycles, preceded the party as it moved off from Canadian Divisional headquarters.

At the wheel of General Kirke's car was pretty Elspeth Ironside, daughter of General Sir Edmund Ironside, chief of the Imperial General staff.

General Kirke met the Canadians without fanfare or ceremony apart from the guard of honor which greeted him at each brigade headquarters. At his special request there was no prearranged program. He preferred to see the men engaged in their everyday drill and that is what the Canucks gave him.

Smart Drill Squads.

In a 3½ hour tour he visited most of the divisional units. He saw men moving smartly across the parade grounds in response to crisp, efficient commands. Men of the Royal Montreal Regiment gave him a businesslike demonstration of machine-gun drill with the men wearing gas masks. Another company of the same regiment was out on signal practice.

At the First Divisional Artillery headquarters, the General watched men from Kingston, Brantford, Winnipeg and Moncton concentrating on gun laying and standing gun drill.

General Kirke spotted Second Lieut. Edward McNaughton, the Canadian Commander's second son, who is serving as Intelligence Officer at Artillery headquarters. He shook hands with the young subaltern and asked him to convey his personal respects to his father.

At one of the infantry brigades General Kirke listened with interest to bilingual commands to men of the Royal 22nd regiment. He also saw the West Nova Scotia and the Carleton and York regiments in a workmanlike display of musketry and bayonet drill. Then he moved to Morval barracks where the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, under Colonel Calhoun, was going through full training.

As companies of an Edmonton regiment lined up he passed along the ranks chatting to officers and men. Addressing the boys, he complimented them on the progress achieved in training.

No Cancer Cures Are Found By Commission

TORONTO, Jan. 10.—(CP).—Ontario Cancer Commission said today in an interim report to the Legislature "in no case is the commission on the evidence before it to date, able to make a determination or finding that any substance or method of treatment investigated has been proved to be a cure or remedy for cancer."

The commission, headed by Mr. Justice J. G. Gillanders of the Ontario Supreme Court, has not finished its investigation in the age-long search for a remedy for cancer. It has heard 117 witnesses, many of them claiming to have cures for cancer and to have treated patients successfully.

Many "cures" presented to the commission are unworthy of further investigation, the interim report says, but it recommends further inquiry in two or three remedies, notably in the case of "ensol" which is being used by the Henry Connel Foundation, Kingston.

The report says: "In connection with substances and methods of treatment being investigated, both clinically and by laboratory means, the commission would point out that it may in some cases take considerable time before sufficient evidence can be obtained upon which any definite opinion can be expressed, or findings made, as to their merit if any as a remedy for cancer.

Find Patients Scarce

"In the clinical investigation this is in part due to the fact that the desired number of patients where results can be observed, uncomplicated by other methods of treatment, are apparently not readily available."

Further, the report says: "In not a few cases the commission has been impressed by the confidence by patients who testified before it, in regard to the merit of the treat-

Mother Dead In Bed, Tots 5, 7 Play Quietly For 2 Days—Tell Callers "Mama's Asleep"

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP) — Seven-year-old Anthony Pizarro and his five-year-old sister, Judith, thought their mother was asleep Sunday when she lay still on her bed in their tiny East Second Street apartment after complaining of a pain in her chest.

Keeping a lonely vigil—their father, Fernando, is on a freighter bound for Manila—they played quietly in the kitchen, met callers with a whispered "mama's asleep," and slept in the bed beside their mother for two nights. They prepared their own scanty meals of milk and cereal, and Anthony stayed home from school.

His teacher, worried over his absence, went to the apartment yesterday. When she and a neighbor entered the Pizarro apartment they found Mrs. Pizarro dead. A physician said she had died of heart disease at least 48 hours before.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 10 (CP-Havas)—General Emile Badoux, Belgian military expert who since last April has been employed by the Finnish government in strengthening the Mannerheim Line, today described in the newspaper Le Soir the wholesale slaughter inflicted on attacking Russians by modern Finnish armaments.

"The Russian hecatombs described every day in the Finnish communiques are real," said the general who has just returned here.

Dunbar Castle Floats But 20 Minutes, In English Channel

LONDON, Jan. 10 (CP Cable)—The 10,002-ton liner Dunbar Castle, sunk by a German mine off the southeast coast of England, was in an outward-bound convoy, it was learned today.

Although the liner foundered in 20 minutes, only three were known to have been killed out of the 198 passengers and crew aboard. They perished when the "murder mine" explosion split the ship in half. Two other members of the crew were believed to be missing.

Passengers praised the feats of heroism by the crew and the officers said the calm courage of the passengers enabled the boats to get away in the choppy sea.

Captain H. A. Causton and two members of the crew were killed in the explosion, which crumpled the decks and blew out the foremast of the Union Castle liner shortly after it had left a British port for Cape Town. Two other crew members were missing.

Although the liner sank rapidly, there was no panic. Witnesses said the crew worked with cool courage to save the passengers, among them nine children.

It was believed that all 46 passengers got away in two of the ship's boats. After drifting about in the channel, they were picked up by a coastal motor barge and brought ashore.

Passenger's Story.

A British business man passenger who withheld his name gave the following account of the Dunbar sinking:

"We were having a smoke after lunch and naturally were discussing the war. Suddenly it was brought home to all of us.

"There was a loud, dull roar. The vessel seemed to stop and appeared to be listing. All lights below went out.

"The force of the explosion threw us on the floor with chairs and tables piled on top of us. It was a terrible melee.

"Then someone shouted. "Keep calm and don't make any noise."

"We obeyed the first order all right, but it was another matter trying not to make noise."

"Everywhere there was smoke, which was almost suffocating.

"Assisting one another as best as we could, we groped our way to the decks and daylight. The ship was listing badly and water was rushing in as we put on lifebelts and got into lifeboats without panic.

"The ship sank in 20 minutes."

Ninety crewmen were landed in six boats at one southeast port. The others were put ashore at the same port as the 48 passengers.

Last Minute News Flashes

LONDON, Jan. 10— (CP) — The Air Ministry announced tonight that Royal Air Force planes had dropped bombs near the German Island of Sylt while "on patrol" over enemy seaplane bases last night.

BERLIN, Jan. 10 — (AP) —German officials tonight claimed three British Blenheim planes out of nine attackers were shot down today over Heligoland Bight.

The German version of the raid was that four German pursuit planes drove off the British squadron.

LONDON.—Clement Attlee, leader of the opposition, called on Prime Minister Chamberlain today and had a 30-minute talk with him regarding the resignation of Leslie Hore-Belisha as secretary for war. The National Council of Labor, meeting here today, decided not to formulate an opinion on Mr. Hore-Belisha's resignation until parliament debates the subject.

DETROIT.—(AP)—Under a probate court decision today Annie Laurine Dodge, former Canadian telephone operator, will receive $1,250,000 from the estate of her husband, Daniel D. Dodge, who was fatally injured in 1938.

LONDON. — Forty bombs were aimed at the 1,146-ton British steamship Northwood in the North Sea yesterday, it was announced today. The German bombers did not score a single hit. The attack was one of more than a dozen on British and neutral ships during the day.

Retain Quality At All Costs Dairymen Told

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 10. —(CP)— Though increased production of Canadian commodities is important in wartime, quality must be maintained "at any cost," James M. Bain of Britton, Ont., president of the Dairymens Association of Western Ontario, said today.

Addressing the association's 73rd annual convention, Mr. Bain said that primary producer as well as the manufacturer of dairy products is already reaping profits of war demand. He predicted continuance of high prices during the coming season.

Three hundred delegates are expected to attend the two-day meeting, which will feature addresses dealing with new war problems confronting the dairy industry. Cheese and butter entries are large, but judges reported yesterday that cheese entries are scoring the highest marks in recent years.

With Canada at war, Mr. Bain said that "we along with the entire British Empire, find our selves called upon to supply in large quantities, cheese, butter, concentrated milk and other products essential for food and armies."

All dairy products will be in demand and prices will, no doubt, be at a profitable level for both producer and manufacturer," the president said. "If all concerned work together production can be stepped up and quality can be improved."

Exports Jump Prices

He said that increase in cheese prices from 13½ to 17 cents a pound in the last three months has been due to heavy exports to the United Kingdom and the United States.

"This leaves storage stocks at the lowest level for years and producers are receiving from cheese factories the highest price for milk that has been paid for 10 years," Mr. Bain said.

In a similar period, he said, but-ment they have received, as a remedy or cure for cancer. The commission was unable to conclude, in some cases, that the patient had in fact suffered from cancer, and in others, that the relief or cure claimed was due to the treatment under investigation."

The commission reports that on December 11, 1939, Dr. John E. Hett, Kitchener, Ont., agreed that further investigation of the serum he uses in the treatment of cancer should be carried on under conditions set forth by the commission. When material evidence on this investigation is available, the commission will report further.

Dr. David H. Arnott, London, Ont., stood sponsor before the commission for "glyoxylide," cancer specific, the formula for which is the property of Dr. William S. Koch, Detroit, Mich. The commission is investigating further.

Her Formula Secret.

Refusal by Miss Reine Caisse, who operates what she calls a "cancer clinic" at Bracebridge, Ont., to reveal the formula of her specific, "Essiac," is reported by the commission.

"The commission is of the opinion that the evidence adduced does not justify any favorable conclusion as to the merits of 'Essiac' as a remedy for cancer and would so report.

"If, however, Miss Caisse is desirous of having her treatment further investigated, and wishes to submit thereon further evidence, and is prepared to furnish the commission with the formula of 'Essiac' together with samples thereof, the commission will be glad to make such investigation, in such manner as is deemed desirable and warranted."

Miss Sarah Powers, Toronto, attended before the commission with respect to a substance which she said to be a universal medicine, the formula for which she claimed was written in code in various ancient works, and solved by her.

"The remedy she said had been kept secret through the centuries because, being a specific for all bodily ills, the disclosure of the secret would result in more harm than benefit to humanity, in that it would remove a powerful deterrent to wrongdoing."

The commission said Miss Powers' evidence did not warrant further investigation.

Six Flee Fire

WIARTON, Ont., Jan. 10—(CP)—Six persons were forced to the street in their night attire early today when fire swept through a 3-storey building in the business section of this town, near Owen Sound.

The local telephone exchange, a restaurant, a laundry and apartments above the business offices were gutted with damage running into several thousand dollars.

The night telephone operator, Daisy Smith, remained at her post in the blazing building until flames burst through a partition next to her and forced her to flee.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Finnish Aid No Myth Declares Premier

Prime Minister Chamberlain is pictured here as he made his speech on Tuesday declaring that Britain's aid to Finland was no myth. During this speech the Prime Minister rallied the Empire to more vigorous prosecution of the war with the warning that "grim" warfare lies ahead. This picture was flashed to New York by radio and then transmitted by phonephoto.

Finns Grateful For League's Practical Aid

GENEVA, Jan. 10.—(AP).— The League of Nations, 20 years old today, has won the thanks of Finnish delegate Rudolph Holsti for its "practical aid" to Finland which he said "no dead league could give."

"We know it still lives," said the Finnish representative in a statement.

The anniversary of the "Family of Nations" found fully half the staff of permanent experts engaged in facilitating financial and material aid for Finland from nations both in and out of the League.

All but 10 of the 62 nations which have been members still are on the rolls, but the League's staff has been reduced from its 1933 peak of 725 to 303. The League's budget and staff has been reduced by a series of wars in the last decade, culminating in the present conflicts.

After praising the "aid which comes to us from outside the League as well as from League members," Holsti declared:

"The next 20 years will be the years when the League comes of age. This last score were the years of bitter experience and growing pains which many thought wrongly were death agonies. We in Finland have practical aid to-day which no dead league could give. We know it lives."

"The world only will know how much help we are receiving when our year is ended," he added.

enlisting overtaxed the capacity of the recruiting stations and contributions to the Canadian Red Cross Society exceeded the amount asked for.

It is apparent that economic warfare will be a vital factor in the present conflict, and it is gratifying to know that the field crops in Ontario during the past year were above normal, with a consequent increase of live stock on the farms.

All civilian employees required in Ontario by the Department of National Defence will be obtained through our employment service and close contact is being maintained with all firms manufacturing war supplies, in an effort to provide them with the skilled labor that is needed.

In this connection the training schools that have been established for aircraft mechanics, welders and machine shop work will be of particular value. A marked improvement in industrial relations is indicated by the fact that loss of time due to strikes is only half that of 1938 and one-eighth of the year previous, due, in large measure, to the Government conciliation service.

The development of hatcheries and rearing ponds has been steadily pursued and the restocking program has produced extremely satisfactory results. These activities play an important part, along with our excellent highway system, in attracting tourists to Ontario, and it is worthy of note that despite the war there was an increase in visitors with extended permits. It is estimated that tourists spent aproximately $100,000,000 in Ontario last year and, with overseas travel suspended, Ontario should benefit correspondingly during the present year.

During the calendar year of 1939 there was expended in Ontario approximately $21,470,000 for unemployment relief of which the province paid $9,560,000 and the municipalities $5,150,000. In 1938 the municipal share was 27.64 per cent. Since April 1, 1939, this has been reduced to 18.50 per cent. with increased employment relief expenditures continue to fall steadily.

Brazil now has more than 600 hydro-electric plants.

A Finnish general revealed that victory might have belonged to the Red army if it had countered-attacked strongly. He expressed belief that the counter-attack was not made because of lack of reinforcements and disorganization.

Finnish losses were small in the three days of fighting, a Finnish colonel in the Raate sector said, compared with the thousands of Russians killed and more than 1,000 taken prisoner.

In comparing the battles against the two Russian divisions, the Finns said the fight with the 163rd Division was a rout while that with the 44th was bitterly contested.

Victory came, they declared, through superior strategy with a measure of luck. The turning point in the bitter battle was at the frontier when Finnish ski patrols succeeded in destroying a highway bridge which kept the Russians from bringing up reinforcements.

Fighting against the 44th was said to have started December 23 when the Finns learned the Russians were ready to attack and in a surprise assault killed 200 Russian horses and took some prisoners. The major battle developed two weeks later.

Travelling through the battle area this correspondent could see abandoned Russian equipment stretched out along the road. There were 260 trucks — all with new tires — some driven off the road into a large square clearing in the forest.

There were tanks, some of which weighed 10 tons and carried crews of four.

land unsuitable for good growing crops or by over-cropping the subsequent lowering of yields."

He pointed to the fact that large areas of pasture land which were broken up for wheat in the last year should serve as a warning now and he declared "gradually, the truth is becoming apparent that farm soils are no longer as fertile as formerly and in a great many cases are already thoroughly impoverished. When we add to this the ever increasing burden of taxation it can readily be seen that the farming methods of a few years ago are no longer practical."

Results of co-operative experiments with field crops were presented by Dr. G. P. McRostie, O.A.C., for central and western Ontario and by Dr. L. H. Newman, Ottawa, for eastern Ontario. Dr. McRostie, in his report, said that the results secured in the various crop testing enterprises conducted during the 1939 growing season have demonstrated again the desirability of the work.

"The fact that there is no such a thing as a best variety or strain for the whole province of Ontario has received further support," he added. "Each of the twelve varieties of oats and similar number of strains of barley, which were included in the 1939 tests, was the higher yielder in some area."

HE HIT BACK.

DENVER, Jan. 10—(AP).—Robert Edelen, 23, doesn't like to have a street car bell clanging at him while picking his way across an icy street. So he smashed a window of the car, slicing an artery in his wrist. He just had an "irresistible urge" he told Patrolman E. W. Rogers. He was held for investigation.

Quintuplets May Appear At World's Fair

TORONTO, Jan. 10—(CP) —Reports that the Dionne Quintuplets may appear at the New York World's Fair have brought comment from most parties interested— but the possibility appears today to be just that.

"The decision is up to the Quints' Board of Guardian and their doctor, Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe," Premier Mitchell Hepburn said.

At Ottawa, Henri St. Jacques, Oliva Dionne's legal representative said he believed the Ontario Government would agree to the parents' wishes and allow the Quints to leave the Province for the first time.

"I think the showing of the Quints at the Fair is a likely thing," he said. "But it will have to be done by a pact between New York State and the Ontario Government. The girls would be kept in a specified area of the fair grounds and not allowed to go beyond those bounds."

Dr. Dafoe declined to comment until a definite bid had been received from the World's Fair.

"The World's Fair is nibbling, but we have no direct proposition yet," declared Percy D. Wilson, official guardian for the Ontario Government and a guardian of the Quints.

Parents In Favor.

The Quints parents are both reported to be in favor of the idea, but Judge J. A. Valin of North Bay strongly opposed it.

"They won't go to New York with my consent," Judge Valin declared. "It's too risky. We shouldn't let them out of the country."

Norman Sommerville, president of the Canadian Red Cross said that the Red Cross—which was reported due to receive part of the Quints Fair pay— naturally welcomed al lfinancial assistance, but added "I wouldn't presume to offer an opinion on the reported proposition until it was laid before us, which hasn't happened yet."

If the appearance is made, it is believed it would take place between mid-May and mid-June. Otherwise it would effect the annual tourist rush to Callander, which usually does not become large until July. The Quints would then escape the mid-summer heat of New York.

Surrenders His Seals

LONDON, Jan. 10 — (CP). — Leslie Hore-Belisha, who resigned on Friday as Secretary of State for War, surrendered his Seals of office to the King in an audience at Buckingham Palace to-day.

Mr. Hore-Belisha drove up to the Palace in a closed blue car driven by a woman chauffeur in khaki. From the radiator of the car flew the blue and crimson flag of the Secretary of State for War.

Ontario Opening To Be Minus Usual Pomp

TORONTO, Jan. 10 — (CP). — No guns will boom this afternoon when Hon. Albert Matthews, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, arrives to open the fifth session of Ontario's 20th Legislature. His Honor will be escorted by a company of the Royal Canadjan Dragoons. The usual gun salute has been eliminated as a war-time economy measure.

The House may receive early from Premier Mitchell Hepburn's Government a measure to enable the province to enter into an agreement with the Federal Government, and indirectly with the United States, for the St. Lawrence River deepening project. A share of the cost will be borne by Ontario's Hydro-Electric power system should the project get underway.

The war will have a direct influence on the heavy legislative program expected to be outlined in the Speech from the Throne. Falling revenues from some sources are attributed to the war, chiefly the decline in liquor sales since the Federal Government imposed heavier excise taxes.

The province is expected to anticipate also heavier federal taxation on income. Such an increase would reduce the net available to Ontario for taxation and to meet the deficiency Ontario is likely to impose higher rates on what is left, or else lower the exemptions, now $2,000 for a married man without children and $1,000 for an unmarried man.

Porbably the greatest pre-session public interest has been in the government proposal to extend to two years the term of all elected municipal bodies in Ontario. General length of these terms is now one year and the doubling of the term is planned as a war-time ecenomy measure.

There have been ballot expressions of popular displeasure with the two-year proposal in some centres and the Liberal caucus will go into discussion of the question. It is possible, though not regarded as likely, that the two-year term may be made optional instead of mandatory.

Farm Home Burns In Madoc Township

TWEED, Jan. 10—(ENS). — Fire, believed to have started when sparks from a chimney started a blaze inside wooden partitions, completely destroyed the large frame dwelling of Delos Fox, farmer, residing at Remington, Madoc Township, on Monday afternoon.

Neighbors raced to the scene of the blaze and succeeded in retrieving most of the furniture of the ground floor, but dense smoke drove them back when they attempted to save that on the second floor.

Mrs. Fox was the sole occupant of the house when the fire started. The flames gained rapid headway as they swept through the partitions to the main part of the building and within a few minutes, the entire structure was a mass of flames and smoke.

Columbus Crew To Be Released

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — (AP). —Captain Fritz Wiedemann, German Consul-General at San Francisco, flew here to-day to discuss with embassy officials how to return military-age seamen of the scuttled liner Columbus to Germany.

Hans Thomsen, German Charge d'Affaires, summoned Wiedemann to talk over plans for housing the 400-odd officers and men in Los Angeles until passage over the Pacific could

Organization Drive Is Favored For Chamber Of Agriculture

Possibility that the Canadian Chamber of Agriculture may open a national office in Ottawa with a full-time secretary whose duty it would be to take groups of farmers, from any part of Canada, to see ministers in the government, was outlined here Tuesday. Hint that such an office may be opened was given to a cooperative short course at the Normal School by R. J. Scott, president of the Ontario Co-operative Company.

Mr. Scott also hinted that his own organization may contribute part of the cost of upkeep. "The Ontario Cooperative Company has a $60,000 surplus and I don't think anyone would chop our heads off for suggesting that one or two thousand dollars should be contributed to this cause," he said.

He believed that is such action were taken the government would be forced to see that the Chamber represented a strong body of opinion and that the farmer were becoming a solid gang. "The office would become known as the House of Agriculture," he forecast.

Members of the course, returning from group discussion later, agreed with his suggestion, and favored establishment of such an office. All favored the work of the Chamber of Agriculture and its spread throughout rural Canada. Some groups were agreed a tax should be levied in order to raise necessary funds, others that the funds should come by voluntary grant from various farm organizations.

Mr. Scot outlined the development of the Canadian Chamber of Agriculture and denied it "was run from the top down."

People Must Build Policy

"The Chamber of Agriculture never devised any policy from the top down," he declared. "It won't have any policy until the people themselves build one," he declared.

He warned farmers they must be a solid group in view of changing economic conditions, warned that farmers here are going to be "jarred" about changing British market requirements. "The policy has been laid down that the British farmer has the first right to the British market, the Empire farmer second, and the foreign farmer last," he declared.

Canadians have grown to believe they may raise as much produce as they are able and still find a market for it, he said. He warned they will need organization to offset defeat when they find such is not the case.

He plugged for a marketing act which he said would see establishment of "self-government in place of no government" in selling of farm produce. He disliked the term "compulsory marketing," said the act would only protect the rights of the majority.

"Compulsory marketing is one thing I don't want in this country," he said. "What I do want is government in the farmer's economic affairs. He warned that new federal legislation is essential, that recently passed marketing legislation is not effective.

Township Meetings

Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore told members that the Peterborough County Chamber of Agriculture, of which he is chairman, intends to hold meetings in many townships this winter, stressing the necessity of improving and increasing membership. "Agriculture is a profession, but the most poorly paid of all professions, despite the fact its training is as extensive and expensive as most," Mr. Gifford contended. He saw organization as the only answer to farmers' problems.

When his group reported to the meeting at the conclusion of a brief discussion, they were in favor of an extensive program of organization of all county farm groups into membership in the Chamber of Agriculture, and of embracing all farmers not now members of any group, directly into Chamber membership.

Surprise Marriage

The Paragon You Are Seeking As a Wife May Not Exist, But Here Are Some Of The Points It Would Be well To Investigate.

ONE of the curious chores that I am frequently asked to do is to pick out a wife for one of my readers. The man, who is evidently girl-shy, will write that he desires to marry, but he distrusts his judgment about women and feels that I know so much more about my sex than he does that he would like me to select a wife for him.

Now this is, of course, a difficult assignment because wives are purely a matter of taste, and the woman who is one man's Angel Face is another man's poison. That none of us ever know what it is that attracts a man and woman to each other is amply proved by the fact that at every wedding the guests are whispering behind their hands: "WHAT did she ever see in HIM?" "WHY on earth do you suppose he ever picked HER out?"

So inasmuch as it is the man himself and not his mother, nor his sisters, nor his cousins, nor his aunts, nor his friends who will have to live with the woman he marries, he has the right of choice, and if he gets what he likes she is all right for him, no matter what other people think about her. But while I decline to be a matchmaker and select a wife for any man, if I were a youth contemplating matrimony there are a few things that I would consider long and prayerfully before I popped the question to any girl.

I should pick out a girl of my own class, one who had about the same background that I had, financially, socially and religiously. The old Cinderella motif is fine in song and story, but it doesn't work out successfully in real life. When a poor boy marries a very rich girl, he becomes nothing but her pet poodle. If he marries a very poor girl, he becomes a slave to her family.

If he is a highbrow and she is a lowbrow they bore each other to tears. If they belong to different religions they quarrel over the Church, and goodness knows there are enough things in marriage to fight about without engaging in a Holy War.

I'd take a good, long, lingering look at the parents and the home of the girl who had caught my fancy, because that would give me a preview of the kind of wife and housekeeper that the girl would be practically sure to make. If Mamie's mother was a slovenly housekeeper and a poor cook; if nothing was ever done on time and there were signs of thriftlessness all about; if Mamie's mother henpecked her husband so he dared not call his soul his own, I'd pass on and leave Mamie for some sap who couldn't read the signs. And I would never, never, never marry a doting mother's only daughter, for the worst wife on earth is a spoiled brat.

I would like the girl I married to be easy on the eyes, but I would be much more concerned about her being easy to live with. I'd shop around until I found a girl who was a good sport and who could take the ups and downs of life on the chin and come up smiling. I would want a wife who would be cheerful and humorous and who could laugh things off instead of making tragedies out of them. None of your whining, complaining, peevish Janes for me.

I would pick out a girl who was congenial and who really liked to do the things I do. For the only happy and successful marriages are those in which the husband and wife do teamwork. I would like to think that I would spend the balance of my life with a wife who had the same interests that I have; who would work with me and play with me and to whom I could talk about my hopes and plans, and what I was reading and thinking, and who would make everything that happened just a little bit better or a little less hard because she shared it with me.

I would pick out a wife who had common sense and who didn't make mountains out of molehills. And I would want one who was domestic-minded, and who thought that being a good wife and mother and making a comfortable home was a better career than running a shoppe or being atmosphere in the movies.

And if I could find a girl with all of these qualities, she could lead me to the altar whenever she chose. But maybe such a paragon wouldn't want me.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — Two years ago I was left a widow, destitute and with three children, two girls 15 and 13 and a boy of 10. Early this year I met a man who is sixteen years my junior who wants to marry me. He is my equal if not my senior in maturity. We are very congenial and we love each other and I think could be happy together. Do you think I would be a fool to marry him?—E. A. G.

ANSWER:

I certainly think you would be taking a long shot at happiness in marrying a man so much your junior because not once in a hundred times does such a marriage turn out happily. Nature is against it. In time the man gets over the mother complex that made him marry a woman so much older than himself and he begins to cast eyes at young girls. He wants to play around with them instead of being tied to his elderly wife's apron strings.

On her part the woman who is much older than her husband is filled with jealousy of younger women and always suspects her husband of being tired of her, whether he is or not. Furthermore, she takes on herself the heartbreaking and impossible job of keeping young and slim and gay and vivacious to keep up with a young husband when all she desires is to let out her corset strings and slump into the comforts of middle age. Your problem is further complicated by having nearly grown children. Your older daughter would be a more suitable wife for the young man than you are. Don't try such a hazardous experiment.

TO SERVICE
on the Economic Front

"Materials and money count for so much in this war that a resolute, loyal and enthusiastic economic front line may be the determining factor."
MINISTER OF FINANCE

To your restless question "When can I help win this war?"—the answer is NOW. On Monday next, the Government of the Dominion of Canada will offer the First War Loan. The purpose of this Loan is to provide money to carry on the war, not only on the battlefields, but all along the Economic Front.

Let us explain what the Economic Front means. It means a war in which the entire natural, industrial and financial resources of the country are used to defeat the enemy. It means a "total war" in which every citizen takes a part, in which his personal resources must support those of the Nation.

In such a war, one of the chief weapons is money. Where is this money to come from? There is only one answer. It must come — and come voluntarily — from the savings of our people. The difference between us and the Germans is that we, of our own free will, lend our money — it is not ruthlessly taken away.

This is your opportunity to do your part in this struggle against Hitlerism. The eyes of the world are upon you, upon Canada, one of the strongest members of the British Commonwealth. Canadians must show that their strength, their courage and their resources are all in this fight against "brute force, bad faith, injustice, aggression and persecution."

The news of the success of this Loan must go ringing round the world.

Be ready to buy War Loan Bonds. They will have the proven safety and salability of Dominion of Canada obligations. Any Investment Dealer, Stock Broker or Chartered Bank will take your subscription. The quicker the economic war is won, the greater will be the saving of human lives . . . the swifter the collapse of the enemy.

The Speech Of a Gentleman

Prime Minister Chamberlain delivered his first public utterance of the year and it was of necessity a war message. But he did not speak as one who was angry; he made no threats and he breathed forth no hatred.

He did say German shipping had been swept from the seas—

That the Allies were not bent in wiping out the Germans, as suggested in recent German propaganda—

That the Allies would never shoot the people of conquered lands, or seek to root them from their homes—

That aid to Finland would not be a mere formality, but would be extended to the limit.

Mr. Chamberlain had no sense of false security because the war on land had not yet broken in the violence of terrific assault. He regarded inactivity merely as the calm before the storm, and people of the Empire could look ahead knowing they were going to witness darker days than those through which they have passed.

Restrictions which the Government is planning in the way of food and supplies must be regarded as the sacrifices of war, and on that basis there is going to be ready compliance. There is something stern in that which people in Canada might as well recognize right now—if the war is not won then nothing else matters.

Mr. Chamberlain could see no difference between the aims of Hitler and the scheme of Stalin. They are bound together in a desperately wicked alliance. Stalin was inactive before the hook-up with Germany, and it was that union which suggested that Finland should be invaded and quickly conquered in the same way as Poland. The cause of freedom is at stake and it makes little difference whether it is in Poland or Finland, on the open sea or on the Western front.

The entire address of the British leader was an admirable presentation. He spoke as a gentleman and not as a ranter; he was able to project his vision far enough down a rough road to see something better ahead, and he was brave enough to state there was a stiff price to be paid in life and treasure for attaining that better road.

Off To a Poor Start

Sir John Reith is now in charge of the British Ministry of Information. While he was head of the British Broadcasting Corporation he built up the reputation of never having anything to do with newspaper people.

In his new office Sir John is the same. A party of writers assigned to the task of keeping in touch with the Ministry of Information were turned out of his office by Viscount Hood, acting as his secretary.

The Examiner has a feeling that the men whom Sir John Reith refused to see would know much more about the information business than Sir John himself or than the titled secretary who ushered them from the premises. Men who would be sent out on such an assignment would be thorough-going newspaper writers; they would be well trained people with a good many years of experience to their credit. They would be the kind who would never betray confidence and they would have a knowledge of what should be printed and what should not be disclosed. Long training and day-to-day experience would provide that knowledge and we know of no better way to secure it.

When cables from London announce that Sir John Reith, Minister of Information, has no inclination to see newspaper men it is difficult to down the impression that the gentleman has much to learn. In Canada our Information Department is now in the hands of a man who understands publicity.

Knew All About It

During war years we hear much about information being secured and forwarded to enemy countries. There was an item published in U.S. papers following the arrival of the first Canadian contingent in England to the effect that news of their departure had been forwarded to Germany within half an hour of the time they left. We have reason to doubt that report. But always is there that impression created that the Germans have a remarkable way of finding out and knowing what is taking place.

So it is well to consider this one for a moment: The captain of a British vessel stopped an Italian ship near Gibraltar. Upon sending a boarding party the information was given that no one spoke English. That caused a delay of six hours because it was necessary to send to port and secure an interpreter.

When the interpreter arrived the work was easy. The captain inquired if there were 1,250 sacks of mail from United States going to Germany. It was admitted that the number was correct.

The next query became more specific. "We would like to have sack No. 350 because it contains a large parcel of diamonds addressed to a German destination." That sack was produced and it was found to contain the expected parcel, which was duly confiscated as contraband of war.

Within recent times the British sea patrol has not been bothering much with vessels of Italian registration, because such vessels have been carrying little contraband to Germany. They are busy elsewhere and Italy is doing the greatest sea trade of any neutral country.

But the British skipper knew there were diamonds on that boat; he knew how many sacks of mail were being carried, and he knew the number of the sack which contained the parcel he wanted. As things go we would be inclined to give the British Intelligence Service a 100 per cent. rating on that one.

A Farmer Went To Town

Statistics show the number of people in our rural districts is decreasing. In many of the rural schools there has been a falling off in attendance to the point where schools have been closed. Then we have speakers and writers who declare farmers should stay on the land, and the young farmers should do the same thing. The tendency to leave for city and town should be voluntarily controlled.

But some of these farmers seem to do well enough when they go to town. We noticed a picture of Harry A. Urquhart in the London Free Press; he had been presented with a silver cup because the insurance office over which he presides had shown the highest rating among the largest branch offices of the Dominion.

And Harry Urquhart used to run a dairy farm just a few miles east of London. He had a good property there, rather a choice spot with a stream running through it, and he was rated as a good farmer. Possibly he would be included in the list of people of whom we say "You stay right where you are." Just why this good farmer up and quit and settled in London we do not know. But he did. What's more he entered a field which is admittedly crowded—selling insurance—and now he's a branch manager and recipient of one of those "well done" trophies. So when people in the city start offering advice to the farmers as to what they should do we'll be inclined to think for a moment of Harry Urquhart before passing judgment.

Interfering With Police

A minister in a church on the outskirts of Toronto had something to say about gambling houses when he was preaching on Sunday. The Attorney-General said it was the business of the municipal police to look after such matters, and if they needed help from the Provincial Police they could have it for the asking.

Mayor Jackson of New Toronto says it is not as simple as that. Many of these clubs have been given licenses by the province, and for that reason the Mayor believes the Province should attend to the business of looking after them. But things are not so regulated. The Province decided, for example, that Highways 28 and No. 7 should run through Peterborough on city streets, for which the city pays initial construction costs and subsequent repairs, while the Province takes the revenue which these roads produce.

But Mayor Jackson submits a poser. These club premises are supposed to run on the open-door policy so the police can go in any time and take a look. Actually many of them cannot be entered without a search warrant, and presenting a search warrant would be one sure way of notifying all within the premises to behave and conceal all evidence of gambling.

Mayor Jackson dug deeper and told of one door he had seen which was made of bolts and steel plates, and there was only one reason for having such a door—so the police in case of a raid would have plenty of difficulty in breaking through.

The average man never finds it necessary to have such a door on his premises, and when a club house becomes so equipped it is a signal which the provincial authorities should notice at once before any license for such a place is granted. It is plain indication that a raid by the police is feared and steps are being taken to interfere with the police in the discharge of duty, a move which has landed many others in jail.

As It Was On The Tenth

An Examiner reader has some time on his hands during the winter, so he wrote to this paper about a horse. This way: "I notice now and then articles in your paper about how things were done on the Tenth Concession a good many years ago. I admit most times it seems just like it would have been on any other farm some years ago. But just now with some time on my hands I have a question. You tell of horses with heaves and how grandfather used to try and fix them up but you never told as far as I recollect just what he did and what he gave them. Now tell me what the stuff was and I hope you're not stuck."

Let us get this straight at the outset. The Examiner is not running a sick animal column, and it is not giving advice about what to do with horses with the heaves, greasy legs, spavins or any other such thing.

But to return to the horse which now and then might have had a touch of heaves on the Tenth. Grandfather never said so openly, but every person around the premises knew quite well that when he saw the heaves developing (which is pretty much like humans having the asthma) he was going to get rid of that animal, and you could come pretty close to putting your finger on the calendar and saying that right in there some place there will be a spell of horse trading going on. Either the heave horse would be taking a walk down the road with grandfather at the other end of the halter strap or else some other horse would be coming in the gate at Lot Four.

Meantime grandfather went to work. He'd have that horse put in a stall where he was sure there wouldn't be dust sifting down from the floor above. He never did go much on things which came in bottles and he laid no stock in bulletins. For the heaves he used to take a couple of handfuls of lime and put it in a pail of water. The kind of lime which this scientific age refers to as dehydrated, although they never used that word on the Tenth. Then that lime would be well stirred and when it settled the top would be poured off and it would be just a good clear liquid. He'd keep that set apart and when it came feeding time he'd damp the hay with it for that heaves horse. He put more stock in that than anything else. Perhaps our reader in the country knows something better but if he doesn't he might try it and then trade off his horse. Grandfather was certain heaves couldn't be cured, but he did believe the horse could be rested and brought along to the point where he could make what used to be called a good lime-water trade.

R. A. F. school at St. Thomas is to use about 7,200 pounds of butter per month. Probably it will be made from cream they get from some of those Airshire cows.

Charles M. Schwab, once enormously wealthy captain of the steel industry, is reported to have died a poor man. What of it? The Psalmist was right enough when he said, "For when he dieth he shall carry nothing away."

Brantford man went to visit in Toronto for a week and when he returned all the furniture had been removed from his home. The moral seems to be he should select a better place to do his visiting.

United States sugar refiners have reduced prices 1-10th of a cent per pound, and we were wondering what portion of that would trickle through to benefit the customer who drops in at the store for a quarter's worth.

Dr. H. E. Bubin of New York told Toronto people that not one person in 10,000,000 absorbs sufficient vitamins. We wish such people would keep these alarming facts to themselves. We have enough to worry about now without taking over another 9,999,999 unfortunates.

¶ John Henry hires a lot of men, and fusses like a setting hen, he's bound they will not shirk; he rises early in the day, and he is quickly on his way, to see if they're at work.

¶ There's plenty there for them to do, so much they couldn't get it through, they'd go right straight ahead; John Henry's sure though they would stall, or else they would not work at all, if he stayed in his bed.

¶ Of work John Henry finds some more, the output's greater than before, John Henry knows he's right; he trusts no person but himself, regardless of his hours or health, he sticks there half the night.

¶ He's sure that he has got to drive, to keep his business things alive, he's sure he's up to date; in early morn he sees men come, some aged folk most on the run, for fear they will be late.

¶ John Henry busted up last year, he started acting rather queer, felt worried in the head; six doctors gathered in a square, decided what was ailing there, and parked him in his bed.

¶ John Henry's quite a care they say, the sawbones see him every day, he can't get out no more; nor is his business bent and slow, because reports are there to show—it's better than before.

Hore-Belisha Sits At Home; Says Nothing

THE SHAKE-UP of the British cabinet has started writers going. They are reviewing the lives and efforts of those most concerned.

Of all the men who have served in the Chamberlain Government, none has shown a greater flair for the dramatic than Leslie Hore-Belisha. He knew how to keep his name on the nation's tongue. Because, with that trait, there was real ability and a capacity for hard work, he rose to become Secretary of war at the age of 42, at a time when Great Britain was straining to prepare for the conflict which was looming.

It was in the ordinarily obscure post of Minister of Transport that Mr. Hore-Belisha made his name a household word. Traffic fatalities had been steadily on the increase, but nothing much had been done about it. Announcement that "this mass murder must stop," the new Transport Minister laid down a program of safety construction and safety propaganda that monopolized British attention.

One of the items in this program was the introduction of the Belisha Beacon, a black and white iron pole, surmounted by an orange globe, placed at street intersections where pedestrians were supposed to have the right of way. The beacon was cursed, blessed, ridiculed and bumped, but it did a lot toward making motorists realize that a little care could produce a lot of safety.

When he became War Minister in 1937, Hore-Belisha was hailed as the broom that would sweep the cobwebs of the ages from the service. He instituted numerous reforms. To make service attractive to young men, he put radios in barracks, provided new and comfortable beds and changed the uniform to make it smarter in the eyes of the girls. In the High Command he completely revised the system of promotion for the purpose of insuring that the best brains should be at the top. Mere seniority he looked upon as inefficiency, and too costly a luxury for a country at war to indulge in.

These reforms made him enemies in high places, but they made him popular with the man in the street, who held similar opinions. It is a coincidence that one of the officers who benefited most by these promotional changes was Viscount Gort, now British Commander-in-chief in the field, and now also apparently an opponent of Hore-Belisha.

In the meantime, the former Minister of War rests in his country home, smokes his pipe (as Baldwin did) pats his dog and waits for the storm to clear up. The very fact that he has been so silent, so reserved, so uncommunitive about the affair, tends to strengthen his case before the large mass of the British people who are averse to loquaciousness in their public men.

OLIVER STANLEY, the man put in charge of the British army as War Secretary, is 43 years old. He is the son of the Earl of Derby, prematurely gray. In 1934 he was Minister of Transport. During the First World War he was awarded the Military Cross and the Croix de Guerre. He and his wife are personal friends of King George and Queen Elizabeth. He faces a huge task, if he is to remain as War Secretary for 1940, one that may well task the strength of body and mind of a giant. Behind him is a long family connection with affairs of state.

Next in order of surprise value, to the resignation of Hore-Belisha, was the resignation of Lord Macmillan from the post of head of the Ministry of Information. Lord Macmillan, during the past few months, has had what an actor would call "A poor press." As the head of the newly-created Ministry of Information he had to stand a flood of vociferous criticism over his handling of news of the war. He was charged with having given out inadequate information, with having issued conflicting reports of the same incidents, with having failed to supply such harmless information of the war as was actually needed by the British people. One of his "crimes" was that he had selected only 43 professional newspapermen and journalists, on his staff of 999 employees. His record was made worse by comparisons with Germany's propaganda. The United States, for instance, received a steady stream of war pictures, after the outbreak of war, but nothing from Britain.

Hugh Pattison Macmillan, who became a baron in 1930, was born in 1873 in Scotland. He graduated with an M.A. from Edinburgh University and took his Bachelor of Law from Glasgow University. In the last year of the First World War he was Assistant Director of Intelligence in the Ministry of Information.

His successor at the Ministry of Information is a huge Scot from Aberdeen, six feet, six inches tall, who was a major in the First World War and was in charge of munitions contracts for Great Britain in the United States from 1915 to 1918—Sir John Charles Walsham Reith. He was first general manager of the British Broadcasting Corporation in 1922, and even today bears the sobriquet—"the man who made the BBC."

Sir Andrew Rae Duncan, new president of the Board of Trade, is well known in Canada. He is a Scottish corporation lawyer, with a keen mind and plenty of courage, although tactful and politically shrewd. He headed the commission named to inquire into the coal industry in Nova Scotia in 1926. He is a director of the Bank of England and chairman of the executive committee of the British Iron and Steel Federation. The Board of Trade is the ideal place for Sir Andrew. He should make an efficient and effective guide for British trade and commerce.

VERY GOOD, SIR

• The East Argues With the West

IT'S A LONG TIME, remarks the Regina Leader-Post, since any western member of Parliament has got up and made a good fighting speech in support of the Hudson Bay route. It is moved to ask if everyone has capitulated to the eastern interests that have always opposed it. Whereupon the Winnipeg Free Press has assumed the role of comforter, and assures its further west contemporary that it is doubtful if permanent neglect of the route is really to be feared, and that there is little likelihood of any attempt to scuttle the Hudson Bay railway.

The Free Press, says Toronto Telegram, has always been curiously and incurably attached to the idea that the best thing to do with money is to sink it in railways—that is in western railways as distinct from purely eastern lines like the Intercolonial. Of the latter road is said on May 19th, 1900, "Every time a resident of Manitoba buys a suit of clothes, or an outfit of table linen, or smokes a pipe or cigar he is being taxed for the Intercolonial railway." But to western lines the Free Press has always been sympathetic. On March 31st, 1902, it said, "It is not necessary, surely, to prove the case for more railways in this province," and when Sir Wilfrid Laurier launched his transcontinental line from Quebec to the Pacific the Free Press waxed enthusiastic and exclaimed on July 3rd, 1903, "At last we are in a fair way of having the transportation question solved." In August of the same year it prophesied that, "The building of the Grand Trunk Pacific will cut freight rates in two between the East and the West."

With the developing of the transcontinental campaign the Free Press rolled up its sleeves and went to work. The utmost cost of the whole National Transcontinental, it explained on March 8th, 1904, would be $21,587,500, and this estimate, it was satisfied, was much too high. Within twenty years the traffic would be so vast that double-tracking of the road would be necessary. Yet at the end of twenty years the Free Press had to contend that, "The people of Canada invested $170,000,000 in this railway which has not been used, with the exception of a short period, for the purpose for which it was built by the people of Canada."

While the Free Press was still under the impression that the National Transcontinental would "always be worth what it costs" and that it would always remain "an asset to offset the debt created by its building," it turned its enthusiasm to committing the country to another orgy of spending in the building of the Hudson Bay railway. This latter route, it declared in 1907, was a necessity to the welfare of Western Canada, and in 1908 it declared, "Ten years hence we shall all wonder that we ever allowed ourselves to be depressed by the bugbear of the navigability of the Straits." The saving in the transportation of grain over this route would run into millions of dollars annually. A few weeks later its enthusiasm led it to predict that from Minnesota, North and South Dakotas and Montana would come the winding wheat trains going northward to find a short line to Fort Churchill, thence to send their cargoes by direct route to Liverpool.

By 1912 the Free Press was becoming impatient. On January 22nd it said, "The traffic is ready for the Hudson Bay road today. By the time the road is built there will be more business than it can handle on a single track. A double track road and a northern port humming with life during the brief summer season will, ten years hence, make the Eastern opponents of the scheme look cheap." Yet eighteen years later the revenue from the road was about $330,000. And twenty-six years later the revenue approximately $110,000.

But the Free Press still clings to its earlier dreams that the Hudson Bay route will make Manitoba a maritime province with all that that implies. It foresees the road providing a salt water holiday resort and bringing about a whole new orientation of the west—a highway to Europe with cities springing up along its length on the site of remote trading posts.

It is impossible that a cruel East should scuttle such beautiful dreams. If they are scuttled, it is by the cold, hard facts of Hudson Bay navigation, and nothing the East can do about it can force the West to use the road and develop the salt water holiday resorts to a greater extent than it has.

THE LIE ABSURD

A BLATANT example of the crookedness of Germany's propaganda methods was effectively shown up by the French wireless. The French "traitor" on the Stuttgart station had announced on the previous night that a French lieutenant, Robert Mellande, of Mont-de-Marsan, had been taken prisoner; and he was even permitted to say a few words on the wireless about the good treatment he was receiving in Germany.

The real Robert Mellande—there is only one man of that name at Mont-de-Marsan—testified in person on the French wireless that he was still happily in France.

An even sillier piece of German propaganda was contained in a tract dropped over France. It opened with "a statement made by Winston Churchill was alleged to say that "England would fight to the last Polish soldier, or, if Poland was destroyed, to the last French soldier." What the German writer of the tract overlooked was that on September 2 Mr. Churchill was not even a Cabinet Minister.—London Sunday Times.

CEMENT FLOOR SAFETY

IN THIS PART of the country, when a barn takes fire it burns to the foundations, as a rule. Loss of building and contents is complete, and that of farm stock is frequently heavy.

Evidently it is not inevitable that the ground-floor stable should be wiped out even when the structure burns. The Holstein-Friesian World in its December issue reports a fire in the $20,000 dairy barn of Robertson Farms, York, Pennsylvania, which burned to the ceiling of the ground floor and no farther, this being of concrete.

"Only the upper part of the structure was destroyed," states the account. "The cattle, housed on the ground floor, were protected by the fireproof concrete floor of the upper part. The conflagration was discovered at noon, and the herd of 70 head was milked that evening in their stanchions. The water pump and electric light were undamaged. The success with which the fireproof construction of the barn withstood the blaze drew much comment from local contractors. — Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

THE REDS STAMPEDE

According to an item in Newsweek, Russian army officers are having quite a time to keep order in the ranks. Business men who have recently visited Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania reveal that the men get unruly at times. A prize example occurred when a newly arrived detachment of Red troops, passing through the streets of Riga, spontaneously broke ranks before a cake shop whose windows were filled with delicacies. Ignoring the officers' commands, they pillaged the shop with cries of delight.—Kitchener Record.

There are 330 ports in the United Kingdom. This, of course, accounts for the vaunted morale of the royal navy, because it means that every sailor has a minimum of 330 girls rooting for him.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And Moses called unto all Israel, and said unto them, Ye have seen all that the Lord did before your eyes in the land of Egypt unto Pharaoh, and unto all his servants, and unto all his land; the great temptations which thine eyes have seen, the signs, and those great miracles; yet the Lord hath not given you an heart to perceive, and eyes to see, and ears to hear, unto this day....

The secret things belong unto the Lord our God: but those things which are revealed belong unto us and to our children for ever, that we may do all the words of this law.—Deut. xxix, 2-4, 29.

NEWS OF THE WAR

The British people are less in the dark (than Canadian people) about their Government's war effort. In fact, we know more, through our press, about that effort than about our own.

It is not suggested that our Government has not the situation well in hand, but after four months of war we surely should expect to know more of what is being done, or whether anything is being done, than we do know.—Calgary Albertan.

Excessive Drinking Was Cause Of Unhappiness In Homes For Children At Christmas Time

Excessive drinking caused unhappiness in some Peterborough homes at the Christmas season just past, causing situations which "for more than one child, took away the spirit of 'peace on earth, goodwill toward men," Miss Rachel Young, superintendent of the Peterborough branch of the Children's Aid Society declared in her December report submitted to the regular meeting of the branch on Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Young's report, which stressed the successful experiment that had been made in providing a weekly allowance for the children in the Shelter featured a meeting that was mainly routine in nature.

Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, president of the branch, was in the chair, and present were Mesdames J. S. Fanning, R. E. Cutting, W. J. Oke, J. J. Lynch, and Stanley Higgins of Lakefield, and Rev. Father P. J. Kelly, R. H. Parsons, Dr. R. F. Nott, Ald Walter Stocker, George Mullen, Smith, Gordon K. Fraser, Ald. James Dutton, H. L. Garner, and Ross L. Dobbin.

Unable to Promise.

Word was received from Charlotte Whitton, executive secretary of The Canadian Welfare Council, stating that she was unable to make a definite promise to attend the annual meeting of the Peterborough branch. The question of securing a speaker for that occasion was left to Ald. Dutton.

The report of the committee on merical care for wards, headed by E. B. Fowler, to the effect that the superintendent should be authorized to call Drs. Clark, Nott, or Fitzpatrick when medical attention was required for wards in the city or at the Shelter was adopted after it had been read by Miss Muriel M. Morrison.

Rev. Father Kelly submitted a report in the absence of Rev. Mr. Zufelt, in regard to certificates for life members, and it was decided on motion of Ald. Dutton, to order one hundred certificates suitable for framing and also a number of small life membership cards.

There was some discussion in regard to a suggestion left over from the previous meeting as to the appointment of an executive committee to deal with emergencies coming up between the dates of regular meetings, but the meeting agreed with Alderman Stocker that the responsibility of making decisions in such cases could be left to the judgment of the president and superintendent. A motion sponsored by Gordon K. Fraser, that no action should be taken, was passed.

A report on the annual Christmas tree at the Shelter was given by Mrs. J. S. Fanning and a motion of thanks to Mrs. Fanning and those who assisted her in making this annual event one of the most successful ever held at the Shelter was passed.

Shelter Report.

The report of the Shelter was given by Miss Morrison as follows: Number in Shelter December 1, 1939, 12; number admitted during December, 2; number gone out during the month, 2; number in Shelter January 1, 1940, 12; total number cared for during December, 14; doctor's examinations, 2; dental examinations, 3.

Mr. MacMillan has the skating rink in good shape and the children never grow tired of this heathful sport. The boys also busy themselves erecting snow houses.

The Y's Men's Association provided transportation to and from Zeller's store December 2 for the children to see the Santa Claus parade, which was thoroughly enjoyed by big and small alike.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Searles and their little musicians visited the Shelter on the eve of December 22, and entertained the children with a pleasing musical program, after which they presented each of our children with two gifts. Mrs. MacMillan served a cup of Ovaltine and cookies to the visitors.

On December 23, in the afternoon, the Peterborough Bus Lines provided transportation for the children to and from the Regent Theatre, where the children were guests of the Kiwanis Club at a movie. The Kiwanis also gave the children candy and a lovely gift each.

On the afternoon of December 26 the boys and girls were invited to the Centre Theatre to see the picture "David Copperfield."

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Cutting and Miss Barbara Cutting entertained the boys and girls in their home on December 28. The children, adorned in paper hats of various shapes and colors marched to music played by Mrs. Cutting to the dining room where dainty tables awaited them. After a delicious dinner the children retired to the drawing room where they took part in games and the singing of Christmas carols. Finally each child was presented with a gift from the beautiful Christmas tree. Each boy and girl also received a shiny quarter.

The Y.W.C.A. invited both our boys and girls to a party and Christmas tree, December 22, after 4. Gifts were distributed to each child.

The Y.M.C.A. invited our boys to attend a Christmas dinner on December 28, but owing to a previous engagement had to decline.

Fred LaRoche, a boy who attends auxiliary class at the Prince of Wales School, was chosen as one of the best boys in the city to attend the Kinsmen's Club dinner, but as our own Christmas Tree fell on the same night, Fred could not attend.

Entertained In Homes

Several homes entertained one or two children for dinner, a day or a week-end during the Christmas season. The following is a list of the home: Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McGee; Mr and. Mrs. W. Belleghem, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Garner, Mr. and Mrs Moore.

During the past month two ladies from a Junior League Y.W.C.A. group visit the Shelter every second Tuesday evening for a story hour.

We were delighted to have over sixty members of the board and friends interested at our Christmas tree December 21. The children really try to have a concert to please their guests and they certainly were rewarded. They also received many useful and lovely gifts from the Christmas tree which was a particularly nice one this year.

Christmas Day was a happy one at the Shelter. The children received many humorous, pleasing and useful things. In the afternoon, skating was the main event. After supper Mrs. MacMillan drove the children about the city so that they may enjoy the beautiful decorations.

Superintendent's Report

In her monthly report for December, Miss Young, superintendent, stated that there had been 158 visits, 87 office interviews, 158 telephone calls, and 195 letters sent out

"December, to many, is a month," the report continued, "filled with thoughts of Christmas, but to our society there is a definite realization of the unhappinesses which continue even at such a time as that. Some of the most serious situations were connected with excessive drinking,—situations which, for more than one child, took away the spirit of "Peace on earth, goodwill toward men."

Four families, two from the Township of Harvey and two from the Township of Belmont, were referred to our society and had not been previously known to us. It was possible to investigate only one of these situations during the month.

The society, through gifts sent to the office, was able to assure several families that Santa Claus would come to their children. The appreciation was very sincere and we feel that in several instances a better relationship with the family was established.

With our own wards, Christmas was a very happy affair. In all, 62 children were remembered—12 in the Shelter and 50 in private homes. Nothing meant more than the private homes which were opened up for the children on Christmas Day. Seven children were entertained in this way and besides the happiness brought to them for the day, it is an experience they will carry with them for many a month.

Another very interesting feature was the use made by our children at the Shelter of an allowance which is given them by your office staff. Some of us have been much concerned about the problem of teaching the children to give as well as to get. This is the first year which the children have had their weekly allowance—for most of the children it is 5 cents and, for a couple of the bigger ones, 10 cents. It has been worth any sacrifice it may have been to know that, of their own volition, these children wished to give gifts. They went to the stores by themselves, made their choice, wrapped the gift and put it on the Christmas tree. To me, it was a recognition on the part of the children of the services of the society and that, when they had the opportunity, they too would give. Some time ago a member of the Kiwanis Club became interested in this question of an allowance and we have now received $5.00 as a donation towards this part of our work. Each day we witness the tragedy of lack of knowledge in the spending of money, and it is to be recognized that this, like anything else comes from experience.

Three children have had tonsilestomys, one girl an operation to remove a growth in her nose, another an appendectomy, one boy broke a bone at the base of his finger, and a child in a foster home developed measles during this month.

Two Placed.

Two children were placed in foster homes and the child, about whom I spoke to you at the December meeting, has been placed in another foster home. Three children, residents of the city, were made permanent wards from temporary wardship, and three children, residents of the county, were made temporary wards.

Two new cases under the U.P.A. came to our attention.

In my October report I spoke of the time involved in court work. During December I was four hours in court, there were three court sessions, to which the children involved had to be taken and then returned to the Shelter. In the other court case during the month, the children had to be brought from out of the county, remain in the Shelter for the night and then be returned the following day.

A Complete Examination.

When a child is first placed in the Shelter he is given a complete physical examination and the doctor's recommendations carried out. He is taken to the dentist where the necessary dental work is done. It is then a problem of establishing good habits—habits of eating, sleeping, etc., and this takes both time and endless patience. It is difficult for anyone who has not actually been part of this situation to realize how great the need for this training is. It is not until this training is fairly well completed that the child is considered for placement. Few children need to be in the Shelter for more than six months, but lack of time to make necessary investigations of foster homes means that children must remain for longer periods. We must also realize that it is no small problem to help children from nine to ten families with varying backgrounds to live together. The work at the Shelter is a much greater task than merely providing a shelter, food and clothing. Some of the problems in foster homes will be discussed at our next meeting.

Feud Renewed

Toronto, Jan. 10 (CP)

THE OLD FEUD between Premier Mitchell Hepburn and W. E. N. Sinclair, one-time Ontario Liberal leader, has been freshened up a little as a result of Mr. Sinclair's charge last week that the province was "fettering" municipalities.

"I had kind of forgotten that man," the premier remarked today. "I don't like to speak disrespectfully of the politically dead but if ever municipalities have been relieved this government has done it by subsidies and assuming the cost of social services. For the first time in many years there has been a sharp decrease in municipal debt and a corresponding reduction in municipal taxation and whatever may be said against it is a fact that the two year term would save a half million dollars in election costs every two years."

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

Nope, like the six blind men of Turkestan—calling an elephant various names—the St. Kitts' scribe is partly in the right, but he's also wrong. Says he: "Right now, St. Kitts Saints are short but four players to be in a strictly contending class with anything in Ontario, or perhaps in Canada. Until such time as minors are developed into seniors here, this city is forced to import talent if it remains in senior. Cities like Kitchener, Stratford, Peterboro', Kingston and dozens of others, where artificial ice has been for years, are breeding grounds for talent that has gone from junior O.H.A. to the National League." Well, podner, we've never had a bit of artificial ice here, though this city sure develops minor puck talent.

* * * * * *

Lakefield will not ice a juvenile team in the O.J.H.A., and Cobourg won't have a squad ready for over a month—a loop winner down that way taking a bye into playdowns. Which leaves two local outfits, St. Peter's and the Grads, alone in their O.J.H.A. grouping. They're trying now to induce Norwood (which also had a bye) to join their group so that a regular schedule can be drawn up. Faith, and it's a world full of trouble it seems, now doesn't it?

It's An Air Attack

Trenton Fliers zoom into town this Friday e'en to engage the Petes in O.H.A. intermediate "A" battle. At 8.30 in the Brock—and you'd better get your ducats early. The Airmen have always been popular with fans here since they joined the local hockey setup three years ago. They have enough color to daub all the driving sleds in Monaghan, and they play fast, exciting hockey. And now with a war on—and these birdmen readying up for the country's first line of defence—the R.C.A.F.-ers will attract more attention than ever. Smart as the Fliers have been, the speedy Petes have nosed 'em out in group playoffs the last two seasons, and the Buckland band thinks it can do so again this semester. We'll know more about that after the first Fliers-Petes' clash here night after tomorrow.

Air Force squad this year is coached by Toots Holway of Bella Villa, a former pro. They have Gibson in goal, and McNab, Legris and Baldwin up front of last year's squadron. And they've added Mush Higgins of London senior fame, an ex-pro in Dunning, Stew Irwin of Ottawa Senators, Toots Day of Wembley Lions in England, Gathercoll and Lemieux of Edmonton, and a few more. They'll likely be tougher than the Maginot Line, but they'll need to be. It ought to be a rousing scrap before a packed arena.

Went Down Fighting

Lakefield intermediates made it a fine battle at home last gloaming before bowing to the Oakwood outfit by a 7-5 count. In an O.H.A. intermediate "B" melee. A fast, tight tilt with plenty of roughing and a good number of penalties. Stew Williamson—formerly of the Petes—is with Oakwood, while the Lakefield lineup has several locals aboard, too. Like Cournyea, Mortimer, O'Leary (Mike, not Ike), McDougall and Jerry Creighton. We thought Shrimp was gonna call it a day and stick to refereeing, but it seems the call of hockey is strong. The victors finished a bit stronger to grab the nod, but they had to fight for it every inch of the way—and those Lakefield battlers will win a few contests yet before the season has advanced too far, we believe.

* * * * * *

Local Colts coasted into the upper berth of their O.H.A. junior "B" setup last eve here with a 7-2 smirk o'er Lindsay Midgets. A slim crowd saw a lot of shinny most of the route with the bigger and more experienced Colts having too much foot and outspeeding the Scugogers all the way. Local lads persist in trying to get themselves penalized with rough tactics, and again we'll yodel a warning: Some of these penalties are gonna be expensive yet when the chips are down. Not a great deal of good hockey shown, possibly because the Lindsayites lacked system and helped throw the young Petes into the same brand of play—not a great deal unlike the canal brand. It looks like Oshawa and the Colts battling it out atop the group for "B" honors, with Lindsay or Cobourg the "C" choice.

As Wade Waded In

Julian Wade was the best puckist on the frozen water along the Rue Brock last gloaming. He was in on five of the seven winning counters and really galloped all over the puck orchard. Sid Craig, Bob Parnell, Dutch Pammett and others looked good in spots, but some odd passing was seen at times. Just bang the bootheel down the ice and tear like mad after it—that seemed to be the mode at this unfashionable show. However, they're juniors and it takes a few weeks ere they start to click in real systematic manner. Owens, Ellis and Sharpe were probably the pick of the losers. The Colts are idle the rest of the week.

Lock Co. is lining up its squad for competition in the Omemee District Puck Loop—which has Omemee Hawks and Lindsay Battery also in—but the coach or manager haven't been named yet and players chosen aren't definite. They're mostly employees and will wear classy new uniforms with St. Mike's colors and their own name borne on many a brawny chest. Among the puckists considered now are: R. Burke, A. White, C. Cockerel, J. Willshaw, E. Prete, R. DeCarlo, J. Rochetta, A. Watkins, I. Basciano, S. Burke, F. McCormack, L. Giardino, H. Coombes and others. The Lockmen (who haven't picked a nickname yet) open Jan. 17 'gainst the Black Hawks in Omemee, where their home games will be played. Winnah enters O.H.A. intermediate "B" playdowns. The Lock Co. lads are drilling now and may have an exhibition fray Monday.

In 1937, Vines, then regarded as the best pro in the world, was beaten by England's Fred Perry in the latter's pro inaugural.

Chicago Fans Unhappy As Canadiens Stop Losing

Chicago was the scene of this ice battle, but the fans didn't have the satisfaction of seeing their favorites win. Instead, the lowly Black Hawks were defeated by the even more lowly Canadiens, by a 2-1 count, the Montrealers thereby bringing to an end a losing streak that had reached nine straight. George Mantha got both the winners' goals, but in this shot it was the losers who were pressing, keeping Claude Bourque on the qui vive in Canadiens' goal. A teammate clears while Doug Bentley, the Black Hawk at the right, tries to get at the puck. Extreme right is Doug Young, of Canadiens, while behind the puck-clearer are Joe Cooper (Hawks), and behind him, Cy Wentworth (Canadiens).

Twenty Big Tennis Games Loom For 1940 In The U.S.

By HOLCOMBE WARD
(President United States Lawn Tennis Association.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Though there is little likelihood of any international tennis competition in the coming year, 1940 does offer opportunities for an even more extensive campaign by the U.S.L.T.A. aimed at development of the game throughout the United States.

Despite the loss of the Davis Cup through the well-deserved victory of the powerful and aggressive Australian challengers, tennis in the United States in 1939 presented a most encouraging picture. Our championship record shows that every important titular event, with the exception of the men's doubles championship, was won by United States players.

Victory Abroad

In addition, our players swept to victory in all five championships at Wimbledon; captured three out of five of the French championships, a majority of the Canadian championships, and in addition scored our ninth consecutive victory in the Women's International Wightman Cup matches.

By concentrating even more on the game at home in 1940, our Association will seek to bring about more participation in tennis, better study and ground work in the fundamentals of stroke and play, stricter adherence to an observation of the amateur regulations which safeguard the game, and a higher appreciation and observation of the sportsmanship which has, throughout the game's history, made tennis and sportsmanship synonymous.

On every side there is evidence of the constant growth of interest in tennis. The U.S.L.T.A. club membership is at an all-time peak. Reports from schools, college and public parks demonstrate the ever-increasing popularity of the game and number of players participating.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

It was a "twin-bill" feature last night, and all the boys on the seven o'clock draw, except one rink, finished well within the time limit of two hours.

It was quite noticeable that the curlers moved more lively than usual. This ringing the bell at 8.55 p.m. keeps the boys on the move—none want to be caught napping.

The first two extra ends of the season were handed in last evening, Walter Oke nosing out Ross Downey by 7-6 in a real hard-fought game, and Geo. Sorenson forcing Howard Clegg to go into overtime before he would say uncle.

Last year's group leaders all fell by the wayside, although they fought it out to the last end.

Our club is represented at the Oshawa 'spiel to-day with two rinks, skipped by W. Oke and N. Hamley —and two more, skipper by B. Scott and R. Best are over at Lindsay.

Word has been received by the secretary of the club that the preliminary round for the Ontario Tankard will be played in Lindsay next Monday morning.

Queensland Wins By Two Wickets

BRISBANE, Jan. 10 (CP Cable) —Queensland sprang a surprise in Australian cricket by a two-wickets victory over South Australia in a Sheffield Shield competition match concluded here today. The Queenslanders recovered to compile a second-innings total of 360 runs for eight wickets after going down for 133 runs at the first attempt. South Australia made totals of 230 and 262.

J. Stackpoole, fast bowler appearing for the first time in shield cricket, dismissed Don Bradman with his first ball in the Aussie's skipper's opening innings and finished the game with an analysis of nine wickets for 108 runs.

Bradman, in his second turn at the wickets, bagged 97 runs but honors for the match went to W. A. Brown, Queensland's veteran first-wicket batsman who hit up 111 today and paved the way for his state's victory.

Clarence Grimmett, famous international googly bowler, took seven wickets during the match for South Australia and has now captured a total of 502 wickets in Sheffield Shield cricket.

Perennial Pinch-Hitter In Again

TINY THOMPSON

ALFIE MOORE

Second change in goalies of the current National League season took place in the line-up of Detroit Red Wings, but, unlike the first one, that saw Chicago's Mike Karakas demoted, this was caused by injury. Tiny Thompson, in his second year of puck-stopping for the fluttering Wings, after a decade with Boston Bruins, suffered a strained back and is off for a few days' rest, his replacement being that perennial N.H.L. pinch-hitter, Alfie Moore, who holds down a minor league goal-tending job when he isn't being called upon in a major league emergency.

Conn Tackling His First Heavyweight

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 — (AP) — Watching Billy Conn, the Pittsburg sock maker, in his Madison Square Garden fight tonight will be something like seeing Hamlet in a tuxedo.

The melancholy Dane could be just as unhappy in evening clothes as in a toga, and similarly, Conn is still Conn—even though this time he's a heavyweight.

Having climbed the light-heavyweight ladder until there were no more rungs left, the Pittsburg powerhouse decided to become a heavyweight. Not because he liked to fight bigger guys, but because there's more money in that division.

So Billy, who is the light-heavyweight king, signed, as a heavyweight to meet Steve Dudas, a veteran trial horse but that worthy caught an attack of la grippe and so Billy must try out his heavier artillery on Henry Cooper of Brooklyn, a husky 190-pounder who possesses a very good straight left hand punch.

2 Touchy Issues Face NHL Chiefs

NEW YORK, Jan. 10— (CP) — A pair of troublesome issues face the Board of Governors of the National Hockey League today when they meet for the second time this season in New York.

Two severe arguments, one over Ernie Savard's set-to with Referee King Clancy and the other a charge by Art Ross, manager of Boston Bruins against Toronto's Conny Smythe, are expected to be thrashed out when the Governor's assemble.

Savard, Montreal Canadiens president, is accused of mauling Referee Clancy in a game at Montreal Dec. 28. While Ross has demanded the Governors place a fine of $1,000 on Smythe for issuing statements which he says are detrimental to the Boston Hockey attendance.

The Savard issue is considered pretty important because it may bring about new legislation governing attacks on referees arising out of disagreeable decisions.

Ross bases his claim to the fining of Smythe on a league rule that establishes an automatic fine of $1,000 for statements harmful to hockey attendance. Ross said that Smythe's advertisement in a Boston newspaper carried statements telling the public to come and see Toronto Maple Leafs play fast hockey. Smythe claims the ad packed in the crowds.

Western Grid Squads To Play In 1940

WINNIPEG, Jan. 10 — (CP). — Indication the four Western Interprovincial Football Union teams will operate again next season despite the war was given last night at the Winnipeg Rugby Club annual meeting by Wallace Brown, president of Bombers who won the Dominion championship by defeating Ottawa Rough Riders 8-7 on December 9.

"There is no question but that our club will continue to function, and we are assured unofficially that the other three members of the Western conference also intend to carry on thir activities," he said in his president's report.

Reporting on the Dominion final, Brown said: "No athletic event in Canada has ever created greater interest in all parts of the Dominion, and this season's contest has effectively put a stop to any agitation for the elimination of these East-West finals."

Dykes Promises Limit Of 4 Ousters In '40

CHICAGO, Jan. 10 — (AP) — James J. Dykes, the bad boy among American League managers, has promised to be good.

That may not be big news to the public generally, but is its no less than that to the umpires harassed by the roly-poly White Sox pilot in seasons past.

Suspended, fined and banished many times last season for backtalk to the men in blue, Dykes made a public confession last night at the annual dinner of the Chicago chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

"Yes, I've turned over a new leaf," said Dykes. "The umpires are nice fellows. I like them very much in the winter—I've even made a few wagers with the baseball writers writers that I won't get tossed out more than four times all year."

Ross said that Smythe's advertisement in a Boston newspaper carried statements telling the public to come and see Toronto Maple Leafs play fast hockey. Smythe claims the ad packed in the crowds.

COLTS COP FIRST PLACE IN GROUP WITH WIN OVER LINDSAY

Local Juniors Defeat Midgets By A 7 to 2 Decision In Fair Hockey Tussle Here

The local Colts climbed to the top of their O.H.A. junior "B" grouping here last night when they handed the previously undefeated Lindsay Midgets a 7-2 setback before a small crowd of fans. It was only a fair game of hockey, too much shinny being shown by both sides, with the homesters having an edge throughout.

Play was fast but rather ragged most of the route, with the Colts in front 3-0 in the first period and 4-1 going into the third. They had more speed than their rivals and a bit more polish in scoring position to earn the victory. Play was fairly clean, with the locals drawing 10 of the 17 penalties handed out.

Julian Wade sparked the young Petes' attack with some brilliant hockey, being in on five of the seven goals. Craig, Parnell and Pammett also turned in a good effort, with the rest of the gang close behind. The goalie was busy in spots—due to penalties—and kicked out a flock, while his defence checked well. The forwards worked hard both ways, looking good back-checking most of the time but appeared disorganized often on the attack. Owens stood out for the Midgets, with Ellis and Sharpe also showing up to good advantage, but the Lindsay lads also played disorganized hockey most of the tussle.

Colts Counter

Early in the first, Strickland went off for tripping and the Lindsayites pressed but in vain. He just got back when Parnell drew the gate for trippping and again the Midgets tried hard but did not get a shot on the net. With all back, the Colts looked a bit better and, when Elliott was chased for roughing, they tore in hard but lacked finish on their power play. Elliott returned and Wade scored in close after a lot of shinny by both sides. Bolderstone was waved off for tripping and the Colts got two quick ones, Wade tallying on Vitarelli's pass and Craig scoring alone. Vitarelli was gated for tripping and the visitors were ganging up near the finish but unable to counter.

Parnell got the finger in the middle heat for tripping and Lindsay ganged up, finally scoring when Ellis took Owens' pass in close. With all back, the Colts took the offensive and play was better on both sides, fast and systematic. Foster and McDonald roughed it up and were sent away, with Strickland following for tripping. A Craig-Parnell rush came awfully close but neither side could do a thing till all were back. Parnell was thefted by Nicholls as the Petes poured a lot of rubber his way, the locals' first line looking best. A Vitarelli-Craig drive was close again as play kept in the Lindsay zone for two minutes straight. Near the end, Pammett raced in to bat home Wade's rebound to make it 4-1.

Still Have Edge

Vitarelli and Elliott drew penalties in the third for roughing it, and Foster scored on Wade's assist. Foster and Warrian went off next for mixing a bit and again the Colts counted, Wade taking Parnell's pass in close to rocket the rubber into the twine. Strickland hurt his leg when he banged into a goal-post and had to leave the game. Parnell was hoisted over the boards for boarding and Lindsay pressed till Logan got the air for boarding. With all back, the Colts kept on the attack but were somewhat disorganized. Wade got the nod for tripping, but the Colts promptly scored, Mason rapping in Pammett's pass at Nicholls' doorstep. Owens got it back a minute later with a blazing angle drive that Cournyea partly blocked. Ellis made a nice sortie and then he was chased for slashing just before the gong.

The teams:

Lindsay: Goal, Nicholls; defence, Elliott and Sharpe; centre, Owens; wings, Ellis and Armstrong; subs, Warrian, Logan, Christie, McDonald, Bolderstone and Brandon.

Colts: Goal, Cournyea; defence, Strickland and Mason; centre, Rochetta; wings, Vitarelli and Craig; subs, Wade, Foster, Pammett, McDonald, Parnell and DeCarlo.

Referee—Lou Lebarr of Peterborough.

N.H.L. STARS

By The Canadian Press

Bill Thoms and Paul Goodman, Chicago—Former got a goal and an assist and the latter turned in his second shutout in six N.H.L. appearances as Black Hawks defeated Canadiens 2-0.

Pete Langelle, Toronto, scored one goal and helped in another as Maple Leafs defeated Americans 3-2.

Murray Armstrong, Americans, continued to pace American's scorers with his ninth goal of the season.

Frankie Brimsek, Boston, missed his third shutout of the season by seconds as Ebbie Goodfellow of Detroit scored in the last minute of play, Bruins won 3-1.

Prairie Juniors Rating High; Leafs In Lead

WINNIPEG, Jan. 10 — (CP) — The calibre of junior hockey in Western Canada is rated high again this season but so far no one team has gained prominence as a probable championship aggregation.

Only three of the Western Leagues—The Manitoba North and South Divisions and the Edmonton Loop—have seen much action. In the other districts, the Lakehead, Southern Saskatchewan and British Columbia, competition has barely started.

The Maple Leaf athletic club has proved the big surprise of the Edmonton League. Maple Leafs, who raise their own players through midget and juvenile ranks, have more than held their own with the habitually strong Edmonton athletic club, last year's Western Junior champions. After seven games for each, the Leafs are leading E. A. C.'s by two points.

Tight struggles are going on in both Manitoba loops.

Winnipeg Monarchs top the south division with a one-point advantage over Brandon Elks, runners-up to the E. A. C.'s last year, and Kenora Thistles. All have played eight games.

Elmwoods Head Pack.

Winnipeg Elmwoods have won three of four games to gain a two-point lead over the other three entries in the north division. St. Boniface and St. James have played five games and Canadian Ukrainian athletic club four.

Of the three games played in the Saskatchewan junior league, Moose Jaw Canucks, the provincial champions, Regina Abbotts and Notre Dame Hounds of Wilcox have each won one. Notre Dame, who play their home games at Weyburn, have lost twice and Regina once.

Although without league competition, Saskatchewan Dodgers have proved themselves a team to be reckoned with by their showings in a pair of exhibition games with E. A. C.'s and Regina. They won both.

Fort William Columbus club are standouts at the Lakehead, with three victories and no losses so far against Port Arthur and West Ends.

Four teams intend to enter the British Columbia play-offs. No league has been formed and their contests have been mere exhibitions. The teams are located at Trail, whose Tigers were provincial champions last year, Kimberley, Cranbrook and Nelson.

Leafs Rally Twice To Beat Amerks; Bruins Down Wings Easily; Luckless Canadiens Blanked 2-0

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

The fellow trying to evade the process server hasn't a thing on New York Rangers. The Manhattan Blues are just about ready to seek legal advice on how to skip away from Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs.

All three clubs are grouped at the top of the National Hockey League standing to-day with 33 points, far ahead of the four remaining "second division" teams. The one advantage in which the Rangers can take pride is the fact that they have played one game less than the Bruins and have two games in hand over the Leafs.

The Rangers, boasting an unbeaten string of 17 straight games, were idle last night as the Bruins took advantage of this to score an easy 3-1 victory over Detroit Red Wings and the Leafs came from behind twice to edge out New York Americans 3-2. In the only other game of the night the hapless Montreal Canadiens went down 2-0 before Chicago Black Hawks.

Hawks in Fourth.

The way things stand now the Hawks hold down fourth place in the standing a full dozen points behind the three leaders, while Canadiens are next three points behind the Chicago club. The Americans and the Wings come last, tied with 15 points.

Goalie Frank Brimsek, judged the best netminder in the league last season, missed turning in his third shutout of the season by less than a minute against the Wings Only 49 seconds of play were left when Ebbie Goodfellow, big Detroit defenceman, parked the puck behind him for a score. Before that the Bruins, in control almost all the way, found the range for scores by Woody Dumart, Herbie Cain, and Red Hamill.

Ebbie Goodfellow

Guarding the Detroit cage was slender Alfie Moore, the league's spare netminder who tends goal regularly in the International-American League. Moore had to be called up by Manager Jack Adams because of an injury to Cecil (Tiny) Thompson.

All the Leaf scores came in the second period with Bob Davidson getting the winner on a pass from Billy Taylor with a little less than three minutes left in the session. Other Toronto scores went to Pete Langelle and Gus Marker, while Harvey Jackson and Murray Armstrong counted for the Amerks.

Some Fireworks

New York fans were treated to more than just goals in the second period of the Leafs-Americans affair. The fireworks started when Referee Ted Graham ruled that a Leaf player was in the crease when Langelle shot the puck home. Captain Red Horner argued so loudly that he was given a misconduct. Murph Chamberlain of the Leafs also was given a misconduct later in the same session for pushing around Graham.

Pete Langelle

The blanking of Canadiens meant the second shutout for Goalie Paul Goodman since he replaced Mike Karakas in Chicago nets six games back. Goodman, with a lot less work to look after than Claude Bourque at the other end, turned in a nice effort as Bill Thoms and Doug Bentley supplied second period scores for victory.

It was the 12th defeat in 14 games for Canadiens and there were indications of further shake-ups in the team which recently added three new faces after a five-player lop-off.

John Nancarrow Merchant Dies At Age 85

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 10. — (ENS) — One of this town's most esteemed citizens, the late Edward Johns Nancarrow passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. A. Linton, George street, late Monday evening.

Mr. Nancarrow who was born in Stirling, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nancarrow, was in his 86th year. Despite his age he enjoyed good health and was active both in mind and body until less than three weeks ago when he became ill. After obtaining his early education in the neighboring village, Mr. Nancarrow came to Campbellford where he opened a tannery business in partnership with his brother, the late Charles Nancarrow. The business was widely known and flourished for nearly forty years under the name of "Nancarrow Brothers." In conjunction with the tannery the two also operated a meat market in Campbellford. Following the sale of the meat market and tannery, Mr. Nancarrow operated a grocery business for many years earning for himself a wide reputation for fair dealing and friendliness with all. As a youth he was a keen athlete taking a leading part in Campbellford's early cricket and hockey teams. He served for several years on the municipal council and took a keen interest in the fortunes of the Conservative party.

Mr. Nancarrow was pre-deceased by his wife, the former Emma Hill, thirty-two years ago and one son, Fred was killed in the Great War. His death marks the passing of the last surviving member of the old Nancarrow family.

Surviving him are three daughters, Mrs. Fred (Ethel) Wilshire, Dorval, P. Q.; Mrs. George (Maude) Machan, La Tuque, P.Q. and Mrs. Jack (Amy) Linton of town; and one son, Harold, of Buffalo, N.Y.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Linton, George street at 4 o'clock and interment was at the Anglican cemetery. Rev. T. S. Gault of Christ Church officiated.

Retain Quality

ter prices have risen six cents a pound, and though exports have not been heavy, he forecast "good prices' 'during the Winter and Spring.

Presenting the directors' report, Frank Herns of London, secretary-treasurer, reported that in contrast with the Winter of 1938-39 when a large quantity of milk was diverted from concentrated milk plants to increase the output of winter-made cheese, production this Winter had decreased.

Mr. Herns said that "a policy of creating domestic surpluses of other products during the summer months and allowing cheese production to decline, is economically unsound." Canadian cheese factories should run to full capacity during the summer period to decrease the butter surplus.

Greater demand for cheese is anticipated for 1940, he said, and this will require increased milk production to enable concentrated milk plans and cheese factories to maintain output "under war conditions."

Some Problems.

Mr. Herns, who is also chief instructor for Western Ontario of the dairy branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, foresaw the war having a bearing on the following problems of the dairy industry:

1. How best to divert the raw material into the proper channels for most economic distribution.
2. Readjustment of prices for milk used for various purposes, consistent with extra cost of production for special markets.
3. Quality improvement with lower production costs.
4. Operating factories to capacity in summer to insure continuity of supply of matured summer cheese for export and home trade.

He said the Federal bonus for high-scoring cheese was an important factor in stimulating quality last year, and he praised the work of the Ontario Dairy Research Council in co-ordinating research problems.

With Western Ontario producing about 20 per cent. of Ontario's cheese, he said that the grade for the last 10 years has been 98 per cent. No. 1, "the highest of any grading section of the Dominion."

Other speakers during today's sessions include: Professor G. E. Raithby of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph; Joseph Burgess, head of the grading and dairy products inspection services of the Federal agriculture department, and J. F. Singleton, associate director of marketing service, dairy products division, Ottawa.

Increasing Cost Of Hog Feed May Affect Bacon Contract

Problem of rising feed costs at a time when there is a fixed price for hogs in this country was brought to the attention of farmers of this district yesterday afternoon by F. C. Paterson, Agricultural representative.

He drew from farmers at the co-operative short course in the Normal School an admission that "nine cents a pound was a fair price" to receive for hogs. That is the price the recently signed agreement between Canadian and British Governments will average out to farmers.

First reaction has been to depress the price to a live weight equivalent of approximately $8.60 a hundredweight. He revealed that the Bacon Board tells the packing houses what price they will pay from week to week for hogs. The inference is that through June, July and August, when the supply of hogs is small, the price will be upped, perhaps, to $10 a hundredweight or more. Packers are now being ordered to freeze and hold in storage a percentage of hogs now coming into their plants. Such an operation costs one and three-quarter cents a pound and is responsible for the decreased price now being experienced he believed.

But greatest danger to the success of Canada's contract is the rapidly increasing cost of hog feed, he declared. He pointed out that if that feed rises to a point where it is no longer profitable for farmers to raise hogs, the contract will suffer. Two remedies remained in his view: either separate domestic and export prices will have to be established, in which event Canadians will pay more for their pork than now, or else the Government will "have to do more price setting"— halting the rise in feed costs.

He warned that the hog situation may soon become serious and hinted that there may be few farmers now raising more hogs than before the war.

Mr. Paterson pointed out that England is now almost entirely dependent on Canada for her pork supply. Poland, Latvia, Estonia, Sweden, and Finland, all former contributors to the demand are eliminated by war conditions, he said. He stressed the urgency of the feed problem to Canadian and Englishmen alike.

cook and his mate were burned and scalded. A crewman said he saw the captain dead outside his cabin. Apparently the skipper tried to each his quarters after the bridge had crumbled. The bodies of the captain, an engine storekeeper and an able seamen were brought ashore.

Chief Officer Roberts was the last person to leave the ship.

"We had to drag him aboard a lifeboat," one of the passengers said.

Another said he saw a stewardess runing through the flames of the galley with her apron afire.

"When I next saw her she was rowing in one of the life boats."

Another survivor said there was a racehorse on the foredeck. When the topmast crashed down, the horse was thrown into the sea.

The cooks apparently suffered the most of all. The explosion set fire to the fat, and blazing oil was sprayed through the galley. Several members of the galley staff came running out on deck with their clothes burned away.

When the members of the crew arrived in London to-day, some of them were wrapped in blankets, as they had lost most of their possessions.

The Dunbar Castle was built in the Harland and Wolf Glasgow yards in 1930. Her home port was London. She had accommodations for 200 first class and 260 third class passengers.

Miss Nora Bunny, hoarse and pale after her ordeal, praised the bravery shown by Second Officer Saunders, who set his own broken leg in their lifeboat.

"He was obviously suffering great pain," she said, "but he set it with splints which had been dropped into the lifeboat while we were tossing in the choppy sea.

"He never complained, but went grimly along with the job, at the same time giving instructions and directions to the crew, who were rowing.

"I was huddled near to my mother and we were both frozen. Somebody tried to cover us with a blanket. We couldn't see very far, as it was misty, and the last we saw of the ship was her mast and funnels leaning badly on one side."

Sister Phyllis, recently of St. Mary's convent of Wantage, Berkshire, expressed concern to-day for the safety of two colleagues who were en route with her to the diocesan school for girls in Pretoria for a five-year stay.

"I was in the stern of the vessel when we were mined," said Sister Phyllis. "I have not seen them since and have heard nothing of them, although I have been inquiring of the police and all the other authorities here."

Among the passengers landed in one boat were a husband, wife, and two children—a boy of four and a 10-wek-old girl—who were on their way to make a new home in South Africa.

Rev. G. S. Ferguson, wo had been on furlough with his wife, was returning to Nyasaland to take up his missionary duties as a member of the Zambesi mission.

"You must emphasize," he said, "that no words are too high to commend the splendid behaviour of the crew. It all happened very suddenly and the emergency brought to the surface the finest qualities. Everyone behaved amazingly well."

From Rio De Janeiro came a report three submarines attacked the British steamship Avila Star near the Canary Island, but were beaten off by convoying cruisers, with one submarine sunk.

The Royal Mail liner Highland Patriot arrived in Rio De Janeiro Monday with a story of escaping a submarine after a two-hour battle in the vicinty of the Canaries on December 29.

Reaboro Airport Site To Be Viewed By Air

LINDSAY, Jan. 10.—In a statement made Tuesday by Mr. Bruce McNevin, M.P., the proposed airport site in this district is to be viewed from the air this week by a high official of the Royal Canadian Air Force, who will fly over the area to inspect the stretch of country selected by the inspectors last week as the only one having any possibilities. Any forecast as to the future would be premature, Mr. McNevin stated. The R.A.F. official referred to was in Lindsay last week and had inspected the Reaboro area with Mr. McNevin. All the suggested sites in the vicinity of Lindsay were rejected as were sites at Omemee, Fenelon Falls, Taylor's Corners, Mariposa Station and Glandine.

Daniel Hogan, town, had a narrow escape from drowning in the waters of the Scugog River on Monday afternoon. He was crossing on the ice on his way to lunch, heavily clothed, when the ice gave way. His cries were heard by men in a plant on the river shore, and they ran to the rescue. They were warned by Mr. Hogan to keep off the ice, and a plank was shoved out by Mr. H. Armstrong, and a rope tossed by Mr. W. Guest. Mr. Hogan was finally rescued, after a space of open water, fifteen feet across, had been cleared by Mr. Hogan.

Two Peterborough youths, aged 12 and 13 years, who left their home, were picked up by the local police in the neighborhood of the C.P.R. station on Monday. They were taken to the police station and a call sent to the city police. They were quite willing to return to their home, and stretched out on a bench in the council chamber while waiting a car and went to sleep.

Dr. and Mrs. Christon were entertaining a number of friends to bridge at their home. When she went to put her silver service away at the close of the evening she found that a sneak thief had entered her home and carried away seven pieces of silver. The police have no clues.

Members of the Lindsay Town Council will refrain from smoking during council sessions in the future. A resolution to this effect was passed at Monday night's council meeting.

Rural Mail Horse Bolts At Janetville But Duty Stops Him At First Mail Box

JANETVILLE, Jan. 10. —(ENS) —The residents of the village were roused from their past Christmas lethargy Monday morning when the mail carrier's horse bolted at top speed down the street with the mail but no driver.

Suddenly remembering, however, that business comes before fright, the horse pulled alongside the mail box at the gate of Mr. James Thornton, half a mile out of the village and calmly waited until Mr. Clarence McGill, a brother of the mail man, arrived to further perform the duties of His Majesties' Mail.

The mail carrier was in the act of getting into the buggy when the horse suddenly bolted throwing the driver to the ground but fortunately without serious injury.

For Small Investors.

The issue is designed particularly for wide distribution among small investors and will not be largely taken up by financial institutions as is the case with most Government loans. It will be a strictly domestic issue offered only to Canadian investors, repayable as to principal and interest in Canadian funds.

The Government has made an arrangement with the banks to enable persons without ready cash to be able to borrow money to participate in the loan. Bonds may be subscribed to in as small denominations as $50.00.

Col. Ralston said he wanted it to be a national loan in the widest possible sense. "It is to represent the real savings of the people, and we are arranging for the widest possible distribution so that all may participate," he said.

It is not a "forced loan" in the sense that certain classes of investors have been told to subscribe, the minister added.

Five Are Fined Not Having Radio Licenses

Although Clifford McInroy, McDonnel street, declared that he had only had the radio a short time, having accepted it on an account, the explanation given to Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning did not save him from being fined for having a radio receiving set without the necessary license.

"It looked to be in pretty good shape when I saw it," said Radio Inspector M. E. Leslie. "it was playing when I went in."

McInroy stated that he had bought a license on the following day but Magistrate Langley said that action did not clear him of the charge that had been laid against him.

"It is just the same thing as driving a car," said the magistrate. "You must have a license if you only have the set one day. The traffic act is of course much more strictly enforced. In this matter of radio, the government is endeavoring to educate the people to their duty."

McInroy was fined $3 and $2.50 costs when he finally decided to plead guilty.

Albert Thompson, facing the same charge, said that he did not know whether to plead guilty or not, because he had bought a license on the day that the inspectors called. Magistrate Langley pointed out that buying a license at that stage did no clear him of the charge.

"You got away with it from the first of April," he pointed out.

Thompson pleaded guilty and was fined $3 and $2.50 costs.

The same penalty was handed out to Harry Nokes, Albert M. Dorris and Clifford J. Hancock, who entered written pleas of guilty to having radio sets without a license.

The charges were laid by Radio Inspectors Victor J. R. Brister and M. E. Leslie.

One charge was withdrawn when it was discovered that the man charged was in possession of the necessary license.

City's Chimney Spreads Soot

A little drift of soot in front of the City Hall yesterday provided proof of City Engineer Parsons' statement some time ago that if the Council again considers an anti-smoke by-law it should first put its own furnace in order. In half a dozen business places this morning soot had been "tracked in" on clean floors and before noon the mop and bucket brigade could have begun where it left off last night.

Kitchener passed a smoke by-law in 1929 restricting to six minutes the smoking of certain chimneys at a penalty of $50. Exceptions are plants engaging in the reduction of minerals, manufacture of cement, bricks and tiles, and dwelling houses other than apartment buildings. But this by-law seems to be considerably honored in the breach, some of the chimneys observed by a reporter giving off smoke for as long as twenty mintes.

Some of the Kitchener people were unaware of this by-law of a decade ago. Peterborough's Council decided a month or two ago to let the chimneys smoke to their thermostats' content for this winter, and the evidence along Simcoe Street yesterday indicated that the City Hall furnace was taken customary advantage of its freedom.

Instructor At 19

The first recruit of the Hastings-Prince Edward county battalion was this Dummer boy, Kenneth I. Briant, 19, son of Edward Briant who lives near Lakefield. As a boy he was always interested in military activities, and was in camp at Kingston last summer about the time war broke out. He had been working in Picton, went on to Kingston and immediately responded to the call for recruits, and is now overseas with his regiment. At present he is a mortar gun instructor and is due for an early promotion to sergeant, an opportunity he turned down at Picton. His natural aptitude and keen interest were the background of his proficiency which is now being employed in the capacity of instructor. Kenneth Briant is a graduate of Lakefield school, and has many friends in Peterborough.

Agnes Macphail Is Here Tonight

She is Agnes Macphail, U.F.O. member at Ottawa for Grey-Bruce, and she will be at the Normal School to deliver the closing lecture of a 3-day co-operative short course. Not only members of the course, but all residents of this district are invited to be present, officials said today. The meeting starts at 8 o'clock.

Tenders Closed For Erecting C.G.E. Building

The time for receiving tenders for an addition to the plant of the Canadian General Electric Company in Peterborough closed at noon Tuesday, according to the Building Record.

The project is mentioned as an extension of Building No. 12, presumably the punch press department running north and south west of the long machine shop.

A group of big contracting companies was said to be figuring on the work with the architect, and it is confidently expected that before many days pass some definite news of interest to this city will be forthcoming.

Lakefield WMS Instals Officers

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 10. —(ENS)— As has been the custom for many years, the W. M. S. of Lakefield United Church held their first meeting of the new year at the home of Mrs. J. P. Burgess. A large attendance did honor to Mrs. Burgess gracious hospitality on Tuesday afternoon.

The new president, Mrs. P. H. Darling opend the meeting with the following New Year's wish:

May the New Year bring you health and home and friends.
Abundant ability to help others.
Plenty of work of lasting value.
Physical strength for the appointed task.
Increased knowledge of Life's Guide Book.
New courage to follow the guide.
Ever deep faith in the Divine Love, Solace in sorrow.
Sweet consciousness of answered prayer—Happiness.

Rev. T. Kelly offered prayer following the opening hymn.

The solemn and impressive service for the installation of officers was conducted by Rev. Kelly.

The financial secretary, Mrs. W. W. Leonard read a most inspiring paper on the "Stewardship of Personality."

The following delegates were appointed to attend the Presbyterial meeting in St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough on January 23: Miss V. Deck, Mrs. J. A. Porter and Miss M. Sanderson.

The executive will meet at the home of Mrs. P. H. Darling, Monday evening, January 15 at eight o'clock.

Short scriptural passages bearing on the theme for the day were read by various members.

The chapter of the study book which was ably given by the president dealt with the ministry of healing in India.

The life story of John Scudder and his wife who went to India in 1819 shows the work of the medical missionary in its most primitive form, overcoming almost unsurmountable difficulties, this consecrated pair lived for nineteen years in India preaching the gospel and healing the sick before having their first furlough. They raised a family which for four generations has contributed more missionaries to India than any other family in the world. They won large numbers of India people to Christ and relieved untold physical suffering. The Scudder Memorial Hospital at Ranipit, South India, erected in 1935 is the outcome of "Bread cast upon the waters in the far distant past."

There are two hundred and fifty six mission hospitals and three hundred nurses, carrying on the work started by Dr. Scudder over one hundred years ago.

The great problem in India today is the lack of trained physicians. There is only one doctor for every 121,000 of population, and some of the native doctors are very poorly trained.

There are many noted specialists among the medical missionaries with many outstanding women doctors.

A very pleasant social half hour followed when Mrs. Burgess assisted by Miss Doris Burgess served dainty refreshments. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the hostess.

Plan Burns Tea

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 10. — (ENS)— Mrs. A. H. Clark, Bridge street, entertained Women's Association of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church for the first meeting of the New Year on Tuesday afternoon.

Plans are being made for a Robert Burn's afternoon tea on Thursday, January 25, in the basement of the church.

The hostess and her daughter, Miss Jean Clark served dainty refreshments which was followed by the usual social half hour.

On the other hand, it was pointed out, the contract for collection of tolls is let by the council. The letter was referred to the Property Committee.

County Farmers Plan To Form Purchasing Co-operative

A group of Peterborough County farmers got down to brass tacks to-day in their effort to establish a purchasing co-operative for this district.

They were attending the closing day of a co-operative short course and they listened intently to George Wilson, chairman of the Farm Marketing Board of Ontario, as he outlined in exhaustive detail the problems confronting them in such an enterprise.

"We're ready to go ahead and put this thing over now," declared Charles Moore, member of a provisional committee set up last fall. He said shares of $25 each to the number of between 200 and 400 will be placed for sale immediately.

Already three shares have been sold, about 30 have been promised, and others will soon be added, Provisional Treasurer Eph Brown said.

Later, discussion groups brought in recommendations that canvassing should be started immediately for shares. It was suggested by one group that five per cent. interest should be paid after the first two years of operation; another group was of the opinion that no member should have more than four shares; another that a $10 share was preferable, since it would bring more members into the movement; another, that farm produce should be accepted in lieu of cash payment for shares.

Two Types of Co-operative.

Mr. Wilson told them of the two types of co-operative from which they had to chcose. One was a purchasing company handling purchase of feeds, fertilizers, fencing, coal, building materials, etc. The other was a marketing co-operative, handling sale of farm produce, livestock, grains, etc. The former was an expensive undertaking, the latter was not. He said there is no reason the two could not be combined, but that he had been given to understand the Peterborough group wanted to establish a purchasing co-operative.

"At the outset you must realize that a cooperative is no different from any private business," he declared. "The principles and practices are the same in both. Honesty, thrift, industry, patience, courage, public relations, these are all things just as essential to a cooperative as to a private business, perhaps more so."

Protect Shareholders.

He urged that the cooperative be formed as an incorporated company, so giving protection to all shareholders, although he admitted incorporation was not essential under the campanies act. It might also be organized with or without share capital, he said.

He stressed as absolutely essential that a cooperative's credit should be excellent. Obligations must be met on the dot. Greatest drawback ot winning a good credit rating was the lack of permanency associated with some cooperatives, he said.

He cited instances of cooperative companies whose experience had been hazardous until they had become established on a firm business-like basis, and built up a reputation for paying their bills promptly.

"Capitol in some considerable quantity is essenital for any firm engaged in the supply business," he warned. He urged the going to determine, before launching a coopergative, whether one was essential to this district. "And are your people cooperatively minded? he asked, stating that certain sections of the province are more advanced in cooperative knowledge and appreciation than are others. "They have learned that certain things are possible cooperatively that individually had been impossible," he said.

But he wanted them to go carefully about starting a cooperative here, first finding out the general feeling of the farmers of all the district.

Arranging For Charter.

Once agreed upon establishing a cooperative, the founders should set up committees to raise capital, to arrange charter, and other details.

He advised them to have on their finance committee successful farmers and urged that every committee be given a good deal of work to do.

He instanced failure of cooperatives that had overstocked their warehouses, and told them, "when you start, put first things first; these are certain essentials.' A cautious manager is necessary to success. "There is no place in these cooperatives for friends and relatives. Business is business."

He warned against sharing all the profits without first making provision for contingencies. "A reserve, a substantial reserve, must be built up, for the first essential is that your company be a success financially."

One of the basic principles of cooperation, one never to lose sight of, is that one man shall have only one vote, regardless of whether he has one share or one hundred, he laid down.

He advised that the cooperative be started in a small way with all profits for perhaps the first five years going to a reserve, rather than splitting it up among the co-operators, and that the reserve be used to make cash purchases, so gaining discounts that would not otherwise be possible. Such action brings high dividends, he said.

Opposes Credit Business

He scored the practice of doing credit business, particularly at the outset. "If you are going to extend credit to your members, you are going to have a great deal more capital," he said.

"I have the utmost confidence in you as individuals," he said. "They have done it elsewhere in the province and you can do it here." He warned against start off precariously. "Every failure hurts the name of co-operation," he said.

President Of Fish And Game Association Has Wardrobe Already For Wolf Hunt

Charlie Kingan's wolf hunt next week in the northern woods of the Apsley district is stirring up interest among local hunters, and he has some hopes that possibly others from Toronto and elsewhere may come along for the outing if he can get the news of it abroad.

The executive of the Fish and Game Protective Association gave the idea their approval last night.

Naturally an expedition into the wilds of Anstruther, or it might be among the settlements of Chandos, is likely to attract only he-men who prefer the great open spaces in all their silent reality instead of in motion pictures.

Mr. Kingan intends to go along himself, and has dug [illegible] wardrobe of Finnish fashion e[illegible] to a white canvas overall, a kind of kimona now house coat, to reduce visibility of the prospective Kingan clan by merging of their color into the background of snow. Sneaking up on a pack of wolves, or even one wolf, requires tactics in which the Apsley guides should be of some help. According to Mr. Kingan the white kimona might be of some help especially out on the exposed shore of a lake, but generally it might be regarded as a dubious asset because wolves can scent a hunter long before seeing him.

So the round-up is on the way to organization, and further information will be passed out by Mr. Kingan in the next few days. He is hoping for a corps large enough to make [illegible] tough for the Peterborough wolves.

Church People Are Faithful To Christianity

The second of the series of New Year's services which is being held in the city took place last night at St. Andrew's Church. Rev. Dr. E. W. Young conducted the service, assisted by Rev. George Easton, M.A., Rev. R. T. F. Brain and Mrs. Clara M. Scott.

The prayer theme was the Universal Church, one though divided. Dr. Young explained that all over the world wherever there is a Christian church these services are held throughout the first whole week of the new year, in China, India, Japan, Africa and South America, Europe, Great Britain, the United States and Canada, and even in those countries with which we are at war. "No institution but the Christian church could encircle the globe with concerned action like that in which we are now engaged."

Dr. Northcote-Deck, the appointed speaker, said he had visited churches in almost every one of the lands in which Christianity has root and found a faithful people in her ranks. His subject was the conversion of Saul of Tarsus. He had visited the old city of Damascus, and travelled the road on which St. Paul saw the heavenly light. There is no more rugged and barren district anywhere else in the world, yet on that rocky road God laid hold on the rebellious and obstinate man, and changed him into a powerful missionary of the gospel.

The speaker said God had spoken to him as a young man calling him from a lucrative medical practice to spend more than twenty years on a small schooner visiting the South Sea Islands in promoting the gospel of Christianity. There is no constraint so compelling as that of Jesus Christ. Dr. Deck used several illustrations from his life as a traveller and missionary to show the power of the gospel.

The service tonight will be in St. Paul's Church at 7.30 o'clock instead of 8 o'clock in order to accommodate members of the Canadian Concert Association.

War Bulletins

Received By Examiner Over Canadian Press Leased Wire

SAN DIEGO, Calif., — (AP) — Captain Louis Camillo reported today a mysterious armed steamship trained her guns on his tunaboat, Yvonne Louise, near Panama, on December 10.

The fishing vessel showed her United States flags and the stranger departed to the northwest.

SWEET GRASS, Mont.— (AP) — Nineteen bombing planes have been towed across the International boundary for delivery to the Canadian Air Force.

ROME— (CP Havas) — Soviet Russia has "morally" lost her war against Finland as a result of the Red Army's defeat at Suomussalmi, the Fascist newspaper Messagero said today.

"The Soviet defeat at Suomussalmi has reached the proportions of a veritable disaster," the newspaper said. "It is undoubtedly not the first nor probably the last, but it is certainly more than sufficient to permit declaring that the Kremlin has morally lost the war."

PARIS, Mo. — (AP). — Paris Legionnaires are sending a Monroe County cavalry horse and $51 to Finland. The Under-Secretary of the Finnish legation in Washington notified by telephone, accepted the gifts.

Aid In Drinks.

RENO—(AP) — Reno drinkers can aid Finland and at the same time satisfy their thirst. A large hotel bar is giving all its receipts from noon to midnight tomorrow to the Finnish relief fund.

LONDON—(CP) — Sir William Seeds, British ambassador to Russia, arrived today on a long delayed furlough. It was explained when he left Moscow January 2, his departure had nothing to do with the troubled state of Anglo-Russian relations.

WASHINGTON—(AP) — President Roosevelt is talking over with the State Department the question of extending further United States aid to Finland.

In response to questions at his press conference yesterday about Congressional proposals for such help, Mr. Roosevelt said he probably would have something to say on the subject next week. Among the proposals are one for a $60,000,000 loan to Finland and another to make available to her the United States Army's new Garand automatic rifle.

The Rambling REPORTERS

WHAT CAN THIS BE?

"Theologians speak of two kinds of conversion, instantaneous and gradual. I think Alderman McCannan is gradually becoming converted to the idea of the city itself doing the work of garbage collection," said Alderman Dutton Monday night.

It was a reference to Ald. McCannan's proposal that the city might buy sets of wagons and sleighs and let the tender for garbage collection by wards somewhat like snow ploughing.

"We could always keep the wagons painted and looking nice, and let contractors supply teams," he said.

"And paint on the wagons "vote for Herb McCannan," Mayor Hamilton jokingly suggested.—T.

AsksCommittees To Complete Estimates Early

An appeal to the chairmen of committees to complete their estimates promptly as a means of assisting him on presenting the 1940 budget at the first meeting in February was made by Alderman Cotton, finance chairman, Monday night.

"We moved the budget a month ahead in 1939 to give the staff a chance to get the tax bills cut and collections in a month earlier than usual," Alderman Cotton said, "and I'd like to see us do it again this year."

Alderman Bradburn had suggested that any arrangements for staff holidays be completed early in the year, and he also mentioned the salary schedule, and possible applications for salary increases.

"There will be after this speech of yours tonight," Alderman Gordon said laughingly.

"I am trying to look ahead for I know one application is going to be made," Ald. Bradburn replied.

"Is this an opportune time for talking salary increases with the country at war and heavy expenses that we see every day?" Alderman Stocker asked.

"I'm not talking increases," Ald. Bradburn answered.

"Perhaps you really mean decreases," Ald. Gordon said, and at that point Alderman Cotton urged the committees to go to work on their estimates as soon as possible.

A.O.Dawson Dies While On Train

TORONTO, Jan. 10 —(CP) — A. O. Dawson, prominent financier and Canadian manufacturing executive, was found dead today in his berth on arrival of the train on which he had been travelling from Boston

Mr. Dawson, possibly best known to the public for his association with the Canadian Textile Industry, complained to the porter about not feeling well and retired at 6.30 last evening. His death was not discovered until the train neared Toronto. A railway physician, summoned to the station, pronounced death and ordered the body removed to Toronto morgue. Death was ascribed to a heart seizure.

Among Mr. Dawson's belongings was a detective story—"An Overture to Death."

A native of New Bandon, N. B., Mr. Dawson became interested as a youth in the textile industry and gradually made his way to the top where he became associated with a number of textile companies, including Canadian Cottons, Limited, and Dominion Woollens, Ltd., both of which he served as president.

Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan was also in attendance.

Only four witnesses were heard: Fireman Joseph Gallagher, Belleville; Engineer Thomas Burdin, Trenton; Dr. H. Crawford, Marmora, and Geoffrey Feeley, Peterborough.

The jury returned the following verdict: That Kathleen Feeley came to her death at the intersection of the Canadian National Railway and No. 7 Highway, 1¼ miles east of Marmora village in Marmora Township, Hastings County, on the first day of January, 1940, about 12.40 p.m., the result of a broken neck received when the car driven by her son, Geoffrey, in an easterly direction and in which she was a passenger was struck by a Canadian National locomotive proceeding northerly. We find the said death to be accidental and no fault of the crew of the locomotive or the driver of the car."

The jury was composed of E. D. O'Connor, foreman; S. C. Boyd, N. Mumby, J. McInroy and James Crawford.

Lady Attacked On Perry Street

That she was assaulted near the corner of Park and Perry Streets early Tuesday evening by a young man who grabbed her by the shoulders and tried to prevent her from entering her home, was the story told police by a Park Street woman.

She said she was walking along Perry Street when the assailant came off Park Street and as he got close to her suddenly seized her and attempted to hold her. She tore away from the man's grasp, ran into the house and notified the police. Constables W. A. Clarke and C. J. McGillen investigated. The woman described her attacker as a youth of around 17 or 18 years of age.

PICKED UP IN LINDSAY.

Two Peterborough youngsters, 12 and 13 years old, decided that a little trip to see the outside world would be preferable to going to school Monday so they managed to hitch-hike their way to Lindsay. However, the expedition came to disaster when the boys fell into the hands of a Lindsay constable and the police here were notified. They in turn informed the parents and the runaways were brought home, satisfied that they had enough wandering for some time.

Miss Anne Deyell Is Mission Circle Hostess

Miss Anne Deyell, entertained the girls of the "Jean Wagar" Mission Circle at her lovely home on Crescent street on Monday evening, when over thirty members and friends were present at the first meeting of the New Year.

Olive Searles (Mrs. R. C.), the newly elected president presided and presented a splendid program which gives promise of a successful year ahead.

The devotional service of hymns, and the Lord's prayer recited in unison also included the scripture lesson, 103 Pslam read by Gladys Ruthford and prayers offered by Jessie Martin and Mrs. W. Rose, the auxiliary president.

With "India" the theme of the interesting study of the month, an appropriate reading introduced this topic, when Eleanor Fife (Mrs. Ashton) read the story of a tea-party in India from a scrap book arranged by the study book convener of the year, Jean Hammond.

The 3rd chapter of the book entitled "Freedom" held the interest of the girls to the last word as told by the convener. Continuing the story of a wealthy family in India, the speaker graphically outlined the father's dramatic meeting with Ghandi and its effect upon his outlook on life. In keeping also with the theme was the beautiful solo, "India, Sad India," sung effectively by Mrs. George Robinson to guitar accompaniment.

In his impressive service of installation of the group of circle officers, Rev. Mr. Craik, presented the obligation of office as a sacred trust as he emphasized the vast importance of the task they were undertaking this service concluded with the hymn of consecration "O Jesus, I have Promised."

A happy message for the New Year was brought in Nancy Pooley's reading, while Mary Hanlon contributed the sweet old hymn in solo, "Jesus Calls Us O'er the Tumult."

Temperance was presented by the secretary, Gladys Langton and the business session was capably dealt with by the president, who also welcomed several new members.

Groups, giving homes for meetings during 1940, were appointed as well as delegates to the coming Presbyterial meeting to be held January 23, in St. Andrew's United Church.

During the social hour, delicious refreshments were served from a pretty lace covered table at which Mary Easson poured tea, with the following assistants in serving, Mrs. W. M. Wood, Mrs. A. Rosborough, Misses M. and A. Deyell and Miss I. Ruth.

A sub-executive meeting to take care of pre-convention matters was called for Saturday evening at the home of the advisory president, Mrs. Wagar.

Home and School Association News

Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe was guest speaker at the King George Home and School Association meeting Tuesday evening, and spoke inspiringly on the subject of Religious Education. Referring to the Week of Prayer, he remarked that it little mattered where people were as long as they caught the spirit of the great week of world prayer. He explained the difference between religious education and Christian education, saying that if Christian education were on a higher plane we would have fewer difficulties at home and abroad.

Many people feel that they can get along without religious education, he said, but the child can only obtain a very scant training while under the jurisdiction of the church—the religious life must be caught, not taught. The spirit thus caught must be developed by teaching. He stressed the need for teachers with good hearts, a knowledge of the Book, and an understanding of how the Christian spirit is attained. He mentioned the need for revival of Biblical teaching for children, who must be taught both the Old and New Testaments—the Old Testament must be understood in order to understand the New.

He urged parents to see that their children are placed where they can obtain religious education. "It matters a great deal if our children do not receive this education," he said. "An individual's attitude towards life and people counts more than skill and ability. We cannot have a good character without good thoughts. It is the parents' responsibility to make their children see and hear only the best.

Mrs. T. L. Ashton presided at the meeting, which opened with "O Canada" and the "Lord's Prayer." Mrs. M. Squire's room won the attendance picture. The members were invited to attend the Home and School Council meeting on Monday evening. Announcement was made that the February meeting would be in charge of the teaching staff of the school.

Mrs T. J. Carley gave a comprehensive review of current events. A fine duet was given by Mrs. Max Pomeroy and Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, Mr. Sutcliffe also favoring with a solo.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem and a short prayer by Rev. Sutcliffe.

We Noticed

...Corsets and curls will disappear if the war goes on for another year or two, James Laver, assistant keeper of the Victoria and Albert Museum of London prophesies.

...Women have always thrown their corsets away and cut their hair in wartime," Mr. Laver said. "We shall probably see three fashion ghosts of the last war come back: (the ghost of khaki), the cloche (ghost of the steel helmet), and the tubular costume (ghost of the field gun).

...He also predicts that bad manners (the 'ghost of the sergeant-major's bellowings") will be coming back as well.

held. On the motion of Mrs. Graham, the executive was empowered to make nominations for the International executive to be elected in the spring. A piano solo was played by Miss J. Lynch.

The guest speaker, Miss Julia Matouskova, a member of the National Council staff of the Y.W.C.A. for Canada, was presented by Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner.

Choosing as her subject the position of women, and especially University women in Europe at present, Miss Matouskova drew a comparison between the standards of women just previous to the last war, and the present one. The equality of women the world over has, possibly, been taken too much for granted, and more especially on this continent, she said. Twenty-five years ago university education for women was not open in all branches. The war expanded this tremendously, as witness the voting privileges for women in England. Women in France and Germany advanced under the Socialist regime. The new states created were all democratic republics and there was a tremendous opportunity through Versailles for the smaller nations. Many social reforms took place in the first five years after the war. Voting privileges in Europe were, and are, taken much more seriously than on this side. Democracy, she said emphatically, needs a certain amount of disciplines to carry out its inherited functions.

The awakened interest in women led to many more entering the professions, teaching, medicine and law being the choice in order. The new position of women was also marked politically. The optimism of post war years considered these positions quite natural. Just previous to Munich a German woman was sitting in the Czecho-Slovakian parliament for the German Social Democrats.

However, when the totalitarian regimes came to the front, Miss Matouskova explained, this leading position of women was questioned. Breakdown was slow under Italian Fascism, but the German Nazis had created a definite program of what to do about women. The ideology and theory in the National Socialists provided for them as simply functioning in the home and for child bearing. The Nazi regime is one hundred per cent a men's regime, the speaker said. Today in Europe there are no university women's groups. The Nazis place all women in one organization. In all these regimes, however, they do not deny women the right of hard manual work. This has been a difficult adjustment for women, particularly those formerly of position. Many have accepted this with sacrificial ardor. It is three years since Germany has been on fat rations. They are willing to live on a war basis even in peace time.

The sad outlook for women is their limitation for the future and the ultimate decrease in leadership in many branches of work through lack of qualifications. Higher education privileges are not granted until the service year has been put in, marks of admittance are acceptable, and school accommodation, which is limited, available.

This situation, Miss Matouskova continued, is spreading wherever the German regime advances throughout Austria, Czecho-Slovakia and Poland. The re-orientation of many lives is also an economic consideration in these countries. The Germans have a definite aim in depriving the population of servile nations from leadership. The youth unemployed, if not placed in concentration camps, are being removed to Germany proper for forced labor.

In future, will the education of women be molded according to Nazi tendencies? University women from all other parts of the world should be ready for leadership and assistance when the opportunity arrives.

At the conclusion of her address, Miss Matouskova replied to many of the members' questions. She was thanked for her fine address by Dr. Agnes K. Moffatt and Mrs. Foster.

Y.W. Work Upset By War Making Brave Effort To Carry On In Europe

Speaking before a group of over 150 women who are friends of the Y.W.C.A., members, and representatives of the Board of Directors, Miss Julia Matouskova, former national general secretary of the Y.W.C.A. of Czechoslovakia, in a brown frock of simple tailoring, and wearing a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses, held her listeners quite breathless with admiration as she told of the way in which European Y.W.C.A.'s are meeting the war situation, and the contributions these organizations are making to the well-being of women and girls, most of them refugees.

The Y.W.C.A. in China is still carrying on, despite terrible conditions. Some of the schools have been destroyed, and many of the buildings evacuated, but the association has not given up, it just goes along with the people and does its work wherever it is needed. Applause greeted Miss Matouskova's words as she told of the membership campaign in Shanghai this year—a compaign which topped the budget, putting to shame the many Canadian organizations who did not even reach their objective.

The value of having a staff at the International office in Geneva that is itself international has been proved this last month, Miss Matouskova said. The services of these workers, who can travel into any country, thus linking up the association and bringing first hand information of its work in the various countries, has been of great assistance.

Work In Paris

From headquarters in Paris comes news of Y.W.C.A. work, which has been very much upset by the war situation, especially because of evacuation by great numbers of the population into central or southwestern France. Working among the refugees has given Y.W.C.A. workers a great advantage and tremendous possibilities, however, to be of service to large numbers of women who are not members—the French 'Y' having been chiefly a girls' organization prior to the war.

In the British Y.W.C.A. the same difficulties are encountered because of evacuation, normal activities of the people being almost entirely over-thrown. The hostels and homes of the organization are being used chiefly to shelter girls in government positions who must be near their offices because of the difficulty of getting back and forth. Part of the national headquarters in London had to evacuate to the sea shore, making the work of carrying on even more difficult.

The emergency work increases as the industrial population becomes more busily engaged in war activities. The need for the Y.W.C.A. to create some sort of normal life for the women and girls thus employed has to be forced. Another problem of the British Association is that of the thousands of refugees who have come into the country from Europe—and here the speaker asked the question, "Is it fair to let England carry the whole burden of these people who have had to flee from their own countries?"

The German Association is not yet closed down, but German women must be as "wise as serpents" to carry on under the strain of constant suspicion. Already the German government has warned members of the association that it may need their headquarters in Berlin, and they are supposed to sell out their stock before April of this year.

Organization in so small a country as Poland have a tremendous evacuee problem; the Dutch Y. W. C. A. has accomplished a wonderful service in acting as a neutral force between Germany, Geneva and England; Rumania and Hungary have a Great Polish refugee problem, and such small associations have not the equipment to meet the necessary emergencies, and require funds and many expert workers.

"A solid foundation in the life of girls and women in the Y. W. C. A. is the same world over," Miss Matouskova said in closing her remarks. "Whether you live in a country upset by war or not, the material things won't go with you; the things that will stay with you and help you are the things that have become part of your spiritual life; have become part of yourself—that is the one thing that matters in our Association."

Membership Tea.

Miss Matouskova's address was given Tuesday afternoon in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. at the Annual Membership Tea, and she was introduced to the guests as they came in by Mrs. A. Moir. Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner presented the speaker, who is now a member of the National Council staff of Canada, and a vice-president on the executive of the World Conference at Geneva. She was thanked by Mrs. T. J. Carley.

In the evening Miss Matouskova was guest speaker at a Y. W. C. A. "Members and Friends' Banquet", given under the auspices of the Girls' Council, at which every department of the 'Y' was represented.

Introduced by Miss Grace Sargent, president of the Girls' Council, Miss Matouskova outlined interesting historical facts about her own country, and told of the various new states that have been born since the Great War in Europe.

Controlled By Germany.

There is not a foot of soil in Czechoslovakia today that is not under German control, and the population is ruled by Germans in every sphere of life. The Germans have closed down all the universities because of innocent demonstrations by students.

She told of the various attitudes taken by the youth of the country towards new conditions, and said that young people are reading the Old-Testament, and finding an answer to many of the questions that Christian people ask about the fate of their nation today in Europe.

"One hope that we have in Europe," the speaker continued "is that some kind of human contact and neighbourly way of living may be established. Young Christians are faced with the tremendous problem of bringing together the people of Europe who are separated by a great gulf of nationality and religion. They will have to begin new relationships when the war is over. It is a big task that is before our organizations, and we have to use this time in preparing our resources so that we may take up our work when the war is over. Our task of building up better relationships, in watching so that no breaks come again, is one that will never be finished.

Miss Doris Glover, a representative of the Girls' Council, moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

OTTAWA, Jan. 10—(CP).—Canada's boys in the air force blue are riding the skies in first-class bombers and fighters, carrying on the Dominion's air tradition in the greatest aviation boom in the country's history.

The war has brought vast expansion to the Royal Canadian Air Force. There are new planes, hundreds of new pilots and a fearless spirit of high erideavor in the force that is preparing to defend Canadian shores and combat Nazi airmen in Europe.

With the R. C. A. F. forming the nucleus of the Empire air training scheme, there probably is not an air arm in the world with more significant potentialities or one which will make a greater contribution to the allies' success.

Only recently Prime Minister Mackenzie King said the Empire Air training scheme might well be the deciding factor in this second Great war.

A year ago the force was a comparatively small peacetime organization flying old planes. But war in Europe has brought modern aircraft streaking across Canada's military airdromes.

Bombers from Quebec.

A Bristol-Bolingbroke reconnaissance bomber, built in Quebec, is the most recent plane to be delivered and is the pride of the force. It has a speed of up to 300 miles an hour, carries 1,000 pounds in bombs and three machine guns and can cover 1,000 miles without refueling. Seventeen similar machines will be manufactured shortly for the R. C. A. F.

A dozen Westland-Lysander army co-operation planes are being used and more of these machines, manufactured at Toronto, are on order. At least 10 Lockhead Hudson bombers have been in service for the past two months. They are similar in design and size to the Trans-Canada Air Lines commercial Lockheed "14s."

Other aircraft being flown by the R. C. A. F. include high-speed Hawker Hurricane fighters, Blackburn Sharks, Spitfires, reconnaisance flying boats, and two new types of training ships, the Oxford and the Harvard.

The majority of these planes are of English design and have been manufactured in Canada or England by the government likely will now draw further on United States factories. Total number of R. C. A. F. planes is a military secret, but it is in the hundreds and increasing daily.

The war has resulted in speeding up of the air force training plan with recruits being put through all stages in 28 weeks compared to the peacetime training which took 50 weeks before the pilot received his wings. At present Camp Borden is being used for intermediate training and Trenton for advanced but before spring between 50 and 100 additional airports will be ready where Canadian and Empire airmen can learn to handle their planes for war. The R. C. A. F. Co-operation Squadron, which is to serve with the Canadian Active Service Force in France, is in training near Ottawa.

Wild Cariboo Horses Doomed By The War

VICTORIA, Jan. 10— (CP)— The war means death for thousands of wild horses which roam the Cariboo ranchlands in British Columbia's interior.

Provincial Government officials today ordered an intensification of the 1940 roundup of the animals whose forebears escaped from ranches and became as wild as moose or deer. Hunters were urged to clear the range of every wild horse, if possible.

The roundup is an annual grazing control measure in the Cariboo, but officials said it should be intensified this year to preserve as much grazing land as possible for live stock that will produce foodstuffs.

Hunters taking part in the roundup can receive 2.50 a head from the owners of branded horses, or slaughter the animals for fox meat.

Congress To Pass Anti-Lynch Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — (AP). —The Anti-Lynching Bill was wrapped up for passage by the United States House of Representatives today in a torrent of debate over who —if anyone—is playing politics with the negro vote.

The Democrats said it was the Republicans; the Republicans said it was the Democrats. Despite the argument among supporters of the bill, there was no doubt that it would pass with votes to spare by the end of the day.

The partisan row was stirred yesterday by a remark of Representative Arthur Mitchell, Illinois Democrat and the only negro in Congress, that Republican were "trying to buy back the negro vote with this bill."

He said that the Republican Party had been "making promises" to the negro for the last 75 years and was now "discredited" with the race.

Despite his attack on Republican supporters of the measure, Mitchell made an impassioned plea for its adoption.

Proponents hailed the anti-lynching as ensuring rights now denied to negroes, while the Opposition contended it was unconstitutional and claimed that the South already has solved the lynching problem.

The bill provides Federal fines and imprisonment for peace officers who fail to stop lynchings.

Wants Salaries Cut

VANCOUVER, Jan. 10 — (CP). —Alderman J. W. Cornett yesterday asked the Civic Finance Committee to support his move to cut the Mayor's salary from $5,400 to $2,000 a year and to reduce aldermen's indemnity from an annual $1,620 to $1,200.

The motion stirred some aldermanic opposition and drew from Mayor Lyle Telford the remark, "that it is the most absurd thing in the world to ask the mayor of a large city to work for $2,000 to $3,000 a year."

The motion was tabled for discussion next Monday.

Canadian Troops Get First Mail

ALDERSHOT, Jan. 10 (CP Cable) —Officers and men of the Canadian Active Service Force were afflicted with writer's cramp today as they rushed off replies to stacks of mail which have just reached here from home—the first mail since embarkation.

In every encampment housing the Canadians the busiest men were those distributing letter and Christmas packages. More than 1,000 bundles were distributed last night, but the real flood descended today.

Smiles wrethed the faces of the troops as a battalion of postmen tossed bulky bundles on billet beds, and the wal land fireplace mantles quickly blossomed out with colorful Christmas cards.

An epidemic of colds, which afflicted the troops shortly after their arrival, gradually is abating. Men located in the spider huts were less afflicted as they enjoyed comparative comfort in the central heating, shower baths and other modern features unknown to the soldiers of the last war.

As elected officers and men left for numerous special training courses, a number of seasoned Imperial instructors arrived in camp to help the Canadian N.C.O.'s put the troops through the paces.

Snow Fencing Is Ordered For Seymour

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 10 (ENS) —A verbal battle which culminated in the ordering of one thousand feet of snow fence featured the inaugural session of the Seymour Township Council here on Monday. Councillors W. J. Duncan and M. Wight argued at length for the purchase of the fence despite the opposition of Reeve W. Ross, who was finally won over to their point of view. "It has come to the time when people in the country want to drive their cars all winter and they are demanding that the roads be kept open," declared Councillor Frank Lee, who chided the Reeve, saying that all farmers were not lucky enough to be living on the Provincial Highway.

Reeve Ross felt that it was too late in the season to install the fences, and also argued against the expenditure. The cost was finally estimated at $318, which, it was said, would amount to less than a tenth of a mill.

Name New Solicitor.

Only change in this year's township appointments came with the naming of J. F. R. Douglas as township solicitor. He will replace N. Alex. MacColl, who had previously served in that capacity and who three months ago was appointed solicitor for the town of Campbellford.

Rev. B. Simpson Black, who presided at the openingof the meeting, was tendered a vote of thanks, on motion of Deputy-Reeve William Rowe and Councillor W. Duncan. The clerk read a letter from the Counties treasurer re the payment made to the treasurer in 1939, also a letter from the Ontario Good Roads Association soliciting membership.

J. D. Mills addressed the Council thanking them for thetir business during the preceding year and soliciting its continuance during 1940.

Applications for the position of assessor from Valentine J. Chaplin and William McQuigg were considered, but T J. Ketcheson received the appointment again.

The matter of handling relief was discussed at some length and it was moved by Councillors Duncan and Wight that all applicants be requested to fill out and sign an application form and that the Reeve investigate all cases and fill out the form for submission to the inspector for his approval. A motion was also passed authorizing the Reeve and Treasurer G. G. Stephens to sign all cheques and notes. Tax Collector William Fisher presented his statement for the year showing a balance of $1,868.43 in current taxes outstanding. The report of School Inspector G. W. Anderson was received and filed.

Among the by-laws passed was one for authorizing the expenditure of up to $15,000 on township roads. This sum was divided as follows: Road constructiacn, $1,500; bridge construction, $2,000; machinery, $500; maintenance and repair, $10,400; superintendent, $600.

Annual appointments were made by by-law as follows: George W. Anderson, reappoinated school attendance officer; W. A. Wynn, reappointed live stock valuator; John S. Wallace, reappointed to Board of Health; W. C. Todd, reappointed as High School Trustee for S.S. No. 8; F. F. R. Douglas appointed as township solicitor; T. J. Ketheson, reappointed assessor; John Ingram, reappointed weed inspector. The pay sheet was passed and included in it the payment of all election expenses, also G. W. Anderson $5.50, H. D. Atkinson, relief account, $2.00; Dunk's Grocery, $19.50; John Gay, relief account, $6.00; Lewis Store, $20.00; W. W. Clarke & Son, relief account, $2.75; R. Anderson, $9.00; Dr. U. A. Bright, $12.50.

Bombs Indicate Raid Upon Sylt

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 10—(AP).—Vivid flashes, the rumble of cannonading and the distant glare of searchlights, followed by the southwest flight of numerous aircraft, indicated a battle over the Island of Sylt, Northern German air base, Danish observers reported today.

They said the activity was noted off the southwest Danish coast just before dawn and that about 9 a.m. (3 a.m. EST) the planes, of undisclosed nationality, were seen heading in the direction of Heligoland Bigh.

(The British Air Ministry reported today the Royal Air Force had made reconnaissance flights during the night over northwest Germany and Heligoland and maintained "security partols" over German minelaying bases in the Frisian Islands).

Charles Lambert and family wish to thank all those who helped send floral tributes, loaned cars and helped in anyway during their recent sad bereavement in the loss of a loving wife and mother.

IN MEMORIAM

EVANS.—In memory of our dear daughter, Bella, who died January 10, 1936.
God knows how much we miss her,
Never shall her memory fade,
Loving thoughts shall ever wander
To the spot where she is laid.
—Sadly missed—Mother, Dad and sister Nancy.

EVANS.—In fond and loving memory of my dear sister, Mrs. Bella Evans, who died January 10, 1935.
You are not forgotten, sister,
Nor ever will you be,
As long as life and memory lasts
We will remember thee.
—Rene, Jim, Betty and Jimmy Harrison.

TOCCHET.—In loving memory of a dear friend, Mrs. A. Tocchet (nee Margaret Grady), who left this world January 10, 1939.
Her smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall;
She had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet her;
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp her hand in the Better Land,
Never to part again.
—A Friend.

TOCCHET.—In loving memory of a dear daughter and sister, Mrs. A. Tochett (nee Margaret Grady) who passed away January 10, 1939.
God knew that she was suffering,
That the hills were hard to climb,
So He closed her weary eyelids
And whispered "Peace be thine."
Away in the beautiful hills of God,
By the valley of rest so fair,
Some time, some day, we know not when,
We will meet our loved one there.
—Lovingly remembered by Dad, Mother, Sisters and Brothers.

EVANS.—In loving memory of Bella Tooley, who passed away January 10, 1935.
We have only your memory, dear daughter,
To remember our whole life through.
But the sweetness will linger forever,
As we treasure the image of you.
—Ever remembered by Father and Mother-in-law.

EVANS.—In loving memory of my dear wife, Bella Tooley, who passed away January 10, 1935.
The world may change from year to year
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one I loved
From memory pass away.
—Ever remembered by Husband.

Newsman Paints —With Success

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP).—Two and a half years ago, Charles Norman, a newspaperman who never had painted before, decided to try his hand at watercolors.

So he started painting pictures of objects and scenes in his Greenwich Village apartment.

The first art dealer to see his work took him on for a one-man show. Today, the sign at the Julien Levy Gallery, one of New York's most important galleries, reads: "Watercolors by Charles Norman."

The catalog reads:

'Flowers, red pitcher. Flowers, white pitcher. Interior with lamp. Still life with leaves." And on down a list of fifteen pictures by the man who painted what he saw with a sense of color and form that he already had as a writer.

Levy, the dealer who handles the work of Dali and Eugene Berman, said that when he saw the pictures he thought they were extraordinary for the shortness of time Norman had been painting.

Norman is a former Associated Press feature writer. He also is a poet, with two books of verse to his credit.

The Stars Say . . .

For Thursday, January 11.

MODERATE opportunity and accomplishment are presaged by the fairly favorable lunar transits. With the ambitions under mild stimulus, both in business and all pertaining to writings, publishing and promotion, cleverness and resourcefulness may prove profitable. However, there is some menace of treachery, intrigue or secret undermining from a source little suspected. Keep alert, astute.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a year of moderate success. Business should move at a fairly active pace, and matters of a literary, advertising, publicity or transportation nature should thrive, providing there is sufficient stability and applicatalon. There are dangers of secret underminings, intrigues or treacheries, which are best met by strategy or diplomacy.

A child born on this day may be versatile and resourceful, having fine mental equipment and moderate ambition. It may enjoy fair success in life, despite secret enmities or its own subtleties.

ON COMPENSATION BOARD.

TORONTO, Jan. 10 — (CP). — Dr. W. Davey Smith, former superintendent of the Ontario Mental Hospital at St. Thomas, to-day assumed new duties as a member of the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board. He succeeds Earl Hutchinson, who retired from the vice-chairmanship of the Board about two months ago.

The big mental hospital at St. Thomas has been turned over to the Federal Government for use by the Royal Canadian Air Force during the war and this necessitated an extensive shift of staff and patients.

"TELL-BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

SYNOPSIS.

FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.
NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.
ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby house.
DR. BILL MALLORY, close friend of Ellen's.
YESTERDAY: Fabienne goes to the ancestral home near Baltimore, maintained in luxury by her aunt and uncle.

CHAPTER ELEVEN.

FOR NEARLY a fortnight Fabienne had been in Maryland. It was the way it always was when she was there. Long cool, sweet sleep. Bright mornings, Molly fussing over her, brushing her corn-silk hair, lovingly caring for her clothes. Dance frocks in the scented closet. Uncle Mark and Aunt Edna waiting up for her whatever hour she came in. Cookies and milk at three o'clock in the morning in front of the fire in the library or in Uncle Mark's study. Gossip about the party.

The dances. The same faces. The high-ceiling rooms and the colored boys playing waltzes back of the potted palms. Miss Kate and Miss Viola Lee in their lavendar laces and painted shawls. The Gosling girls still beau snatching. The elderly "eligible bachelor" who had courted her mother and was paying the same compliments to her. The laden banquet boards and the rich buffets. The big, pale pink hams and hot breads. The wine cups and steaming toddies. The baked oysters and fried chicken. The tinkling laughter and slurred voices. The social south that never changed. Those were her nights, one after another.

There were the days. The morning rides— hard, fast riding over swept turf, over the first light snow, for now it was December. Rides on fresh mornings that crackled with energy and ended in nothingness.

Back to Nancy's or Jane's or someone else's and a highball before lunch. Lunch that lasted into the afternoon hours. Home to change, or on to someone elses house in riding clothes for cocktails and talk about horses or other people. And beaux, young and old, for seemingly no man in her set in that part of the country did any work.

The days and the nights with the sameness and gaiety that Fabienne felt must be forced insomuch as it had never changed, began to pall upon her and restlessness to which she had never before been prey, fell upon her.

She took to prowling the lanes on foot, avoiding the telephone, finding herself in the grip of a deadly ennui.

Sometimes, looking at the sky and noting the shifting light that marked the hour, pictures came to her.

Now it is four o'clock. The children's games are noisy in the west wing of Willoughby house. Her own little class would be rehearsing the play she had directed.

Six o'clock. Another girl would be celaring the desk in the children's clinic. Ellen Chapman, thinking of her evening date with Bill Mallory, everywhere at once. Busy, happy, working.

But Ellen Chapman wouldn't be called for in a Rolls towncar. Ellen wouldn't have a new white and silver gown to wear at a dance in a ballroom that had seen three presidents dancing there.

Fabienne was putting on the white and silver gown when Molly brought up the evening mail.

She pulled the dress over her head and, without waiting to hook it, sat on one of Fabienne de Courcy's little spindle-legged chairs and ran through the pile of letters.

There was one from Paris. That would be from Gertrude.

".....I don't think I shall come over for Christmas, after all,' Gertrude wrote. "I've been invited to Nice with some amusing people. And it isn't as if you were all children and needed me to have a happy holiday. The twins"—the twins had been put in school in Switzerland—"are reluctant to miss the winter sports and wish to stay on at school. Dick writes me that he is going to fly to California for the holidays. Do you think he is interested in the Haviland girl? I do hope so. Her family, you know, own most of the western railroads. Dick has got to make a good marriage now that he hasn't any money outside of the pitiful income from his trust fund. I do worry about my children."

Fabienne sniffed indelicately and continued her reading:

"I'm so happy that you have decided to give up that odious work. I can't tell you how you hurt me doing that, Fabienne; but I forgive you now and knew that you'd come to your senses. I should have insisted on your coming to Paris with me, but I know that you are happier in Maryland. And I also know, whether you realize it yet or not, that you are only happy with Nicky. You've practically spent your lives together, darling, and that counts for a great deal. I've often thought that the reason why my two marriages were so disastrous was that I didn't know either of my husbands long enough before we were married. I always married for love that was nothing more than infatuation. I'm afraid that's what you're looking for. But it is so wrong—when you have dear, devoted Nicky already waiting for you."

Fabienne thrust the letter aside and screamed. "Molly. Hook this thing up. I'm late enough now."

Molly said, "You ain't read all your letters, Miss Fabienne."

"I've read enough. Don't forget my carriage boots. It's cold tonight."

Molly held a long wrap for her to slip into and Fabienne looked at herself a long time in the pier glass. Then she unpinned the sheaf of white camelias from her shoulder and threw them on the bed beside the letters with a gesture of distaste and went out of the room and down to dear, devoted Nicky who was waiting for her with the inevitable highball glass in his hand.

The flowers were gone and the bed neatly turned down when she returned to her room much later that night.

The letters she had not opened were on the bed table beside the bowl of fruit Molly had placed there.

There was a long white envelope with a New York postmark and her name typed on it. Curious, she slit it and pulled out three large sheets of paper. The first page contained a typewritten note from Ellen. It was the first Ellen had sent her.

The other pages contained signatures scrawled in school children's writing.

Fabienne's eyes lighted as she read rapidly:

"Dear Fabienne." Ellen wrote. "We hope this letter will not be an interruption. It is an invitation from all of us, most earnestly urged by those whose names you will find here. The play—your play—as you know, is to be presented on Saturday afternoon and it is our hope (a forlorn one, perhaps) that you can be our guest of honor. I thought perhaps you might like to send a telegram. It would mean so much to the children. Not as much, of course, as your presence, but I do understand and hope you are having a glorious time. We all miss you very much and I miss you particularly. If you are ever to be in New York, I hope that you will be my guest. So much has happened at Willoughby House that I know you'd like to hear about. Affectionately, Ellen."

Fabienne read the names written in pencil: Wolesjcki, Tomassino, Kelly, Wong, Geradi, Svenson. She could see them all. Little red heads, tow heads, black heads. Little Slavic, Latin and Oriental faces. The darlings.

What a softie she was to feel that way. How coolly amused Nicky would be.

Saturday was the day of the play. Saturday was also the day the Hendersons were giving their house warming. She must have Molly take in the seams of her sequin jacket. It was a little too loose and she meant to look her smartest for that party.

There were two things she must do that next morning. Speak to Molly about the jacekt and send a nice, long telegram to Ellen for the children, wishing them success, telling them she wished she could be with them.

At breakfast she told Molly about the sequin jacket. Then she got out Edna's old roadster and drove down to the telegraph office in the village. On the way she composed the telegram, but the words fled from her when she went to put them on paper. And she found herself writing:

WILL ACCEPT INVITATION WITH PLEASURE. ARRIVING NEW YORK SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

HAVE YOU LEARNED IT?

IT IS pretty hard to defend yourself against a play you do not understand. Only a player who has studied the composition of such maneuvers as the double squeeze would be likely to recognize that one is being built up by the declarer. If he sensed in time what was going on, he might be able to defend his side against it. But if he did not, you could not reasonably expect him to make the only move that could head it off.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South's 1-Diamond, North's 1-Spade, South's 1-No Trump, North's 3-Spades and South's 4-Spades here brought a lead of the diamond J from East. West played his ace, returned the diamond 4 for East to ruff the Q, the latter cashed his club A and returned the club 5 to the K.

Here the declarer, William B. Hill, of the Yale Club team in New York's Intercollegiate league, went to work for a double squeeze. He took three trumps, the heart A, club K, diamond K, then two more spades. When the last was led to the eleventh trick, East had to discard one of his two hearts in order to keep his club Q guarding the dummy's 10. That 10 was then discarded by Mr. Hill, and now West was squeezed. If he threw the diamond 10, he would set up the declarer's 7, so he broke his two hearts, and Mr. Hill cashed the heart K and 4 for the last two tricks.

When West had four cards left, his heart Q plus a guard, his diamond 10 and his club J, he could have prevented the play from working. If he threw a heart, depending on East to guard that suit, he himself could have protected the clubs and diamonds. East then could have afforded to discard the club Q on the eleventh trick and keep his two hearts.

Australia Sees Empire Unity In War Efforts

MELBOURNE, Jan. 10—(CP). — The war has brought a fresh sense of Empire union, says the Australian News Letter, issued by the Australian section of the Empire Press Union.

The News Letter continues: The Commonwealth watches with interest the spirit of union with, and the efforts to aid the Mother Country in the prosecution of the war efforts in which Australia will not be found behindhand. The Prime Minister, Mr. Menzies, in repeated statements and speeches has clearly defined where Australia stands in the immense struggle which lies ahead.

The magnificent gesture of New Zealand in ranging herself alongside the Mother Country; the gratifying success of General Smuts in aligning the Union of South Africa behind Britain; the results of the recent Quebec elections, consolidating Canada's position, and enabling Mr. Mackenzie King to speak for the whole Dominion; the success attending the great effort to establish the Empire Air Scheme in Canada; the consolidation of the various Empire defence forces under a single strategic direction—these are but a few of the factors already in operation which an Australian News Letter must necessarily record.

Leaders' Assurances

Mr. Mackenzie King in Canada, Mr. Menzies in Australia, Mr. Savage in New Zealand and General Smuts in South Africa have made it clear that their nations are determined to throw all their strength into the war. Those who can speak for the Indian people, from the Princes to Mr. Gandhi, are eager to do their utmost.

The will to victory is as strong as in 1916, and the power, thanks to the development of the Empire, greater This Imperial Council of War of 1939 will organize a concentration of force from resources all over the world for which history has no parallel. It will be used to vindicate the cause of freedom by which the British Commonwealth of Nations lives and has its being.

Picturesque Manhattan Pushcart Market Is Shifted Off Curb To Sanitary Building

NEW YORK, Jan. 10—(CP).—Manhattan's largest pushcart market, the picturesque, east side meeting place of all nations where anything from a nickel-a-bunch shoestrings to an octopus could be purchased, bowed to modernization today. It moved into up-to-date, sanitary buildings.

The move was not without its heartaches for resident of the lower East Side. But it was the newest in New York's campaign to clear the streets and as from today the bearded, gesticulating vendors must do business in new, brick quarters on Essex street.

Some of the owners of the rickety carts with jingling bells and crudely drawn advertising signs are moving gladly into the new quarters. Others say they would prefer to remain on the curb, shouting the prices of their wares —second-hand clothing, pots and pans, eels, snails, devil fish and giant tuna.

Prices will remain the same in the business-like Essex street market; but something of the old world flavor went yesterday when the last of the curb-side sales were made.

Twelve-Year Forgery Term Stands

TORONTO, Jan. 10—(CP). — Attorney General Gordon Conant said today there would be no appeal instituted by his department against the 12-year prison term for forgery imposed on Emmanuel Wheatman at St. Catharines.

The apparent severity of the sentence on two forgery charges concerning 15 cheques, caused Mr. Conant to make an inquiry. Today in a statement announcing his belief the sentence was justified, Mr. Conant said:

"The conduct of the accused was despicable. He inveighed a young man with no previous record into committing crime. He has proven himself to be a menace to society and I think the learned judge was quite right in imposing the sentence he did."

According to the investigation made by Mr. Conant's department it was said Wheatman, who under that name and also the alias Edward O'Hara has a long record for forgery convictions, inveigled William Ritchie, young Alberta transient, into becoming his partner in cheque frauds. Wheatman posed as a farmer and Ritchie as a hired man and swindled flour and feed merchants. Ritchie was given five months determinate and 12 indeterminate. Wheatman's previous convictions were at St. Thomas, Woodstock, Sudbury, London and Toronto.

Madrid Restores Her Watchmen

MADRID, Jan. 10—(AP)—Sereno—the fellow who has the key to your apartment building when you come in late at night—is recovering the prestige he enjoyed in the days of the monarchy.

Sereno is a glorified night watchman, generally a little man in a corduroy suit who carries a big bunch of keys that fit all the doors in your neighborhood.

It is an old Spanish custom to close up the house doors and windows tighter than drums after 10 p.m. Spanish keys usually are much too large to be packing about. So you depend on the Sereno to let you in after 10 p.m.

The custom is to stand in front of the big iron gate that bars the entrance to your domicile and yell sing-song fashion, "Say-ray-no-o-o" all the time clapping your hands. If he is a good Sereno and doesn't happen to be at the farthest end of his beat he will shout back, "Va" (meaning "I'm coming") and you know all is well."

Asks Court Order To Catch Bride

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10 ((AP).—John Adams, a Romeo with a court order intended to restrain his prospective mother-in-law from blocking his romance, vowed today he would marry his Juliet if he had to appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

Adams, 32-year-old collection agency executive, asserted in seeking a habeas corpus writ that his intended bride, Isabel Deshler, 24, was kept from him against her will by her mother, Mrs. Louise Deshler.

Judge Lyle Jacks decided the superior court should determine if cupid was being illegally thwarted, so he ordered Mrs. Deshler to bring her daughter before him Friday for a hearing.

"Isabel would marry me in a minute if she could get her mother's consent," said Adams. "And I'm going to marry her if I have to go to the Supreme Court to do it."

He said he had pounded on the Deshler door and telephoned incessantly since Thursday, but his only luck was the statement from Isabel's sister, Louise, that his fiancee had left town.

"I don't believe it," said Adams, who added his idea for the court action came from the similar case in New York involving George Lowther and the former Eileen Herrick. They were married last week.

Adams said that three weeks ago he and Isabel tried to elope, but she stopped to telephone her mother, who became hysterical, so they postponed the event 24 hours. When he telephoned the next night, Adams related, Mrs. Deshler told him her daughter had changed her mind, and since then has had an aching heart and no fiancee.

Obituary

MISS ANNIE ARMSTRONG.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 10—(ENS)—The death of Miss Annie Armstrong which took place at Peterborough on Thursday, January 4, in her eighty-third year following a comparatively brief illness, removed a member of a pioneer family whose history has been intimately connected with that of Millbrook and Cavan over a long period of years.

She was born and brought up on the family homestead, Fourth Line, Cavan, where her parents, Joseph Armstrong and his wife Margaret Deyell, the latter a daughter of John Deyell, first white settler in Cavan Township, were early and highly-respected citizens, clearing their land from the virgin forest and doing much to promote the welfare of the township from both a civic and religious standpoint.

Over thirty years ago Miss Armstrong came from the farm homestead to take up residence in Millbrook, continuing here ever since, though in later years she had spent the winter months in Toronto, and for the past few weeks had been living in Peterborough, where her final illness and subsequent death took place.

An Anglican in religion, Miss Armstrong was devoted to her church and its interests, and for many years was an active member of the W.A. of St. Thomas' Church, filling the office of Dorcas secretary efficiently until ailing health made its duties too onerous, when the position of honorary vice-president was accorded her, continued attendance and support characterizing her connection with the society until her decease.

One of a family of nine children, four sons and five daughters, the immediate surviving relatives include one brother, Joseph of Winnipeg, Man., and one sister, Mrs. Mildred Mitchell of Los Angeles, Cal.; previously deceased were three brothers, John, Robert and William, all of Cavan, and three sisters, Mrs. Walsh (Mary), of Los Angeles, Cal., Mrs. T. H. Collins (Francis) of Millbrook, and Margaret, who lived at home.

The funeral took place from the residence of her nephew, Postmaster T. H. Collins, King Street, Millbrook, on Saturday at 2 p.m., the service being conducted by Venerable Archdeacon William Simpson, B.A. By request, there were no flowers, except those from immediate relatives.

The pall-bearers were three nephews, Gerald and Earl Armstrong and T. H. Collins, J. R. Eakins, T. A. Campbell, and A. A. Needler. Interment was in the family burial plot at St. Paul's Cemetery, Fourth Line, Cavan.

Lecture Series Treat For R.A.F.

WITH THE ROYAL AIR FORCE IN FRANCE, Jan. 10—(CP-Reuters)—Life promises to be very dull for the R.A.F. in France this week, whether the war on the Western Front starts or not.

The first of seven performances to be given before Saturday by three concert companies and a pantomime company was held last night. Talks by prominent lecturers, designed to meet the demands of the personnel for something to think as well as laugh about while waiting for "the balloon to go up" are expected to start today.

Dr. H. M. Abrahams, British Olympic champion and well-known sports commentator, who is to be the first lecturer, should have arrived by air yesterday, but has evidently been detained by the prevalent heavy fog. He is due, like those who will follow him, to give 10 lectures illustrated by films and slides in 10 days.

By tomorrow evening, when Will Fyffe and his party are scheduled to give their opening show, there will be 55 artists, men and women, in the area of Britain's air force.

One party, led by Beryl Beresford, has endeared itself to a wide audience. Now in the fourth week of its tour with the B.E.F., the party has travelled nearly 4,000 miles since leaving London.

The bitterly cold weather of Christmas and New Year has been a severe trial to entertainers on the Western Front. The men are full of praise for the endurance displayed by their female colleagues under, as is often the case, bad playing as well as weather conditions.

New Canadian Red Cross Hospital In Taplow To Have Banting Directing Research

TORONTO, Jan 10—(CP)—Sir Frederick Banting, famous Canadian scientist and co-discoverer of insulin, will take charge of a research laboratory at a new military hospital to be erected and equipped by the Canadian Red Cross on the grounds of Lady Astor's estate at Taplow, England. Norman Somerville, chairman of the society, made an announcement to this effect last night.

The laboratory will be devoted to special research medicine as applied to military needs. Sir Frederick is already in England and is expected to supervise construction of the laboratory. The hospital, to be known as number one Canadian Red Cross base hospital, will be built entirely with funds supplied by the Canadian Red Cross.

In the first Great War, Sir Frederick served in France as a lieutenant in the Canadian Army Medical Corps.

Atlantic Atoll Saves 5 Fliers

NASSAU, Bahamas, Jan. 10 (AP)—Five Youngstown, O., fliers used a tiny atoll in the Atlantic Ocean, 150 miles off the Miami, Fla., coast, for a landing place when their plane became disabled high over the water yesterday.

The airmen, Robert Myers, Hartford Arkwright, Ralph Seidner, James Tobin and John Bloom, were picked up uninjured by a rescue amphibian plane and brought here.

Plans were made today to recover the disabled craft with a barge from the thick underbrush of the small island, about 50 miles west of Nassau.

The fliers were participating in the Miami-to-Nassau pleasure flight to mark the opening of Nassau's first landing field. The landing field was established by Sir Harry Oakes, wealthy mine owner formerly of Toronto.

Ottawa To Get $1,257 Bill For Cafe Raid

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 10—City Council last night was asked to refer to Ottawa a bill for damages totalling $1,257, incurred when 100 soldiers wrecked the Hollywood Dine and Dance Club, Hamilton Road, December 1, in retaliation for the beating up of several soldiers at the establishment a few days previously. The matter was sent on to the Minister of National Defence.

Albert W. Gilleno, club operator, described as "wilful, premeditated destruction" the attack on his premises by the band of soldiers. He said he had given up a steady job and put all his savings into the business, and now was almost penniless.

"After five weeks' investigation, according to word from the military authorities at Queen's Park, they now disclaim liability," wrote Gilleno. "May I ask you to bring this matter to the attention of the authorities at Ottawa."

Council will advise Brig. D. J. MacDonald, O.C. Military District No. 1, and Col. Duncan Ross, MP., in whose riding the Hollywood Club is located ,that the claim is being referred to Ottawa.

Finns Attack 3rd Red Division

Last Of Soviet Corps Said Trapped On Eastern Front

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Advices from Finland said the Finns today were attacking a well-equipped Red Army division which they surrounded south of Lake Kianta on the eastern front.

The division was described as the third and last of a Soviet Russian army Corps, the two others, of 15,000 or more men each, having been shattered previously in the same general vicinity, with thousands reported slain.

Finns say that this army corps, the ninth, has been taking a terrific beating for the past two weeks in its attempt to sever the country at the narrow "waistline."

Following destruction of the 163rd Division, which the Finns described as a rout, they said the 44th division was decimated and its remnants were driven back across the border.

The Finns reported they now hold a 30-mile frontier strip east of Lake Kianta, free of enemy troops for the first time since the war began Nov. 30.

They said the last division of the army corps was trapped at Kukkamma, south of the scene of the other victories at Suomussalmi.

A communique of the Leningrad military headquarters described merely scouting activities and artillery fire at some places and said "nothing of importance" occurred in the campaign against Finland.

Attack Beaten Off

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 11 (AP)—Smashing of Russian attacks in the Salla and Petsamo sectors was reported in the Finnish army's daily communique today.

Salla is on Finland's eastern front. Petsamo, where Canadian nickel properties are located, is on the extreme northern corridor to the Arctic Sea. The Russians were thrown back, it was said, after preparation by Finnish artillery.

Would Aid Finns, But Swedes Must Be Neutral

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 11—(AP).—King Gustaf, in a speech from the throne, said today the Swedish people's desire to help Finland was "manifested unmistakably" in humanitarian aid, but he gave no suggestion of possible military assistance in the war against Soviet Russia.

"Finland's involvement in armed conflict touches the Swedish people in the deepest way," the King said.

"The willingness to hurry assistance to a brother people is manifested unmistakably. Sweden feels an obligation to give Finland's brave people every material humanitarian help which is possible while heeding its own position."

This last phrase was regarded as an allusion to Sweden's official attitude of neutrality.

Sweden is determined to defend her own independence under all circumstances, the King said, a sentiment voiced also by Prime Minister Hansson, who spoke later.

As members of the Riksdag met in the throne room to hear the King and Prime Minister, they learned that Sweden's record budget of 800,000,000 kroner (about $200,000,000) for military defence in the next fiscal year would cause a deficit for the first time in many years.

Ottawa To Standardize On Six Plane Types For Economy, Speeded Promotion In Commonwealth's Air Training Offer

OTTAWA, Jan. 11 — (CP). — Decision to standardize on six types of aircraft for use at various schools and thus add efficiency in promotion of the British Commonwealth Air Training plan was known today by the Defence Department.

The six types of planes are Avro Anson, North American Harvard, Fleet Trainer, de Havilland Tiger Moth, Fairey Battle and Noorduyn Norsemen.

Fleet Trainers and de Hevilland Tiger Moths, built in Canada, will be used almost exclusively for instructional purposes at the elementary flying training schools, the Department said.

As indicated by Transport Minister Howe last Sunday, 1,382 training aircraft will be manufactured in Canada, the engines being imported. It is intended, the Department said, to achieve economy in engines also by standardization of type.

Avro Ansons and North American Harvards have been selected for the more advanced type of instruction at service flying training schools, while the Ansons also will be used at the air observers' schools and the air navigation schools.

The flying instructors' school will be supplied fleet trainers, De Haviland Tiger Moths, Avro Ansons, and North American Harvard trainers in order that instructors may be familiar with all types of craft to be used.

Bombing and gunnery schools and the air armament school will be provided with a number of Fairey battle aircraft, 870 of which are now on order in England.

Special provision, the department said, has been made for wireless instruction and Noorduyn Norsemen planes, designed and manufactured near Montreal, have been selected for this branch of the training plan in which Canadian, Australian, New Zealand, and United Kingdom men will learn air force duties in Canada.

Largest number of any type of aircraft to be employed for instructional purposes will be Avro Ansons 1,622 airframes for which are to be shipped to Canada by the British Government, the de-

Report Britain Dickering For U.S. Mines

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(CP)—The New York Times says today in a special dispatch from Washington that the British government is discussing with United States officials the purchase of American mines for the large mine field in the North Sea which is nearing completion.

"It is not known whether actual orders have been placed; but a list of American manufacturers who can supply mines rapidly has been available officially to the British purchasing mission," the dispatch says.

"The United States navy has a full supply of mines for its own purposes, and the British will find no difficulties with regard to priority if they undertake purchases here, officials said. Rapid and large-scale production by American plants is available, it was disclosed.

"American naval circles are extremely complacent about German magnetic mines and the devices they contain, as disclosed by the recovery of several mines used in the German attempt to disrupt British shipping. The impression is prevalent that the United States has mines superior to any the Germans have produced, but details about them are a closely guarded secret."

Bitter Cold, Snow Grip Germany, Eastern Europe

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The coldest weather in years, accompanied by storms and a heavy snowfall, took many lives and paralysed normal activity in many parts of Southeastern Europe today.

Temperatures as low as 40 below zero Fahrenheit were reported in Rumania. The Danube River was frozen, its ice holding hundreds of barges bound for Germany with wheat and oil.

Coal Runs Low

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, Jan. 11.—(CP-Havas)—The Berlin correspondent of the newspaper De Telegraaf today reported that Germany's big cities are suffering badly from the bitter cold sweeping the country because the German transportation system has proved unable to deliver coal where it is needed most.

The dispatch said 40 per cent of German domestic shipping is done over rivers and other inter or waterways, all of which are frozen.

Many Berlin homes have been without heat since Christmas, the correspondent said, and those who are able have moved to hotels. Many shops, cafes and garages were reported closed for lack of fuel.

Board's Order To Reduce City Tax Rate

Judgment Delivered In City's Appeal For Trust Reserve

A belated but decidedly welcome Christmas gift for the taxpayers of Peterborough came through the mails this morning in form of a draft of an order issued by the Ontario Municipal Board by which the city trust commissioners are instructed not to make any demand upon the city council this year in regard to sinking fund debentures falling due in 1940 and 1941.

The order, received by City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, K.C., in reply to an appeal made to the Municipal Board by the city council, means a reduction of better than two mills and one-quarter on the tax rate for this year, or about $49,617, City Treasurer Morley Shaver estimates.

Appeal Again For 1942.

In forwarding the draft of the order the Municipal Board suggested that toward the close of the present year the city council should make a similar appeal to cover debentures which fall due in 1942.

Several attempts have been made by the city councils in years gone by to get a portion of the reserve which has been built up by the City Trust Commission but they have always failed.

With the passing of A. L. Elliott's bill in the legislature during the session last year a way was made whereby city councils could appeal to the municipal board for a portion of the surplus built up in trust by cities in this province.

The council took action and on motion of Alderman G. N. Gordon the Municipal Board was asked to portion part of the City Trust's reserve to the city treasurer during the next two years.

Red Thunder Bolt

Copenhagen, Denmark Jan. 11. FINNISH TROOPS credited with destroying two Russian divisions recently on the Suomussalmi front were reported today to have captured a "sled tank" which the Scandinavian press characterized as "Stalin's secret weapon."

The machine, consisting of an armored body mounted on skis and driven by an airplane propeller, was said to be capable of amazing speed over snowy open spaces. The armament was said to include machine guns and a light cannon.

The Finns reported its weaknesses were its light armor, difficulty of steering and unsuitability to broken, wooded country.

Hope 50-60 Alive As Crews Near Trapped Miners

BARTLEY, W. Va., Jan. 11—(AP)—As rescue crews struggled through debris and gas toward 87 miners entombed by an explosion that killed at least four, a mine official expressed hope today that "50 or 60" would be found alive.

The crews, which have pushed almost 1¼ miles through the blast-wrecked corridor in the Bartley No. 1 mine of the Pond Creek Pocahontas Coal Corporation, were reported within a few hundred feet of the men trapped by the blast yesterday.

G. J. Stollings, general manager of the corporation, reported at noon the crews might reach the men within six hours and added:

"We're very hopeful that possibly 50 or 60 can be found alive."

Veteran miners in this squalid southern West Virginia coal village shook their heads, however, and expressed fear all had perished. George Pile, company auditor said the "chances are heavily against finding any of the men alive."

100 Russian Officers Reported Recalled To Face Court Martial At Home For Conduct Of War On Finnish Fronts

Bombers Driven Off Great Tyne Ship Yards During Half Dozen Raids On East Coast Giving RAF, Land Guns Busiest Day Of War

LONON, Jan. 11— (CP) —German raiders appeared today off the Firth of Forth in Scotland and the estuaries of the Humber and Thames on England's eastern coast, the Air Ministry announced.

No bombs were dropped and no alarms sounded as the renewed flights of the German Air Force over the British coast met quick resistance from British fighters and anti-aircraft batteries.

The Evening News said the last 24 hours had been busiest faced by the Royal Air Force since the war began and the British fliers "have had to fight their fiercest battles."

Today's flights brought the first German Air visits of the war to the Tyneside, important shipbuilding and shipping centre.

The Air Ministry said German planes attempting to bomb a merchant vessel off the Norfolk coast were intercepted and driven off by defence fighters.

Its communique said "considerable air activity off the East coast of England and Scotland" occurred during the morning and listed raids at Newcastle-on-Tyne, the

Aviation Commissar Is Shifted; Newcomer On Job

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 11—(AP)— Reports were received here that more than 100 Soviet Russian officers had been called back from the Finnish front, some of them to face trial before special courts.

The reports, which reached Norwegian and Finnish quarters from numerous sources, said the officers would be tried before courts consisting of peoples commissars.

The Russian Commissariat dealing with supplies was reported especially to be under a penetrating inquiry, which, it was said, already has led to executions.

Immediate verification of the reports was lacking.

Observers here were inclined to link the reports with the Moscow announcement that Mikhail Kaganovich had been relieved as Commissar for the Soviet Aviation Industry and "transferred to another post."

Gaganovich held a key post, and one of his duties was to supply materials to plane factories.

There were persistent reports that the Russian forces were being reorganized because of weaknesses shown up in the invasion of Finland. These reports reached not only Helsingfors but several other Scandinavian capitals.

New Man on Plane Production

MOSCOW, Jan. 11.—(AP).— Soviet Russia has a new commissar for her aviation industry.

The Soviet News Agency, Tass, announced last night that Mikhail Kaganovich had been relieved as commissar and "transferred to another post." His successor, M. Shakhurin, is a newcomer to high Russian officialdom.

No reason was given for the change. Kaganovich, brother of Lazarus Kaganovich, a confidant of Joseph Stalin and administrator in several successive key positions, for-

U.S. Trade Critics Ruin-Bound Hull Charges

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Ascribing "flagrant and unscrupulous suppression and misuse of material facts" to critics of the reciprocal trade program, State Secretary Cordell Hull declared today that it had expanded markets for United States farm and manufactured products.

He appealed to the House of Representatives ways and means committee to renew the expiring trade agreements act in order to aid in worldwide economic readjustment after the war.

"The choice before us," Hull said, "is whether we shall lead the way toward the slough of despair and ruin for ourselves and for others, or toward the heights of economic progress, sustained prosperity and enduring peace for our nation and for the world."

He took issued with members of Congress who are demanding Senate ratification of each agreemnt, by asserting that the method followed in state department negotiations "is democratic in every sense of the word."

Hull said American tariffs were lowered only where they are "unduly burdensome" and where other countries have agreed to accord better treatment to United States exports in return for tariff adjustments.

Society-Beaten Ex-Bandit Turns To Gas

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11 — (AP). — The notorious career of mail robber Roy Gardner, who boasted that he could escape from the law, was closed in suicide to-day because he could not escape from the stigma of "ex-convict" after nearly 20 years in prison.

Fashioning a lethal chamber in the bathroom of his hotel headquarters here, Gardner, about 56, breathed deadly fumes which he created last night with chemicals, and died quickly, "old and tired" but bearing "no malice toward any human being."

Since his release from Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary in June, 1936, he has tried to rebuild his life in the world outside bars, trying the motion picture business, writing, and lecturing.

"All men who have to serve more than five years in prison are doomed," he said in a note, "but they don't realize it. They kid themselves into the belief that they can 'come back,' but they can't. There is a barrier between the ex-convict and society that cannot be levelled."

Gardner, whose final capture in Arizona came about because he refused to shoot at his captor — he never fired a shot in a long series of robberies—was solicitous to the last.

On the door of the bathroom, he posted a note which said: "Do not open this door. Poison gas. Call the police."

2 Dodge Sisters To Appeal Fortune Split

DETROIT, Jan. 11—(AP) —The fight over the $11,000,000 estate of Daniel Dodge, with the ink hardly dry on one court's verdict, headed toward an appeal tribunal today and a new chapter in the family dispute over its automobile fortune.

Counsel for two of Daniel's sisters— Mrs. Isabel Sloane and Mrs. Winifred Seyburn—prepared to appeal to circuit court the verdict yesterday of probate Judge Thomas C. Murphy under which Daniel's widow, Annie Laurine, one time Gore Bay, Ont., switchboard operator, receives $1,250,000.

(Laurine Dodge is visiting in Miami).

(She arrived here January 5 with Mrs. Fred Holmes of Windsor, Ont., and expects to return next week to her school work at Alma College at St. Thomas, Ont. She injured her back while engaged in athletics shortly before Christmas and has been spending her time sun-bathing on the beach).

Charles Wright, Jr., counsel for the two sisters, announced he would

Predicts Canada On Verge Of Work Boom

MONTREAL, Jan. 11 — (CP). — Belief that Canada faces a period of maximum employment—and possibly a labor shortage—due to the war was expressed to-day by President Morris W. Wilson at the annual meeting of the Royal Bank of Canada.

He expressed the hope that under such circumstances labor and wage disputes would be avoided. "Those who are fortunate enough to remain at their regular employment in Canada must not exploit the situation for their own ends."

But capital, too, must play its part, added Mr. Wilson. "Some industries, of course, will be adversely affected by the war, but the majority will undoubtedly experience a great stimulus," he said. "The benefits therefrom must not be retained by stockholders except to a normal degree."

The president said profiteering should be "ruthlessly" suppressed and our taxing system should be constantly under study and applied to direct our efforts to those activities essential to giving the maximum economic assistance in winning the war."

Japs Hint New Naval Building Race If States Increases Her Program

TOKYO, Jan. 11—(AP)—Expansion of the United States navy would precipitate a building race with Japan, newspapers predicted and a Japanese navy spokesman hinted today. One newspaper called expansion "the American menace."

"Naturally the Japanese navy feels great concern," the Navy spokesman said of the $1,300,000,000 United States naval program now before Congress.

"Apparently it is designed to maintain the United States' superior ratio even after lapse of the Washington treaty."

This treaty, which expired Jan. 1, 1937, fixed the United States' naval ratio to Japan at 5 to 3. It granted the United States parity with Great Britain.

Asked if he meant that the Japanese navy would be increased, he said, "You can imagine what action would take place."

The spokesman said construction of 52,000-ton United States warships, mentioned as a possible early development by Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of United States naval operations, would "concern all naval power."

Reappearance of the American proposal for naval improvements at the Island of Guam was characterized by the spokesman as "not a graceful attitude," in view of the Congress' previous rejection of it.

He declined to amplify his comments, but Tokyo newspapers were more forthright.

"If the United States, in disregard of the fundamentally peaceful program of the Japanese navy, seeks to maintain its unjustifiable superiority," said the newspaper Asahi, "Japan, in accordance with her policy of permitting no aggression, obviously would be compelled to strengthen her fleet sufficiently to meet the American menace."

Japs May Seize Guam?

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—A suggestion Japan might settle the controversy in the United States Congress over improving Guam by seizing that strategic Pacific Island came today from a naval officer, Lieutenant Commander Frederick Nelson.

Nelson said that "Unless some steps are taken soon, it is not at all impossible that a 'temporary occupation' of the island similar to that of French Hainan might occur."

The idea was advanced in the proceedings of the semi-official United States Naval Institute while a House committee was scanning the Navy's budget request for $4,000,000 to develop the harbor of the island, about 1,500 miles from Japan. A request for $5,000,000 was rejected last year, and objections already have been raised to the new proposal.

Lieutenant Commander Nelson, who has served in the Far East, expressed belief it was "highly unlikely" Japan would go to war over Guam, regardless of the suggested "temporary occupation."

(Japanese naval forces risked France's displeasure last year by occupying the Island of Hainan off the coast of French Indo-China.)

Mr. Heenan was named by Premier Mitchell Hepburn yesterday to succeed Hon. Colin Campbell, minister of public works, who has joined the Royal Canadian Engineers as a lieutenant.

The only other member of the legislature who has joined the army, Mayor David Croll of Windsor, was congratulated by the premier as the house opened. Mr. Hepburn coupled his wishes to the member for Windsor-Walkerville with a belief

Farmers Are Seeking To Build New Social Order For Canada

You are not only trying to build a co-operative in Peterborough, but a new social order for Canada," proclaimed Agnes Macphail, M.P., delivering the closing address of a 3-day co-operative short course at the Normal School last night.

"It's as big a thing as that," she declared. "This is the economics of Christianity."

For she saw in the development of a co-operative company in this district a reflection of a vast move toward organization of farmers toward a national policy for agriculture that will bring economic freedom to the farmer once more, toward planned production and planned distribution. "Consumer co-operation will bring a new world order," she forecast.

But only will this new order come when a new spirit is born in the farmers of this country. And come soon it must, "because if it doesn't, there will be fixed prices in this country that bear no relation to farmers' costs." She scoffed at the idea that the Government will of its own accord establish a farm policy that will act to the benefits of farmers. "The time of politicians at Ottawa is too taken up with other duties to permit them to form a farm policy," she charged. Ottawa will act only when farmers unite as one voice and speak for their rights.

Need Immediate Action

Urgency of immediate action toward that unity keynoted her address. "Farmers must organize, discipline, and control themselves now," she declared. "Unless they do we will lost our markets or else we'll be disciplined by a central government."

"We're in the midst of fixed prices right now," she declared at one point of her address and pointed to the hog market for example. "And they are not related to essentials, either," she added. "We have been left with a bacon board, but there's not a farmer on it." Packing interests are represented though, she claimed, "and since when did packing companies start to raise hogs?"

Wants Export Boards.

She drew a picture of the farm industry as a haphazard, aimless, undergoverned vast group of people, who knew nothing of developments that are altering the very income of Canadian farmers. "I am sure that most farmers don't know that Canada is the only major agricultural country left in the world today that doesn't sell its produce through export boards," she said.

Other countries, she revealed, have export boards to handle all produce on world markets, boards that fix one price for each commodity. Canada, on the other hand, lets her salesmen underbid one another on foreign markets and she instanced one deal in which she claimed apple growers here lost 40 per cent of their sales as a result.

Not only must one price for each commodity be established, but exports must be in steady volume, she declared. "Englishmen don't eat all their bacon one day and go without any for the next six."

Traces Economic Distress.

She went back to the pioneer days of Canada to explain the change that has come over the financial position of farmers. "We know, even

Smuggled Plans Of Nazis' Newest Fighter Show 365 mph Raiders With Twin Cannon

LONDON, Jan. 11—(CP) —The Daily Express today reported British authorities are in possession of detailed information concerning new German Messerschmitt fighting planes.

"Plans have been smuggled to London from drawing offices of the Messerschmitt factory near Augsberg, Bavaria, and Messerschmitt secrets known to only a handful of experts in Germany can now be revealed," The Express said.

"The plans disclose three facts which may influence German Air tactics:

"1 Destroyer planes would be capable of convoying German bombers to any part of Britain and back and would use speeds up to 365 miles an hour to defend them.

"2. They possess twin canon with which they could attack bombers, while remaining out of range of the bombers' defensive machine guns.

3. But poor manoeuvrability and comparatively weak gunpower would make them easy prey for Spitfires and Hurricanes.

"The Messerschmitt—110 has a crew of two. The pilot can fire—automatically—the twin canon and twin machine guns through the nose. There is a gunner with twin machine guns just behind the pilot.

"The twin Daimler-Benz engines are 12-cylindered of 1,150 H. P. each. The petrol tanks, which are bullet, fire and crash proof, will hold 400 gallons."

Britons Quick To Avenge Ship Raids

4 Battles Over Sylt, 1 At Heligoland Cost One Bomber

LONDON, Jan. 11 — (CP). — A strategy of blow-for-blow aerial warfare was seen to-day in Great Britain's swift retaliation for German air attacks on her shipping.

Accounts of the large scale Royal Air Force raid on the German island of Sylt yesterday still were incomplete, but observers regarded them as a sign of Britain's readiness to strike back hard against Nazi bombings.

London newspapers said up to 50 British and German warplanes engaged in a daylong fight over the fringe of islands on the north-west German coast yesterday, but official sources said these reports exceeded the facts.

Observers noted, however, that the big sea-air battle over Heligoland last December 18 was not recognized as "the greatest air battle in history" until some time later when the Air Ministry disclosed that 80 to 100 planes were involved.

The Ministry confined its account of yesterday's aerial operations to a terse communique reporting another North Sea battle with one British and one German plane shot down and another German plane forced to land in Denmark.

These operations were acknowledged generally as a direct reply to the German air attack on merchant ships and fishing boats along the English East Coast on Tuesday.

The First Clash.

Amplifying the sketchy communique, an informed source said the British planes were on a reconnaissance flight over the North Sea about 200 miles from home when German fighters dived in an attack with the sun at their backs.

One man still unidentified.

The body of Evans was discovered as rescue workers advanced to within 1,200 feet of the estimated centre of the explosion which tore through three sections of the pit.

R. E. Salvati, vice-president of the company in charge of rescue work, issued this statement at 8 a.m.:

"If we have luck, we should reach 65 or 70 men in a matter of hours."

He said those men were believed to be in the third and fourth left entries. Crews have penetrated more than 6,000 feet since they started, Salvati added.

Wives and children of the trapped miners and hundreds of curious who gathered near the mine stood dumbly in a cold, sleety rain waiting for word from the eight rescue crews.

Two bodies were found against a slate fall a quarter of a mile from the 620-foot shaft.

More than 2,000 persons gathered about the mouth of the mine greeted news of company vice-president R. E. Salvati that rescue crews were progressing "in good shape" and that "the mine is not torn up at all as one would think from an explosion of this kind."

Dead Air Proves Snag

Workers said they were handicapped considerably by dead air. Expectations were that it would be at least mid-day before the three blast-wrecked sections in the western part of the mine could be reached.

State mine department officials said then ventilating system had to be rebuilt as the crews moved ahead. The main ventilating system continued in operation but H. G. Houtz, state chief engineer, reported chances "slim" that the trapped men had been able to build barricades and conserve what pure air remained in the affected areas.

Cause of the blast was not determined immediately. District Mine Inspector W. C. Sturgiss theorized it might have resulted when the men cut through to some long unused, gas-filled entry.

Rumania Keeping Transylvania

BUCHAREST, Jan. 11 — (AP). — Rumanian officials declare that short of any cession of territory, Rumania is ready for settlement of long-standing differences with Hungary.

Biggest bone of contention, however, is Hungary's wish for return of Transylvania, gained by Rumania in the break-up of the Austro-Hungarian Empire.

Officials assert they would not even discuss a transfer of territory but the feeling grows among foreign diplomats that King Carol shortly might yield to a reported Italo-Hungarian proposal that Rumania promise territorial revision, effective after the European war.

In return, it has been reported, Italy and Hungary would support Rumania against any Soviet Russian attack on Bessarabia, a Russian province before the last war.

Trial For Lawyer

TORONTO, Jan. 11 — (CP). — Thomas Robinette Godfrey, Toronto barrister, charged with manslaughter following a double fatality on the Lakeshore Boulevard here last October 28, was committed for trial at a preliminary hearing today. He was released on bail of $5,000.

The information read in court charged Godfrey specifically with the slaying of Edward Glass. Three of four persons walking along the highway were struck by an automobile driven by Godfrey.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

If Rumania and Hungary, under the impetus of Russian threats and Italian promptings are able to settle their long-standing dispute over the province of Transylvania one of the trouble spots of the Balkans will be removed.

Hungary's grievance dates back to the settlement which followed the first Great War when its territory was reduced to one-third its pre-war size, the largest loss being Transylvania. Rumania supported the Allies in that conflict but was defeated and forced to make a separate peace with Germany and Austria-Hungary. Strange though it may appear Rumania acquired territory from both its former allies and former enemies.

In the German-dictated eastern peace pact early in 1918 Rumania was forced to give up some territory to Bulgaria and in return obtained Bessarabia and Russia. After the war ended and Austro-Hungarian empire was broken up Rumania regained the territory surrendered to Bulgaria and acquired Transylvania from Hungary.

Hungary suffered greater territorial losses than any other country following the first Great War. Austria, Italy, Czecho-Slovakia and Yugo-Slavia, as well as Rumania obtained slices of Hungarian territory and ever since the Hungarians have kept up their demands for revision of treaties.

A deal by which Hungary and Italy would guarantee Rumania against the loss of Bessarabia to Russia in exchange for the return of part or all of Transylvania to Hungary might go a long way towards ensuring peace in the Balkans by satisfying Hungarian national aspirations.

Firth of Forth and the Humber and Thames estuaries.

One plane appeared over South Shields, on the South bank of the Tyne. One report said three raiders reached the region and six British fighters went up to chase them away.

Fragments of anti-aircraft shells fell in the streets of South Shields during 10 minutes of firing. Spectators over a wide area were endangered, but rushed out never theless to pick up the bits for souvenirs.

Windows of a bus were shattered.

After one being driven away, a raider circled and returned above South Shields and again was fired upon.

Three large black planes believed by observers to be German, were chased to sea by British fighters over the south-east coast of Scotland.

East of London heavy anti-aircraft firing was heard in a Kent town about 1 p.m. (8 a.m. EST) and shell bursts high in the sky were seen in the direction of the Essex Coast, north of Kent, although no planes were seen and no warning was sounded.

The planes which drew the fire of the Essex coastal defences were flying eastward over the Thames estuary.

Crowds on the cliffs of an east coast resort watched a bomber attack a small ship about seven miles from shore. Explosions were heard and the vessel was seen to be blazing. A lifeboat put out while British fighters drove off the attacker.

Subsequently another steamship, believed to be Italian, struck a mine off the east coast. The crew took to lifeboats and awaited a tug to pick them up as the regular lifeboat on the shore had gone to the aid of those from the bombed vessel.

Numerous heavy explosions were heard off the south-east coast, beginning with a terrific blast at 6.30 a.m. (1.30 a.m. EST).

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 11—(CP Havas). — The newspaper Politiken reported today that train traffic across the Hindenburg dam the breakwater roadway between German Jutland and the Island of Sylt has been suspended since early yesterday.

The dispatch, from Danish Slesvig, said suspension of railway service appeared to confirm the belief that British bombers damaged the dam in the raid yesterday.

The paper also announced that the pilot of the German plane which made a forced landing in Slesvig yesterday with a bullet-pierced gasoline tank, will be interned. The plane was a Messerschmidt and the pilot was 25-year-old Corporal Melschert.

An attack by three or four British planes on two German minelayers four miles off Ringkjoebing, on the west coast of Danish Jutland, was reported here today.

benefits to agriculture, were among the identical persons who advised the farmers in 1930 that the Smoot-Hawley Act would bring them permanent prosperity, whereas under such advice the farmers of this nation were piloted straight into unprecedented bankruptcy.

"I dare say that the farmers will think twice before accepting a second time such reckless advice, supported by still more reckless statistics."

During the war, Hull argued, the present trade agreements are of inestimable value in defending American export trade from the inroads of wartime controls and dislocations.

"The scope for going forward during the war is naturally restricted," he said. "But the need for facilitating trade and for keeping alive the principles which underlie the trade agreements program is of crucial importance. For our actions now will have an enormous influence upon the problems of economic reconstruction when hostilities have ceased."

The background of his argument was the theme which he has reiterated in an out of Congress for years —that tariff barriers choke world trade channels, create economic depression for surplus-producing agriculture and industry, and constitute a threat to lasting peace.

A year ago the administration of the defence industry was divided into departments for aviation, shipbuilding, ammunition and armament. Kaganovich took the aviation commissariat.

Sharing foreigners' interest in the transfer of Kaganovich was a new attack on Great Britain in the Communist party newspaper Pravda. Especially mentioned were Rumania, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Turkey and Greece. Fighting Germany with economic weapons, Britain and France have been negotiating trade agreements with south-eastern countries and backing up some of the commitments with credits.

Board's Order

Board in August last and a copy of the decision of the Board has been received with the draft order.

In it the Boards records the fact that the city had shown that at the end of 1938 there was in the hands of the city trust commission the sum of $347,443.87 in excess of the present acturial requirements. The council asked that the board allow the allotment of $15,718.47 of said surplus to the debenture bylaws maturing in 1940 the allotment of the sum of $18,329.12 to the debenture bylaws maturing in 1941 and to allot the balance of the surplus to the debentures later than 1941.

In its judgment the board grants the first two requests but considers that for the present no action shall be taken in regard to the allotment of the surplus to debentures maturing later than 1941.

The council, the judgment says, may make further application in regard to that matter later and is assured of sympathetic consideration from the Board.

City Treasurer Shaver points out that the order really means that the demand of the city trust commission this year will be reduced by $49,617.00, the equivalent of 2¼ mills in the tax rate.

This is made up of the $15,718.47 in regard to debentures maturing in 1940 and the $18,329.12 in regard to debentures maturing in 1941, as ordered by the Board and also the levy of $15,569.95 for interest and sinking fund in 1939 for the debentures maturing last year, which will not now be necessary.

The concluding statement of the board's order says, "This is not a formal order as yet and such will not be issued until the board has been supplied with certain information regarding the financing of local improvements by the city over a term of years."

Greater Demand For Cheese Expected In '40

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 11 (ENS) —The part played by the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association in bringing about the bonus on high scoring cheese which netted Ontario farmers a half-million dollars more than they would normally have received for the product was outlined in an address before the County Cheese Producers' Association, which held its annual meeting here Wednesday. S. L. Joss, secretary and manager of the Ontario Association, who was one of the guest speakers of the afternoon, declared that the final step towards the adoption of the bonus was taken at a directors' meeting in November, 1938. Here a resolution had been passed and later forwarded to the Dominion Government asking that a bonus be paid on quality cheese. "Through the association's representations in the matter the premium of one cent on cheese scoring 93 and two cents on 94 or better has been paid during the 1939 season. This money has netted the producers of Ontario between $400,000 and $500,000."

Cheese Board's Only Way.

Mr. Joss said that figures would soon be available to show the amount of premium received in each of the counties and at each factory and could be had by anyone making aplication to the Dairy Branch at Ottawa. Dealing with the Cheese Board selling system he stated that there was no doubt that through this system the producer received the highest possible return for his product. He substantiated this statement by showing that at the outbreak of the war the British Government had on September 1 fixed the price of cheese at 63 shillings, which was equivalent to 11 3-16 cents f.o.b. the factory. On October 3 the fixed price was raised to 68 shillings or 11 15-16 cents f.o.b. factory. On October 7 the Cheese Board sold at 13⅝ cents. On November 2 the British Government raised the price still further to 78s. or 13 15-16 cents f.o.b. factory, and on November 4 the Board sold at

Spirited House Debate Looms On Hore-Belisha

LONDON, Jan. 11—(CP).—Political correspondents of morning newspapers today predicted the House of Commons will have a full dress debate on the resignation of Leslie Hore-Belisha after the former War Secretary has made his own statement when parliament reconvenes next Tuesday.

It was said such a debate would depend in a measure on what the resigned Minister says. If he is content to explain why he could not accept the "important post" offered him in place of the War Office, the debate will be short, it was predicted; if he attacks the government, Prime Minister Chamberlain undoubtedly will reply and respond to the views of members of parliament later.

John Marchbank, general secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, today wrote in the union's official newspaper that the "dismissal" of the War Secretary was a shock to public confidence.

Mr. Chamberlain's action, he wrote, "reflects the gravest discredit upon his judgment as Prime Minister."

19 Useless Years.

The former convict, whose criminal career began with an $80,000 mail robbery in San Diego in April, 1920, said he would have "checked out" then had he known what the future held "and saved my loved ones, the disgrace and shame that they have had to endure these many years."

He added that every convict on Alcatraz Island, where he served about five years, "would be better off if they would jump in the bay and start swimming for China."

Gardner, who was sentenced to 25 years imprisonment at McNeil Island, Wash., for the San Diego robbery, escaped from the train en route there near Portland, Ore. He was recaptured in Roseville, Calif., May 23, 1931 and in the interim he robbed a mail train of $117,000 in securities.

He told the Federal judge who resentenced him to McNeil for 50 years that he would escape again, and he did en route to the prison, this time near Castle Rock Wash.

Recaptured at Centralia, Wash., and finally placed on the Pudget Sound Island, he bolted from it in a sensational break Sept. 5, 1921, while one companion was slain by guards and another wounded.

In November, 1921, he tried to rob a mail car in Phoenix, Ariz., but Herman Interlied, the clerk, overpowered him.

HOME FOR REFUGEES

TORONTO, Jan. 10.—(CP)—First annual report of the Canadian National Committee on Refugees and Victims of Political Persecution, revealed today that during 1939 arrangements were made to admit a number of refugee children to Canadian homes. A total of 100,000 pieces of literature have been distributed by the committee and special lectures have been arranged.

"There are 9,400 refugee children in England now," said Miss Constance Hayward, executive secretary. "They are Germans, Austrians, Poles and Czechoslovaks."

Alberta Plans Forward Step In Irrigation

By C. F. STEELE
Central Press Canadian Writer

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Jan. 9.—Organizing recently at a representative gathering in this city of farmers and business men, the South Alberta Water Conservation council has embarked on a development program calling for the expenditure over a period of years of $15,000,000 of federal funds for water storage and irrigation facilities for this region.

This is the most important forward step in irrigation taken since those pioneer days 40 years ago when the first water ditch was built by the Mormon settlers from Utah. This was the Alberta Railway and Irrigation Company project, financed in London, Eng., by Sir Alexander T. Galt and his son, Elliott T., who also opened the first major coal mines in Alberta. Their land surveyor named C. A. "Charley" Magrath, later first mayor of Lethbridge, member of parliament, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission, member of the international joint commission and otherwise prominent in Canadian affairs. He directed the first irrigation development in western Canada.

Large Sums Of Money Needed

That was at the turn of the century. Today 300,000 acres of land "under the ditch" surrounded Lethbridge. The new water conservation council want to see another half million acres irrigated, an entirely feasible proposition, according to engineers. But to do this large sums of money will be needed.

Development of the water resources of southern Alberta has reached a new phase. Up to now, to a large degree, the water feeding the various irrigated units has been taken direct from the rivers rising in the Rocky Mountains to the west. This has been satisfactory when the rivers had sufficient flow to meet the farmer's needs, but in seasons of drought the supplies have been inadequate.

This has meant serious inroads on farm production, a condition calling for a remedy especially in wartimes when the maximum products of western farms will be needed by Britain and her allies. This wartime situation has stimulated the demand for water conservation against these dry years, bringing a specific appeal from the farmers for storage dams. These dams would trap flood water, now wasted, insuring an even flow to the thirsty farmlands during the critical growing period of May, June, and July and perhaps August.

Water Must Be Used

Much of the water for southern Alberta irrigated lands comes from streams rising in the United States and flowing into Canada. The water of these streams, the St. Mary and Milk rivers, is divided between the two countries by treaty. The basic principle of the agreement on these boundary streams is use, hence it is feared if Canada does not make greater use of these water supplies by reservoiring, as in the case south of the border, the whole question might be reopened by the United States. This might jeopardize Canada's share of these valuable waters.

To meet this danger the new water council is making one of its first objectives the building of a large, earthen dam across the St. Mary river at Spring Coulee, 30 miles southwest of Lethbridge. This dam would cost $3,500,000, store 250,000 acre feet of water, conserve flood waters of the St. Mary, Belly and Waterton rivers and provide farmers in the Magrath, Raymond, Stirling and Coaldale areas with an abundance of water even in the driest years. It would require three years to build.

Another smaller scheme is projected for the Milk river diverting water to Verdigris coulee and other natural storage basins with which nature has liberally endowed this area. Yet another development calls for the extension of the Taber-Banwell scheme eastward supplying water to Purple Spring, Grassy Lake and Burdett. Other projects in the general program are the South Macleod, Little Bow, Sundial-Retlaw and Suffield-Redcliff carrying water rights to the door of the city of Medicine Hat.

Seek Federal Aid

In addition to irrigation, the idea of providing a permanent water supply is the fond hope of the backers of this development. These men admit it is a large order, but encouraged by the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration at Regina, reclamation agency of the federal government, they are pressing vigorously for action. Recently a deputation met Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, at Regina, placing before him the whole scheme. The conference was favorable, the minister promising that P.F.R.A. engineers would draw maps and gather necessary data.

The policy of the federal government respecting water development now calls for the expenditure of federal funds in the building of dams and canals. These projects are looked upon now as public works of national importance. Hence the government will be asked to furnish the capital costs with the farmers handling the maintenance charges. This new policy has greatly encouraged the farmers.

Phillip Baker, president of the Alberta Co-Operative Sugar Beet Growers' association, is president of the water council, and J. I. McDermott is secretary. All interested areas are represented on the council which has already enlisted both provincial and federal government encouragement.

"Save the water, stabilize our agriculture," is the cry heard across the semi-arid plains of Alberta's southland. The beet growers are specially anxious for more water as this is vital to the expansion of their industry.

Vosges Grenade Raids Stopped

PARIS, Jan. 11 — (CP-Havas). — Sharp acceleration of patrol activity by both the Allies and Germans was reported to-day from the Western Front.

Most of the activity, which has gained impetus over the past 48 hours, centred along two widely separated sectors — in the zone between the Moselle and Saar Rivers and in the wooded stretch of "No Man's Land" to the west of the Vosges foothills. The first zone saw action during the daylight hours of yesterday, with the latter sector taking the centre of the stage at night.

German patrols attempted two night forays against French outposts, but were turned back after losing a number of men. This morning's official communique said there had been "local activity of contact units in the region west of the Vosges."

Continuing bad weather and poor visibility kept air operations almost at a standstill, possibly explaining the increase in overland patrol work.

They Sent $100

The Rotary Club in St. Marys, Ont., sent $100 to the Rotary Club at Helsingfors, Finland, to be used in the alleviation of war suffering in Finland. There had been a greeting card received from the Helsingfors Club about the time the Russian invasion began, but there was no suggestion of forwarding funds.

We believe Finland is due to receive a great amount of support that same way. People the world over, as individuals or formed into associations, will feel they want to do something about it. They know without it being explained to them that a gigantic wrong thing has been done and must be set right, and they want to have some share in the process.

And that in turn brings up the question of world opinion and its actual power. Possibly there is no way of measuring it or computing its volume, but it is something which cannot be ignored. If Finland is conquered the world will realize that something damnable has been done within the time of the present generation. And it will not forget. Neither will it forgive.

If Russia is the ultimate conqueror of Finland — which God forbid — then Russia will have to face that formidable thing, the adverse and disgusted and resentful feeling of the world. It is not marshaled in companies, but it strikes from individuals the world over. It would cry aloud at the suggestion of trading with Russia in the future; it would never respond if calamity overtook Moscow and its environs; if economic punishment could be visited upon Russia then the world would regard it as justice.

That St. Marys contribution of $100 to the Finnish Rotary Club is larger than it appears to be because it says something in a tangible way which is being thought by millions upon millions of people the world over.

Others Can Pay For It

Norman Robinson left British Columbia in 1926 and has since been working as an insurance clerk in a London office. When he was drafted for the army he declared he was a conscientious objector, and was registered as such provided he remained at his present occupation.

Mr. Robinson declared he was a Canadian, and all his early home training had been against participation in war. As a child he had not had any warlike toys, and he desired to maintain that outlook, something which in Britain he will be permitted to do.

We would hesitate to classify this young man as a coward because during the height of war feeling it would take a certain degree of courage for one to go before a tribunal and explain he was a conscientious objector and did not wish to fight.

But his mind runs in a single track. Possibly there are thousands in the British army who truthfully could say they did not desire to fight, but it was something which had to be done. Britain had not sought war. Had actually dodged it until it could be done no longer if the breath of freedom was to remain in the world.

The single track mind comes in here: While Mr. Robinson continues to work in an office in London there will be thousands of others who will go to the front and fight so that he will have the opportunity of working at something of his own selection. He will lead a life where, apart from the restrictions of war years, he would enjoy the utmost freedom. Liberty and freedom are highly prized, and yet Mr. Robinson is willing that others shall pay the price for their continued existence. In a British country a man has the right to be a conscientious objector, but it does seem to us he is overlooking a great deal in accepting British freedom and refusing to pay for it.

Because They Wanted To

Rev. Stuart Parker told the Toronto presbytery that there would have been no war if the church had been proclaiming its message properly to the world. The speaker said he also desired to see practical evidence of the spiritual awakening which is supposed to be taking place. By way of telling what he meant he related the experience of one church where "twice as much money was collected at one church meeting to buy cigarettes for the troops overseas as was received in the regular collection."

Apparently Mr. Parker considered there was something lop-sided about this; people were more ready to provide cigarettes for the soldiers than they were to put money in the collection plate.

It is easy enough to pass over the significance of this situation, although there is a meaning there which is plain enough. When the appeal was made to purchase cigarettes for the soldiers the people to whom the appeal was made gave because they wanted to. Possibly they put in all they could.

If they had given their collection with the same feeling then the collection would have been satisfactory. Of that we are certain. A church where people give their donations because they want to give all they can will seldom have any trouble with its finances.

Must Be a Smart Man

The quoted value of the Canadian dollar in the money market of New York changes from day to day, and often enough we are moved to wonder who sets the price. We read today our Canadian dollar was worth but 87.93¾ cents at the free rate. What the free rate is we have not the slightest idea, nor are we taking the trouble to inquire.

It was that final fraction of ¾ which caught the eye and fired the imagination. It was not ¾ of a cent because the cents actually ended in total units at the other side of the decimal point which followed the 87. Not carrying out a repeating decimal too far it means one would require 133 of those three-quarter affairs to make a cent, and 13,333 of them to make a dollar.

Most people find trouble enough to figure out a package of cereal when they are marked 2 to 23 cents, and the average individual would be lost in amazement were he to encounter an individual who could divide one cent into 133 pieces and decide just where to set the figure for the day. It is far removed from measuring the depth of snow by shoving the broom handle into the bank at the edge of the back porch; it is more intricate than measuring a yard of goods by holding one end at the point of the nose and then stretching the length of the arm. Using a piece of string to measure the amount of fly netting for a window is child's play in comparison.

Possibly the man in New York who figures that out must work in a room where they keep the door closed to permit of deep concentration. He could not be disturbed. He would have to be kept hedged in so the public would never know whether he actually figured the thing through to completion or flipped a coin and made a snap decision. A man who has made 133 pieces out of one cent could not have people breaking in lest one of the pieces be mislaid. And the day when he changes the 3-4 to 7-8th and again swings it back to 5-16ths must leave him in a state of exhaustion. Just where he learned it we do not know, but perhaps it is a gift.

Co-operation Of Farmers

The central idea of co-operation has been kept before the gathering of farm folk who have been holding sessions in Peterborough, and the plan which appeared to attract attention was the starting of a co-operative store. Possibly it would work two ways, and the store centre would also be the organization through which the farmers would sell much of their produce.

The selling of farm produce has always appeared as the major business, because the farmer has always been under the handicap of having to accept the prevailing price, one which he himself did not set. In the matter of much of his household buying he is on the same basis as the individual in the city where there is the same price for all customers regardless of where they live. So it is seen that the farmer's selling problem is more urgent than his purchasing.

We have known of farmers who worked in groups and pooled their orders for supplies which they all needed—fencing, fertilizer, etc. But they had no organization and no overhead expenses to offset any advantage they might receive for a quantity price on their combined purchases.

George Wilson proffered some rather sound advice regarding operating a co-operative store. It would have to run on strict business lines; it would be necessary to do business on a cash basis. There would be the competition of other well-managed stores to consider, and it would be a mistake to consider or anticipate that dividends would be quickly forthcoming. The speaker, very wisely we think, made it plain the co-operative store would have to pay its way on the same basis as any other place of merchandizing, and it would have to do so in a highly competitive field.

The Dog Went Home

A dog of apparently no particular breed, and having no papers, left Winnipeg with a train load of soldiers. The animal was last seen on the station platform at Kenora, and that is 134 miles distant from Winnipeg. Today the dog is home, and there is the old question to answer—how did he do it?

Probably every man who has a dog and who loves his dog will have his own explanation. One thing seems certain, and that is the sense of direction or the ability to find the way home is not evenly distributed among all dogs. We know of dogs which can become lost within a few blocks of their homes; at the moment we think of one which has been advertised in the Examiner three times as being lost and not at any time had the dog been half a mile from home.

There is a Spaniel which has been in the city only a few weeks, and when opportunity offers he will start on a trip of his own. He has been several times absent for a long stretch, and there has been a good deal of looking, searching and inquiry, but finally that little dog comes along the street always at full tilt, and turns at once into the house where he belongs.

Dogs used in hunting can back-track, that is, they can return to the camp by following their own outward trail. They may have been chasing a deer for miles, going it pretty much blind, but they can come back.

That old saying about "the cat came back" is founded on sufficient truth. There have been plenty of people not desiring to keep a cat who have carefully deposited it out in the country and returned home, only to find that soon enough the cat has done the same thing.

But that does not answer the question of how a dog riding 134 miles in a railway coach would be able to turn about and go home. We could understand a human being doing it because he would know enough to follow the railway tracks, and if necessary he could ask questions. But a railway track would mean little or nothing at all to a dog. Then how would he get home? Candidly we do not know, and we doubt if the information can be supplied.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Girl of 18 in Toronto runs a butcher shop of her own, and if that lass gets married—how she will be able to talk to the man at the corner meat shop!

Gold coins in Canadian banks have been called in by the Bank of Canada, and it is referred to as just a "tidying-up" process. Suggesting of course that the coins were lying about on the floor where people might trip over them.

Twelve Germans in Toronto are applying for naturalization papers, and are ready to swear allegiance to the King. Germans may be solidly with Hitler, but here is a dozen he has dropped from his list.

Eighteen transients in for the night were told to shovel the snow off the city hall steps in St. Thomas before having breakfast. Is that place trying to put on airs? There are only two steps at the building and they are both of wood.

Police officer in Montreal was shot at, but the bullet hit his badge and saved his life. Now he has a pay $1 for a new badge, but the old one will be a splendid thing to carry in the pocket and bring out when a little conversation is required.

Woman in Chicago lost her home when the mortgage was closed. Before leaving she smashed the windows, put oil on the wall paper, knocked holes in the floor, tore out the plumbing and flooded the premises with water. Otherwise she left the property in first-class condition.

An issue of the New York Post was held up in Toronto while a copy was sent to Ottawa to see if an article in the paper was O.K. for circulation in Canada. Ottawa said it was. The article in question was free-spoken, but we cannot expect papers in United States to continually pin bouquets on us.

READING

(By A.H.R.)

¶ A little paper wrapped in brown, comes every week from my home town, I read it every word; when I sit down to read it through, I don't want other things to do, lest I should be disturbed.

¶ There's nothing much about the war, or what the Finns are fighting for, there's no financial news; it quite ignores the government, tells nothing of that Russian gent, who gives the world the blues.

¶ What do I find to read in there, as soon as I get time to spare, it wouldn't interest you; there are no features on a page, no writer worked into a rage, to state his point of view.

¶ I read about a wedding there, it must have been a great affair, it sounded rather swell; I didn't know the folk who wed, but pushed back many years instead, I knew their parents well.

¶ I read of all the council did, the gravel and the cordwood bid, how hogs were shipped today; and ancient memory it stirs, as I read of the visitors, and how they come and go.

¶ I read of stores and their affairs, of what they say about their wares, recall quite well this man; and I remember years ago, of days when to his store I'd go——and take the coal oil can.

Hitler Can Now Ignore Stalin With Safety

THE BELIEF is growing that Germany now holds the whip hand in the unholy alliance with Russia, and whether Hitler had Russia well sized up in advance is providing room for writers who desire to speculate or draw conclusions. The New York Times reviews the situation and sees Hitler as the strong man of the combination who now needs to pay no attention to Stalin, but suggests Hitler has paid too high a price for what he sought to attain. We quote:

The failure of the Russian campaign in Finland has been so complete to this point that the question arises whether it is not necessary to revise the theory that Stalin is the real victor over Hitler in the struggle for power in Eastern Europe.

This theory has been widely held since the early days of the war. Mr. Churchill was one of the first to express it, when, in a Commons speech at the end of September, he described "Hitler and all that Hitler stands for" as having been "warned off the east and southeast of Europe" by Russian intervention.

The theory thus expressed and widely shared was that Hitler has sealed his own doom when he opened his arms to Stalin; that by destroying the border state of Poland he has exposed Germany's eastern frontier to the great danger of Soviet aggression; that, after complaining bitterly of British and French efforts to "encircle" Germany by bringing Russia into Europe and by consenting to a bargain which drew Russian power around Germany in a great arc reaching from the Baltic to the Balkans.

This theory of the first phrase of the war as a process of Hitler's being stopped by Stalin may still prove to be a sound one; but increasing doubt is being cast on its validity by the course of events in Finland. For Russia is not emerging from its adventure in that country in the role of a great military power, formidable enough to challenge Germany.

On the contrary, events up to the present point have revealed the incompetence of Russia's military organization, its lack of capable officer personnel, the confusion of its service of supply.

If these are in fact the true characteristics of the Soviet war machine, and if time does not alter the picture painted by the first month of war in Finland, then it becomes impossible to regard Russia as a force capable of holding its own with Germany in any possible future quarrel over the distribution of the spoils of war.

On this assumption that the real facts concerning Russia's military incompetence were better known to Germany than to France and Britain, the theory of Hitler checked by Stalin must give way to the theory of Hitler willing to make any agreement necessary to bring Russia into the conflict on his side, knowing full well that he would be able to destroy this agreement at any time he chose to do so, unless he was thoroughly beaten by the Allies—in which case his whole regime was finished anyway.

This is not to say that the present situation can be regarded as satisfactory by Hitler.

In three ways, his alliance with Stalin and the war in Finland which that alliance prompted Stalin to embark upon have been costly to Germany.

In the first place, Hitler has been counting heavily on supplies of food and raw materials from Russia; it is now increasingly doubtful whether Russia can meet the needs of its own armies at the front, let alone provision for Hitler.

In the second place, the alliance with Russia has destroyed the first article of faith of National Socialism—undying hostility to Bolshevism—and set in motion, within Germany itself, currents of suspicion and hostility which may yet prove to be as important and decisive factors in determining the outcome of the war as Allied cannon on the western front.

In the third place, the new eastern axis and its by-product, the attack on Finland, have rallied sympathy throughout the world for the cause of the small nations.

QUICK WORK

A DAIRY COMPANY in New York has adopted a new transportation system which by the press of a button slides a 4,000-gallon tank of milk off a railroad flat car and on to a highway truck in 90 seconds. This is the last word in rail-truck co-ordination. It was installed by a firm that has been in this business for 25 years.

Even 10 years ago, rail-highway co-ordination was almost unknown in Canada. Will we have to wait another 10 or 15 years before this money-making device finds its way up to our neck of the transportation woods?—Financial Post.

A FAMILY TRAGEDY

WHEN Robert Browning said to the Italian washerwoman, who shyly declined his offer to help carry her heavy basket, "We are all made of the same clay," he was expressing a sentiment which could save the world if all understood deeply its implications and accepted it as a principle in their daily life. The dementia of national hatreds which has been mounting so swiftly since the Nazi party seized power has now led to fractricide. For Europe is one family, and the tragedy which has come upon it is family tragedy.—London Times.

Letters To The Editor

OBJECTS

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I think every decent-minded citizen was disgusted by the crude attack made on Dr. Murray Fraser, by an alderman, last Monday night.

Even had Dr. Fraser not those many fine qualities which he as a gentleman possesses, he is serving King and country, and the very least that can be said of the bombardment he got, is that it was horribly bad taste. How long must this sort of thing continue? We have reached the saturation and nausestion point.

To write a more agreeable paragraph, may I refer, sir, to the excellence of your editorial columns? People read them whom I did not think read or enjoyed an editorial page, proof of their common sense and wide-reaching scope.

GIVING CREDIT

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—It was with much regret that I received a clipping from your paper, a few days ago, with the heading "Weaver of Cedar Hedge at Bensfort introduced to Examiner by mere chance."

As a former reporter and subscriber to your estimable newspaper, may I be permitted to correct the impression given in that article.

Your description of the home (it is white brick not red) and its surroundings does justice to the present owner's care and upkeep, but that present owner was not the weaver of that beautiful hedge nor of its graceful arches.

That hedge stands as a monument to the efforts of no mere man, but to an energetic woman with a love for the beautiful, who planted with her own hands, every little cedar tree in that hedge and fashioned also those entwined archways, many pictures of which grace my own snapshot collection. There are three of these beautiful cedar arches, if still as planted.

Mrs. Alex. Emberson, wife of the former owner, was the one who created that hedge to be a thing of beauty and a joy forever, and though she passed on to her reward barely one short year ago, she had lived to enjoy its beauty for many years and receive many compliments on its perfection. After the family moved to Toronto she took pride in re-visiting and watching its care by the present owner, Mr. Stanley Robinson.

In passing that home this summer my feelings were those of your reporter that nowhere could be found so attractive and well-kept a farm home, but our eyes filled with tears as we thought of the loved one, who had created that lasting beauty for others to enjoy. Thanking you in anticipation of space accorded this correction.

Most sincerely,

ONE INTERESTED.

• That Grand Jury At Kingston

SOME WEEKS AGO there was noted in these columns the strong criticism expressed by the Kingston Whig-Standard of the action of a Kingston grand jury in throwing out of court an indictment for dangerous driving which stood against a young man of that city as a result of a traffic accident that caused four deaths.

Announcement comes now from Attorney General Conant that the case is to be reopened, will be presented to another grand jury for reconsideration. This supports the position taken by the Kingston paper: that the grand jury was not called upon to pass upon the guilt or innocence of the accused, that its sole duty was to decide whether there was evidence to warrant putting him upon trial. It held that such evidence had been revealed in the preliminary hearing, and Mr. Conant agrees. "I am unable to understand," he says, "from a review and consideration of the facts, how the grand jury could properly have so disposed of the bill of indictment."

From the standpoint of all concerned it is a good thing Mr. Conant has exercised his authority in reopening the case. It is dangerous to lend official encouragement to an opinion which seems already to be held widely, judging from many instances of legal leniency, that persons responsible for traffic fatalities find their main punishment in their own consciences. The Kingston case was one which demanded the fullest inquiry that the blame might be fixed and the accused man cleared or convicted, and the action of the grand jury—if Mr. Conant had not stepped in—would have made such an inquiry impossible.—Ottawa Journal.

• Our Cows Are None Too Good

THE NEW Canadian record for milk production by a Holstein cow at Colony Farm, British Columbia, is a matter for congratulation among black-and-white breeders throughout the Dominion, but to the average farmer it is just another piece of news.

Why this should be is hard to fathom. Of approximately 730,000 farmers in Canada 330,000 dub themselves dairymen and there are undoubtedly many more who half-heartedly hope to make a little money from their cows. The average production of all their cows has been estimated at little better than 4,500 lbs. per year, which figure is only slightly better than it was before the depression. The 34,686 lbs. of milk produced in one year by the record Colony cow is more than 7½ times greater than the average production of all Canadian cows.

Breeders who go after such high records do so for several reasons, chief among which is the desire to prove the calibre of their animals, to sell breeding stock, and to prove to fellow farmers what can be done by proper feeding and handling of dairy animals.

For similar reasons, but particularly for the latter, the farm press reports these records at considerable length in the hope that other dairymen will be inspired to emulate their successes. But for some mysterious reason dairy cattlemen have made little effort to follow their example.

True, there is a great difference between well organized and professionally managed breeding establishments such as Colony Farm, and the average dairyman with a dozen cows, but each have available the same Federal Record of Performance service to find out the production of their cows and to check feed consumption against it. And if a farmer thinks that the nominal charge for R.O.P. testing is too high most provinces offer a subsidized Cow Testing service which is cheaper and almost as good.

For a country which prides itself on its dairy cattle industry, Canada has about the lowest percentage of milking stock on test of any agricultural country. Among the provinces British Columbia is away out in the lead in cow testing, Nova Scotia, with a comparatively small dairy cattle population, has a fair percentage of cows on test, while Quebec is moving ahead steadily with its mail order testing system. All these are in addition to pure bred cows on semi-official test under R.O.P. regulations, but the grand total does not amount to much more than 4% of all the dairy cows in Canada.

The Cost of Milk Production Survey which is currently being conducted among dairymen in Ontario has brought out the fact that a great many milk producers would be bankrupt if they had to run their farms on proper business lines. Results of the first year's survey show that to know their own cost of milk production the first requisite is to know the production of the cows, and only systematic weighing and testing of the milk can find this out.

Farmers are prone to complain of the low prices received for their produce, to seek the cause among high transportation costs, chiselling middlemen, and the like. A little more attention to their own business on efficient lines and making use of modern methods will bring better results in this highly competitive world.—Family Herald.

THE WAY TO LIVE

IF YOU want to live a quiet life, don't be too ambitious. A man's ambitions are apt to lead him to positions in church and state where he becomes the natural target for every person who can hurl a stone. Of course this advice is all cockeyed, for after all, abuse or no abuse, it is the ambitious person who gets things done and who is the salt of the earth.

A good way to live is to live so that you will be missed. If you have done any good during your stay here, the folks are apt to remember it. If you have done any harm you will be forgotten no matter what you do about it.—Trenton Courier-Advocate.

SALES TAX HEAVY

"It is suggested that the sales tax will be increased to ten, perhaps twelve per cent, that income taxes will increase; that the levy on sugar may go up, and that 'nuisance taxes' will re-appear," says the Windsor Star. The government, of course, has to have extraordinary revenue to meet extraordinary expenses, but it should be secured in some other way than by increased sales tax. The worst of all taxes is already too heavy. —Toronto Star.

Bless the Lord, O my soul: and all that is within me, bless his holy name. Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: who forgiveth all thine iniquities....The Lord executeth righteousness and judgment for all that are oppressed. —Ps. ciii: 1-3, 6.

A Bit Of Nonsense

Shame!

When Smith walked into his friend's office he found him sitting at his desk, looking very depressed.

"Hullo, old man," said Smith, "what's up?"

"Oh, just my wife," replied the other sadly. "She's engaged a new secretary for me."

"Well, there's nothing wrong about that. Is she a blonde or a brunette?"

"There's plenty wrong. He's bald."

THE LIE LIVES

THE RUSSIANS, after slapping on a censorship which promises to bring it about that all the news that goes out from Moscow is the Soviet official "news," keep up the tale about how Finland attacked poor Russia, which then had to fight back.

This tale had appeared, from an international point of view, as the most stupid lie the present war had produced. But one wonders. Friday the American Student Union, meeting at Madison, Wis., turned down a resolution condemning the Russian attack on Finland by a vote of 322 to 49. Majority leaders said it was necessary to learn more about the situation.

We knew this organization is not Communist, because Mrs. Roosevelt said it was not. It could not have been acting out of natural sympathy for Moscow; that, of course, is absolutely ruled out. And, so, the only explanation which occurs is supplied by the famous quotation of the late Mr. Barnum.

THE FINNISH VICTORY

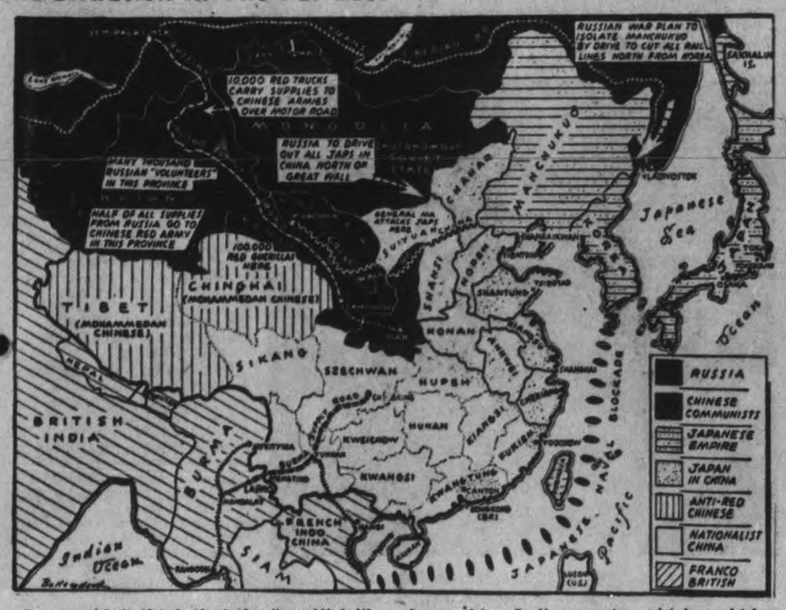
MANY persons find it difficult to believe that little Finland is really attaining the successes reported. They suggest that the communiques cannot be believed. But it is worth observing that Moscow has rarely contradicted them, that Moscow has changed generals, that Moscow has announced it is sending huge armies to reinforce those now there and that Moscow is making explanations.

And on the other hand, it would not be good strategy for Finland to exaggerate their claims. If the outlook for them is not bright they are much more likely to get help from outside.—Saskatoon Star-Phoenix.

ABOUT MICA

News from North Carolina that scrap mica is now bringing $14 a ton and up at the mines, with mica large enough for washers bringing about $160 a ton, disc mica $240 a ton and larger sizes up to even $20,000 a ton ought to be of interest to the owners of mica properties in North Crosby and Bedford townships, where little work beyond picking over old dumps has been carried on for a number of years. — Brockville Recorder and Times.

The Situation In The Far East



One wouldn't think that the "unofficial" war in China could have much to do with the very official war on the Western front, but it has—as a glance at this map will show you. There have been whispers of a "deal" between Soviet Russia and Japan, which, should it go through, would permit the Soviet to divert vital supplies, now poured into China, in the direction of Germany. It would also permit the Soviet to give its full attention to the conquest of Finland and it would force Great Britain to take more extensive measures for the defence of her Indian empire, which could be reached through China, either by the Japanese or the Russians—provided that Marshal Chiang Kai-Shek could be won over by the Soviet-Japanese bloc. But Chiang has a pro-British leaning and much of his war material comes by way of the new "road from Mandalay." Some prophets predict that eventually the Soviet will endeavor to sweep the Japanese out of all that conquered part of China north of the Great Wall. This, of course, after the Soviet had aided Chiang in driving them out from below that historic barrier.

Campbellford Won

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 11.—(ENS)—The first game of the Trent Valley Interscholastic League was played here last night between Campbellford and the High School. At the start of the game it looked as if the heavier Campbellford squad would have an easy victory, but the High School, led by Clarke, made it interesting all the way. Campbellford won 7-5 in overtime. Clarke, Skelcher and Loyst were the stars for the home teams with Clarke getting four of their five goals. Birch, a young lad from the public school played a fine game in the nets also. Sullivan, Dunk and Curle playing best for the winners.

Referee—John Sabatino, Lakefield.

Croydon, England, may open schools for children who have not been evacuated.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Brand new Industrial League opens its schedule this eve at 7.30 in the Brock St. palais d'ice, with these games: Canada Packers vs. Outboard Marines, Raybestos vs. Westclox, and Quakers vs. Brintons. A flock of fine puckists on these squads and some keen competition may be expected. Dunno all their lineups yet, but here's another one, the Packers: Jimmy White is manager with Max Payne trainer. Goalie is Roy Feeley and defence Wally Farr and Bert Jopling. Steve Csumrik is at centre betwixt Freddy Todd and Roy Cournyea, and alterates include: Curly Todd, Don Lazure, Ian Sutherland, Don Cournyea, Reg. Edmunds, Bade Fontaine and Ken Revoy. This will be no cream-puff crew, we'll bet a carton of cookies, but the C.P.C. outfit will find lots of opposition in the loop, too.

With Herr Hitler (or maybe it's his army staff) content to play 'possum behind the Seigfried Line for the winter months, the R.C.A.F. squadron at Trenton can take things a bit easy in their training and relax at hockey. Or will they relax when they clash with the Petes? Anyway, we're tickled a delicate pink—it's our schoolboy complexion—that the Fliers are able to be with us again this puck season. And they're coming here tomorrow eve to tackle the locals in an O.H.A. intermediate "A" joust at 8.30 in the Brock. Which means every hockey fan in town and his gal friend will be clamoring for ducats. The Airmen pack 'em in in this town.

The R.C.A.F. Attacks

Four of last year's R.C.A.F.-ers are aboard the bombing plane again, Gibson, Legris, Baldwin and McNab. They've added half a dozen other aces from various point, including England, so should give the local battlers a real fight. Maybe a strafing, though we think the Petes have improved enough to chalk up their second straight victory of the season. It ought to be a swell scrap while it lasts, with the speedy and colorful Aviators zooming around the rink in their own tricky formation—and showing plenty of fight. Nonetheless, the speedy Petes look hot to us this cold spell and we'll keep betting on 'em till the family silverware is down to a coupla nickle-plated knives and forks. Don't pass up this tilt, folks.

Dapper Alex Kempt—long a power in the East Peterborough Puck Loop (now rather defunct; the loop, not Alex)—has quite a corner on district hockey down in Norwood. That excellent puck centre has a good team—with Havelock well represented, and Peterborough, too—in the Trent Valley League, which is of O.H.A. intermediate "B" calibre. In fact, Norwood has a bye in O.H.A. "B" playdowns. Norwood also has an O.J.H.A. team and a midget squad, awaiting a bye into provincial playdowns. Ike O'Leary, Dude Brady and Archie Weir of this city play for the Combines, and they're popular, with Brady especially brilliant lately. They wonder down that way—according to Scouts 7¾ and 101, who have arrived back after touring the territory in Finnish white ski costumes—how the Petes could lose a guy like the Dude.

Eastern Rural League

Westwood, Indian River, Havelock and Trent River are sure starters in the East Peterborough rural circuit, which meets Friday, and the big Norwood arena—where they have ice till nearly July 1st—will likely be taken a night a week for a double-header. Norwood juveniles are a district combinash and the local Grads and St. Peter's bettah beware. Elgin and Donegal passed up the rural loop, which is too bad. Russ Greene of Indian River is secretary of this loop, and a live wire of high voltage. Yeah, the hockey picture around Norwood is daubed in brilliant hue these days—and we are as tickled as a nudist in a spruce grove.

Four Church Loop ice tussles were run off at All Saints' rink last night, but shortage of man-power on some squads possibly affected results. Mark St. and St. Paul's copped junior games from St. James and Park St. by scores of 5-3 and 5-4, respectively and rather respectab. too. The St. Paul's-Park St. game was high-lighted by a five-minute penalty to the Baptist goalie and there was much ado about this sentence, some even wondering if it was constitutional. By all means, a goalie is no more entitled to be let off with infractions than any other puckist. St. Andrew's Juveniles dumped a 4-0 pail of whitewash on St. John's, as George St. did a 4-1 job on Trinity Bantams. Tilts tonight: All Saints Bantams vs. St. John's at six, George S. Juveniles vs. Mark St. at seven, Murray St. Seniors vs. St. James at eight, and All Saints Seniors vs. George St. at nine.

Clarks At Clarkson

A clipping from Potsdam, N'Yawk, tells of the opening game for Clarkson Tech hockeyists there with Massena Stars. Some 400 fans saw Tech take a 4-2 victory, and two Peterborough lads were much in evidence in the victory. Grant Clark—we call him Gee—scored one of the four markers and assisted in the other three, having a big night on the forward line. And Al Clark shone on defence. The item adds: "Al Clark, regular Tech defender, exhibited ability defending his goal along with Don McIntyre. Clark and McIntyre, who measure better than six feet and who tip the scales in the neighborhood of 192 pounds, showed that they are able to aid Goalie Art Blouin." Glad to see the ex-Colts—and good baseballers, too—are doing so well at their N'Yawk collitch.

Rangers Seeking Rabbit's Foot Eve Of Big Tilt

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(CP)—In their dressing room the other night New York Rangers made it clear they weren't a superstitious lot and, anyway, what was there about a 17-game unbeaten streak to make them jittery?

But today, on the eve of Rangers' National Hockey League game with Chicago Black Hawks, there were reports of young men looking for rabbits in Central Park and other young men knocking on every piece of wood along the streets. No one said so but the intimation was that these fellows were Rangers.

A record that has withstood every assault for 10 years—the 18-game unbeaten streak of Montreal Canadiens in the season of 1927-28—is within the Rangers' grasp, and the strain has been telling recently. It affects them until they step on the ice where they don't know the meaning of the word jitters.

"I don't know how long it can last but we play them all the same way and we'll play tonight as if there wasn't any record in sight," said Manager Lester Patrick. The jitters had spread to him, too, for the "knock, knock" behind him was Patrick touching the wood table, a little covertly.

If they tie or defeat Chicago the Rangers will equal the mark set by a Canadien team propelled by the late Howie Morenz, who led the league in scoring that season, and backed by Goaler George Hainsworth, who allowed only 48 goals in 44 games. Providing they get by tonight, the Rangers will have a chance of setting a record against the Maple Leafs in Toronto Saturday.

Hotter than live coals since they last lost a game in mid-November, the Rangers have uncovered tremendous power and remarkable defensive ability during the streak. Their forwards—and it has been a case of every forward doing his share—have fired 64 goals. Dave Kerr has been beaten only 25 times in 17 games.

2 Budding Leafs And Hornets Lace Eagles 9-1

(By the Canadian Press.)

Toronto Maple Leafs have struck pay dirt again in a couple of youngsters named Don Metz and Hank Goldup. Members of Toronto Goodyears of the Senior Ontario Hockey Association last season, Metz and Goldup aren't yet Leaf regulars but they definitely are on the way up.

They showed this last night as Pittsburg Hornets of the International-American League, to whom they have been loaned, trounced the New Haven Eagles, the league's Eastern Division leaders, 9-1. Between them they figured in six goals.

By their victory the Hornets joined Cleveland Barons and Hershey Bears in a three-way tie for second place in the Western Section. Cleveland blanked the Bears 3-0. Syracuse Stars lost 2-1 to Philadelphia Ramblers.

Babe Tapin was the star for Pittsburg despite the points the Toronto rookies gained. He scored four goals and assisted in a fifth. Metz had two goals and two assists and Goldup a goal and three assists.

The Barons counted three times in the last period to beat the Bears. Joe Jerwa got the first goal, while Jeff Kalbfleisch of Hershey was serving a penalty and late in the game, while Shannon of the Bears and Hanson of the Barons were off the ice for roughing, Robertson and Bob Gracie got two more goals to make the victory certain.

Stan Smith's 40foot shot less than two minutes from the end of the third period gave the Ramblers their victory over Syracuse. Allum sent Philadelphia into the lead in the first period, but Eddie Convey evened the score in the second session.

Only one game is scheduled for to-night, but it should be a good one, bringing together the Eagles and Indianapolis Capitals, leaders of the Western Section.

Billy Conn Whips Cooper Easily In 12

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 — (AP) — Billy Conn, Pittsburg light heavyweight champion, has started on the road he hopes will lead to the heavyweight championship. But like the road to Tipperary, it's going to be a long and winding trail.

He has had two bouts with the big boys. Last night he took an easy 12-round decision from Henry Cooper of Brooklyn in Madison Square Garden and last August he scored a technical knockout over Gus Dorazio in Philadelphia.

Cooper, called in on 10 days notice to substitute for Steve Duras, was no match for Conn. Everybody sensed it in advance and a crowd of only 5,658 was on hand, paying a gross gate of $14,400.

Conn gave Cooper a boxing lesson, dancing, jabbing and rolling up so many points that there wasn't any use keeping count.

But he never so much as jarred the chunky Brooklyn boy.

"He's a bull," Conn said afterward. "I could box him all night but I tried everything and couldn't hurt him."

Medal for 1939 Showing.

For capturing the public's fancy as well as the lightheavyweight championship of the world, Young Billy Conn of Pittsburg tonight will be warded the Edward J. Neil memorial medal by New York boxing writers as the man who did the most for boxing in 1939.

The Boxing Writers Association established the award a year ago in memory of Neil, a former Associated Press Sports Writer who was killed while covering the Spanish Civil War.

Toronto Skiers Interested In Bethany Hills

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 11 —Bethany, Ontario, the newly developed ski zone, is fast becoming popular this season among Toronto Ski enthusiasts. One of its biggest attractions is the ski tow, a continuous 1200 feet rope tow, which is an exact copy of the type most used in the Laurantians and the New England States.

Another attractive feature is the open hills, 350 feet high with a run of 1500 feet, and the only hills in Southern Ontario said to be comparable with the Laurentians for open skiing. These hills face northwest, and are well surrounded by woods which makes them natural snow catchers. Only a mile away from the village of Bethany, with its hundred houses nestling in the valley at the foot of the hills, is the Peterborough Ski Clubhouse, and here, in close proximity to the ski zones can be obtained bed and meals. The people of Bethany are eager to accommodate skiiers and there are from 15 to 20 houses in the village prepared to offer bed and meals, and as the demand grows, additional houses will open up. Train service, with low rates, is in operation from Toronto, with week-end Canadian Pacific trains stopping at Bethany on a convenient schedule.

TINY THOMPSON
Detroit Red Wings

By Central Press Canadian

One of the National league's veterans is Cecil (Tiny) Thompson, who guards the much - harrassed goal of Detroit Red Wings, after a decade of stardom with Boston Bruins. His name first graced an N.H.L. summary in the 1928 - 29 season when he took over the net-minding chores for Art Ross' team, a post he held until shortly after the start of the 1938-39 season when Boss Ross started the hockey world by selling him to Detroit and bringing in the sensational Frank Brimsek to take his place. He's one of the oldest players in points of service in the league and dean of the twine-tenders. In his first year at Boston his net-minding played no small part in aiding the team to a Stanley cup triumph. He kept up his consistently brilliant work and four times has won the Vezina trophy that goes to the goalie with the fewest goals scored against him in the course of a season. Every year he's been at or close to the top in the race for shutout honors. Born at Sandon, Alberta, he played his first amateur hockey as a defenceman with Canmore, switching to goal-keeping the following season, and getting to the major league via Bellevue (Alta.), Duluth and Minneapolis. He'll be 35 years old come May 31.

Proponents Of N.Y. Racing Bill

Ten New Stakes For Trotting Club Seen Perking Up Grand Circuit

By DUNBAR BOSTWICK
(Treasurer, The United States Trotting Association.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Owners and breeders of harness horses are looking forward hopefully to the 1940 racing season.

The Grand Circuit should have a better year than ever, due to the fact that the Trotting Horse Club of American is sponsoring 10 new stakes for second flight two and three-year-old trotters and pacers. Without a doubt the peak of the season again will be at Goshen on Aug. 14, when the $40,000 Hambletonian for three-year-old trotters will be renewed.

A new type of barrier was introduced last year by Leo McNamara of Indianapolis. Since it does away with the lengthly delay at the post, it was received with great acclaim.

The New Unied States Trotting Association was able to establish itself in 1939, sanctioning 90 per cent of all harness racing in the country. It now is in a position to go forward stamping out any infraction of the rules or indecorum in the sport. A new circuit is being formed with headquarters at Washington, Pa., and will offer 10 weeks of good racing in that area.

Clerks Defeat Hastings Cats

HASTINGS, Jan. 11.—(ENS)—It was a more confident Clerks team who paraded out on the ice of Riverside rink last night and took a 5 to 3 victory from the "Wildcats" who are number two team from the tannery. Garbed in new sweaters, a present from Dit Clapper, the Clerks presented a splashy appearance before the large crowd. The sweaters, formerly used by the Cubs, Boston Bruins farm team, are identified by the name Cubs and henceforth the Clerks will be known as "The Cubs."

Ideal weather seemed to have prompted many fans to be present to witness a fine game of hockey with plenty of action from start to finish. Players seemed to be more accustomed to mixing it up in fine style following Monday evening's session in which the Cubs dropped a 3 to 0 decision to the Bearcats, number one team from the Tannery. Both teams were more evenly matched but the Cubs were at a better advantage than the previous game wih Iden Bonds in their nets.

The teams:

Cubs: Goal, Bonds; defence, Jones, Boyle; center, Hill; wings, Petticrew, Stevenson; alternates, Coughlan, Radford, Scriver, Edwards, Wilson.

CURLING

Prior to commencing play for the "Gibson" trophy, yesterday morning, members of the ladies' club gathered together on the centre ices, and out of respect and on honor to the late Mr. Alex Gibson, donor of the trophy, stood with bowed heads in one minute silence.

The ladies' section started their seasons activities in earnest yesterday when play commenced for the "Gibson" trophy. Considering it was the first time some of the ladies have been on the ice this season the curling was indeed good.

Down in Oshawa the boys tell us that they had a good day's outing and that about sums up their day's work.

There were several good games on the local ice last night. Four games decided by the smallest margin possible and two by two points. Four Contests Dished Up In Minor Loop

Four games were played in the Church Hockey League, last night, at All Samt's rink. St. Pauls juniors pulled out a 5-4 win over Park St., Mark St. Juniors took a 5-3 decision over St. James, St. Andrew's Juveniles blanked St. John's 4-0, and George St. Bantams defeated Trinity by a 4-1 count.

Hodson scored first for Park St. on Campbell's rebound, and Jobe got another. St. Paul's evened it in the second as Morrow and G. Easton tallied, the latter while goalie Ainslie was serving a penalty for fighting. The Presbyterians got one with Campbell in the nets. The third heat was hectic. Hodson and Campbell counted for the Baptists and Ferguson and the Easton brothers for St. Paul's. G. Easton got the winner. The Park St. superior speed was offset by close-checking, and there were no outstanding players.

Teams:

St. Paul's: Goal, McBride; defence, Ferguson, J. Easton; centre, G. Easton; wings, Lockington, Morrow.

Referee—H. Conlin.

Mark Street Wins.

Bill Lawson for the first for James with Scriver off, and Curtis tied it for Mart St. in the first. Robinson counted in the second as Eason and F. Lawson were off for fighting. The Lawson brothers each scored in the third, as did Eason, Scriver and Curtis for Mark Street. Bill Lawson was the best player on the ice, with Fred also effective, and Welch good. Eason, Curtis and Scriver shone for Mark St. as the team took the leadership. McGregor suffered a three-stitch cut early. Teams:

Mark St.—Goal, Ralph; defence, Eason, Scriver; centre, Curtis; wings, Robinson, Moore.

St. James: Goal, Welch; defence, F. Lawson, McGregor; centre, B. Lawson; wings, Langford, Williams; subs, J. Dafoe, M. Dafoe, McMahon.

Referees, G. Smith, A. Leether.

St. Andrew's had superior manpower to down St. John's, getting three goals in the first and having an edge the rest of the route. McTavish, Murphy, Harris and Ridyard were the scorers in this fairly lively juvenile joust, all going well. The teams:

St. John's: Goal, Moore, defence, Scott, Jones; centre, Bond; wings, Garner, Coones.

St. Andrew's: Goal, Richardson; defence, Ridyard, McDonald; centre, Murphy; wings, McTavish, Harris; subs, Wall, Johnston.

Referee—R. Ainslie.

The win for George St. over Trinity leaves four tied atop the bantams. George St. had more speed than their smaller rivals, with Dundas and Carter the scoring threats. Lyons went smart on defence. After four counters on Andrews, Dorset went better in the net. Jewell was the best man on the Trinity squad. His other forward mates were a bit temperamental to hurt their own cause. The teams:

Trinty: Goal, Andrews; defence, Pammett, White; centre, Jewell; wings, Plunkett, Meredith; subs, Beaton, Hall, Dorset, Smoke, Dinsdale.

Referee—D. Charlton.

HORNETS TAKE SECOND STRAIGHT IN THE TRENT VALLEY LEAGUE

Norwood Edges Shells In 4-2 Tangle

HAVELOCK, Jan. 11—(ENS). — The Norwood Hornets took a fairly easy 4 to 2 decision over the Stirling Shells at the Norwood Arena Wednesday evening, for their second straight win in the T.V.L. group. Continuing their form of Monday, when they downed the Tweed squad in overtime, Alex Kempt's boys held a distinct advantage throughout. Play was fast and clean, with but five penalties being handed out by Referee R. Ennis.

Minus the services of Archie Weir, defence ace, who received a slight leg injury in the last game, the Hornets were still too much for their younger and lighter opponents. The Shells tried persistently however, and towards the latter part of the game were becoming more of a threat, but for the most part were continually disarganized by the close-checking Norwood forwards. Both their counters were rather of the soft type. The first was scored by Fraser near the end of the second period, by a drifting shot from beyond the blue line, and the second was also shot from well out by Morton, centre playmaker, in the final stanza. Although the puck appeared to strike the goal post and bounce out, Referee Ennis ruled that it had entered the net despite energetic protests from the home fans.

The goal-tending display by Fox in the Stirling nets, featured the game, with McMaster following closely with a smart performance in the homesters' cage.

At the first period half-way point, Mickey Puffer opened the scoring when he nabbed a loose puck in Stirling territory and working his way in close on Fox, beat him with a hard drive to the corner.

Walker, visiting defenceman, got the gate for dumping O'Leary, and before his return, Dude Brady had taken a pass from Aboud in Stirling territory, wormed through, faked a shot to draw Fox out ,and scored. Three minutes later, Fraser made the count 2-1, when his shot got by McMaster.

Norwood forced the play going into the third, and after several tries, Gordie Puffer notched the Hornets' third goal, with Aboud collecting his second assist of the night. The pace continued, Rathwell combined with O'Leary shortly after for Norwood's fourth and final counter. It was while W. Rogers was cooling his heels in the penalty box that Morton got Stirling's second tally, one which caused considerable dispute. Roughing it up on both sides, Stirling drew a couple of penalties to spoil any chances for a comeback.

The teams:

Stirling.—Goal, Fox; defence, Jones, Walker; centre, Armstrong; wings, Fraser, Barnum; alternates, Morton, Richardson, Long, Dainard, Mays.

Norwood.—Goal, McMaster; defence, Brady, Webb; centre, G. Puffer; wings, B. Puffer, N. Rogers; alternates, O'Leary, W. Rogers, Rathwell, Aboud.

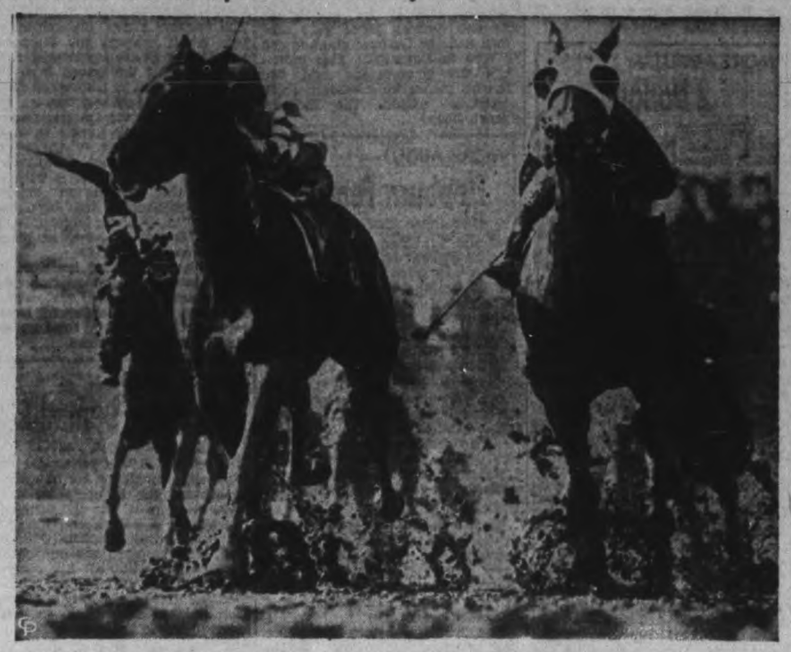
When It Comes Up Mud In Sunny California



On the sunny side of the Rockie, as the song goes, was this picture taken at Santa Anita, after one of California's famous "heavy fogs" had turned the racing strip into a veritable quagmire (quagmires, of course, always being veritable). We don't know where the camera was located for this shot, but we hope no one was hurt. The horses' hooves can be seen churning up large chunks of mud, the kind that splatter on the jockeys running in the rear and bring them to the enclosure looking like animated mud pies. Oh, yes, the winner—that steed at the extreme left, Allergic by name, who came up to beat out the leaders shown here.

Trenton Fliers To Tackle The Petes Here

Trenton Fliers resume their hockey warfare with the Petes here to-morrow (Friday) night at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock Street Arena. It will settle first place in the O. H.A. Intermediate A group race, both clubs having defeated Belleville to date, but not having met each other since group playoffs last year. With both clubs improved over a year ago and in fine shape—due to pre-seasonal practises and tilts—and the ice in tip-top condition, a flashy puck battle is expected and the biggest crowd of the season will be on deck for the heated action.

Coach Toots Holway has lined up a promising pack of Airmen using players from London, Ottawa, England and Edmonton, besides three of last year's Fliers on the front line—Legris, McNab and Baldwin—and Goalie Gibson in the nets. Coach Frank Buckland has a speedy bunch of young veterans (practically a homebrew outfit) and this team looks like another provincial playdown team for Peterborough. It ought to be a swell scrap between the old winter rivals, and deserves a crowd.

Moguls Of N.H.L. Censure Connie Smythe

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 —(CP) — Having disposed of one case presented against a governor, the National Hockey League will take up the case of President Ernie Savard of Montreal Canadiens at its next meeting next month.

Savard could not attend yesterday's gathering of governors here and the league did not want to take any action until he was available to answer for himself. He faces censure for having shoved referee King Clancy because of what he considered a bad decision in a recent game and also for statements he allegedly made in which he charged New York Americans were the poorest-paid team in the N. H. L.

Lester Patrick, Ranger manager, said he presented the meeting with documenetary evidence that the Rangers were the highest-paid team in the league.

The governors voted a motion of censure on Conny Smythe, manager of Toronto Maple Leafs, for making "statements considered by Boston Bruins as detrimental to their interests." The action followed a complaint by Art Ross, Boston manager, that Smythe inserted an advertisement in a Boston newspaper recently, claiming the Bruins played poor hockey and inviting fans to watch the Leafs play a better brand.

Canada's Sports Not Affected By War's Alarms

TORONTO, Jan. 11—(CP) —Canada's sports program has gone ahead almost undisturbed by the war, though scores of athletes have enlisted with the fighting forces and others are awaiting the call to colors.

Canadian rugby football playdowns were staged before thousands, while the National Hockey League and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association have swung into successful seasons. Most sports organizations have expressed the desire to provide relaxation in time of mental strain.

Whether the same condition will apply in another year is a different matter. For the moment, only a part of the country's athletes have been needed in war effort.

Sports leaders have been quick to enter training for the time when they will be called up and organizations like the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada and the Sports Service League have devoted time and money to aiding sports among the soldiers. The C. A. H. A. has set aside $5,000 to foster military sports and some military units have entered teams in the C. A. H. A.

C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville, six times Canadian amateur golf champion and once United States amateur champion, was among the first to join up, and is a lieutenant with the Canadian Active Service Force in England Robert (Scotty) Rankine, the country's foremost distance runner, joined the Perth Regiment (Machine Gun) at Stratford, Ont.

Hockey As Usual.

Toronto Maple Leafs managed to gain a lead in the first weeks of the National Hockey League schedule, despite the fact every member of the club was taking machine gun drill. The Leafs and Montreal Canadiens cross the border to play United States teams as easily as ever. Every member of the McGill University footbal lteam and most members of other college teams entered the Canadian Officers' Training Corps.

It is the Dominion Government's expressed wish that civilian activity should follow normal lines as closely as possible, and sports leaders have fallen in with that idea. There is no need in Canada, either, for such a ban as that placed on big gatherings in England, where air raids are feared.

To scores of athletes who had hoped for chances to compete in the 1940 Olympic Games the war has brought disappointment. The winter Olympics were to have been held in Germany and the summer games at Helsingfors.

Abandonment of the Olympics may mean a slackening of interest in track and field sports next summer, for the prospect of an Olympic team position has given many a goal to work for in the past four years.

Despite the war, preliminary plans have been laid to hold the British Empire Games at Montreal in 1942.

Japan will "purify" it laws because they are "stained too much with Western law."

Indian Twirlers Full Of Hopes

CLEVELAND, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Many a baseball pennant, won in the effortless security of the Hot Stove Leage, is fumbled away in the summer. But a pair of Cleveland pitchers refused today to concede anything to New York Yankees in the 1940 American League race.

The veteran Mel Harder, affliated with a lame salary wing the first two months last season, and Al Milnar, then just an untried southpaw with lots of stuff and no control, pointed to themselves as two of the reasons.

Other factor, the hurlers said, are Lou Boudreau, a newcomer making the grade in the Indians' perennial gap at shortstop; Oscar Grimes, infield handy-man, and Ray Mack, second baseman.

"We have a good chance of winning if we get a few breaks," declared Milnar. "I have more confidence this year."

Janetville L.O.B.A. Sponsors Party; 50 Neighbors Honor Englishes

JANETVILLE, Jan. 11—(ENS)—Silver Jubilee L.O.B.A. sponsored a progressive euchre and dance on Friday night in the L.O.L. Hall, which was well attended and enjoyed.

The first part of the evening was spent at euchre, the prize winners being Mrs. N. Muirhead and Miss Olive Jackett, and Messrs. Crawford English and Fred McGill. The door prize, which was presented by the M.W.P.P.G.M. of of Ontario East, Sister Moore of Lindsay, was won by Miss Evelyn Campbell.

Following a delicious lunch, dancing was enjoyed and music furnished by Mr. and Mrs. P. Hamilton, Miss Bessie Howe and Mr. Herman Wilson.

The proceeds will be used for lodge purposes.

On Thursday evening around fifty neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. Crawford English to spend a pleasant evening with him and his daughter, Miss Muriel English before their departure for Viewlake, where they will reside.

Cards and dancing were enjoyed, music for the latter being supplied by George Pogue, Clayton McGill, Percy Hamilton and Leonard McNeil.

During the lunch hour Mr. P. Hamilton, as master of ceremonies, asked Mr. English and his daughter to come forward, while Mr. Moral Marshall read an appropriate address and Mr. Harvey Davidson and Mr. James Marshall made the presentation of a lovely fern stand to Muriel and a handsome occasional chair to Mr. English.

Mr. English, on behalf of his daughter and himself, expressed their sincere thanks and appreciation and invited all to visit them in their new home.

All sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows" and later lunch was served followed by dancing.

Farmers Are

if just by folklore, that those pioneers were able to clean land, to build fences, schools, churches, roads, and we know that today we can hardly keep roofs on the buildings those pioneers put up."

In the early days, Canada was a land of small communities where the farmer traded his goods at a parity with the goods of the storekeeper and the manufacturer.

It was the coming of vast industries controlling manufacture of equipment and food alike, and the passing of the old family ownership so close to the farm, that economic disaster descended upon the agriculturist, she believed. And added to the burden was the collapse of world markets at a time when farmers had believed an unlimited market lay open to them.

"When the vast export market opened to us we were content to have our export price determine our domestic price. The point I want to make is that we are now facing an altogether different situation, because now our exports are small. Yet our prices are being determined in foreign markets without any consideration of home conditions."

Higher Prices Essential.

She maintained that the domestic price must be incerased in order to meet the higher standard of living in this land else farmers "will become the poor relations of urban Canada." The selling price of all farm produce consumed in Canada must be determined by conditions existing on Canadian farms," she declared.

Such a principle, she declared, was essential not only to the farmer but to the people who live in cities, for only by such an undertaking will the farmer's earning power be raised to a point where he has the spending ability to relieve general economic distress throughout the land.

Scandinavian Utopia.

Against the lack of organization of Canadian farmers she placed the Scandinavian countries—Denmark, Sweden, Norway—of which she said, "they have something very close to a Utopia there and they did it by co-operation." She claimed "It is more important that the Scandinavian countries be saved (after the war) than any other country in the world, for they are going to form a new social order. They aren't just talking ideals, they are practising them."

The same can be done in Canada, she believed, and turned to Nova Scotia for an example. "I had given up hope, almost, that consumer cooperation was going to take hold in Canada," she said. "We hadn't been enthused, inspired, until Nova Scotia came into the picture."

From Nova Scotia's example, she believed, could come the inspiration for all Canada. She outlined steps already taken, and named the Canadian Chamber of Agriculture with its provincial and county branches, as the means of bringing about that unity.

Chairman of the meeting was Clarence Mann, president of the Peterborough U.F.O. Miss Macphail was introduced by Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore, chairman of Peterborough County Chamber of Agriculture.

Musical Program.

C. E. Moore moved a vote of thanks to Miss Macphail.

appeal within 20 days. Renville Wheat, attorney for a third sister, Mrs. Frances Johnson, was undecided whether to appeal.

A new suit thus will involve mother, daughter-in-law, and two daughters in the continuing series of court fights over the $40,000,000 left by the late John F. Dodge, pioneer motorcar manufacturer.

2nd Suit Under Way.

A disinherited son, John Duval Dodge, twice has gone to court to break his father's will. On the first occasion he received a $1,600,000 settlement. A second suit is pending.

In his verdict yesterday Judge Murphy, while making no mention of sums for each beneficiary, ruled that the $11,000,000 belonged to Dodge's estate and should be distributed in accordance with his will.

The verdict, in effect, gives Annie Laurine Dodge, 21, who met Daniel while he was holidaying in her home town, the sum of $1,250,000 and Daniel's mother, Mrs. Mathilda R. Wilson, approximately $3,500,000. The State and Federal Governments receive $6,000,000 in taxes.

The $11,000,000 was accumulated income from Daniel's share in the $40,000,000 trust fund set up by his father. He died when he was 21, four years before he was to have received the money.

In view of this, the three sisters had contended that the income should be divided among them, instead of being considered Daniel's estate.

Hepburn Fearful

that the Canadian people are not "taking the war seriously enough."

"I look for a long war—a horrible, bloody, brutal war—and I look for more vacant seats when this house meets again," Mr. Hepburn said.

The premier said it was needless to pledge Ontario's whole-hearted effort to the war cause.

"So far as the leader of the Canadian government is concerned," the premier said in reference to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, "I have not yet been able to provoke him into an open quarrel, although I have tried to do so with great dexterity on several occasions."

Drew Hits At King.

Replying to the Premier's allusion to the Prime Minister, the Conservative leader, Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew said his "only regret" was that Mr. Hepburn had not succeeded in "arousing the Prime Minister of Canada."

The first bill before the house, now standing for second reading, was brought in by Attorney-General Gordon Conant. It would extend to members of the Royal Canadian Air Force the immunity from jury service that is granted soldiers and sailors.

It is expected the house will receive early legislation to empower the Government to enter into an agreement with the Dominion Government for the St. Lawrence Seaway and Power Development project. The legislation will not, it is expected, deal with specific details of the project, but will simply give the Government power to go ahead. The seaway is now the subject of negotiation between the Canadian and United States Governments.

Tabled after the speech from the throne was read by Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews was an interim report by the Ontario Cancer Commission. While unable to make a finding that any substance or method of treatment investigated has been proved to be a cure or remedy, the commission recommended particularly that investigations of "ensol" under Doctors W. T. Connell and E. P. Johns at Kingston be continued.

The opening lacked much of its usual pomp. In the evening the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Matthews held a reception for members and their wives in the Lieutenant-Governor's chambers.

Greater Demand

14½ cents. These prices did not allow any commission for handling. Reason for the higher than fixed price being paid was the competitive system of selling and the fact that the United Kingdom Government only imposed partial control on cheese. Although the regular importers were not allowed to sell over the fixed price other buyers such as large chain stores were allowed to buy in the open market.

Mr. Joss said, however, that if the cheese had been consigned on a plan "similar to that of our competitors, the Ontario product would have received no more than the fixed prices."

The speaker sounded a note of optimism by stating that in his opinion the demand for Canadian cheese in 1940, if war lasts, will be much keener than in previous years. He pointed out that soon European countries that were supplying Britain with butter would be cut off. This fact would mean the United Kingdom would soon be looking to other countries and particularly to New Zealand for this commodity. This trend might well mean a switch from cheese to butter in New Zealand, thereby making the demand for Canadian cheese greater. There have been a good many plans put before the farmers in recent years and what has been done in other countries has been held up as an example of what we should do. "A scheme to help agriculture, no matter how elaborate is not much good unless it brings results as a farmers' movement, just like any other business is started, only with the idea of increasing returns to their members, therefore all that counts in the final analysis is dollars and cents."

Good Cheese Board.

William Newman, Lorneville, who is associated with the Ontario Marketing Board, Toronto, told the association that the Campbellford Cheese Board was one of the best conducted in the Province. During the year 1939 Northumberland County alone had produced and sold 2,900,00 pounds of cheese having a net value of approximately $377,000. He recalled the 1874 convention in Belleville when producers were told the average price for the preceding year had been 11¾ cents per pound. "The value of cheese has brought a security and given prosperity to Eastern Ontario such as no other type of farming. Mr. Joss has spoken of your Cheese Producers' Association. This organization has spoken for and will continue to speak and study the interest of the producer and deserves the support of all citizens especially those in the marketing of our dairy products. Cheese is the best dairy product of Canada and the cheese producer should have—in fact, must have—the cost of production plus a profit if dairying in Canada is to be prosperous. "We are producing butter fat in increasing quantities each year and have to export our cheese which is bringing the best price of any dairy product. Cheese has the attention of all dairymen of Canada and your organization will keep this attention and plan for quality bonus from the Government until a profit above the cost of producing cheese has been accomplished.

Chamber of Agriculture.

Agriculture Representative Ian MacLeod of Brighton spoke of the possibility of forming a County Chamber of Agriculture drawing attention to the one formed in Peterborough County last year. The Chamber was aimed at co-ordinating all existing farmers' organizations for the purpose of having a strong voice for agriculture. He also referred briefly to cow testing as a means of building up the herd and urged more attention should be paid to pasture crops than in the past.

District Dairy Instructor J. A. Murray also addressed the association briefly. He presided during the election of officers and paid tribute to the splendid leadership given by the retirinng president, G. S. VanVolkenburg.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows:

President, G. S. VanVolkenburg; vice-president, Herbert Nelson; secretary-treasurer, Marshall West; auditors, J. A. Murray and Ian MacLeod; representatives to the County Executive, Percy Oddie, Hector Arnold, Fred Barnum, W. E. Davidson, Horace Way, M. Ferguson, delegates to the annual meeting in Ottawa on February 14-15, Percy Oddie, Fred Peake, Horace Way, Fred Barnum, Hector Arnold, G. S. VanVolkenburg, and Herbert Nelson.

bably the first successful magnetic mine in 1925, Admiral W. R. Furlong told the House of Representatives sub-committee on appropriations, but it has never been used by the United States.

The device is not a floating mine which would be attracted magnetically toward the hull of a ship and explode when it touched the ship's side.

The mines are designed to be anchored at the bottom of the sea or in narrow channels. Then when a ship passes near them the magnetic current trips a delicate electrical latch on the anchoring cable, allowing the mine to float toward the surface.

A timing mechanism inside the mine, similar to those used in artillery shells, fires it automatically when it reaches a point about 35 feet below the surface.

If the depth of the water and the timing mechanism are properly guaged the mine should explode just about the time when a ship is passing over it.

Britons Quick

"Even the heaviest close-range attacks were successfully beaten off by our aircraft keeping 'shoulder-to-shoulder' in tight formation," it was revealed.

After about half an-hour of fighting the British fliers pressed on 130 miles further—exactly the distance to Sylt.

It was disclosed that the Royal Air Force bombers struck at the Sylt seaplane base first about 1 a.m. Wednesday, after a lapse of time hardly more than that needed to fly there after the full extent of the German air attacks on shipping became known.

The same thing happened in the December 18 fight when a mass air raid on Heligoland was the prompt British answer to German air attacks on North Sea trawlers.

Apparently British and German fliers met four times, at least, yesterday— three times between dawn and dusk over Sylt and once at sea, above Heligoland Bight.

The Air Ministry said one British plane was lost in a 30-minute running fight "far out over the North Sea" when an R. A. F. formation drove off a number of German long-range fighters and continued "to the Easterly limit of its reconnaissance" and back. The Germans said three out of nine British planes, Bristol "Blenheim" bombers, had been shot down.

The Air Ministry said it could not confirm reports from Southwest Denmark that a bomb had struck the seven mile long Hindenburg dam causeway connecting Sylt with the mainland.

An air force official, however, said it was "quite possible."

The German Version

BERLIN, Jan. 11 (AP)—Air engagements over the sea and the Western Front were reported by the German high command today.

The German version of the encounters was given in the following communique:

"In the border region south of Saarbrucken, the advance of an enemy company was repulsed immediately by a counter thrust. The opponent sustained losses by death and capture.

"Repeated air encounters took place on the Western Front in connection with border patrol and reconnaissance flight in the course of which two enemy planes were shot down.

"A plane was destroyed by crashing to the ground during pursuit of the enemy in the Colmar sector.

"During a renewed attempt to attack airports along the German coast with bombs, nine British bombers of the Bristol 'Blenheim' type were met in the German (Heligoland) Bight by four German planes. During progress of the fight, three British planes were shot down and a fourth so badly damaged presumably it failed to reach its home base.

"The German planes returned without losses from this fight against an enemy more than doubly superior."

(The British air ministry announced yesterday that one British and one German plane were shot down and one German plane forced to land in Denmark. This morning's Paris communique said two German planes were brought down yesterday within the British-French lines.)

John Corkery Pioneer Passes, Aged 91

Death came early this morning to John Corkery, 487 Gilmour Street, one of this city's most highly respected residents and former postmaster here. He was 91 years of age.

Ill health overtook Mr. Corkery more than four years ago, and two years ago he fell and broke his hip and was forced to spend the remainder of his days in bed. He died at St. Joseph's Hospital this morning.

Oldest member of the parish of St. Peter's, he was born in this city in 1848, and spent practically all his life here. He was a son of the late Jeremiah Corkery and Margaret Kelleher.

Over the larger share of his life Mr. Corkery was intimately associated with the development of Peterborough. Scarcely an organization for the good of the city but saw him a prominent member at some time or other. He shared the responsibility of civic life to the full, was a member of the council for a great many years, and was mayor for a time in 1902, when T. H. G. Denne resigned before the end of the year to contest the water commission

Secretary For 40 Years

Other interests included the Separate School Board, of which he was secretary for 40 years. He was a charter member of the Knights of Columbus here, was once secretary of the old Mechanics' Institute, then chairman of the Library Board when that organization took its place. When the old Peterborough Workingmen's Building and Savings Society was formed 50 years ago, Mr. Corkery was a charter member, and he continued as secretary for 30 years.

In his church he was an earnest member, belonged to the Holy Name Society and other church organizations. Perhaps greatest evidence of the place which the church played in his life lay in the fact that two of his three sons are now members of its clergy.

Served As Postmaster.

Mr. Corkery joined the staff of the post office here early in life after being educated at Peterborough schools. He rose to become its senior officer, postmaster, retiring in 1924.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Nora Sheehy, whom he married in 1882; three sons: John R. Corkery of Peterborough, Rev. V. J. Corkery, chancellor of Peterborough diocese of the Roman Catholic Church, and Rev. K. A. Corkery of Lindsay; and one daughter, Miss Emma Corkery, at home. Also surviving are a brother, James Corkery of Toronto, and a sister, Mrs. Mary McDonald of Toronto.

The funeral will be on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, when Requiem Mass will be sung at St. Peter's Cathedral. Interment will be in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Young's Point Rectory Happy Party Scene

YOUNGS POINT, Jan. 11 —(ENS) —On Thursday evening, the Rev. E. C. and Mrs. Moore together with their daughter, Mrs. W. S. Jacques entertained a large number of the parishioners of St. Aidan's at the rectory to a very happy evening.

Progressive euchre and bingo were very much enjoyed after which a very delightful supper was served by Mrs. Morre and her daughter.

Overcrowded

CHARLOTTETOWN, Jan. 11 — (CP). — Both men's and women's buildings at Falconwood Mental Hospital are overcrowded to a marked degree, the grand jury declared in a report last night after inspection of public institutions. The jury reported it found 123 females and 129 males housed in the hospital.

Evidence of crowding were especially evident in the sleeping and recreation quarters, the report said.

DIED

CORKERY, John.—At St. Joseph's Hospital, on Thursday, January 11, 1940, John Corkery, 487 Gilmour street, beloved husband of Nora Sheehy, in his 92nd year. Funeral on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, when Requiem Mass will be sung in St. Peter's Cathedral. Interment at St. Peter's Cemetery.

Dies At Age Of 91

Child Attacker Being Sought

Police were hunting on Wednesday night for a degenerate who is wanted for grossly indecent conduct toward a six-year-old girl. The offence took place near the corner of Simcoe and Bethune Street after the man had taken the child into the yard of a warehouse, first giving her 5 cents to accompany him. The little girl was able to give a description of the mant and police took up the search as soon as the affair was reported.

Hunted Clerk Heard On Air

ORILLIA, Jan. 11 — (Special). — Nine months ago Sam Levine, 25-year-old night clerk of the Palmer Hotel here, was asked by a guest to mail a letter for him at the railway station. The guest loaned him his car for the errand. That was the last seen of Levine and the car was found in Barrie next day. A charge of theft was laid.

Several times since then Orillia police have believed themselves on the trail of Levine, but when things looked promising, the scent grew cold.

The other night Constable Hugh Johnston, off duty, sat in the depths of his favorite easy chair and listened to a radio commentor on Fifth Avenue, New York, interview persons as they passed along the street.

The constable suddenly sat up straight, his eyes bulging. A self-assured voice was talking, giving opinions on world events. And when the sidewalk commentator asked for him name, it was readily given.

It was Sam Levne.

Minia Moore gave a reading and Walter Gallagher some violin selections. Laura Nelson in charge of the games and contests.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Webster.

The Rambling REPORTERS

IT'S SPELLED MACPHAIL

The name is spelt "Macphail," not "MacPhail" and definitely not "McPhail."

This was the ruling given last night by Agnes Macphail to a reporter who was in doubt. He was in doubt because the Parliamentary Guide, political whoosis, seemed to contradict itself. It listed her as "Macphail" but gave her father's name as "MacPhail." And the Peterborough U.F.O., in an advertisement earlier in the week had spelt her name "MacPhail." Canadian Press always spells it "Macphail," but some Toronto papers make it a capital P, have even been known to use Mc for Mac.

Chalk one up for the accuracy of Parliamentary Guide, even though they might have added a footnote to escape the confusion they caused. For Miss Macphail said they were right about both the spelling of her name and her father's. Her father did use the capital P, but he was wrong she declared. She found that the correct spelling had been with a small p, and in characteristic fashion she started to use it that way.—P.

God Is Seeking To Bring Heaven To Men

The third of the series of New Year services was held Wednesday night in St. Paul's church, Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr conducted the service, assisted by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe and Rev. Dr. E. W. Young. A solo was sung by A. R. Bennett with Martin Chenhall at the organ.

Dr. Northcote-Deck spoke on the need of certainty. When the late Bonar Law, England's prime minister, died one of the London papers said, "What shadows men are and what shadows they pursue," he recalled. The worldly man lives for things that pass. The foundations of liberty are tottering today but there are some things that cannot be shaken. The aged apostle John in his final message to the church of his time speaks of light, love, truth, and everlasting glory. An old Negro, watching a merry-go-round, said as he saw a wealthy man get down after his ride, "Rastus Jones has got off where he got on." This is a profound truth regarding many human lives, Dr. Beck said. The worldly man has nothing but memories. The Christian has experience of God's love and guidance. God does not want merely to bring man to Heaven, he declared, but He seeks to bring Heaven to men. He gives the saints not only necessaries, he gives them luxuries. God wants us to be sure of our salvation. Dr. F. B. Meyer, an aged crusader for Christ, told a skeptic that he had never known the promises of the Bible to fail. They are, he said, more trustworthy than the railway guide or the scientific textbook. Radium emanates life and thus cures disease. The Bible shoots out life from every page and thus brings salvation, he said.

In voyaging around the Solomon Islands, a bar of gleaming coral blocked one of the passages into the coast. One day he (Dr. Deck) discovered there was an opening in the reef and took his little launch through it. The old captain of a schooner would not believe him at first but finally yielded to the testimony of one who had gone through the passage. We cannot convince others until we have had the experience ourselves he, pointed out. A positive experience brings certainty in religion.

Police Raid Bancroft Home

BANCROFT, Jan. 11.—(ENS). — It's either kill or cure of B. D. Roberts of this village, according to a story he told Provincial Constable P. Palmateer and County Constable C. P. Wells when he searched his home for liquor last night.

Police say they found 12 bottles of liquor, which they seized, charging Roberts with illegal possession. According to their account, Roberts had got rid of 16 bottles of liquor besides the 12 seized last night, within the past 10 days. They asked him what had been done with the 18 bottles and reported him as saying that he had been ill and has been taking "quite a bit" of whiskey in an effort to bring about recovery." His trial will be held in Bancroft on January 16.

Charged With Failing To Provide For Family

When Kenneth Williams was charged in police court this morning with failing to provide for his children, Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., who appeared for the accused declared that he questioned the jurisdiction of the court to try the case.

"This man was charged with non-support last August," said Mr. Gordon, "and at that time an agreement was entered into by which he was to support one of the children and the mother the others. The case was accordingly adjourned by consent until February 27, 1940. And now, before the expiration of that adjournment, he is charged again."

Magistrate Langley admitted that the circumstances were very unusual. He had never, he said, come across anything similar in the law reports.

The case was finally adjourned, Williams agreeing to make some provision for the care of one child in the interim.

Railway Trouble

CERNAUTI, Rumania, Jan. 11 (CP-Havas)—Continued disorganization of railroads through Russian-occupied Polish territory has caused serious difficulties for Rumanian business men.

Only four trains of goods have crossed the border since the middle of December, despite a previous agreement between Rumania and Russia allowing five trains daily to leave this country for Germany via Polish Galicia. It is not known if these four trains have yet reached their destination in the Reich.

Strike Fireworks

MANILA, Jan. 11 — (AP). — One worker was shot and killed and two others wounded today in San Antonio, Pampanga Province, where sugar workers have struck for higher pay. One other death, injuries to several workers, and about 100 arrests have resulted from the strike.

Lady Member Greatly Annoyed When Driver Fails To Appear At Appointed Time

"I WONDER will we ever live to see a time when 8 o'clock means 8 o'clock to farmers and 6.30 means 6.30?" asked Agnes Macphail with ire in her voice last night, a question that caused some member of the U.F.O. a good deal of embarrassment.

For Miss Macphail said she was angry, boiling over. She is one of those people who think that a quarter to eight o'clock means 7.45, it developed.

She had been told that last night's meeting at the Normal School was to start at eight o'clock and that a car would pick her up at her hotel at a quarter to eight. She waited in her room, she related, until about five minutes to eight and then went down to the lobby. No one was there to meet her. She sat in the lobby until 8.15 thinking the car had broken down. Then she sent for a cab, went alone to the Normal School.

Her anger wasn't lessoned when she found she had to climb three flights of stairs to get to the lecture hall, she admitted. "I've spoken in Peterborough before and it seems to me the meetings were held down town. They must have closed those places up," she concluded caustically.

COUNCIL INVITED.

'Come around and see us some time' was virtually the reply of the Board of Education to the council's offer of the use of its chamber for Board meetings. Appreciation of the council's thoughtfulness was expressed with the information that the new accommodation in the South Central school was convenient and adequate.

MAY COME HERE

Rumor says "Chin Up" with Ross Hamilton, Pat Rafferty and Red Newman may come to the Collegiate Auditorium if the stage dimensions are large enough. The show made a hit in Toronto, and it is said would book into Peterborough if the Grand Opera House had not been reduced to the general interior appearance of an over-sized barn late in Spring after all the previous season's stuff has been cleaned out.

BIRDS PROMISE SPRING

Wallace Havelock Robb, naturalist and author, sees indications of an early Spring in the large flocks of snowbirds with horned larks and Lapland Longspurs which he observed this week while travelling from Kingston to Belleville. To the Belleville Intelligencer he estimated there were fifteen hundred snowbirds in three flocks. The horned lark is one of the first to appear in Spring, and the Lapland Longspur is rare in this part of the world. They belong to the snow belt countries, spending their summers in the far northern regions.

LIKE FINNISH ARMY.

For use while on traffic duty the local police officers have been provided with a special white coat and white covering for the cap, the idea being to increase their visibility as they stand out in the middle of the street. The black outfits ordinarily worn seemed difficult for motorists to see and several officers have had narrow escapes from injury. The effect when the new garb is donned suggests the white uniforms worn by the Finnish Army for snow fighting.

FIGURES TRANSPOSED

W. Bromwell's gift of milk to St. Vincent's Orphanage last year was 342 quarts instead of 243 as reported.

18 YELLOW BULLFINCHES.

A flock of at least 18 yellow bullfinches was the most unusual sight seen in the garden of Mrs. J. Hawthorne, 163 Antrim Street, at noon to-day. Passers-by counted at least that number in one tree, apparently picking berries from it.

HONOR R. M. GLOVER

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Horticultural Society will be held Thursday evening January 18 in the office of the Department of Agriculture. Presentation of the annual award of service, the first of which was given to Harry Beal, will be made during the meeting. John A. Smith, president, said that the honor this year would be paid to R. M. Glover.

DIDN'T GET "PERMISSION

The first meeting of the new board of the Peterborough Exhibition will be held tonight for executive organization. Veteran members regret that Department regulations forced them to cut their board to eighteen directors, and it transpired since the annual meeting that John A. Carroll, superintendent of agricultural associations and fairs, sent along a comment that the number of directors should have been twelve, and that the additional six should not have been appointed without permission from him.

Havelock Man Is Given Ten Days

Two Havelock brothers who appeared in police court last week charged with illegal consumption of wine pleaded not guilty at that time and the case was adjourned until this morning.

Today only one of the brothers put in an appearance and he asked to have his plea changed to guilty. He was fined $10 and $3.50 costs or ten days in jail and announced his intention of taking the imprisonment. He had not seen his brother since last Saturday, he stated.

An application was made and granted for a bench warrant for the arrest of the brother.

The charges arose out of the arrest of the two men near the bank of the Otonabee River south of the Ashburnham bridge when police interrupted a drinking incident.

Two Plead Guilty Charge Of Entering

PORT HOPE, Ont., Jan. 11 (CP) —Fred MacDonald, 18, Starkville and William Pascas, 20, Montreal, pleaded guilty to entering R. Harness service station, on highway No. 2, six miles west of Port Hope, and were remanded one week for sentence.

They pleaded guilty to a charge of armed robbery at Welcome on December 13, where Roy Beckett was robbed at a service station. MacDonald said he drove the car used in the robbery but was not armed. Pascas admitted being present at the robbery but said he did not hold up Beckett.

War 25 Years Ago

(By The Canadian Press)

JAN. 11, 1915—Sixteen deaths from meningitis reported in Canadian Expeditionary Force camped at Salisbury Plain. Last rebels in the Transvaal captured. Heavy rains slow up military operations in Poland.

Ministers And Teachers Do Not Escape Vitriolic Of Canada's First Lady M.P.

Teachers in Canada only go to rural school to acquire enough experience to land jobs in city schools was a charge levelled at this country's educational system last night by Agnes Macphail, speaking at the Normal School here.

She maintained that educational policy is laid down by men whose voice is that of urban centres without regard to farm children's needs. Even the clergy did not escape her vitriolic tongue, for she declared them to be tarred with the same brush. The new ones take country charges "until they're good enough for the city," she declared. "And then they're good enough," she added caustically.

Her argument was that the farmer has lost his voice in the economic, educational, and religious life of his land, and she said that voice could be regained any time farmers unite with vision and knowledge.

Declaring that farmers are too prone to apologize for their profession, she warned, "When a nation loses respect for the soil and the people who till the soil, they're dying regardless of how young that country may be."

Lindsay Farmers Worrying About Water

LINDSAY, Jan. 11 —(ENS) —The annual meeting of the District Orange Lodge was held in Lindsay on Tuesday when the following officers were elected for the year:— W. Bro. J. Chatten, Dist. Master; W Bro R Smith, Dist Dep.; Bro. Ross Park, Chaplain; Bro. Earl Thurston, Dist. Secretary; Bro. T. H. Davies, Treasurer; Lecturers, Clayton Smith, E. Patrick, E. Nesbitt; Marshal.

Decided shortage of water for farm purposes is proving a great handicap and costly inconvenience in this district. Many farmers are hauling water daily for a distance of two or four miles from small creeks. W. H. Winter, Department of Agricultural representative, states that the average cow will drink a barrel of water easily if thirsty. Water levels in the lakes are also very low, Balsam Lake being down at least three feet. Hawk Lake in Haliburton which is a reservoir for the Trent Valley Canal, is down some eight feet. This lake is said to be between 600 and 700 feet deep.

The condition of James Orr, of Harburn, Haliburton County, who was injured by a falling tree a few days ago, is causing much concern to his friends. He is in the Red Cross Outpost Hospital at Haliburton.

John Wallace of the Oakville Basket Co., Haliburton, lost his car by fire near Wilberforce on Monday. He struck the cement bridge at Shanty Creek, and the vehicle burst into flames.

William Hazleton, a former well known resident of Ops, dropped dead at his home on Elgin street Wednesday morning. He is survived by his wife, two brothers and on sister.

J. Arthur Ash Passes In City

One of Peterborough's longest practising electricians died after a long illness last evening. He was Joseph Arthur Ash, 617 Aylmer street, a resident of Peterborough for the past 44 years, coming here from Cold Springs, his birthplace, at the age of 18 years.

Mr. Ash became associated with the electrical business and was widely known as an electrical contractor. Five years ago he suffered a stroke, although he recovered to some extent. During the past few years he was confined to his home, however.

Surviving are his wife, Mary Alice Ash; three sons, Frederick George Ash, of Peterborough, Clifford J. Ash, of Ottawa, and Lloyd B. Ash of Peterborough; and two daughters, Mrs. Morley Smith of Peterborough, and Miss Marguerite Ash at home, also a half-brother, George Greer of Cobourg and a half-sister, Mrs. Louisa Pockett, of Spirit River, Alberta.

The funeral will be on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, Rev. M. C. Parr of George Street United Church officiating. Interment will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

OMEMEE, Jan. 11 (ENS). — The meeting of Trinity United Church Young People's Union held this week was in charge of Eleanor Sherin. Richard Vaughan, president, conducted the business of the evening. The society planned to attend Winter School in Lindsay on the night of January 15. Plans for entertaining neighboring societies were discussed.

Eleanor Sherin read a poem entitled "Another Year." The call to worship was followed by a prayer and a hymn. Hazel Wilson read the Scripture lesson and Rev. R. N. Patterson sang "Follow the Gleam." The topic for the evening was Citizenship, and Mr. Patterson addressed the Young People on the subject "Having a Good Time." The speaker spoke concerning good times which often leave lingering regrets and of the value of worthwhile amusements.

The meeting closed with the singing of "O Canada" and the National Anthem.

This committee will assist in sponsoring support of all patriotic movements, Red Cross work, cooperate in maintaining patriotism in the community, and combat all subversive activities. It will render all possible service to the soldier overseas by assisting his family to solve unforseen difficulties that arise while he is serving in this national crisis.

Other Kiwanis clubs in the district have formed special war service committees realizing that Kiwanis is bound to identify itself more than ever with service to the community and the vital work so necessary in the present emergency.

$10,000 Of Bonus Paid By Gov't To 14 Factories

The Federal Government's cheese bonus amounted to approximately $10,000 to the milk producers represented by the fourteen factories in Peterborough and Victoria Counties, according to a statement at this morning's session of the annual meeting of the Cheese Factory Patrons' Association of this district in Paragon Hall this morning.

Payments to individual factories weer incomplete, but were listed as follows: Pine Grove $950, Warsaw $274, Warminster $675, Daisy D $1,173, Killarney $672, Trent Bridge $1,491.91, Bobcaygeon $800, Selwyn $925, Hastings $500, Young's Point $800, Oakdale $300. The others were not available.

George Elliott of Norwood, president, opened this morning's meeting with practically all the factory delegates present.

Frank C. Paterson, secretary-treasurer, reported a credit balance of $114.97. George VanVolkenburg of Seymour Township, one of the five members of the provincial executive, reviewed the major events in the operations of last year. From the pool collected from factories on the charge of five cents a box, $13,000 was expended on milk testing, and there was some strong likelihood that this detail would be assumed by the Provincial Department of Agriculture this year, although it has not yet been decided.

Depends on Navy.

Mr. VanVolkenburg told the meeting that prospects for the coming season indicated that purchase of cheese for the British market would probably be handled by Government boards in Canada and Great Britain, and Mr. Paterson remarked that export cheese might be disposed of in the same manner as bacon.

"And if we didn't have the British Navy and its convoy system we would all be in a pretty bad way as producers in this country," said Fred Crowe of Warsaw. "I don't know what we'd do with our goods."

Satisfaction with the bonus system was general throughout the industry last season, but one comment that when the price was down around nine and ten cents a pound during the first months the bonus did little more than change the milk producer's condition from 'red to pink."

Pegging the Price.

Chain stores in England buying cheese in anticipation of future demand and to be prepared for emergencies were a helpful factor in obtaining the prices paid in Canada since the outbreak of war.

When the price of cheese was pegged in England during the first week of September the price was set at 63 shillings, equivalent to 11 3-16 cents a pound in Canada, but there were no board sales here at that time. On October 2 the Old Country price was up to 68 shillings or 11 5-16 cents in Canada; and the price on the local boards was 13¾ cents. A month later the British price was 78 shillings and boards were paying 14½ cents. The pegged price has remained the same since then, but the Ontario price has advanced to 17 cents.

"If you weer to send butter to a dealer in England, he wouldn't get it, but he would receive the value of it. By the ne wregulations over there it would be handled by the Government and rationed to the people."

Less Butter Made

OTTAWA, Jan. 11 — (CP). — Canadian creamery butter production during December, 1939, was 11,779,630 pounds, compared with 15,459,515 pounds the previous month and 11,247,322 in December, 1938, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported to-day.

Factory cheese production totalled 2,338,735 pounds in December, compared with 5,075,587 in November, and 2,077,613 in December, 1938.

Havelock Names Officials In Lively Opener

HAVELOCK, Jan. 11—(ENS)—The need for co-operation was stressed by Reeve Ernest W. Seeney as he addressed the members of the Havelock municipal council at their inaugural session on Monday evening, and extended a welcome to the two newcomers, Councillors William Martin and Fred Pollock. Present also for the meeting were Councillors E. J. Leeson and James Ketchen.

Outlining the present financial status of the municipality, Reeve Seeney advised a policy of caution and economy. The reeve and council were sworn in at 11 a.m. in the council chamber, after which the meeting was adjourned till 7:30 in the evening.

Mr. George Watson addressed the council regarding the placing of street lights on No. 7 highway through the village from Concession to Quebec streets.

Richard Sanderson, member of the local Hydro Commission, in reply to Mr. Watson, stated that he was, as before, opposed to this section of highway being lighted, as it would only encourage the pedestrians to continue to use the highway as a walk, a most dangerous practise. It was needless, he said, because within a few yards further there was already a good sidewalk on a well-lighted street.

T. P. Lancaster expresed himself as being of the opinion that not only should that portion of the highway be lighted, but that a sidewalk should as well be built along the north side. No action however was taken at the present time by the council.

Check On Licences

Discussing the matter of the local transient traders licence in connection with the Garage Service Company in operation here, the clerk was instructed by the council to ascertain to whom the company was registered, and if it was not registered in a citizen's name, which appears on the last revised assessment roll, he is to proceed at once to collect the licence fee, and if necessary to take court action.

The clerk was instructed to send a request to J. Sears, department of highways engineer, to instruct the snowplow operators to slow down through the village, to avoid tossing the snow onto the sidewalks, this on motion of Councillors Ketchen and Leeson.

Reeve Ernest Seeney voted in favor of an amendment by Councillors Martin and Ketchen, retaining William Akins as village constable and utility employee, at a salary of $50 per month. The amendment followed a motion by Councillors Pollock and Leeson for the appointment of William Laing to this position, at a similar salary.

Councillors Leeson and Pollock moved that Dr. Donald J. Holderoft be re-appointed medical officer of health for Havelock, and that the council arrange a meeting with the doctor to arrange the salary. The above motion failed to carry, Reeve Seeney voting in favor of an amendment by Councillors Martin and Ketchen that Dr. D. J. Holderoft be appointed M.O.H. for this village at a salary of $120 per annum, and instructed the clerk to prepare a by-law for the next meeting, confirming this appointment.

Other municipal appointments were as follows: high school board three-year term, Mrs. Elida Rigby; park board, three-year term, Fred McKenzie and Carman Coon; board of health, one year, Harrison Wing; relief investigators, Mrs. J. Armstrong and Constable Akins; poundkeeper, W. J. Stillman; snowplow operators, W. J. Stillman, west end, Thomas Forsythe, east end.

Misses Katie Anderson and Eliza Wright were appointed auditors of the 1939 municipal books, at a salary of $20 each.

Bylaw No. 423 authorizing the holding of a nomination meeting for the purpose of selecting two public school trustees and a Hydro commissioner passed.

The clerk was instructed to order copies of the Municipal World for the reeve and council and clerk, also 75 dog tags and the latest edition of the assessor's guide.

On motion of Councillors Pollock and Ketchen the council as a whole will be a committee to look after street work. Such work may be done with the sanction of any three members.

The reeve and Councillors Ketchen and Leeson were named as the finance committee.

Oppose 2 Year Terms

The new council went on record, on motion of Councillors Leeson and Ketchen, as being definitely opposed to the new intended legislation whereby municipal elections will be held only every two years, or perhaps suspended for the duration of the war. Copies of the motion are to be forwarded to the department of municipal affairs and to Alex Elliott, M.L.A., of Peterborough.

A motion ob Councillors Leeson and Martin set the wage rate for village man labor at 30 cents per hour. A motion by Councillor Pollock that the rate be increased to 35 cents received no seconder.

The Havelock Standard was awarded the village printing contract on motion of Councillors Pollock and Martin.

A notice regarding the prepayment of the 1940 taxes will be placed in the local paper, on motion of Councillors Ketchen and Pollock.

The reeve was instructed to obtain prices on an automatic door closer for the outside front door of the town hall, and if reasonable, to have one installed.

The following accounts were passed and ordered paid on motion of Councillors Leeson and Ketchen:

Village treasurer, election expenses, $43; Municipal World, supplies, $6.78; H. B. Puffer, postage, phone, pay sheet, deeds, etc., $26.90; Thos. Forsythe, snow-plowing, $12.50; W. J. Stillman, snow-plowing and cartage, $7.70; F. McKenzie, printing account, $60.17; Mrs. Edythe Johnson, re Foley estate, $10.

Windsor Council Machinery Forms

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 11—(CP).—Machinery of Windsor's civic administration to-day apepared to be jammed, with the Council's two factions remaining far from agreement.

The city's business remained tied up following a Board of Control meeting last night at which opponents of Mayor David Croll were in the majority.

Controllers Norman Eansor and W. H. McCreedy insisted that proposals of the group headed by Mayor Croll, absent in Toronto for the opening of the Ontario Legislature, be held up if proposals of the anti-Croll group are to be so treated.

The two controllers were able to outvote Acting Mayor Arthur J. Reaume, a supporter of the Mayor. The Board's other member, Cyril Copper of the anti-Croft faction, did not attend the meeting.

Insisting that things "are going to be at a standstill and we will have a showdown," Eansor took exception to a proposal that E. J. Langlois be appointed acting city treasurer during the illness of City Treasurer A. N. Cook. Signature of pay cheques was the only authority Eansor agreed to grant Langlois.

Eansor argued that if the Mayor was going to hold up the anti-Croll group's procedure by-law and other measures, then other civic business should be delayed. The anti-Croll faction is particularly opposed to a measure passed by the 1939 Council after the last elections whereby a two-thirds vote is necessary to carry a by-law before Council.

Truck, Car Tangle Near Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Jan. 11—(ENS).—Chief Constable E. C. Richards was called to investigate an accident seven miles west of the village on Monday afternoon, when a truck, driven by John Haber, 728 Richmond street, Toronto, while passing a car parked beside the roadway, and belonging to George Waddell of Bethany, caught the rear end of the car with the rack, doing considerable damage to both vehicles.

Haber owned the truck and assumed responsibility for the accident, adjustment of differences being arranged between Waddell and himself.

He Stayed There

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 11 — (AP). — Thomas Lanahan suffered a broken leg in 126 and was taken to St. John's Hospital. He liked the service and people so much he made the hospital his home. After 14 years, Lanahan, St. John's oldest "patient," died Sunday of pneumonia. He was 87 years old.

'Frisco Juliet Kills Romance

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11 —(AP)—Isabelle Deshler says it's all off—her "romance" with John B. Adams, the 32-year-old romeo who took the law courts in an effort to prevent his prospective mother-in-law from cramping his romantic style.

"I do not love Mr. Adams and I have no intention of ever marrying him," Isabelle announced last night.

Her mother added:

"Of all the people for my daughter to marry, this man would be the last."

This put a decided chill on the romeo and juliet affair which Adams hoped would end like a similar case in New York involving George Lowther and the former Eileen Herrick, who were married last week.

Adams, collection agency executive who employed Miss Deshler as stenographer until a few weeks ago, spent most of yesterday; vainly knocking on the Deshler door, telephoning and sitting on the front door step.

He has a superior court order compelling Mrs. Deshler to bring her 24-year old daughter to court Friday so Judge Lyle T. Jacks can determine if juliet is being kept from romeo against her will.

Paris is to have an exhibit of art of modern schools of different tendencies.

Aldermen Frown Upon Issuing Of Debentures

The city council has become so attached to its pay-as-you-go policy and conversely so set in its no-debenture fixation that it briefly considered the other night the advisability of meeting the expense of the London street pedestrian bridge across the river out of this year's taxes.

After getting the approval of the ratepayers at the polls on New Year's, the council is going ahead with plans and preparations for this bridge which is intended as an accommodation for residents of the Nicholls Park section of Ashburnham.

The question of financing it was mentioned by Alderman McIntyre Monday night, and a passing conversation was really nothing more than a canvass of opinion. Decision can hold off until the budget is all bound up for delivery to the tax collecting mill.

The council is authorized by the recent bylaw to spend $10,000 on the footbridge, but Alderman McIntyre remarked that the debenture method might have been left out of the proposition to which the ratepayers have assented. Issuing debentures means the borrowing of $10,000 for ten years and paying interest charges on the principal for that period.

"I've always been opposed to issuing debentures for any amount under $10,000," Alderman McIntyre said. "You'll all agree that it has been good business not issuing debentures in recent years, and paying our way as we go. We've got a surplus of $350,000 in the City Trust funds. Our financial position is good. If we paid for this bridge out of the current it would be only a small item in our tax rate for this year, and we'd have the bridge paid for. If we can build the bridge for $10,000 I still think it would be good business to pay for it this year and be done with it."

Mayor Hamilton—"You could do it, but we've got to get away from the idea that we can continue to go along without issuing debentures. I think this bridge is likely to cost us $15,000, approximately half a mill in the tax rate."

Alderman Gordon—"The issuing of debentures spreads payment of the bridge over the next ten years instead of putting it all on the ratepayers of this year. Money has an earning power one way or the other; the interest you'd have to pay on debentures amounts to about the same as interest that would accrue by paying for the bridge now. People in the next ten years are using the bridge, and you are giving them the chance to pay for it while it is being used."

Alderman Dutton—"We have taken a pride in not borrowing, in paying-as-go, but are we going to be slavish to that idea? One of the things Mayor Hamilton mentioned in his address Monday was that the council should try to find some work for those citizens who on account of their age, for instance, do not get other work."

Mayor Hamilton said that the council would have to issue some debentures this year to pay for improvements to streets done under the Local Improvement Act in the last two years.

This amount, City Engineer Parsons told the Examiner yesterday, would be betwen $3,000 and $4,000.

Alderman Wilson—"I agree with Alderman McIntyre. There is no reason why we can't pay for the footbridge this year out of our tax revenue, providing it doesn't cost too much to build it."

Mayor Hamilton closed the discussion with the comment that the question did not have to be decided until the new tax rate was being struck, and the members could give it some thought in the meantime.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Rice and Macaroni Used In Casserole Cookery

By MARY MOORE.

It is time you and I settled down to some wholesome cooking and budget balancing meals.

We had the opporunity to buy some rice and spaghetti in 10-lb. lots at a slight saving so we laid in stock.

I felt exactly like Peter did when he saw it "What are you going to do with it Mamma?"

I said, "For one thing Daddy can have rice pudding all he wants and Marianne can have macaroni and cheese every time she asks for it." He said, "Can you make me Puffed Rice?" I had to admit my cooking limitations.

But here are some ideas you may not have had.

Liver and Spaghetti en Casserole.

Four tablespoons chopped onion, 1 tablespoon cooking oil or dripping 1 cup beef or pork liver diced, ¾ cup tomato pulp (the thick part drained from canned tomatoes) ½ tablespoon chopped parsley, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup spaghetti before it is cooked in boiling salted water, ½ cup old cheese grated.

Add the onion to the melted fat and cook until lightly browned. Add the diced liver, parsely and seasonings and cook for 10 minutes. Add the tomato pulp and simmer for 20 minutes. Pour this mixture over the spaghetti which has been cooked until tender in large amount of salted water and drained and turn all into buttered casserole. Sprinkle top with cheese, and sprinkle cheese lightly with paprika. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until cheese melts and all is heated.

Scalloped Noodles and Stuffed Eggs.

Four and one-half oz. noodles, boiling salted water, 6 eggs (one for each person to be served), salt, pepper, mustard vinegar, milk to moisten, 1½ tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup boiling water mixed with 1 cup evaporated milk, grated cheese. Drop the noodles into a large quantity of boiling salted water and boil briskly until tender—about 15 minutes. Drain and rinse in cold water. Place in the bottom of a buttered casserole. Hard cook the eggs, peel and cut in halves lengthwise. Remove the yolks, mash and season them with the salt, pepper, mustard and a little vinegar. Add just enough milk to moisten. Refill whites with this mixture and place the stuffed eggs on the noodles in the casserole. Melt the butter, blend in the flour and salt, and gradually add the mixed water and evaporated milk. Cook, stirring constantly until the mixture is thick and smooth and pour over the eggs and noodles in casserole. Sprinkle grated cheese over the top and heat and brown at 350 deg. Fahr.

Jambalaya.

To 2 cups boiled rice add 1 can tomato soup, 1 tablespoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 green pepper cut small, ½ cup diced boiled ham or any left over meat (bacon will do if sauteed), 1 bay leaf, 1 small red pepper or ¼ teaspoon cayenne if for adults. Place in covered casserole and bake half an hour. For childen the pepper content in this would have to be modified—parsley could be substituted for the green pepper, and fresh tomato for the red.

Special Spaghetti.

One-half lb. spaghetti, 4 tablespoons flour, 4 tablespoons butter, salt and pepper, 1 onion, 4 large mushrooms, ½ cup chopped celery, 2 cups beef stock, or canned bouillon or thinned gravy or tomato juice. Cook the spaghetti in boiling salted water until tender—about 15 minutes—and rinse in cold water. Make a sauce by melting the butter, adding the flour, salt, and stirring together, then add the liquid and stir till thickened, then add vegetables. Mix this with the spaghetti, heat through in top of double boiler or in casserole in oven.

This may be served as an accompaniment to roast veal—when a salad would be the only other part of the main course. Or if to be served as the piece de resistance of a vegetarian dinner, you would serve also a bright green vegetable and orange or yellow vegetable.

Baker Macaroni with Chipped Beef.

Break macaroni in 1-inch pieces or use noodle shells— there should be at least 1 cup, and cook in boiling water until soft; drain and rinse in cold water. Pull ¼-lb. chopped beef sliced wafer thin into bits. Cover with hot water, let stand 10 minutes, and drain. Arrange in buttered baking dish alternate layers of macaroni and chipped beef, having two layers of each. Pour over 2 cups white sauce, cover with ¾ cup buttered crackers crumbs and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. until heated through and crumbs are brown.

For the white sauce melt 4 tablespoons butter, add 3 tablespoons flour, and stir until blended, then pour on gradually while stirring constantly 2 cups milk or 1 cup evaporated milk and 1 cup boiling water. Bring to bubble and add ½ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Baker Spaghetti with Peanut Butter.

(This is so beloved by my children and many others that I outline it here with the hope you will treat your little ones to it.)

One cup spaghetti or noddle shells, 2 cups milk, 3½ tablespoons peanut butter, 1 teaspoon salt, ¾ cup buttered crumbs. Cook macaroni in boiling salted water 20 minutes, or until very tender, rinse in cold water and put in buttered baking dish. Heat milk in double boiler, and add gradually to peanut butter, stirring to melt it. Pour over macaroni, cover, and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. about 40 minutes. Remove cover, sprinkle with crumbs(preferably mixed with a little melted butter and grated cheese), and bake until crumbs are brown.

FASHIONS

Now is the time to make some cute frocks for the younger member of the family. Little girls like a new dress, too, and this one is especially appealing because of the "Scottie" pockets. Crisp cotton, perhaps striped makes this button front dress that is easy to put on and comfortable as well as pretty for the child to wear. Matching panties complete the dress that you will like most to see her wear. The front opening also makes it very easy to launder.

Style No. 3207 is designed for sizes 1, 2, 3, 4 and 6 years. Size 4 requires 2½ yards of 35-inch material for dress and panties; ¼ yard of contrasting.

E-11159, "Scottie" pockets, must be ordered separately.

Money Matters Rightfully And Properly Should Be Discussed Before Marriage In These Modern Times When Most Girls Are Employed.

DEAR MISS DIX—Who, in your opinion, is right in the following discussion between a mother and her daughter? Mother says: "Even though an engaged couple are earning about the same wages, it is the man's responsibility to buy all of the furniture for their future home." Daughter says: "This arrangement was perfectly all right when girls were not in business, or, if they were, they received only a fraction of the amount of their fiance's salary. But at present when men and women are earning an equal amount it doesn't seem fair for the man to buy all the furniture and the girl only provide the linens and a few inexpensive articles. She thinks it would be fairer if they both saved an equal amount each week and when they had enough to buy all the things they needed for their home out of this savings account. Daughter says also that any money each may have saved prior to their engagement should be kept as his or her private account after marriage." Which of us is right?—CONSTANT READER.

ANSWER:

I think you are. Your mother's contention that the bridegroom should buy all of the furniture for the new home rests on the theory that the girl has nothing to contribute to it but the monogrammed towels and embroidered dish towels in her hope chest. Also, it assumes that the man will shoulder all of the responsibility for the support of the establishment.

That was the old way in which a young couple set up housekeeping, and maybe it was a good way for the man to bring home the bacon and the wife to stay in the kitchen and fry it. But those ways have gone with the wind, and there is no use in trying to apply them to modern conditions.

Today when a girl earns just as much money as her fiance does, it is only fair and just that they should go fifty-fifty on the expense of going to housekeeping.

Somehow, in America, it has always been esteemed callous and mercenary for an engaged couple to discuss financial matters before they were married and come to some definite agreement on the money question. We have acted as if people could live on kisses and as if there would be no bills to trouble them after marriage.

Men have assured their starry-eyed little fiancees that all that they had would be theirs, and so girls have trustingly gone into marriage without even knowing what their husbands made; or what their ideas were on the allowance question; or whether they would have a joint checking account or the wives would have to get up in the night and go through their hubbies' clothes to get the price of a new finger wave. The result has been tears and reproaches, and only too often divorce.

Now, when so many wives continue to be wage-earners after marriage, it is more than ever important that every couple should settle the money question before they marry instead of waiting to quarrel over it afterward. I get many letters from wives who say that their husbands gave up their jobs as soon as they found that they had wives who could support the family. Also, many wives write that their husbands make them bring home their pay envelopes unopened, which they confiscate without even a "thank you," and that they get only a few cents out of the dollars they earn.

Of course, every couple will have to write their own financial ticket, but I think that inasmuch as the wife generally does the housework in addition to her labor outside of the home, that she should not pay as much of the living expenses as the husband, and that after both have made an equal contribution to a sinking fund to be held in both their names that each should have his or her individual banking account.

I suggest this arrangement not because husbands and wives ordinarily want to cheat each other, or do not trust each other, but because very often a good husband has holes in his pockets, or a wife is unduly addicted to French millinery. Each should be protected against the other's weakness as far as it can be done, because every human being craves financial independence. No man wants to have to tell his adored Angelina that he has let a ne'er-do-well friend stick him for $5 again. Nor does any woman want to have to go to her beloved Percy for a handout every time she wants to buy something.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Do you think that a successful marriage can be built without this so-called love? I have been going with a girl for the last two-and-a-half years. She is everything a man could ask for so far as looks, intelligence, character and congeniality are concerned, and we are thinking of being married soon. But I hesitate because I don't know whether what I feel for her is enough to risk marriage on. I enjoy being with her more than with anybody else, but when I have been away from her for a couple of weeks, as I often am, I am in no haste to see her. Sometimes I am in town for two or three days before I call her on the phone. About eight years ago I went with a girl and I thought of her all the time I was gone and couldn't get back fast enough to see her. When I did see her I always had a thrill and a fast heartbeat. But she is married now, and that's that, and the question is: What about this other girl who doesn't show any more emotion when she meets me than I do when I meet her?—WONDERING.

ANSWER:

Well, it doesn't seem to me that there would be much sweetness or flavor in that sort of ice-box wedding cake, but if you have lost your taste for gooey sentiment you could count on its being wholesome and nutritious and not setting heavy on your stomach.

There is a lot to be said for picking out your mate with your head. That way you can make a judicious choice and you can see that you get what you want—a good cook, a congenial companion, somebody who will see that your dinner is a feast, your socks darned, the budget balanced. But don't you think that you will want somebody you will hurry home to in the evening, somebody to baby you, somebody who will be foolishly fond of you, somebody who will just make the world go round for you?

A sensible marriage such as you are contemplating is a safe bet, but there isn't much fun in it.

DOROTHY DIX.

CROYDON, England—(CP). — Speeding to meet her husband who was on 48 hours' leave, Lady Suirdale was fined $8.90 here.

Queen Is At Home When Lunching With The Evacuees

CHICHESTER, England, Jan. 11 —(CP). — Two hundred and fifty tiny hearts thumped and 500 eyes got big one day recently when Queen Elizabeth unexpectedly dropped in for lunch at a billeting centre here. The Queen, dressed in a black velvet hat and upturned black hat, in mourning for Princess Louise—the King's great-aunt—was on a tour of evacuation centres.

There was no disturbance in the usual luncheon routine. The kiddies were served first because they had to return to the afternoon school session before the Queen accepted her luncheon before her on the long enamel-topped table.

Stewed steak, potatoes and a jam tart—the same threepence-half-penny (seven cent) meal the children had except that there were no onions in the stew—was set before Her Majesty, and she said it was "very good." Her water glass, the same as the children's, was a penny mug. Mrs. H. D. Gibson, wife of a bank manager who is a senior cook in the Women's Voluntary Service, was the Queen's servitor.

Later the Queen visited the kitchens and told Mrs. A. E. Humphrey, wife of a local councillar, that, were she differently situated, she would like to undertake similar work.

While visiting the billeting areas the Queen stopped to talk to eight-year-old Jimmie Hutchinson, known to the villagers as "Scottie."

He was anything but timid in his conversation and when the Queen asked him, "Do you like Selsey?" he replied, "No, I don't." She asked him if he'd like to go back home and he answered emphatically, "Yes."

"You must be a brave boy and wait until the end of the war," the Queen hastily advised.

Do You Know?

Stale bread will be improved if placed in a steamer over boiling water and allowed to steam slowly from 15 to 30 minutes. The result will be a very light loaf. This is more effective than reheating the oven.

If potatoes to be cooked in their jacket sare well pricked with a fork and put into the oven dripping wet they will bake well and be twice as tender as if put in when dry.

When making fruit pies or tarts, mix a little cornstarch with the sugar before adding it to the fruit. This will make the juice like syrup and prevent it from boiling over.

Splendid Cough Remedy Easily Mixed at Home

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.

To get quick relief from a distressing cough, mix your own remedy at home. Once tried, you'll say it's your favorite cough medicine, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a compound containing Norway Pine in concentrated form, well known for its prompt action on throat membranes.

Put the Pinex into a 16 ounce bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make 16 ounces of very efficient remedy, and you get four times as much cough medicine for your money. It tastes fine and never spoils.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is splendid. You can feel it penetrating the air passages in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Encouraging Reports Presented By Knox W.M.S.

Encouraging reports from the various missionary organizations were heard at the annual meeting of the Knox W.M.S. The Mission Band, under the faithful leadership of Miss Inez Banner, showed good work done, and increased attendance and givings. The C.G.I.T. reported 48 paid members, with an average attendance of 34. Mrs. Ada Huffman and those assisting her leading the girls in work and study.

The Frances Watt Circle, though the youngest group, reported earnest and faithful attendance and interest. With 41 members and 40 subscribers to the Missionary Monthly, the Helen Roger Evening Auxiliary reported having reached their allocation through systematic giving, and interested study along missionary lines. The committee of the Afternoon Auxiliary reported advancement along all lines, with 27 life and annual members, four having been called away by death. 98 calls were made to sick, shut-ins, and others. Eleven monthly and two executive meetings were held during the year.

At the close of the meeting, five little Mission Band members very reverently sang their prayer hymn, "Once again, dear Lord, we pray for the children far away."

By a unanimous vote, Mr. Farley was elected president, and presided at the meeting. Others of the executive were elected as follows: Honorary presidents, Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, Col. George A. Drew, Mr. Gordon K. Fraser; president, Mr. Lorne H. Plans were made for a dance, sponsored by the Association, to be held in the Canadian Legion Hall the latter part of February. Mr. Farley closed the meeting with a vote of thanks to Mr. Fraser for his help, and expressed the hope that all members would work for the well-being of the Society.

Reception Is Held After Dance Recital

A delightful reception attended by members of the Peterborough Canadian Concert Association, and held in the gymnasium, followed Argentinita's picturesque dance program Wednesday evening at the Collegiate Auditorium.

Receiving were Mr. George K. Mitford of Toronto, director of the Canadian Concert Association, and vice-president of the Peterborough branch, Mr. L. J. Pettit, Mrs. G. S. Cameron, Mr. O. M. Steer, Mrs. H. V. Dobson, Mr. M. J. Roche, Miss M. R. Rannie, Mr. F. J. Overend, Mr. H. L. Garner, Mrs. A. E. Cauley, Mrs. Harold Scott.

An arrangement of spring flowers in an ivory bowl was particularly effective in the centre of the coffee table, and the light from slim tapers in ivory candelbras brought out the gleam of silver services at each end. Pouring were Mrs. Walter Reesor of Lindsay, and Mrs. J. McKerchar of Lakefield. Assisting to serve were the Misses Margaret Abbott, Betty Barr, Berta and Frances Belleghem, Mary Curry, Betsy English, Mary Hall, Orma Lacheur, Marilyn Monro, Agnes Richardson, Betty Richardson, Barbara Scott, Jane and Mary Strickland, Catherine Turner, Olga and Margaret Westbye, Margaret Wood, June Fraser, Janie Turner, members of the Artists' Committee, Mrs. Chill Turner, Mrs. Ford Turner, and Mrs. Fred Green, and the following members of the Reception Committee: Mrs. D. T. Diplock, Mrs. C. G. Graham, Mrs. F. J. Overend, Mrs. H. C. Sootheran, Mrs. N. D. Buchanan, Mrs. F. C. Neal, Mrs. Osias de LaPlante, Mrs. J. H. Vernor, Mrs. H. Raymore Scott, Mrs. D. B. Falkner, Mrs. Fred Hills, Mrs. J. Low.

W.M.S. Lays Plans For Year's Work

Entering the New Year with optimistic outlook upon its missionary endeavors, St. James' Auxiliary of the W.M.S. held its first meeting yesterday in Wesley Hall, with a fine rally of members and visitors. In a beautiful New Year message, Mrs. W. Rose, the president, who presided throughout, welcomed her members for the coming year, and thanked them for the support which made 1939 a year of spiritual growth and success.

The business session had many plans to follow. With the annual Presbyterial meeting at hand, delegates were appointed, when Mrs. E. M. Davis and Mrs. George Rowe were chosen to represent St. James' Auxiliary and Mrs. E. R. Frost and Mrs. E. Kitney named as alternates.

Many items of business arose from the minutes, especially those of an important executive meeting, where group leaders had been appointed and the choice ratified at this meeting.

"Ministers' Night" was so popular last year, another was planned to be held on Wednesday, January 24, with arrangements in the hands of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Craik. The correspondence arising from bereavement, illness, and for kindness received, was left with the corresponding secretary.

The missionaries chosen for prayer remain the same as last year, Rev. and Mrs. Charlie Kitney, with Miss Dorothy Fox, one of our W. M.S. missionaries, a niece of Mrs.

Attend Jackson Day Dinner

Reports given by the regular officers and secretaries of the various departments were exceptionally good and show a deepening of the missionary spirit as did the fine inspirational talks given by Mrs. F. W. Craik on Christian Stewardship, and Mrs. Beavis on Temperance.

The executive staff for the New Year was installed in a very inspiring service at which Rev. Mr. Craik officiated and spoke of the fine work being done by the W.M.S. in general and by this Auxiliary in particular, and made a plea that they continue in faithfulness, aiming to make 1940 one of the best in our history.

A delightful climax to this part of the program was the solo, "The Prayer Perfect," sung by the Mission Circle president, Mrs. R. C. Searles, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. H. F. Doig.

Visiting the Auxiliary and bringing a vital message of missionary import was Dr. Northcote-Deck, medical missionary from the Solomon Islands, who was graciously introduced to the group of women workers by Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson of All Saints' Anglican Church, on behalf of the Auxiliary, their sincere thanks to the speaker was voiced by Mrs. George Rowe.

The service was concluded by prayer offered by Miss Mary Collins.

Girls Discuss Entertaining

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 11 (ENS)—Fifteen members answered the roll call of "Duties Of A Pleasing House Guest" at the meeting of the "Kawartha Kids Klub," Lakefield at the home of Hazel Northey, the assistant leader, on Tuesday evening.

The making of one's own bed and keeping the room tidy; helping with the dishes unless the hostess wishes otherwise and assisting in the entertaining of other guests were some of the replies given.

Meal planning was discussed, showing that at least two different vegetables, preferably home grown, and seasonable foods should be included in the family menu.

For homework the Klub was asked to plan a family menu for the day and make a record of it in their record books.

Proper etiquette was remonstrated when the girls sat down to a mock meal, following the discussion led by the leaders, Eva Higgins and Hazel Northey on table setting, which included the arranging of the silverware and the choice of linen and china to harmonize. There are types of table service which may be used, the English method, Russian style or the compromise service.

Jean Mann of Bridgenorth invited the club to her home for the next meeting on January 19, when the roll call will be answered by: One duty of a hostess toward a guest.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess and her mother, Mrs. Graydon Northey.

Women "Bobbers" Hold Their Own

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., Jan. 11.—(CP)— They laughed when Kathryn Dewey, away back in 1936, launched her four-man bobsled crew of women down the icy, dangerous slopes of America's number one sled speedway — the Mt. Hoevenberg Olympic run.

Grins of hard-bitten male experts faded quickly. The Amazons set a course record which stood until 1938, despite the efforts of the nation's best men teams.

Now the national amateur athletic union has officially recognized the right of women to compete in the most thrilling and nerve-wracking of winter's sports. Women will be permitted to race in the American Athletic Union's two and four "men" bobsled events this winter.

The women's long battle for bobsled equality began in 1932 when Miss Hazel Wharton won permission to be the first woman to ride down the twisting, heart-stopping Olympic run.

Although several women followed the trail blazer down the mountain side, it was a year later before the first woman, Miss Marion Clark received a pilot's licence.

Then came Miss Dewey, a Lake Placid student nurse. She obtained a pilot's licence after riding as brake on her father's four-man crew.

Some of the best male pilots stood at the top of Mt. Hoevenberg and smiled at the husky miss and her crew. Then they marveled as the Amazons roared into Whiteface curve nearly a second ahead of the day's best time, careened through Zig Zag, and over the finish to set a course record. In seven races during the 1936-37 season, the Dewey crew placed first four times and second twice in races with male rivals.

We Noticed

....How much the young assistants at the reception of the Canadian Concert Association last evening resembled in freshness and loveliness the exquisite spring flowers that decked the tea table.

....One collegiate-age maiden of very small proportions resembled a Dresden china doll in her pretty formal of blue net over pink taffeta, topped with a tight-fitting pink jacket, bustle-backed.

....Effective with a white frock, its bouffant skirt banded in black, was a fluffy black angora jacket, and quite the sophisticate looked the young lady who wore the latest version in dinner gowns — a jade green silk jersey designed on slim-flowing lines.

Argentinita And Dancers Picture Spanish Life

Spanish life in many famous provinces was pictured by Argentinita and her associate Spanish artists Wednesday night at the Collegiate Auditorium in a recital that had newness, freshness and vitality. Presented in an atmosphere that was predominantly gay, the program was received by Peterborough members of the Canadian Concert Association with an enthusiasm that was expressed in much handclapping. Remarks overheard after the concert indicated appreciation of the ensemble work of the three dancers, which indeed was particularly outstanding.

There was nothing conventional about Argentinita's program, and there were no best numbers — all were the same high quality. The ensemble comprised Argentinita herself, Antonio Triana and Pilar Lopez, dancers; Rogelio Machado, pianist, and Carlos Montoya, guitarist. Three of the dances were set partly to songs, and two were not merely Spanish. Costumes were gorgeous and quickly changed, flashing every color imagination could paint. There was no scenery, but the program, which included music, dance folk-lore and folk-song of Spain, Mexico, Venezuela, Peru and other sunny lands, was never monotonous.

Gave Brilliant Assistance.

Argentinita's two dancing partners gave her brilliant assistance, and the artist herself dances with perfect skill and captivating charm, and seems to be the last word in authentic folk lore. Most of her dances revealed he rown fugitive, kaleidoscopic personality as much as they showed Spanish idioms. Her 18th century music-comedy was a classic of Old Spain, and her Gitana (Gipsy) suite, to guitar only, was blazingly romantic. Her Madrid mazurka was a joyful rhythmic rhapsody.

A courtship by castanet was danced by Argentinita and Antonio Triana. The precise grace and feathery agility of step and gesture, spin and pose were punctuated by castanet rhythms and accents that gave Infante's music a new meaning altogether. Argentinita and Pilar Lopez danced a religious adagio of the Lucas. The beauty and dignity of this was profound, yet there was a lurking dance emotion persisting that robbed it of artificial solmnity.

Pilar Lopez (lady), and Antonio Triana were splendidly effective in solo; Lopez especially in her intermezzo of "Goyescas" to Granados' music, as fine a solo as any on the program. Triana was exceptionally good in his Andalusian dance, to guitar only, but one of his comedy with Lopez was better, and they were all cleverly expressive. He was still better in three trios, particularly in the Cafe flirtation comedy which was ingeniously encored wih a new turn.

Rogelia Machado, at the piano, played all the time without a note of music. The lilt and sparkle of his music, which would inspire anyone to dance, were pictured in the dancers' twinkling feet and marvellously flexible limbs and bodies. His solos brought continuous applause. Carlos Montoya brought the sunshine and sentiment of Old Madrid in the music of his guitar playing, and whether as accompaniment to the dance or as solo, he made the instrument a thing of delight.

All numbers in which Argentinita took part were her own choreographic creation, and the dance numbers of Pilar Lopez and Antonio Triana were exclusively their own creation.

Dr. J. J. Craig, president of the local branch of the Association, spoke a few words of greeting, and announced the next and last concert of the series on Monday, April 1st when Raya Garbousova, 'cellist, will be the artist. George K. Mitford, of Toronto, director of the Canadian Concert Association, was introduced by Dr. Craig, and spoke briefly of the Association, and the program which is to be given in Hamilton under its auspices, at which it is hoped $2,000 will be raised to provide comforts for Canadian troops. Of particular interest is the fact that Miss Hertha Glatz, who was heard at the last concert here, will be among the artists who will give their services free at this concert. Miss Glatz is grateful to the British Empire for allowing her parents to remain in Brighton, England, where they fled from Europe at the beginning of the war.

A reception was held for Association members in the gymnasium of the Collegiate after the program.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, January 12.

The lunar aspects for this day may be read as holding conflicting experiences. There is a sign of a surprising about-face in certain situations, demanding a change of plans, interests, and probably surroundings, with more or less disturbance and confusion. There also is promise of a very definite stabilizing of the affairs, especially in reconstructing old or lagging circumstances, with the solid support or endorsement of elderly persons or old-established institutions. Lively affectional or romantic engagements are indicated.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of much progress in stabilizing the affairs, probably through sound plans, application, and the friendly offices of elders or old institutions. Change of plans, place and objectives may be involved, with some turmoil and anxiety. An element of romance or sentiment is of major importance, and there is prospect of courtship or matrimony to enhance the stabilization.

A child born on this day may have many solid and enduring factors for a successful and happy life. It may be steady, studious, faithful, and dependable, winning the preferment of its elders and superiors. Affection, graciousness, and kindness also predominate.

Charming for Home or as Gift

A smart cigarette box for your living-room table! Make it easily from an old book — a leather-bound volume is especially handsome. But whatever your book, be sure it's at least 1⅝ inches thick, has a good cover.

To make the interior of your box, cut through the book pages as shown in sketch.

Simple if you first make a cardboard pattern the exact size of the book page and on this pattern draw and cut out a rectangle. Then place pattern on first page of book, and with a sharp knife cut around the rectangle. Do a few pages at a time.

When finished brush a thin coat of heavy glue over cut edges. Put book under a weight to dry.

To line your box, use a prettily patterned paper. Paste on insides of both covers, over top page and cutout interior — and your box is finished.

Just as easily you can make many other smart articles for your home and for gifts. Our 32-page booklet gives full directions for making pretty and useful objects—among them a Victorian footstool, a candle holder, a mosaic tray, antique book ends — from such things as breadboards, tin containers, embroidery hoops, odd pieces of wood.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of DECORATIVE AND USEFUL OBJECTS EVERYONE CAN MAKE to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

SYNOPSIS.

THE CHARACTERS:

FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.

NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.

ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby house.

DR. BILL MALLORY, close friend of Ellens.

YESTERDAY: After two weeks at her ancestral home in Maryland, Fabienne receives a letter from Ellen reminding her of the coming preparation at the settlement house of the play prepared by Fabienne's former charges here.

CHAPPTER TWELVE.

FABIENNE left Aunt Edna's car in the drive and rushed into the house noisily, pulling the big door to with a bang. She looked into the empty living room and went down the hall to Uncle Mark's study where his silver head was bent over a book.

She leaned over the back of his chair and planted a kiss on the crown of it.

"That's very nice," he said, turning, beaming on her.

"I feel very nice," she told him and perched on the corner of his desk.

"And you look particularly nice. Have a good ride?"

Her fact was animated and she radiated vitality.

"Wonderful," she told him. "I went down to the telegraph office. Darling, I'm going away again."

His face showed immediate disappointment.

"Only for a few days. I got a rather pathetic letter from Ellen Chapman saying that the kids would like to have me come back for the play and I — I sort of thought—" She toyed with the appointments on his desk and let her sentence drift off into nothing.

Mark nodded his head in approbation. "Naturally you thought you ought to go to see what good work you'd done."

"Right, as usual," she said, bestowing another kiss on his cheek this time—and got off the desk. "Now, I'd better see Molly about packing a bag for me."

"Small bag?" he called after her

"Oh, very. I shall only stay a day or two."

For a stay of only a day or two, Fabienne was giving more extraordinary consideration to the selection of her wardrobe when Edna came in a short time later and went to her room.

"Uncle Mark tell you that I'm running up to New York?" Fabienne asked. She was frowning over a black velvet frock.

"He did, my dear. We miss you so when you leave us, Fabienne."

The girl dropped the dress and came over to her aunt to lay her cheek against Edna's for a moment. She loved Uncle Mark and Aunt Edna so much today. She loved everyone today. Everything had changed in the last half hour. She was filled with good humor that flowed into affection.

"I'll be right back so you won't have time to miss me.'

Edna Willoughby's sweet face and air of sheltered femininity hid a wealth of wisdom. She read more in the animation and radiance of her niece than her less astute husband had. She said, "You may want to stay longer than you plan to. Hadn't you better take an extra dress or two? And an evening dress, perhaps? You've lots of friends in New York who may tempt you to remain a little longer And something tells me that you'll want to look your prettiest."

An expression of surpise — or guilt—crossed Fabienne's face. She said, "Goose! The only reason I'm going is to see what the children make of themselves."

"Is it?" Edna asked quietly, a warm smile at the corners of her mouth.

"And to see Ellen," Fabienne added.

What else could there possibly be? Of course, Bill Mallory might be at the play— most of the staff turned up for such occasions—but what was that to her? She had been in love wit hthe IDEA of Bill very briefly, but she had put all that out of her m_ d and it no longer existed. Bill Mallory was just another man and the world was full of them.

But she was saying suddenly and not of her own volition, "There might have been a man, darling, but it was very short and its very much all over."

Edna got up and came to put her arms around the girl, forcing Fabienne's eyes to meet her own in the mirror they faced. She said "Fabienne, I wouldn't presume to advise you in any matter unless you asked for my advise, but I'd like to tell you something."

"Yes," Fabienne said, waiting.

"You've got a lot of Mark's qualities and few of Gertrude's. You could love deeply and forever if you found the right person. I don't think you'll make any mistake about that person when you find him. But I want you to look for things to live up to when you find that man. That's the only kind of a man that can make life complete for a woman like you."

Fabienne said, "Nicky—"

Slowly her aunt shook her head.

Deftantly, Fabienne said, 'Nicky and I have a perfect companionship. I'd marry him tomorrow if he'd make something of himself."

"Do you mean that you want him to go to work?"

Fabienne nodded.

"I don't know about Nicky. He might, but I would say that he wouldn't do it unless he had to work to make someone love him. Another girl, perhaps, could do it. But if he'd been going to do it for you, he'd have done it long ago."

"You don't know Nicky, Aunt Edna....I think I'll take the black velvet, after all." Change the subject, Fabienne, she thought, afraid she might find herself saying, "I met the man who might have been right, but he belongs to someone else. Could a girl go after her man if she believed she was right for him?" But that would have been nonsense, for she knew that if ever a girl would be "right" for a young surgeon, it was Ellen Chapman whose name was a shining beacon in the social service world.

Mark and Edna took her to the train on Saturday morning.

The train crawled to New York. Fabienne felt she could have walked faster.

"Come and stay with me whenever you are in New York," Ellen had told her when she left, but she went to a hotel.

When she had unpacked, she telephoned Ellen. At her apartment, then at Willoughby house. "Miss Chapman is not in," she was told at both places.

She dressed leisurely, putting on the black velvet dress with its fine lace at neck and wrists, the wrapped turban of black and green and gold from which her soft, silky hair flowed like a page boy's. She touched perfume to her throat and the tips of her ears, selected snowy gloves. She dressed as carefully as if she were attending an opening night of Broadway's most exciting play — all for a bunch of little Italian, Irish, Chinese kids in a settlement house!

The play was to begin at eight. It was just quarter to when Fabienne's taxi drew up before Willoughby house. Fabienne gave a bill to the driver and said, "Keep the change."

Her legs felt watery as she climbed the familiar steps and went through the corridor to the hall that led to backstage. She parted the curtains and a woop of welcome went up!

"Miss Seymour! .... Hey, kids! She's here!"

It was very satisfying. They swarmed over her, not too-clean little hands fingered her skirt, shrill voices cutting on her ears. She was ringed around with funny little faces that were grotesque with makeup. Little faces that shone with delight. THEY LIKED HER!

She said reproachfully, and a trifle shakily, 'You didn't think I'd refuse your invitation, did you? And do you all know your parts? You, Willie Tong, do you remember that a general always stands very straight and never folds his hands across his tummy?

Willie Tong hid his round little yellow face in her skirt.

She thought if she wasn't careful she'd pick him up and kiss him.

She said, very sternly, 'Now, run along. You've only got a few minutes to remember all the things you've been learning for weeks and weeks and you're going to do it perfectly for me—yes?"

A chorus of young voices, "We will."

Fabienne had to turn her face away. Silly girl, she had tears in her eyes. She had to turn away to where no one would see her, turned to the left. Bill Mallory caught her with both hands to keep her from running into him.

Men who put out fires aren't the only heroes. How about the heroes who get up early these morning and start them?

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

NOBODY INFALLIBLE

BIDDING tactics never can be developed to such a precise point that you can be sure fire on freak hands. Sometimes the arrangement of the unseen cards is so queer that nothing but very bad bidding could possibly put you in the most profitable contract. When that occurs, and you find you have taken a licking on a deal which might have produced a good score, don't lose confidence in your methods and logic. Remember they are devised with the idea that they will work well the greatest possible percentage of time, but that occasionally they must miss. That is one reason why bridge is a good game.

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

Frank Castle in the West and Julius Aceves in the East, skilled bidders and players, gave an example of sound bridge philosophy in the post-mortem of this deal. South opened with 1-Diamond, Mr. Castle bid the forcing 2-Diamonds in the West, North 2-Hearts and Mr. Aceves in the East 2-Spades. Then it went South 3-Diamonds, West 4-Clubs, North 4-Diamonds, East 5-Clubs, South 5-Diamonds, West 6-Clubs and this passed around to South, who then called 6-Diamonds, which Mr. Castle doubled.

The contract was, of course, a cinch, by means of a cross-ruff, only one trick in spades being lost. But at the end of the hand everybody realized 7-Clubs could have been just as easy for East and West.

"Neither of us could know that," said Mr. Castle. "My partner, hearing my strong bidding and having an ace himself, must feel sure we could beat the diamond slam, but couldn't tell we had no losers in hearts and clubs." So, instead of being upset for the next deal, they were able to play their bridge again, with morale high.

GUN CLIP ORDER.

OTTAWA, Jan. 11 — (CP). — An order for the manufacture of machine gun clips has been placed with the Parmenter and Bulloch Company of Gananoque, Ont., it was learned today from reliable sources.

Details of the order, in some quarters said to be the largest such order ever issued in Canada, remained closely guarded. The policy of the War Supply Board is to make no announcement in regard to such contracts unt ali fietr he tracts until after the Board holds its weekly meting and gives formal approval.

Menie Factory 1939 Make Set New Record

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 11. — (ENS) — More cheese was made at Menie Factory than in any year since the place was built according to President Roy Walker in his address to patrons at their annual meeting held on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Walker also referred to the year being a record one in the matter of late production since cheese was made up to December 18. Though 11,870 pounds of cheese more than last year was made and sold receipts from its sale were actually down $107.00 below last year's owing to the low price being offered during most of the season. The bonus for high scoring cheese had however brought the net receipts to the patrons up by an additional $1,534.77. Reviewing the year, Mr. Walker who is also president of the Campbellford Cheese Board expressed the feeling that the price received here had been consistent with that received at other boards.

New Kitchen Built.

He spoke of several improvements made at the factory including the re-tining of one of the vats and of re-lining the bottom in another. A new kitchen which was badly needed had been built at the back of the factory.

After discussing the matter installing artificial refrigeration a motion was passed authorizing the secretary to write the Dairy Branch of Department of Agriculture asking that they send a repreesntative so that the matter could be taken up with him. It was suggested that the installation of new hoops could also be discussed with the representative. The matter of repairing the fence around the factory was left with the directors.

Sheesemaker Frank Little was placed on the committee with president Roy Walker to make arrangements for an oyster supper for the factory patrons.

In his address to the patrons, District Dairy Instructor J. A. Murray declared he looked for the continuance of the bonus on high scoring cheese during the coming season. He congratulated the company on its fine yearly statement, saying that despite the improvements which were being currently paid for they were paying as much per patron as any other factory. In his opinion the onus of producing high scoring cheese rested largely with the producer "I used the blue test at most factories I visited during the summer and never once found a cheesemaker keeping a bad sample for a starter."

When patrons voted to continue their account at the Bank of Montreal, J. D. Mills thanked them for their expression of confidence. He presided for the election of officers which saw Roy Walker returned as president; William S. Milne as secretary; G. M. Rannie as auditor. Only change in officers came in the directors where James Eagleson, replaced Ernest Eagleson, others were re-elected as follows, Robert Linn, Charles Hutcheon, George Ingram and J. W. Rannie.

The statement for the year given by the secretary showed the test of 3.13 to be one of the highest in the district. The report indicated 2,457,-714 pounds of milk delivered to the factory from which a total of 203,-295 pounds of cheese or 12.8 pounds of milk per pound of cheese. Total fat was 76,981.1 and whey butter 8,315 pounds. An average of 2.64 pounds of cheese per pound of butter fat was made with patrons receiving an average of 32.61 for butter fat and 12.71 for cheese. Total receipts from sale of cheese were $25,840.95 plus the premium of $1,624.77. Whey butter brought $1,773.98.

25-FOOT WAVES HIT COAST.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11 — (AP). —Damage estimates approached the $100,000 mark to-day after waves as high as 25 feet, stirred up by some mysterious submarine force, battered Southern California's coastline for nearly 100 miles.

Heaviest loss, estimated unofficially at nearly $50,000, was reported from the Santa Barbara sector, where beach homes were pounded and in some cases destroyed, a pier collapsed, and a $15,000 oil derrick tumbled into the sea. A $100,000 mansion was undermined and cracking.

These Hollywood Starlets To Bloom Into Stars In 1940?

This bevy of seven talented as well as beautiful movie newcomers have an excellent chance, believe their studios, to rise to the rank of full stardom this year. Mary Martin, the "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" girl, is regarded by many critics as being the best bet of them all. Others are Ilona Massey, Jean Cagney, Loraine Day, Virginia Dale, Geraldine Fitzgerald and Maureen O'Hara.

Canada Expands Navy Personnel

OTTAWA, Jan. 11—(CP). — Expansion of the Royal Canadian Navy goes on apace and, as the navy broadens its wartime task of guarding Canadian ports, coasts and shipping, it attracts increasing numbers of men from shores of inland lakes and rivers and even areas far removed from water of any kind as well as those familiar with the sea.

While no figures are available it is unofficially and roughly estimated that at least half of the present personnel of the Royal Canadian Navy never saw salt water until they donned the uniform.

They entered the service through units of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve, scattered across Canada from Atlantic to Pacific. These units learn about sea-faring in their barracks and, in peace-time, their members enjoy an annual trip to the sea-coast for a brief stretch of training.

Now, with the navy requiring more men to man more and more ships, they have been called up for active service and will lead the life of the sea for the duration of the war.

While the naval service has more than doubled its personnel since the start of the war further expansion is likely as the war proceeds. More ships are being built and more men are in training to man them. Canada's present fighting fleet of six destroyers and one flotilla leader may receive additions.

Kevin Cummings Honored At Marmora

MARMORA, Jan. 11—(ENS). — The regular monthly meeting of the Holy Name Society held in the Separate School on Monday evening took the form of a farewell party to one of its members, Kevin Cummings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cummings.

Kevin has joined the Royal Canadian Navy and leaves on Wednesday morning for Vancouver, B.C. The members joined in the singing of "O Canada" and other songs, followed by a very interesting talk by J. A. Paquet on "Stellite."

A Prayer Book and a Rosary were presented to Kevin by members of the Holy Name Society, and a pair of gloves from Rev. Father H. J. Farrell.

After more singing, bingo was enjoyed for a short time, the meeting being brought to a close with prayer and the National Anthem.

Comrades Percy Gray and J. W. Hickey, representing the Marmora Branch 237, Canadian Legion, then presented Kevin with a wrist watch.

Lunch was served and the gathering dispersed, Kevin being showered with wishes for his good luck in his new venture.

Farewell Dinner.

On Tuesday evening Kevin and a number of his friends were entertained at a dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Byrnes. An enjoyable social evening was spent and Kevin received the following gifts: A fountain pen from his associates, a set of military brushes from Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Byrnes, a gift of money from the Altar Society of the Sacred Heart Church, and a sweater and socks from the War Workers' Committee of Marmora.

Embargo On Exporting Pulp Would Shut Market Not Get Mills, Says Heenan

Minister States Export Been Encouraged To Assist Employment In Bush; Opening Witness In Lands, Forest Probe

TORONTO, Jan. 12—(CP).—Settled policy of Ontario is to encourage the export of pulpwood cut on Crown lands in order to provide employment in the woods, Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Lands and Forests, told a Legislature committee today.

The special committee, under chairmanship of Mines Minister Paul Leduc, opened its inquiry into "the administration, licensing, sale, supervision and conservation of natural resources by the Department of Lands and Forests."

Mr. Heenan was the only witness today. Conservative Leader George Drew asked him if an embargo on pulpwood exports would not result in the establishment in Ontario of paper mills by United States concerns, now using Ontario pulpwood at their United States plants.

"We have no sledge hammer to force anybody to establish a mill in Ontario," said Mr. Heenan. United States mills, none of which were wholly dependent on Ontario pulpwood, would turn to other sources of supply.

The permissible export was only up to the limit of surplus growth each year, that is the amount of pulpwood that could be cut without impairing the "capital" of pulpwood. Export was also subject to the requirement of Canadian mills, none of which would go without supplies because of exports.

Decayed Timber Menace

Alternative to allowing export of pulpwood was the decay of the forests, because of the non-cutting of mature wood. Failure to cut this wood would increase fire hazards and hnider replacement growth.

The permissible annual cut, which in the Thunder Bay area is estimated at 740,000 cords a year, is determined by surveys, the minister said.

Col. Drew asked that Mr. Heenan bring to the inquiry when it resumes Wednesday next copies of all contracts made with respect to the resources under inquiry since 1936. Also to be produced are figures on the number of men in the Forest Fire Prevention and fighting service and figures on fire losses since 1934.

The inquiry may be a lengthy one, Charles Cox, member for Port Arthur, expected to play a lead-

Fierce Troops From Mountains Of Far India Surprised At Chill Of French Front

With the British Forces Somewhere in France, Jan. 12 (CP-Havas)—"Salaam aleikum," an unfamiliar salutation on the western front, greeted this correspondent today as he approached the camp of Mohammedan troops from British India who arrived in France recently.

The melancholy-eyed Subhadar with a long black moustache who pronounced this greeting led us from the roadside toward the encampment. The hood of his cape was drawn over his turban for protection from the cold.

"We come from the heights of the Pamirs, from Peshawar and Chitral," he said. "We have been here only a week. We did not think it was so cold in France."

Around fires the Indian soldiers sat waiting for orders spoken in Hindustani by their "naik"—corporals — and "jawadar" — sergeants. They are Moslems of the warlike tribes of northwest India—Afridis, Pathans and Waziris.

The experience of the last war demonstrated the complications entailed in sending to Europe Hindu tribes of India, who are sentive to caste distinctions and refuse to eat food touched even by the shadow of an infidel.

In a corner they are preparing their meal—a stew of mutton with "chupatties," a sort of hot cake of unleavened bread.

In an open pasture unprotected from the wind are ranged long files of mules. They are more delicate, more graceful, and smaller than those of Fmace. They resemble ponies or small Mongolian horses.

Shot By Officer In Car Chase Youth 18, Dies

TORONTO, Jan. 12—(CP) — Eighteen-year-old Everett Himes of Toronto, wounded by police last night following an automobile chase from the scene of an armed robbery, died in hospital today. Held on charges of armed robbery are Charles Raspoli and Albert Hurst, alleged companions of Himes.

Police said the three obtained $27.50 in an armed robbery of H. E. Reed and Sons florist shop in the city's East end. When police cornered the three in a stolen car, Himes, who first was identified under the name of Edward Dorland, ignored a police warning and attempted to escape. He was shot by Detective George Holmes, the bullet lodging in the skull.

Early today Himes' parents identified their son in hospital while he was unconscious. They said he left home a week ago and rented a room in another part of the city.

"That's my boy," said the mother. "Oh, my poor lad. He wouldn't listen to us. He wanted to go his own way."

Just 15 minutes after police received the holdup call, they captured the men and called for an ambulance. Surgeons at St. Michael's Hospital performed an emergency operation on Himes a short time after he was admitted.

Wild Slippery Chase.

Leslie Ellis, florist clerk, said that the moment the three men left the shop he telephoned police. A police radio car received the call and minutes later spotted a car travelling at a terrific rate on the slippery streets. They chased the car several miles, dodging traffic and crossing against signal lights.

At King and Sherbourne Streets in downtown Toronto the driver of the stolen auto attempted to turn and the car crashed against a telephone pole. The driver, Himes, began running and continued despite police shouted warnings.

"He kept on running and I fired

Clever Piloting Saves Eight In Plane Crash

MOLINE, Ill., Jan. 12.—(AP).—Luck and smart piloting saved five passengers and a crew of three from possible death early to-day when a United Air Lines plane made a forced landing on a narrow stretch of the Rock river.

The plane, with one of its two motors disabled, slid across the ice and smashed into a concrete retaining wall on the river bank. Four passengers and the two pilots suffered only minor injuries.

The 14-passenger sleeper, en route from New York to San Francisco, developed motor trouble while near Iowa City, Ia.

Unwilling to risk a landing on the small Iowa city airport, Chief Pilot Charles Wheeler turned his craft about and back-tracked to Moline, 60 miles away.

The plane overshot the Moline field and just cleared a hill on the north end. The lone functioning motor pulled the plane over the tops

Russians Drive South In New Attack From Petsamo Area

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 12 — (AP). —Danish troops answered Finland's call for "practical aid" to-day, moving up to fields of action to join against the Soviet Russian invasion.

The Danes were the second neighboring forces to report for duty, four contingents of Swedish volunteers already having gone to the Finnish fronts. The number of troops and their point of arrival was not disclosed, the Copenhagen newspaper National Tidende said.

Swelling this aid was a nationwide campaign in Sweden for farmers to contribute products to the Finns. Every farmer was asked to give one day's milk, or 50 pounds of corn for every 25 acres and one egg for every hen.

Russians Draw South.

By THOMAS HAWKINS
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

WITH THE FINNISH ARCTIC ARMY, Jan. 12.—(AP).—The Russian army, put to rout on the Central Finnish front, is making a gigantic effort to cut a path southward from the Salla and Petsamo fronts in the Arctic.

The Soviets started a twin attack Wednesday after bringing up of artillery. The fighting continued today.

An undisclosed village in the Salla sector is the only northern position which the Soviets have been able to fortify strongly, however. A Finnish victory there would re-establish the frontier clear of any enemy forces southward to below Suomussalmi in the "Waistline."

Although Russians have large forces in the Petsamo district, the Finns relied upon the intensely cold weather, with temperatures 25 degrees below zeo, to prevent a deci-

Oslo, Jan. 12 (CP)

KING HAAKON, in a speech from the throne opening parliament, disclosed today a program for voluntary military drills to be conducted by the defence ministry for any citizens desirous of training.

Although the king did not mention it, observers presumed that many might take training with a view to service in Finland.

(King Gustav of Sweden yesterday opened the Swedish parliament with a pledge that Sweden would give "all help possible" to Finland.)

"It shall be the aim of Norway in co-operation with other neutral countries, particularly Denmark and Sweden, to maintain peace for herself," said King Haakon.

Ottawa Seeking 200 Million Canadian Loan

OTTAWA, Jan. 12 —(CP) —The Dominion Government will seek $200,000,000 at 3¼ per cent interest from Canadian investors when it launches its first War Loan next Monday morning in the initial "big push" on the economic front.

The proceeds from the loan will be used to finance expenditures connected with the war, estimated to cost $1,000,000 a day for the first year. The bonds will be offered at par and will not be tax free as were most victory bonds of the First Great War.

Explaining details of the loan in an announcement made on behalf of Finance Minister Ralston here last night, the Finance Department said the bonds, dated Febcuary 1, 1940, finally will mature February 1, 1952, by a new callable system used for the first time in Canada.

Beginning February 1, 1948, and on the two following years at the same date, 20 per cent of the loan will be redeemed at par each year. On February 1, 1951, another 20 per cent will be redeemed at 100.50 and the final 20 per cent on February 1, 1952 at 101.00.

In addition to the cash subscription of $200,000,000 being sought, the Finance Minister also is empowered to accept, at his discretion, applications to convert Dominion of Canada three-per cent bonds which mature on March 1, 1940, into an equal par value of the same issue.

The bonds turned in for conversion will be valued at 100.17 per cent and accrued interest to date of delivery. A cash adjustment in favor of the applicant will be made at the time of delivery. The issue of three-per-cent bonds maturing next March 1 was for $115,000,000.

Germans Raid Coast 4th Day Sink Trawler, Steamer But Drop No Bombs On Land

New Long Range Type Super-Fighting Planes 'Of Very High Speed' Now In Production, Unsurpassed By Any Nation Says Expert

LONDON, Jan. 12—(CP).—For the fourth successive day German scouting bombers cruised above British ports today, meeting anti-aircraft fire in clear skies over the Thames estuary, over the Suffolk coast and off Yorkshire.

The Air Ministry announced Royal Air Force scouts flew over west and northwest Germany and the German seaplane bases in Heligoland Bight last night.

There was also new activity at sea. German bombers sank the British steamship Keynes, 1,705 tons, and trawler Croxton in the North Sea yesterday, it was announced, and mines in the last 24 hours have sunk the British tanker Elo Oso, the Italian ship Traviata, and the British steamship Granta.

Survivors of the Keynes landed at a British port by a naval vessel today said the ship was attacked in the morning but dodged the bombs. The attack, renewed in the afternoon, finally resulted in five direct hits. Only one member of the crew was injured.

L. Fisher, mate of the Keynes, said he saw another ship apparently bombed and a third ship standing by.

One crew member of the El Oso, which went down off the west coast of Britain, died in a hospital today as the result of his injuries. Three other members of the ship's crew disappeared after the explosion. The El Oso carried a crew of 36, of whom 26 escaped unhurt.

Fails to Drop Bombs.

The German plane sighted along the Thames Estuary to-day was unable to drop bombs and no air raid warning was sounded.

People in towns along the Thames Estuary saw shells bursting near the solitary plane flying toward the open sea. Gunfire was also heard by people in Central London.

What was described as a Heinkel bomber flew high over the Suffolk Coast and disappeared in a southeasterly direction when defence batteries opened fire.

Another Heinkel sighted over the Yorkshire coast was intercepted and pursued by R.A.F. fighters. Ma-

25 Bodies Found, All 91 Miners Believed Dead

BARTLEY, W. Va., Jan. 12.—(AP). —With 25 known dead, the Pond Creek Pocahontas Coal Corporation to-day all but gave up hope for the survival of any of the 91 men trapped in Wednesday's explosion in the Bartley No. 1 mine.

Twenty-five bodies had been found and 66 still were missing approximately 48 hours after the blast. As rescue workers pressed their search for more victims, the company issued this statement:

"Anyone would have to say hope is all but abandoned for any of the 91 men in the explosion coming out alive."

A death toll of 91 would make the Bartley explosion the nation's worst mine disaster since 1926 when 195 were killed at Mather, Pa. A blast that killed 361 miners at Monongah, W. Va., in 1907 holds the record.

Rescue workers reported the men whose bodies had been recovered probably had been killed instantly.

The last 19 bodies — all badly mangled — were found as rescue crews stumbled through the wreckage tunnels 600 feet underground to the very centre of the explosion area.

Rescue workers reported the men probably had been killed instantly and saw little chance miners in other entryways had escaped. Mine company officials and mine inspectors shared that belief.

Nazi Batteries Shell Vosges Front All Day

PARIS, Jan. 12 — (CP-Havas). — Artillery played a leading role in fighting on the Western front yesterday, although there was much infantry and aerial activity, military authorities reported today.

In the Vosges Mountain sector, where patrols had been especially active the day before, German batteries kept up a sustained fire without revealing any definite purpose.

Cold and high winds kept the infantry and aerial activities on a less intense scale yesterday than the day before, and during the night the cold reduced patrol operations.

Numerous reconnaissance flights, protected by pursuit squadrons, took place over and immediately behind the lines.

One German reconnaissance plane was brought down by the French defence. This was the third plane in two days to be brought down behind the French lines.

Flights at high altitudes of other German reconnaissance planes kept

Still Grateful, Mons City Sends Her Greetings To Canadian Division

ALDERSHOT, Jan. 12 (CP Cable)—The close ties between the people of Belgium and Canadian troops forged during the first Great War were recalled with publication today of an exchange of greetings between the Burgomaster of Mons, V. Maistriaux, and Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, general officer commanding the Canadian Active Service Force.

The letter of the burgomaster was written in French. A translation follows:—

"The population of Mons learned with profound feeling of the landing in Great Britain of the First Division of the Canadian Active Service Force, which you have the honor to command.

"We welcome this historic occasion and ask you to accept, and convey to the officers, non-commissioned officers and men under your command, most cordial greetings from the citizens of Mons.

"They have not forgotten that they owe their liberation to the gallant soldiers of the First Canadian Expeditionary Force, who on Nov. 11, 1918, at dawn, brought them freedom and deliverance."

General McNaughton replied in French. A translation follows:—

"I have the honor to express our very sincere appreciation to the citizens of Mons for their kind greetings.

"The soldiers of Canada will never forget the reception given them by the people of Mons on that day when we had the honor and good fortune to enter your city in pursuit of our common enemy."

It was at the historic city of Mons that the British began their part in the first Great War and the Canadian corps ended their fighting. In the initial clash of the war as far as the British army was concerned, a troop of the 4th (Royal Irish) Dragoon Guards routed a detachment of German Cuirassiers near Mons, Aug. 22, 1914. The Battle of Mons opened the next day.

Deliverance of Mons was the last notable act of the Canadian Corps. For three months prior to the Armistice the Canadians fought some of the costliest battles of the war on their way to Mons.

In the evening of Nov. 10, 1918, the 7th Canadian Infantry Brigade encircled the city from the north, west and south. A few minutes before midnight, "D" Company of the 42nnd Royal Highlanders of Canada, under Capt. W. A. Graftey, M.C., of Montreal stole through the silent streets. Other companies followed and the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry also effected a bloodless entry from the south. The city was in the hands of the Canadians when the war ended at 11 o'clock, Nov. 11.

King Carol Holds Secret Meet With Prince Paul

BUCHAREST, Jan. 12—(AP). — King Carol of Rumania and Regent Prince Paul of Yugoslavia were reported in official circles today to have held a secret conference two days ago at Vrsao, near the frontier.

Crown Prince Michael of Rumania and Premier Dragisa Ovet-Kovic of Yugoslavia were said also to have attended the meeting.

It was understood King Carol sounded out Prince Paul on Yugoslavia's attitude toward the Italian-Hungarian offer of support of Rumania in return for a Rumanian promise of territorial revision with Hungary after the war.

It was believed he also tried to ascertain what support Rumania could expect from Yugoslavia in her negotiations with Italy and Hungary and also in the event of Russian attack.

Italy and Hungary are understood to have agreed to a defensive alliance in anticipation of a possible Russian thrust in the Balkans.

Conant To Study Barring Office To Reds

TORONTO, Jan. 12 — (CP). — Attorney-General Gordon Conant, at the prompting of the Conservative Leader, Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, will explore the possibilities of legislative action to bar Communist and Nazi party members from Ontario municipal councils and school boards.

Col. Drew asked in the Legislature yesterday that the Government seek action that would place boards of education out of access to Communists and others subscribing to "foreign subversive doctrines."

Mr. Conant declared his sympathy with the proposal, promising investigation, but expressed doubt that provincial government action alone could be effective.

"I have real doubts if this province can act," he said, "unless the program is instituted and made effective by the Federal government."

The Attorney-General said he had spent considerable time in the last four months in a study of subversive influences and organization in the province. He cited the ban placed on a "certain publication" but said that another similar publication had been distributed in the province after the ban.

New Farm Policy For Canada Is Forecast To Cheese Patrons

Variations of the Arkell theme of a new marketing deal for Canadian agriculture, invoking a far greater measure of co-operation than the farmers of this country have yet accomplished, were presented by William Newman of the Ontario Farm Products Control Board, former members of the Legislature for Victoria-Haliburton, and V. S. Milburn, secretary of the Cream Patrons' Association, at the annual meeting of the Peterborough District Cheese Factory Patrons' Association here Thursday.

Mr. Milburn predicted that the broad features of the Arkell program would eventually become the basis of a new agricultural policy for Canada, and said that the only obstacle to its official acceptance was a lack of knowledge among farmers of what was wrong with their industry and what it required to raise it to a level of efficient operation, especially in the selling of its products, comparable with Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand and other countries who are competitors of Canada in the markets of the world.

Recalling a conference with members of the federal cabinet at Ottawa, following the eastern Canada agricultural conference in Montreal last year, Mr. Milburn said: "The Government told us in effect 'your idea sounds all right but have you enough knowledge throughout the country of what it means, enough understanding by farmers to support it?' So that reply left the onus on you and me to go out and create public opinion in favor of a new marketing deal, to make sure that it is understood, and when we reach that stage no government would refuse it."

Officers Re-elected

George A. Elliott of Norwood was re-elected president of the Association with the other officers who were retained for 1940, Gilbert McIlmoyle, the new Deputy-reeve of Smith is Vice-President; Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, is secretary-treasurer, and the directors are: R. E. Thurston of Bobcaygeon, Charles McNulty of Asphodel, Stewart Clysdale of Dummer, and Gordon Fitzgerald of Smith.

The auditors are Mr. McNulty and Fred Crowe of Warsaw.

A motion by Mr. McIlmoyle, seconded by Wallace Anderson, increased the Association's grant to the Peterborough Chamber of Agriculture to 10 dollars, and Mr. Elliott and Mr. McIlmoyle were appointed representatives to the Chamber.

The Rork Ferguson, M.P. silver cup for the factory in the county making the highest score in the cheese output last year was awarded to Trent Bridge, of which H. W. Wood is president, and George Brooks is the cheesemaker. Mr. Brooks won the trophy when it was presented for the first time by Mr. Ferguson in 1938. The J. J. Duffus silver cup was won by Selwyn Factory of which Rex Wilson is the cheesemaker. Cash prizes were also given to these two makers, and also to Howard Holmes of Indian River whose cheese were placed third. Pine Grove factory was fourth.

Britain Buys Canada's Aluminum Supply Seek All Nation Is Able To Ship Overseas

LONDON, Jan. 12 (CP Cable)—Britain has purchased Canada's entire exportable surplus of aluminum and has a man in Canada "who is making an arrangement to expand production there," Colonel J. J. Llewellin, parliamentary secretary to the ministry of supply, disclosed today.

Colonel Llewellin, speaking at a press conference on purchases of raw materials, gave no figures or details of the arrangements.

In addition to take the exportable surplus of Canada's lead and copper, the ministry of supply also has bought immense quantities of British Columbia lumber.

There is "an acute shortage" of timber in Britain, Colonel Llewellin warned, and it was "No good encouraging people to think that a vast amount of timber will be imported in the next five or six months."

An order has been given for 2,000,000 yards of linoleum. This will replace wood as floor covering in army huts and ordnance factories.

Colonel Llewellin gave what he described as a "good picture" of the empire's supply position. It has most of the world's rubber and tin. Copper production has jumped from 65,000 tons annually in 1914 to 600,000 tons now, lead from 130,000 tons in 1914 to 630,000 tons now, and asbestos from 98,000 tons in 1914 to 340,000 now.

OTTAWA, Jan. 12 (CP)—Most of Canada's production of aluminum, the exportable surplus of which a London announcement said today has been purchased by Great Britain, is exported.

Production figures for 1939 are unavailable but in 1938 Canada's output totalled 66,000 metric tons.

The United Kingdom has been one of the chief purchasers of Can-

Costs Canada 10 Million Each Month To Maintain, Pay 61,000 Troops

OTTAWA, Jan. 12.—(CP)—Early reports from widely separated points in Canada indicate "An extremely enthusiastic reception" to terms of the first Dominion war loan of $200,000,000, Finance Minister Ralston said today.

"From the information we have received so far the impression seems to be that in fixing the terms of the loan the government has dealt fairly with investors," the minister said.

Terms of the loan were published this morning. Books will open for subscriptions Monday morning. The new issue is to be sold for cash. It will not be tax free as were most victory bonds of the first Great War and the proceeds are to be used exclusively in financing Canada's war expenditures.

"The general opinion is that the loan will go over," Col. Ralston said. "Already we have reports of subscriptions promised which are far greater than we anticipated at this stage."

No formal breakdown has been given by the minister of the estimated $1,000,000 a day Canada's war effort, will cost for the first year, ending Sept. 1 next.

Col. Ralston said, however, that it costs $10,000,000 a month, based on enlistment of 61,000 men, covering pay and allowances, dependents' allowances, subsistence and accommodation.

Revenues Going Up.

When the next financing operation will be necessary was not estimated by the minister or his staff. It was stated, however, that revenues are increasing rapidly from the normal sources of revenue, customs receipts, sales tax, excise taxes and duties. These revenues will be heavier when the full effect of wartime taxation increases is felt.

For September, October and November revenues were up nearly $4,000,000 over the same months in 1938, and in December the increased was $7,000,000. So far the January revenues are up $5,000,000 over the same period last year.

Another favorable aspect of the financial picture is that the Canadian National Railways deficit is certain to be less than estimated when the last annual budget was presented.

Col. Ralston said he planned to be ready to present his next budget whenever business of the house presented convenient time. Parliament meets January 25.

Finance would be one of the most important features of the Governments program at the forthcoming session, the minister said.

While the new bonds to be issued Monday will be for Canadian consumption only and United States neutrality laws forbid citizens of that country buying new securities of a belligerent country, it is expecter investments from the United States in older securities issued before Canada became a belligerent, may have the effect of maintaining resiliency of the Canadian market.

Col. Ralston said it would be a matter of Government policy whether a heavy oversubscription to the new issue would result in a larger sale than the planned $200,000,000.

Last Minute News Flashes

HELSINGFORS —(AP)— Russian warplanes ranged over southern Finland this afternoon, interrupting Helsingfors' foreign telephone connections by bombs dropped near the city. No planes were seen over Helsingfors, but the capital had its first air raid alarm of 1940 from 2:15 to 3:50 p.m. (7:15 to 8:50 a.m. E.S.T.) Slight vibrations were felt here and were believed due to bombs which the enemy raiders dropped on some islands about 30 miles to the south.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States House of Representatives passed by an overwhelming vote today a $264,611,252 emergency defence appropriation for use of the army, navy, coastguard and federal bureau of investigation.

RIO DE JANEIRO —(AP)— Dispatches from Santos today said the 16,662-ton German passenger liner Windhuk, equipped as a raider, attempting to leave port, had been chased by a British cruiser, but maritime police at the Brazilian port denied the reports.

Time For Canada To Rally Says Ralston

TORONTO, Jan. 12—(CP)—Every Canadian—the man on the street and the financier—had a direct appeal before him today to co-operate actively with the government in its drive for urgently needed war funds opening Monday.

Finance Minister Ralston made it plain here last night that the time had come to enlist the help of the Canadian people as a whole in financing the national war effort; the aid of the financial institutions already seemed assured.

It was to enable the average citizen to take part according to his ability in the first public loan of the second Great War, that the government was issuing bonds in denominations as low as $50, Mr. Ralston said.

In addition, arrangements had been made with the banks by which investors could borrow 80 per cent. of the value of the bonds for three months, to facilitate purchases.

The Finance Minister addressed a meeting here of the Ontario section of the National War Loan Committee. Senator Arthur Meighen also spoke briefly. Premier Mitchell Hepburn was chairman.

The Finance Minister explained that the war would cost Canada approximately $375,000,000 in the first year, not including credits advanced to the Allies for war purchases in Canada. The air training plan itself would cost Canada a total of $350,000,000.

The government aimed at a pay-as-you-go policy, but excessive taxation also had to be avoided.

Hurst and Raspoli remained in the back seat of the auto, stolen in Toronto Wednesday, and surrendered without a struggle. Police said a loaded revolver was found on Hurst.

Ellis said the bandits, one armed, pushed him into a small office, then returned and forced him to open the cash register. Police said they believed the men may be responsible for four holdups in recent nights.

Conant Asks Facts

Attorney-General Gordon A. Conant of Ontario, informed of the shooting, asked police to present him wit hal lthe facts. Mayor Ralph Day of Toronto announced that the Police Commission will inquire into the shooting to learn if it was warranted.

Ispoli and Hurst appeared in police court today and were remanded without bail until Jan. 19.

At the coroner's office, an examination of the body of Himes disclosed a fairly-recent wound in his chest, police said. Blood was congealed about the wound and authorities believe the youth had been stabbed in some recent affray. A shirt, torn and bloodstained, was found in Hime's room.

Fear All 91 Men Trapped In Mine Are Dead As Rescuers Find 12 More Bodies After 38 Hours Pass Before Debris Pierced

BARTLEY, W. Va., Jan. 12—The finding of 12 additional bodies in the explosion-wrecked Bartley No. 1 mine early today increased fear that all 91 men trapped there had perished.

Rescue crews finally broke through a section near the blasted area and found the badly mangled bodies, bringing the known dead to 16.

After a hurried search, rescuers abandoned hope for approximately a dozen others trapped there and continued digging toward a nearby section of the possibility of finding some 30 men there alive. About 30 others working where the explosion centred were virtually given up for dead.

"I am afraid that finding of the bodies means the other men in the mine also will be found dead," said G. J. Stollings, general manager of Pond Creek Pocahontas Coal Corporation which operates the workings.

It took approximately 38 hours to tunnel through tons of slate, rock and coal to where the 91 men were caught 600 feet underground by a blast mine inspectors said might have resulted when the miners cut into some abandoned gas-filled entry. Forty-seven diggers in the Eastern section of the mine escaped.

Four bodies were recovered before rescuers reached the explosion scene.

Hope of finding some of the men alive brightened early today when weary workers finally dug into a right entry, finding dinner buckets and machines where an estimated 30 men had been working. Belief was expressed that the men had made their way to another section and successfully barricaded themselves against gas. These hopes were dashed with the finding of five bodies in a passageway leading off from the entry.

The bodies were approximately 8,000 feet from the shaft and some 2,400 feet away from another group of workers that might be alive.

E. L. Chatfield, state mine inspector, after talking with the rescue crews, said, "the evidence of the violence indicates that every man in the mine is doomed."

He reported one of the crews found a two-ton loading machine blown 60 feet from the face of the coal. The track on which it ran was twisted and warped.

"After damp," the mixture of gasses which is left after all oxygen is burned out in an explosion, would have killed many of the men instantly, Chatfield declared, if they were unable to shut themselves off.

Before examination of Mr. Heenan started, Col. Drew protested that he should be both a member of the committee and the chief witness before it. In formulating a report, Mr. Heenan would be passing an opinion on his own evidence.

Care For The House

The objection should have been raised in the House, said Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon. The inquiry proceeded.

Mr. Heenan said it was his desire to give all help so that the committee might submit constructive recommendations to the government.

Probation of newsprint tonnage among Ontario mills was chief "headache" for the department, said the minister as he outlined the general plan of administration.

Fire protection was the most important angle of forest conservation in New Ontario, said Mr. Heenan, describing the preventive policies of the department. Twenty-eight airplanes were used to locate fires and to direct fighting them. Gradually the department was switching to larger planes able to carry fire fighting equipment and crews. Combined with radio and observation towers, Ontario had the most efficient fire prevention and fighting services in North America.

The minister observed that last session he studied his estimates for two days before the House dealt with them: "and nobody asked me a question."

No Complete Survey.

There was no complete survey of the precentage of commercial timber in the Province, witness said, because Ontario is comparatively new and such a survey would be very expensive proposition. There was, however, detailed surveys of certain areas. Of the 109,000,000 acres, about three-quarters had been surveyed.

It was estimated there were 26,000,000 cords of balsam; 182,000,000 cords of spruce; 29,000,000 cords of jackpine in Northern Ontario. In board measure there were 6,000,000,000 feet of white ad red pine; 3,000,000,000 feet of maple and yellow birch; 487,000,000 feet of other hardwoods and 792,000,000 feet of hemlock. The estimate showed.

It was a settled policy to grant more than one cutting licence in the same area. The licences being for different kinds of wood. Large pulpwood operators, however, discouraged the obtaining of timber licences in areas covered by pulpwood licences because of increased fire hazard.

chine-gun fire could be clearly heard on the cliffs and the British machines were seen diving on the German raider.

The enemy plane disappeared on the horizon, heading northward and the British machines later returned to their base.

The Air Ministry communique announcing the British flights over Germany said:

"During last night aircraft of the R.A.F. successfully carried out reconnaissance flights over West and North-west Germany and patrols over German seaplane bases in Heligoland Bight."

The observation flights followed a series of German flights over six sections of the British East Coast yesterday from South-west Scotland to the English Channel.

After Photographs?

Air experts concluded that the primary object of these flights was to photograph the seaboard as a guide for future bombing attempts, possibly aimed at British docks and shipyards.

To strengthen coast defences, British authorities considered sending aloft more balloon barrages from barges near the shore, sharpening anti-air raid defences at certain coast points and increasing the number of anti-aircraft guns along the shore.

The Air Ministry disclosed that new super-fighting planes, a long-range type "of very high speed," were in production. It said the time had not yet come to use them, but "when it does, there may be some surprises — especially in the numbers which are likely to be used."

In the 1940 edition of "Jane's All the World's Aircraft" just published, C. C. Grey, foremost British aircraft authority, reported work "night and day" turning out a "new and secret" type of warplane.

Best in the World.

Grey declared British airplane engines are unsurpassed by those of any other nation, a conclusion, he said, which "seemed to have been confirmed since the declaration of war."

The Air Ministry's announcement was said unofficially to refer to the new Defiant, a single-motor fighting plane said to be faster than either of the Royal Air Force's leading pursuit types, the Spitfire and Hurricane.

The supermarine Spitfire, capable of almost 400 miles an hour, is Britain's fastest plane now and some authorities call it the world's fastest. The exact possibilities of the single motor, single-seater low-wing fighter are secret, however. A young air force pilot was reported yesterday to have flown a Spitfire at more than 650 miles an hour in a dive.

The range of the new Defiant is less than the 835-mile range of the German Messerschmitt which can —but has not—convoyed bombers on raids of Britain. British fliers are eager to see what would happen if a Messerschmitt battled a Spitfire, Hurricane or Defiant.

Britain has two models capable of convoying her slower bombers on raids over Germany. They are the Blenheim and Beaufort, both twin-motored light bombers that can be used as long-range fighters. The Blenheim's range is 1,000 miles and the Beaufort's slightly more.

WMS Increased Givings In 1939

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 12. — An increase of approximately $57 above the amount subscribed to the Presbyterial treasurer in 1938 was announced for 1939 in the yearly report of St. John's W.M.S. given by the treasurer, Mrs. A. D. Bennett. The meeting was held in the ladies parlor of the church on Tuesday afternoon with the president, Mrs E. C. Roberts presiding.

Mrs. A. D. Bennett gave her yearly report and Mrs. J. A. Mitchell, the corresponding secretary, read the "thank you" letters. This was followed by the report of the flower secretary, Mrs. C. W. Palliser. Mrs. H. T. Free read a letter intimating the many requirements for the male to be sent March 1st, 1940, and also indicated that 2,415 pounds of clothing, etc., had been received form the Cobourg Presbytery in the 1938 bales. That the Mission Band had sent away $50.00 during the year was the highlight of the president of that organization, Mrs. A. G. Watson.

During the business portion of the meeting plans were made for sewing the bales and the names of several members were added to the sewing list. Five were named as leaders of the sewing headed by Mrs. H. T. Free, convener; Mrs. Wm Rannie, Mrs. George Oliver, Mrs. Alan Hutcheon and Mrs. D. Stillman.

The group leaders were named and will be responsible for one or more of the monthly meetings. They are Mrs. A. D. Bennett, Mrs. A. L. Malcolm, Mrs. G. N. Maxwell, Mrs. J. D. Mills and Mrs. E. C. Roberts.

Quint Guardians Left In Dark On Fair Offer

NORTH BAY, Ont., Jan. 11 (CP) —Guardians and others close to the welfare of the Dionne quintuplets met with little enthusiasm today reports of the latest attempts of officials of the New York World's Fair to have the quints shown at the fair this year.

It was reported by a source close to the guardians that Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, physician to the five famous little girls since their birth in 1934, is opposed to the plan to have them appear in New York and would refuse to be responsible for them if the trip was made.

Dr. Dafoe and the other guardians, Judge P. A. Valin of North Bay and Percy Wilson of Toronto, denied last night that a direct approach had been made to them to allow the girls to be shown, in the face of the statement by Mayor F. H. LaGuardia of New York that arrangements virtually had been completed.

The mayor said there remained "only a few procedural matters to straighten out," according to information given to him by Harvey D. Gibson, chairman of the fair board. His understanding, he said, was that a replica of the quints' home would be constructed where the Soviet's building stood last year and all proceeds from the exhibit would go to the Canadian Red Cross.

No Offers to Guardians

"It is a funny thing that all of these reports come from New York," Dr. Dafoe said. "Nobody has approached the guardians in any

Drive On Chicago Labor Racketeers Follows Murder Of Garageman

CHICAGO, Jan. 12. —(AP) — Marinus Hvid alive was simply another small garage owner who could not get along with the union.

But Marinus Hvid dead represented a cause celebre today for a public-spirited drive to wipe out once and for al lthe racketeering element in Chicago's labour movement.

A special committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce has been formed for the purpose of bringing to justice the men who beat him fatally last night.

Fifty-six business, civic and religious leaders formed another group to attack the problem of labor violence in its broader aspects.

The Affiliated Garages of Chicago, an organization to which Hvid once belonged, has offered $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of his slayers.

State Attorney Thomas Courtney is directing a grand jury investigation of Local 727 of the Auto Livery Chauffeurs, Drivers and Garage Helpers Union, an American Federation of Labor Affiliate, and of its association with the garage owners organization.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 12 — (CP). — Wheat futures prices lost ground on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today as weakness at Chicago discouraged buyers and gave operations an easier tone. Quotations fluctuated actively at time before closing ¼ to ⅝ cent lower, May at 85⅞, July 86⅝, and October 87⅞ cents.

Export interests and mills continued their active demand for the lower grades of cash wheat for shipment at the opening of navigation on the Great Lakes or for all-rail shipment to Eastern Canada. In the coarse grain pit, malsters were credited with picking a little barley while resting orders absorbed fair quantities of oats.

Sues Sonja Henie Asking $92,000

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 —(AP) — Dennis Scanlon Avers — And Sonja Henie denies— that he had a contract to obtain judges "not unfavorable" to her in the 1936 Olympic games.

Scanlon, an agent and promoter suing for $92,000, says he and a theatrical bureau contracted to share in 20 per cent of what she earned in the movies.

He says he convinced judges at Garmisch-Partenkirchen that she was not a professional just because her name had been used in advertising in Paris; and that he had an agreement with her to use his "best efforts to cause to be named as judges persons known to be not unfavorable" to her.

Miss Henie, appearing in an ice show in Cleveland said the charges were "ridiculous and that she would come here next week to fight them.

Her counsel in Supreme Court asked Judge Louis Valente to dismiss the action on grounds it was against public policy, but the judge refused.

How To Overcome Piles And Rectal Soreness

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Stores or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost. —(Advt.)

Nazis Warned To Cut Down On Spending

BERLIN, Jan. 12—(AP).—Germans were warned yesterday that they must "voluntarily reduce purchases" of unrationed articles or force would be used to compel them to spend less of their income.

The warning was issued by Das Schwarze Korps, organ of the Hitler Elite Guards, which added that one plan under consideration to force workers to save is that of paying wages partly in certificates which would not mature for several years.

Authorities have been seeking a method to halt what is considered to be a wave of excessive buying of unrationed articles so that industries producing these articles may work for direct war purposes. By reducing the amount of money people have to spend, it is reasoned, the Government automatically would stop buying and thus make available more cash to pay for the war.

Das Schwarze Korps said that the Nazi State was seeking to reduce income in the same measure as it is considered necessary to reduce purchasing power. It was made clear that force would be used if discipline failed.

Referring to Nazi expenditures for armaments and other purposes to increase German world prestige, the paper said: "Reduction of purchasing power is the entrance price each individual is paying for Germany's entrance into the world consolidation of powers."

The rush to buy anything not rationed is attributed partly to a psychological reaction, to shortage fears and to fears of inflation caused by issuance of additional paper bills and small coins in aluminum.

One woman worker who spent her savings for unnecessary articles said "The appearance of the aluminum coins was a signal for me."

Authorities are considering abolishing the bread ration cars. Instead of consumption declining under rationing, it actually has increased, and many people who did not eat bread before the war began to do so as soon as cards became necessary to buy it.

Economics Minister Walther Funk, who also is president of the Reichsbank, gave the first official hint of an impending Government drive to force saving in a speech he made at Salzburg, Januray 2.

He urged Germans to start savings accounts instead of buying goods not immediately needed.

"Some people wildly buy anything and everything, even bathtubs," he said. "Bathtubs can neither be eaten nor put on like clothes. Neither the tax collector nor the doctor will take bathtubs in payment."

Value of Years of Fertilization Tests At O.A.C. Shown Agriculture Union

GUELPH, Ont., Jan. 12—(CP).—In a report prepared for submission to the annual meeting of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union, A. W. Mason showed today the value of the use of fertilizer in tests taken over a period of years at the Ontario Agricultural College here.

Mr. Mason said the test indicated the desirability of the use of barnyard manure, both by itself and in mixtures with commercial fertilizer.

The increased average revenue to an acre, taking four crops into consideration and on a basis of treatment every four years, was $26.32 in the case of treatments of 320 pounds of commercial fertilizer; $39.40 in the case of 640 pounds of commercial fertilizer; $53.80 in the case of 960 pounds of commercial fertilizer; $101.23 in the case of 10 tons of manure and 320 tons of commercial fertilizer; and $109.35 in the case of 20 tons of manure.

The average price of barnyard manure was set at $1.20 a ton and of commercial fertilizer at $42 a ton.

"Recent recommendations from our fertility authorities are that where 20 tons of barnyard manure are being used in a rotation, it is better to use about half the manure as a top dressing on the meadow and the other half for the cultivated crop," the report said.

"This latter application can be supplemented profitably with commercial fertilizer. It seems that at the present time too much emphasis cannot be placed on the value of humus in the soil, of which barnyard manure is one of the sources.

"The fertility of the soil in certain districts is rapidly becoming depleted because so much manure is being sold off the land to help fertilize other crops."

Started Back In 1914.

The experiments, begun in 1914, consisted of four six-plot tests, no fertilizer being used in one plot for the purpose of making comparisons. The plots were treated every four years.

In the case of potatoes, Mr. Mason's charts indicated, "the gains obtained are worthwhile from the smaller applications and much more worthwhile from the larger applications of commercial fertilizer." Where a small application of commercial fertilizer was used in combination with 10 tons of barnyard manure, the result was "practically double that of the heavy application of fertilizer along with potatoes and about the same as where 20 tons of barnyard manure are used alone."

"The residual effect on barley is quite marked, showing considerable gain from the light application and many times the gain where barnyard manure was included," the report continued. "The residual effect on oats was not so marked and here we have the first inconsistency of the whole experiment—that is, where the 640 pounds of commercial fertilizer were used the yield is lower than where 32 were used.

"In the red clover, the residual effects are consistent, with a gain of 23 tons where 320 pounds of fertilizer were used to a gain of 1.36 tons where 320 pounds were used and 10 tons of barnyard manure were used, and a gain of 1.58 tons where the barnyard manure alone was used."

Gains In 37 of 100 Cases.

Results of soil fertility tests carried out in 1939 showed profitable gains in use of fertilizers in 77 out of 100 cases, Professor Henry G. Bell told delegates.

Most of the soil demonstration work was conducted in co-operation with junior farmers through the help of Governmental Agricultural representatives. Fertilizers best suited to the soil were chosen after soil tests taken according to directions of the Department of Chemistry.

Increasing use of fertilizers by farmers was pointed out by Prof. Bell, Associated Professor of Chemistry at the Ontario Agricultural College, who said that the total investment in fertilizers for Canada in 1939 was more than $19,000,000, and the share of Ontario farmers was $4,250,000.

Canada last year used 637,796 tons of fertilizer, compared with about 360,000 tons in 1929. Of these totals, Ontario's tonnage, respectively, was 142,188 and 100,000.

Detailing the work of the 1939 fertility tests, Prof. Bell said that Agricultural representatives in 24 co-operating counties each chose five junior farmers who selected one of these crops: oats, barley, fall wheat, mixed grain, potatoes, turnips, mangels, corn and beans.

Junior Farmers Make Test.

"Rapid soil tests were made detailing reaction, available supplies of nitrates, phosphoric acid and potash; also the supply of organic matter,' said Prof. Bell. "We concluded that the junior farmers would be interested in carrying the test further than comparing fertilized with unfertilized crops. Hence if the the test of his soil showed a decided phosphate deficiency we prescribed a high-phosphate fertilizer.

So that he may convince himself as to the logic of our choice, we supplied him also with an equal amount of fertilizer carrying a medium or low amount of phosphate. Similar variations were made in the matter of potash where potash deficiencies appeared to be more evident among the deficiencies of the soil."

There were 113 tests laid down. In some areas growing conditions were bad, and for various reasons 13 tests failed.

"Valuing the products at current prices and debiting tests with the cost of fertilizers at current prices, the results showed that 77 tests out of 100 obtained a profitable gain from one or both of the fertilizers used. Naturally the returns from crops were larger than from others. For instance, the oat crop is a relatively low-value crop at any time. Barley, wheat and potatoes are usually of increasing value per unit, in that order."

Prof. Ball listed five factors that determine effectivenes sof use of fertilizers: moisture, reaction, adaptability, rate and method of application.

Chance To Invest

Already we have noticed some written reference to subscribing to the Canadian War Loan being one way to prove your patriotism. That may be all right in a way, but we hope it is not followed too far. It is difficult to tell whether lending money to your government at a reasonable rate of interest is patriotism any more than it is good business judgment. If we were called upon to put up money without interest then the patriot might have a chance to show the sort of material of which he is pieced together.

A government loan takes precedence when it comes to order of desirability when security is considered as the major factor. For some years government loans have stood on the market as being worth more than the amount originally paid for them. Prior to the war of 1914-18 people in Canada were not purchasers of government securities, and it took a tremendous amount of urging to get people to purchase what we termed Victory Bonds at what would now be considered a highly attractive rate of interest. And many of them were issued tax free.

There is a tremendous amount of idle money in Canada. Possibly more than we ever had before. Turning millions of this over to the Government in exchange for a gilt-edge bond should not cause much hesitation.

There is something appealing in the situation, something which can touch the individual with only a little cash the same as the person with plenty of it. The security and the return for one is just the same as the other. The Examiner anticipates a response for this loan which will be somewhat of a surprise.

Taxes Will Be Less

The Municipal Board has given instructions that the Peterborough City Trust must not make a demand for the payment of the annual contribution to sinking fund debentures falling due in 1940 and 1941. It is estimated this means a lessening of the anticipated tax rate by 2¼ mills, although there is certain information which has yet to be furnished before the order of the Municipal Board becomes final. This information seems to deal with the method adopted by the city for financing local improvements during the term of years when it has been issuing no debentures.

In a sense the ruling means handing over the final decision in such matters from the hands of the City Trust (a body which is appointed by the City Council) to the Municipal Board in Toronto. If their decisions are always right then the plan will work, but if their decisions are not always right then who is going to take the responsibility for the error?

No doubt the outlook for a decreased tax rate will be welcome. It would be in any community and we can think of no individual who will not feel better by having to pay less.

The decision of the Municipal Board suggests that the Municipal Act itself should be amended to coincide with the rulings of the Board regarding the disposal of surpluses from sinking funds. There are other municipalities where similar surpluses have grown, and there has never been a clean-cut ruling as to their proper disposal. Evidently when the Municipal Act was first framed it was not contemplated there would be any surplus amounts, but when interest rates were running high the invested sinking funds earned more than had been contemplated. The people of Peterborough have not brought this surplus into existence. It has been made possible by the loaning of our sinking funds to others at higher interest rates than were anticipated.

The Municipal Board now says such surplus can be used for the reduction of taxation by not making application for the payment of sinking funds during certain years. True, there is the suggestion of such method in the Municipal Act but there has never been a plain pronouncement on the issue. The order affecting Peterborough will be of interest to a good many other cities.

It's Far Too Easy

The branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Baden, in Waterloo county, was robbed of $960, and the method of its doing makes it appear the money was there waiting for some mug to come along and take it.

Baden is a bit of a village in a good district; on No. 7 Highway about half-way between Kitchener and Stratford and somewhat cut in two by the railway tracks.

A stranger fairly well dressed walked in at 12.20, and the manager was the only person on the premises. At that hour there would be few people on the street, if any at all. The stranger produced a gun and even mentioned that he hated to do it. The manager did as he was told; went down on the floor and the visitor trussed him up and rolled him into the vault. Then he took the $960 and left. There was no need for him to hurry or attract attention.

We do not know what the cure is, but that is no argument to advance that one does not exist. Every time a robbery like that is pulled the suggestion is offered to other lawless minds that it is an easy way to do business. And the truth is there could have been nothing much simpler than walking into that bank where only one man was present, shoving a gun at him and taking the cash. It is time the bankers gathered together some more experts and herded them into a room, giving instructions they would have to emerge with plans for something better, otherwise they would have to remain right in that room.

That "Gestapo" Word

Several inquiries have been made regarding the word Gestapo, the police system which people in Germany fear and which they dare not criticize. It has honeycombed the nation with spies, it has divided families and terrorized places of employment.

The origin of the word comes this way:

Gehemet Staats Polizet—
And our way of stating it is:
German Secret Police.

The "Gestapo" combination is made by merely taking first sections from those three words: Ge-sta-po.

The 'Vast' Radio Audience

Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport in the Federal Government, delivered a radio address on Sunday evening at 9 o'clock, and he dealt with Canada's participation in the war. Admittedly it was a good address, contained much information and gave listeners facts and detail which they ought to know.

A staff writer of the Ottawa Journal was desirous of finding out how many had listened to the address, and the only way to secure that information would be by asking questions. That is a slow enough process as many writers know who have been sent on similar errands, but he persisted. In his selection of informants the Journal man was careful to restrict himself to average people who might be expected to listen to such an address at 9 o'clock Sunday night. When he decided he had asked sufficient questions he found he had encountered 67 individuals, and of that number six had heard the radio address in whole or in part.

A department store manager, a Board of Trade official, a bank manager, a chartered accountant, a prominent lawyer and a senior army officer were among those who did not know the broadcast was on. One radio owner desired to know "if that was the reason they cut Charlie McCarthy to half an hour," while one young lady said she started to listen but cut it off because she wanted to concentrate on her bridge. So even the six who were credited with having listened were diminished by their own admissions.

Getting on the air and taking it for granted that thousands are listening is an error. The thousands may be listening—but to something else. Or they may not be listening at all.

Something Wrong Here

The Timmins Press publishes a story about a man who was arrested following a traffic accident. The police officer said he thought of calling a doctor to examine him, but the arrested driver became so evidently drunk after reaching the station that it was considered unnecessary to do so. The police stated in evidence that the accused had mentioned to them something about getting a doctor to see whether he was or was not drunk.

The magistrate, after hearing that a doctor had been mentioned by the driver, but had not been secured, said he would have to dismiss the case, and in doing so told the man he could consider himself lucky in having got out of it so easily.

And right there something is wrong. The fact that a doctor had not been called to say whether or not the arrested man was drunk is no cause for dropping the case. The Sergeant who gave evidence said:

"I noticed that he smelled of liquor and wasn't very steady. I intended to call a doctor to examine him but he became so drunk in the police station that I didn't think it was necessary. Then I was called away to attend to another matter and didn't get the doctor."

The wonder is that the medical profession does not take the matter in hand and protest against being called to tell whether a man is drunk or not. Doctors would save themselves a deal of worry and a good many headaches if they were to state openly they did not want anything to do with it. There is nothing in the doctor's course of training to make him a last-word authority on whether a man is or is not drunk. If the arrested individual calls for a blood test the doctor can take that, but the applicant has to pay for it, and there is not much satisfaction because the test may be taken some time after the arrest.

The court can take the word of a reliable policeman as to whether a man is drunk. These men are out day and night and if there is drunkenness they see it and can spot it readily. That is particularly the case when a man is placed under arrest because he possibly has to walk to the station at times and is inclined to talk, and a whiff of his breath is sufficient to establish whether he has been drinking. But it is all wrong to claim that because a doctor has not been called the accused has to go free.

He Writes From Experience

A young man recently wrote a letter and it came to those who were considering a revision of the school curriculum at Washington. This young man had graduated from school and considered himself fitted to go ahead. He found he was mistaken, and in his letter mentioned a number of subjects about which he found he knew all too little. His list was like this:

I wish I had been taught more about family relationships, child care.
Getting along with people.
Interpreting the news.
Paying off a small mortgage.
Household mechanics.
Politics and local government.
The chemistry of food.
Carpentry.
How to budget and live within the budget.
The value of insurance.
How to figure interest when borrowing money and paying it back in instalments.
How to enjoy opera—over the radio.
How to detect shoddy goods.
How to distinguish a political demagogue from a statesman.
How to get a job.

One can almost trace from that list the experiences through which this young man has passed, and having passed through them he is in a position where he can write intelligently telling where the school curriculum had failed to give him the training he found he needed.

NOTE AND COMMENT

United States probably holds some sort of a record because the daughter of a United States soldier who fought in the war of 1812 is still drawing a pension of $20 per month.

Everything is war effort in England—but it is worth noting that Josiah Wedgewood, manager of a pottery firm, is planning to make an addition to his plant, costing $1,000,000.

Movie actress Linda Hayes charged in court that her husband dragged her across the floor by the hair. But surely a husband is entitled to have a playful moment now and then.

Daniel Logan was sent to prison at Trail, B.C. He has used the name of H. Grant, J. Adams, J. S. McCaulayan and L. Davis in recent months, but a cell has been reserved for him merely under the name of Daniel Logan.

There was a hockey game at Kirkland Lake with weather 20 below zero, and the game is said to have been fast. But probably none too fast for the variety of spectator whose feet get cold in the first five minutes.

There was a very delicate operation in Saskatoon during which a bullet was removed from a man's brain. One advantage of such an operation is that the patient would be able to say afterward with certainty that he had brains in his head because the surgeon saw them.

TOO LATE

(By A.R.K.)

¶ A thrifty man was Malcolm Shay, he worked like blazes every day, no other way content; he never quit and went away, and scoffed when one said holiday, he wouldn't spend a cent.

¶ Each pay day saw him at the bank, to salt more ducats in the tank, it grew to quite a size; for forty-seven years he worked, he never quit and never shirked, then Malcolm Shay he dies.

¶ And why did Malcolm work and save, live like a man sunk in a cave, and go his way apart; he'd had a son, he'd watched him grow, and then decided long ago, he'd give to him a start.

¶ He spent but little on the lad, told him to do with what he had, they never chummed at all; the boy grew up and went his way, he never came back home to say, knew nothing of his haul.

¶ The boy just drifted here and there, blew all the cash he had to spare, he wrote no letters home; he never went to see his dad, just held the notion that he had, he liked being left alone.

¶ His dad was dead and laid away, the lawyers sent him word one day, of thousands in the banks; 'twas then he had a chance to find, what Malcolm Shay had on his mind—and couldn't say his thanks.

Dark Ages Come To Cast Shadow Over Europe

BERLIN is busy "Germanizing" the residents of conquered Poland. Merely as a word it may appear innocuous. In fact, it means the application of the iron heel of ruthless and callous militarism placed on the neck of a people unable to resist. It means that even in the purely Polish district around Warsaw, German is to be the official language. The Nazis have opened 42 German-Language schools. The teachers, many of whom are Poles, receive instruction twice a week in Nazi ideals, which they, in turn, must teach their pupils. Every Pole must surrender his radio set on pain of severe penalties. Damage done to a radio set before it is turned in is "sabotage" punishable by drastic sentences.

In this twilight of intelligence, labor conscription of Polish youth has been expanded so that young Poles from 14 to 18 years of age are liable to serve in labor units at the behest of their Nazi masters. As an aid in their search for arms and ammunition caches hidden by the Poles before the advent of the German troops, Police Chief Krueger, heading the police, and Elite Guard organizations of the Government-General, has posted large rewards for those discovering hidden weapons.

As for the Jews, they are emptied out of their homes and their places of business as one might pour marbles out of a stocking. Protests are met exactly as they were met in Germany, with blows, concentration camps, brutality, death. German Nazism is bringing a rare old Teuton civilization to these Poles, the gloomy, sadistic civilization of Thor and Woden, Siegfried and Siegmund, the Rhine Maidens and the rest of that glittering array of megalomaniacs from Gotterdammerung.

All of these manifestations of the activities of the Dark Angel of barbarism, added to Stalin's reign of blood and terror; Mussolini's purges in the early days of the new Fascist state, and Franco's reactionary and repressive measures in Spain, serve to remind those of us blessed by residence on this continent, that mankind has suffered these things before and escaped to rise to new heights.

LET US LOOK at the case of the common people under Feudalism, out of which sprang those sturdy-minded men and women who founded Anglo-Saxon civilization on this hemisphere.

The Feudal system began not long after 800 A.D. and did not disappear in Europe until 1864. Not all Europeans during that first half-millenium of Feudalism lived from the soil but most of them did. The chief source of wealth was the land. Most people lived in the country. Few cities existed. Europeans dwelt in small clusters around grim castles of the great or small landlords, relics of which still abound in Europe.

Each little community was self-supporting. It had a priest, or several, a church, a number of huts and hovels, and a chapel for the castle. In that castle were dark, chill dungeons. But the castle also had a great dining-room, a ballroom, vast stables, a court, an athletic field and good-sized barracks. The priests and nobles formed a little group apart from the others. The priests conducted a school for the children of those who lived in the castle. The whole estate was managed by a tiny group of "white-collared" workers, who had risen above the serfs, but were completely excluded from the society of the nobles.

These Feudal communities also contained a chemist, a miller, a troubador, a bailiff, a tailor, a shoemaker, wagon maker, a sword maker, tinkers, carpenters and a hangman. These were "free men" but attached to the castle and completely subject to the will of the lord. They lived in huts near the serfs or in their shops. They were paid, not in money, but in kind.

But the most numerous of all classes under Feudalism were the farmers. They were practically chattel and could be bought and sold. They had no rights which their masters were bound to respect. They had no schools. They were densely ignorant. They could be killed, tortured, and conscripted for all sorts of labor without any redress. The church had more of these serfs than any duke or count. Every lord was a state. Every monastery was a state. The lord of the manor was policeman, judge, executioner, spiritual master and army captain. He arrogated unto himself every power of man and God, and so long as feudalism existed, he kept the lights of intelligence and spiritual growth so low that nothing short of a revolution was able to bring a glimmer of understanding and reason on the horizon of mankind.

Yet it was the descendants of these serfs who came out of Finland and settled the first American colonies. Later, they fought against tyranny, won their freedom and set up a new democracy. The men and women who settled this country were born of the common people. They came out of the cramped life ordered by selfish autocracy to this large and spacious land of new conceptions and fresh opportunity.

The day will come when the Poles, now no better than serfs under their German and Soviet masters, will win another freedom and a new enfranchisement among the people of the world. In the meantime, we fight to prevent the return of feudalism, whether it be from Moscow or Berlin.

• Six Out of 67 Heard the Address

HOW MANY heard Hon. C. D. Howe on the radio last Sunday evening? The Ottawa Journal sought to find out. From that paper we quote:

The speech, one of a series of broadcasts, was noted in the radio columns, well in advance of the broadcast. But people just have not reached the stage where they make a date with the radio, set aside an evening for a certain feature as they would set aside an evening to hear a visiting artist perform on a piano.

The radio is listened to, for the most part, in a hit or miss way. Charlie McCarthy probably makes more hard and fast dates than anyone on the air; but he is in a class by himself. Those who make a date Tuesday night to hear "Information Please," or Edward Weeks, are devoted to the practice, but they are an insignificant minority. More will put aside Sunday afternoon for the symphony concert. But in a general way the radio is a thing that is turned on in an impulsive sort of way, the dial is swung from end to end and if it produces nothing to delight the listener's fancy, off it goes again.

However, let's get back to Mr. Howe's speech. In the last two days we have asked 67 people whether or not they had listened to the Minister's speech. For the most part the people we asked were above what might be termed "average intelligence." Most of them well above and none of them far below.

Of these 67, exactly six listened to all or a part of the speech.

A departmental store official: "Very informative talk."

A taxi-driver: "Was that the reason they cut Charlie McCarthy to a half hour? I didn't hear him."

A beautician: "I listened for a while and then cut it off to concentrate on my bridge."

A deputy minister: "Lots of material but no personal magnetism."

Street car operator: "I listened, and because I live near Uplands Flying Field I couldn't help thinking it's going to be mighty noisy out there this year and not so safe either when those kids come busting through the cottage roof in their first flight."

A department store manager, a Board of Trade official, a bank manager, a chartered accountant, a prominent lawyer and a senior army officer were among the many who didn't know of the broadcast.

One Government employe switched it off because it was "rotten" and several said they knew it was to be made at 9.00 but were so sick of war stuff that they didn't want to hear it.

And so on—but there's no need to continue.

The point is that one of the ablest of our Cabinet Ministers presented in as nearly understandable a way as possible a summary of the facts of Canada's war participation, and his words went virtually to the four winds.

Fortunately enough the newspapers printed the content of it the next day and the effort was thus not wholly wasted. But it isn't to blow our own horn that this piece is written. Nor chiefly to criticize the power of the radio—although that might be done without much trouble. The finger of this piece is pointed rather at ourselves as citizens, citizens who crab and groan about Canada's part in the war, about our prosecution of the war or the absence of any prosecution, about this, that and the other thing. But citizens, too, who make no effort to inform themselves of the real facts of the situation.

There is the greatest weakness in democracy—it depends upon voluntary education to so great an extent that if a people become listless almost nothing can be done about it. Nothing, that is, except to sit back as people and criticize a people that has become listless.

Mr. Howe would have had more listeners if he had been Doris Duke or Charlie McCarthy or even Syd Howe the hockey player. But this is no insult to Mr. Howe—any more than it is an insult to a good newspaper to find its more informative news stories passed over in the dash to the funny page. It's just—well, just life in our time and nothing this column says will alter it. But it's off our chest, and at least the type-setter has read this far down.

• Old Tradition Goes By the Boards

IT IS 600 years ago this year since Eton College was founded. Eton notes the St. Thomas Times-Journal, is steeped in tradition more than any other school. Parents who want their boys to be educated there preparatory to going on to Oxford or Cambridge universities, have to put the young gaffers' names down as soon as they are born. Entrance to Eton is guarded as carefully as the entry of a colt in the Epsom Derby. To be accepted you must either be the son of a blue-blooded aristocrat or of a traditional professional man or industrialist. School dress looks like a tuxedo suit, the coat being shorter and known the world over as the Eton coat, wide stiff collar—and a tall hat. No matter whether an Eton boy is six or 16 years old he wears the same sort of silk hat his father wears and all his ancestors for generations.

For the first time in history the tall hat tradition of Eton has been broken. It has been found that the pig-snout gas mask and tall hat cannot efficiently be worn together. One can imagine the depths of despair into which the authorities were plunged when they learned that the young gentlemen who are the sons, grandsons, great-grandsons and great-great-grandsons of gentlemen who wore the Eton hat, would have to suspend their toppers. It was as if the Yeoman in the Tower of London had to renounce their ruffs; the Household Cavalry their breastplates.

The 'orrors of war pile up. Perhaps the solution of the problem will be for the gallants of Eton, whose ancestors have died bravely in many of Britain's battles on land and sea, to stick to their hats and scorn the gas masks.

HE HAS INDIVIDUALITY

JIMMY CROMWELL, is an economist, a world traveler, a philanthropist and a sportsman, but in the public mind his identity principally is that of being the husband of "the richest girl in the world." The continual reference to him as the chap who married Doris Duke must be rather hard on his natural male desire to wear the pants in his family.

That Jimmy Cromwell is considerably more than simply a rich girl's spouse becomes apparent with his appointment as the United States minister to Canada. Hitherto his personal achievements have been overshadowed by his martial alignment. Now he gains a vital post in America's diplomatic setup and coincidentally comes more into his own as a person who deserves recognition for his ability to accomplish things.

So the 43-year-old Jimmy Cromwell merits our felicitations as a man who has been able to surmount the handicap of being famous for a domestic tie. Lest it appear ridiculous to call a marriage to millions a handicap, we add that man's most precious possession is his individuality.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

BIBLE BANNED

BECAUSE the Nazis fear Christian ideals will undermine the brutality of German soldiers, the Bible has been banned from the front. Soldiers of the Reich are not to be allowed to read the scriptures.

The Nazi research department has discovered that the regiments where the Christian ideals were the strongest were the units which revolted first in the last war. With that in mind, Hitler does not want his soldiers getting any encouragement to mutiny from the Bible.

In an announcement banning the Bible, the soldiers are told: "Neither the Bible nor works of religion must be carried in the soldier's pack. Adolf Hitler has not mobilized the German people for spiritual interests."

With the Bible barred from the German army, the soldiers can be expected to indulge in all the brutality of the Kaiser's armies. Hitler wants to intimidate the world by bestiality. —W. L. Clark, in Windsor Star.

RUSS. PRISONER TALKS

HERE is a conversation between a Russian prisoner in a Finnish camp and a neutral questioner:

"Do you believe everything told you in Russia?"

"No, but must listen, otherwise I would be shot."

"Do you like the food here?"

"Yes. Never before have I had such fine food in Russia."

"Are you all right?"

"I'm all right; but at home in Russia I have a wife and three children without a possibility of supporting themselves."

"Is the prison all right?"

"Prison is fine. This is my first winter not freezing."

That's an enlightening interview on conditions within Russia. It reveals how glad some of the Russians are to be prisoners in Finland.—Windsor Star.

MILITARY AXIOM

IT IS a military axiom that a small, efficient army is more effective than a cumbersome, half-trained mass, and this is one of the first of the facts which has been proven on the frozen wastes of that Northern European frontier. The highly trained Finns, all magnificent fighting men, have withheld and driven back the hordes of Soviet troops, many of the latter conscripts in a war about which they know nothing except that Stalin has ordered them to fight.—Chatham News.

WEAKNESS OF DICTATION

ONE of the weaknesses of a dictatorship is that the dictator has to act upon his own initiative and cannot fall back upon the counsels of advisers who are closely in touch with the people and with public sentiment. Unless he is infallible, as no man can be, he is liable to error. And Stalin has made some miscalculations which bid fair to wreck the plans of both dictators. — Fort William Times-Journal.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And he entered into a ship, and passed over, and came into his own city. And, behold, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy, lying on a bed; and Jesus seeing their faith said unto the sick of the palsy; Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be forgiven thee.

And, behold, certain of the scribes said within themselves, This man blasphemeth. And Jesus knowing their thoughts said, Wherefore think ye evil in your hearts? For whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise, and walk?

But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (they saith he to the sick of the palsy), Arise, take up thy bed, and go unto thine house. And when the multitudes saw it, they marvelled, and glorified God, which had given such power unto men.—Matt. ix: 1-8.

Now You Know!

An optimist and a pessimist were defined by a speaker at a meeting in Falkirk the other day as follows:

"An optimist is a man who sees a light that isn't there, and a pessimist is the fool who tries to blow it out."

EUROPE MUCH THE SAME

A New Hampshire paper, the Exeter News-Letter said:

"The political state of Europe is daily becoming more interesting to the whole civilized world. A dreadful crisis is approaching, and the cause of liberty must ultimately prevail. Power will soon be wrested from the arbitrary despot and vested in the hands of the people. Popular opinion in this country is enthusiastically excited in their favor; every eye is directed toward their proceedings, and the oppressed citizens of Europe have the prayers of every patriotic American for their success...."

Probably we should state that the above extract was written and published May 10, 1831, a little over a century ago.—Kitchener Record.

LONG WAR

(Washington cor. Detroit Free Press)

Europe — and Washington — now look for a long and desperate war. Whereas there had been unofficial hope that some sort of a peace might be negotiated in the spring, there is a general belief in diplomatic circles that the conflict is a two-year proposition at least.

Returning ambassadors and confidential info from foreign scouts account for this more pessimistic frame of mind.

THE ROOSEVELT MOOD

Submitting a plan to balance the budget of the United States, Senator Taft asserts President Roosevelt doesn't want to stop spending. Certainly there's little hope of a balanced budget so long as FDR is in his combination fireside and bargain-counter mood.

No 'Phoney' War Says Dunning In Loan Appeal

MONTREAL, Jan. 12 — (CP). — Promise of strength in Canada's warfare on the economic front grew today from enthusiasm with which Quebec province's business leaders greeted the inaugural appeal for support of the Dominion's first war loan.

Representatives of finance and industry whose voices carried the weight of almost half Canada's business wealth cheered and cried "hear, hear," when Dominion Government leaders launched the appeal here yesterday.

The 200 business men and the government spokesmen brought together by a luncheon meeting held by the Quebec Provincial Loan Subscription Committee.

Though the Quebec chairman, Provincial Treasurer J. Arthur Mathewson, K.C., was unable to attend because of provincial affairs at Quebec, a telegram he sent to Hon. Charles Dunning, chairman of the national subscription committee, spoke eloquently:

"Please assure your associates that the people of Quebec will again do their full share as in the past."

Speakers at the luncheon besides Mr. Dunning, former Dominion Finance Minister, were the present Finance Minister, Hon. J. L. Ralston, and Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe.

No "Phoney" War.

The meeting cheered when Mr. Dunning said "there is nothing 'phoney' about the fight the people of Britain are making." He told the 200 before him their presence was "in itself a guarantee that the business, industrial, and financial world of Canada is behind the Empire and the Allies on the economic front."

All three speakers asserted economic factors would prove to be the most important in the conflict.

According to the Finance Minister, Canada backed the loan, the nature of which will be disclosed on Friday, with liquid assets of $2,500,000,000 in addition to $1,500,000,000 in the hands of insurance companies."

"As far as Canada's credit rating is concerned the record is clear," Mr. Ralston added. "She has never defaulted on any promise to pay. Practical evidence of her rating in the world of finance is that Canada's standing in interest rates puts it lower than the United Kingdom and only slightly higher than her neighbor to the South, with due allowance to free-rating bonds."

Justice Minister Lapointe expressed confidence Quebec would do its share in contributing to the War Loan.

"I have no respect for those who say that our participation has encroached upon our autonomy," he said after declaring Canada entered the war by her own will. "We are in this war because we are an autonomous country. And we are going to stop by the side of our Allies until victory has been achieved."

Brisk Military Training In Canada Through Winter

OTTAWA, Jan. 11.—(CP).— Expanded to wartime proportions by an inflow of more than 60,000 recruits, the Canadian army is undergoing training in the art of modern war at scores of stations from Atlantic to Pacific and in England.

While no large concentration of troops is expected in Canada before spring, the mobilized units of the Canadian Active Service Force are losing no time in perfecting the physique, knowledge and skill of their men. Training for the most part takes place at their regimental headquarters.

At the outbreak of hostilities the land army was designated the Canadian Active Service Force. It consisted of two divisions of units chosen from the permanent and non-permanent active militia and representative of all provinces and all the principal areas of the country.

In addition to the two divisions, the first of which reached England, certain other units of the non-permanent militia were authorized to increase their establishment. Some were called upon to furnish detachments for guard duty at key points, such as canals, bridges, air stations and harbors.

Coast defence batteries were mobilized to guard the principal harbors and there maintain a constant watch, co-operating with the navy and the air force. Certain specialized and servicing units such as the ordinance corps, the army service corps, the medical and signal corps in which long and intense training is required set about increasing their establishments. They must be ready to provide service for whatever body of troops Canada eventually may place under arms.

Troops In Canada.

The Second Division will remain under arms in Canada for local defence until such time as it is desired to send another division overseas. It is a reserve, but not a reserve from which reinforcements for the first division will be drawn.

Reinforcements will be provided by depots of the units comprising the First Division from their own areas. Thus when a Toronto regiment went overseas with the First Division a reserve depot remained in Toronto. There recruiting will be carried on as need indicates, and the recruits will be trained and go forward to reinforce the regiment overseas as they are required.

The active service force is based squarely on Canada's peacetime militia organization. This permitted the speedy organizataion of the two divisions. In the first division are a number of permanent force militia units such as the Royal 22nd Regiment of Quebec, the Royal Canadian Regiment of Toronto, London, and St. John's, Que., the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry of Winnipeg and a couple of artillery batteries from Kingston.

The other infantry and artillery units are from the non-permanent militia. They had their officers when war started but not all their men. The peacetime strength had to be more than doubled by recruiting.

These units carry out their training at their peacetime regimental headquarters or in quarters nearby. Scores of buildings have been converted from civilian to military use to house such units.

German Sources In U.S. Aid I.R.A.

LONDON, Jan. 12—(CP). — The Dublin correspondent of The News-Chronicle reported today that the current intensified activity of the Irish Republican Army in Ireland is being financed by funds emanating from the German sources in the United States.

"The resurgence of I.R.A. activity throughout Ireland is due chiefly to the injection of foreign money into the Republican movement," the correspondent said.

"The information I received some months ago in London that this money, though it comes direct from America, is derived from German propagandist sources, has been confirmed by what I learn here, and I should not be at all surprised if it is discovered before the war ends that the German Embassy in Washington is at least one of the channels through which the money passes."

Happiness Is The Key To Long Life

MELBOURNE, Que., Jan. 12. — (CP) — Mrs. John Gallup, who hardly ever feels her age, looked back over 100 years of life today and then gave a new prescription for those who wish to attain the century mark—"keep happy."

Celebrating her 100th birthday, the silver-haired lady entertained friends in her small wooden house on the main street of this eastern township village.

Mrs. Gallup has been abed the last few days with rheumatism but she'll be up and about again shortly. For she isn't accustomed to being sick. In fact, she said, "I hardly ever think of my age— I feel so well all the time."

And part of the secret of keeping on your feet, she confided is "making up your mind that you won't be sick."

Add to that the formula of "happiness," and youll live to be 100 sure.

Vegetable Men See '40 Brighter

TORONTO, Jan. 12—(CP).—Prospect of better times for Ontario vegetable growers is foreseen by George Rush, provincial fieldman, who considers war conditions will reduce unemployment and give greater spending power to those who purchase farm produce.

In a report to the 35th annual meeting of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association yesterday, Mr. Rush said that vegetable marketing conditions throughout the province in 1939 were unsatisfactory due chiefy to continued unemployment.

The annual meeting followed the association's annual convention on Tuesday. Charles Williams of Ottawa was elected president of the association, with George Lewis of Sarnia and W. Davis of London named vice-presidents.

Mr. Rush said that considerable progress had been made in Thunder Bay and Kenora areas in small fruit and vegetable production during the last 15 years. A vegetable growers' association was formed in Fort William and Port Arthur last year.

The newly-formed association in co-operation with the agricultural association expects to supply the district with all varieties of hardy vegetables, with a proportion of more tender types.

The O.V.G.A. asked the Provincial Agriculture Department to consider means whereby growers might increase production by "organized and orderly" advertising. Advertising has done much to increase vegetable consumption in 10 states of the United States, the association held.

THREE LIVELY GAMES OPEN INDUSTRIAL PUCK LOOP SCHEDULE

Packers Beaten In Opener In Tight Tilt

The Industrial Hockey League opened its schedule at the Brock St. Rink last night with a triple-header. A rather slim crowd of fans took in proceedings, seeing three lively, clean contests run off in good fashion — after a late start. Outboard Marines took a 3-2 win over Canada Packers, Westclox won from Raybestos 6-2, and Quakers defeated Brintons by 6 to 2.

After the official faceoff by Gordon Matthews and Hy Wood, Outboard Marines and Canada Packers started off, the former copping a 3-2 nod. The Packers held their own in the first and had a good edge in the middle canto but faded a trifle before a sustained attack by the Outboards through the third stanza. Shields counted from Stevenson in the first period on a nice play to put Marines ahead. In the second, Edmunds and F. Todd dented the twine for C. P. C. Fuller scored in the third of Marines but Shields pulled a smart rush to sink the winning counter. Some good hockey was shown at times by both sides, though some of the players lacked condition. The pick of the players were Shields, Stevenson, Boyle and Payne for the winners; and F. Todd, Farr and Edmunds for the other side. Teams:

Marines: Goal, Watkins; defence, Fuller, Murphy; centre, Boyle; wings, Partridge, Stevenson; subs, Collins, Ferren, Shaughnessy, Shields, Williams, Saunders.

Referee—T. Miller.

Bees Beaten.

In the second tilt, Westclox overpowered Raybestos 6-2 in a neat tussle. Some fine hockey was shown by both sides at times, with the Armour Hill men having a little better combination. They were held to a 1-1 tie in the first but edged the Rays 3-0 in the second and 2-1 in the third. Thirnbeck and Lewis counted in the first, while Millen, Gilbert and Thirnbeck all notched tallies for Westclox in the second. Early in the third, Gilbert and Parsons put the winners well ahead but Bailey came back later as Rays pressed to score one. Play was fast and clean all the way. Gilbert, Sloane and Thirnbeck were probably the best of the victors; while Maudsley and Howden stood out for the losers. Teams:

Referee—C. Whatley.

Quaker Oats trimmed Britons 6-2 in the third joist, showing a little too much punch and speed in a fair fracas. Fisher notched a pair for the Quakers, with Howland, Calladine, Kirkby and Kennedy having one each, and Scriver an assist. Deadey tallied both for Brintons, one each in the second and third. It was 1-0 for Qaukers in the first chukker and 3-1 for them into the third. Jones, Deadey and Leether shone for the losers; as Calladine, Hill and Webb stood out for the Quakers. Teams:

Quakers: Goal, Merrett; defence, Innes, Webb; centre, Fisher; wings, Howland, Hill; subs, Calladine, Shine, Kennedy, Scriver, Kirby, Starr.

Referee—C. Whatley.

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

DUTCH HILLER, Rangers.
(By Central Press Canadian.)

Dutch Hiller

Without an official race it's hard to say who is definitely the fastest skater in the National League, but close to the best is Dutch Hiller, flashy left wing with Frank Boucher's streamlined Rangers. He teams up with Phil Watson at centre and Bryan Hextall on right wing as one of Rangers' regular units, one that posted 45 goals last season, second best in the league. And it was the first season the trio had played together. Christened Wilbert, he's 24 years old, comes from Kitchener. Dutch was playing with New York Rovers and leading the U.S. amateur league in scoring toward the end of the 1937-1938 season when Butch Keeling, Ranger veteran, fractured a thumb, and Lester Patrick signed him (Dutch, not Butch) to a pro contract and put him into N.H.L. action. That made last year his first full major league campaign and he registered 10 goals, 19 assist sand served 29 minutes in penalties. One assist, one penalty was his output for the few games in which he saw service in his first year. Before going to the Rovers he played here, there, and everywhere — Kitchener, Sudbury, tryout with Canadiens, Harringay Racers in England. Like many present Rangers he got his start with the club at one of the fall schools held at Winnipeg.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

It's the Air Force against the Petes here tonight in the O.H.A. intermediate "A" contest, at 8.30 in the Brock. And femmes and fellows from all around these parts will storm the arena to see the old winter feudists take up where they left off last season. The Fliers have revamped considerably since last winter and will no doubt be as colorful as ever. So 'twill be another chapter in that stirring hockey drammer entitled: "Wings Over Peterborough"—or "Will the Petes Repeat?" Personally, we feel the Fliers are gonna make a forced landing as the speedy Petes snipe away at 'em in the battle here tonight. The locals licked the boys of Bella Villa by a biggah and bettah score than did the Airmen, if that means anything.

* * * * * *

On paper, the R.C.A.F.-ers look potent. They have Goalie Gibson (whom local fans love to scorch with hot barbs of verbosity), "Simon" Legris—the hot-headed Frenchman—Baldwin and McNab, of last year's team. Plus Mush Higgins, an ex-London senior, Stew Irwin of Ottawa Senators, Toots Day, a former ace of Wembley Lions, Dunning, an ex-pro, and several huskies from the prairies. However, hockey isn't worth a hoot on paper; it's played on ice, and the Petes are tougher to shake than a cold in the head.

* * * * * *

A Lot Of Class

The quiet-spoken Ray Harding has no peer between the pipes in this hunk of province, and the Petes' blue-line guardians—Drake Jopling, Jim Ellis, Jack Gardner and Don Crowe—look plenty good enough to us. We'd hate to have to skate in on any two of 'em with our head down as we nursed the little black biscuit along! Honey Tompkins, Bun Kingdon and Joe Blewett display oodles of class on the first line of attack, having a streamlined power drive, smart manoeuvres and coming back fast to pester opponents. Coach Frank Buckland is having a bit more trouble getting the right trio to click on the second line. Eddie Starr and Don Coughlin click swell, but just which of the other forwards—Jack Jopling, Art Heal and Les Burton—will fill the other berth we dunno for sure. Possibly Burton this game.

* * * * * *

As for the fray itself, well, puck fans will realize—without this writer spelling it out laboriously—that the Fliers and Petes always and without exception dish up a dandy display, regardless of which side is on top at the end. They play very fast hockey, neat passing plays and quite often some fistic action when play becomes too hot. Furious friction, one supposes, causes the heat. So, there ya are, folks, a tasty dish of hockey betwixt the birdmen and the locals this p.m. here.

* * * * * *

Some Hoop Action

Down in the Simcoe St. hoop parlor—the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium—a trio of girls' cage tilts is listed for this gloaming. Quaker Aces face a tricky assignment in the Orfuns at seven (not 7.45) by your wrist watch, with "Y" Gym favored to cop a nod (possibly a narrow one) over Quaker Debs in the second struggle. The nightcap betwixt Westclox and St. John's is a tossup, and some exciting basketball should be seen before the piper pipes "Taps" on his tooter. The second section of the lasses' schedule is rolling right along and fans and fannettes are viewing some tidy tussles. Oshawa senior boys have a C.O.S.S.A. fixture with P.C.I. here this eve, too, and these-men's City League scraps are billed for tomorrow night at the Y.M.C.A.: Quakers vs. Dominions at 7.15, and Bees vs. Independents at 8.15.

* * * * * *

Three jousts opened the new Industrial Hockey League last eve at the Brock St. bump emporium, but only a so-so gang of fair and brawny fans viewed proceedings. The triple-header was late starting, too. Marines nosed out Packers 3-2, Westclox 6-2'd Raybestos, and Quakers rolled over Brintons for a 6-2 triumph. All fast, clean hockey with the puckists showing plenty of promise for opening games. A flock of veterans turned out to lend balance to the young hustlers on these shop squads, and it was like old times to see Maudsley, Lackey and a bunch more skimming around again. Johnny Shields, wearing streamlined britches, sparked Marines to the nod o'er a battling C.P.C. crew; while Thirnbeck and Gilbert were main snipers in the Westclox win; and Fisher netted a pair as Quakers beat Brintons—with Deadey tallying both for the losers. Another trio of tussles there next Thursday.

* * * * * *

Juniors In Lakefield

Junior O.H.A. games tonight find Port Hope at Lakefield — and it should be a hard-fought fray, indeed—and Oshawa at Lindsay. Looks like a win for the Motor City lads there, and the real duel of the season will be here next Friday when the unbeaten Oshawans and Colts clash. The locals journey to Lakefield on Monday eve for a scheduled fixture, too.

* * * * * *

Last night's Church Hockey League tussles were snowed out in the first postponements of the current season—or do ya prefer raisins to currants? Some 17 struggles, or about a quarter of the schedule, have been run off to date, to wit and without a hitch. Till last night. All Saints-St. John's bantam game of last e'en may be staged at seven on Tuesday night, and the Mark St. Juveniles may be instructed to play next Wednesday at seven p.m. Games Monday are: Knox Bantams vs. St. Paul's at six, All Saints vs. Trinity Juveniles at seven, George St. Juniors vs. Park St. at eight, and All Saints Seniors vs. St. James at nine. Loop standings are in tonight.

* * * * * *

Up and Down Sports' Rialto: Oakwood is at Sutton tonight, and Lakefield goes to Oakwood on the 16th—same day the Petes play Belleville on Quinte ice....School hockey tomorrow morn at All Saints' rink: Queen Mary vs. Queen Alex at nine, Prince of Wales vs. King George at 10, King Edward vs. Central at 11....A Southend Loop game listed elsewhere....Clarkson Tech puckists start a tour of the Eastern States any day now....Jack Jopling has sinus trouble and may be out of hockey a week or two....A ski club has been formed in Lindsay through efforts of Jerry Duffus....Fliers won the first of the VanHorne Cup finals Wednesday from Queen's, 2 to 1; it's a yearly cup and cannot belong permanently to any club....Last night's Toronto Star had this heading o'er a sports story: "Red Geddes Stars In London's Triumph"; Red had two scoring points as London snapped a losing streak with a 5-0 win o'er Detroit Pontiacs....Gals' cage games at the Y.W. tonight start at seven, not 7.45, there being no gym classes....J.L.: Sorry, but we must have looked away just when the team pulled that "smart passing play" — personally, we think both teams looked terrible....Ice should be pretty fair for the big Fliers-Petes' tangle this eve here....C.G.E. shop hockey tomorrow aft at the Brock....And now we'll all arise and sing that mournful numbah: "Oh, the comic strips ain't comic any more, any more!"

(Secretary-Treasurer, Amateur Athletic Union of the United States.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 — (AP). — Though at first it seemed that the likely cancellation of the 1940 Olympic Games would be a severe blow to the year's track and field program, it now appears that United States athletes as well as fans are in for a banner year of competition.

Cuba plans an abbreviated series of games — basketball, track and field, swimming and boxing included— in Late February and early March; Argentina has issued invitations for a full Olympic program in November, and here in the United States in all likelihood there will be summer games.

Although fewer track and field records than usual were set in 1939, competiiton was unusually keen. These two trends should continue hand-in-hand in 1940.

The only way one can account for the lack of new records is that standards already are so high that only super-athletes can improve on them. Still races and competitions this year should be more sensational tha never, since the number of athletes of outstanding ability is increasing by leaps and bounds in all fields.

Take the most popular track events as good examples. Glen Cunningham was the unquestioned ruler at the mile. But he is such no longer. He may be defeated by Chuck Fenske, or Archie San Romani, or Louis Zamperini, or Blaine Rideout.

Not Entering Team

HASTINGS, Jan. 12.—(ENS)—At a meeting of hockey players in the Clarendon hotel, representatives from the Elgin team decided they would not enter a team in the town hockey loop due to not having a team of sufficient strength. There are four teams in the loop at present but two of them are from the Breihaupt Leather plant here. If Elgin had decided to enter, it would mean the tannery teams would be absorbed into one outfit and Elgin representatives believed such a team would be far too strong for any of the other teams.

North Dummer Won Over Douro Squad

WARSAW, Jan. 12 (ENS) The 1940 hockey season in Warsaw opened Wednesday night with a game between the two new entries of the revamped local league, North Dummer and Douro. The spectators were out in force for a clean, hard-fought game.

Both teams showed the need for practice, mid-season combination not being in evidence, but they showed flashes of good enough hockey to worr ythe managements of the league's other two entries.

North Dummer counted twice in the first and last periods to take the decision 4-1. Ramsay, at centre, was the standout for the winners with three goals to his credit, while the two Whetung brothers, Len and Roy, also turned in creditable performances. Jim Healy rang the bell for Douro's lone counter in the first frame, on a lone rush from centre. The Irish lads fought hard right up to the last gong ,and while a bit outweighed by their northern opponents were far from being outclassed. The teams:

Douro: Goal, Joe Hayes; defence, G. Delaney, B. Delaney; centre, W. Moher; wings, J. Moher, J. Leahy; alternates, O. Leahy, F. Moher, John Hayes, J. Healy, F Moher.

North Dummer: Goal, B. Payne; defence, L. Crowe, L. Whetung; centre, Ramsay; wings, R. Whetung, E. Ivey; alternates, A. Whetung, Puffer, D. Whetung, W. Copppaway, B. Andrews.

Referee—M. Lonsberry.

CAIN SCORES FOUR GOALS WHEN BRUINS DEFEAT LEAFS 5 TO 2

Win By Rangers Over Chicago Ties Up Record

By JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Prepare now for a rush of wind as the critics try to decide how good Lester Patrick's swift-stepping New York Rangers really are in comparison with great hockey clubs of the past.

The Rangers, already cited by Patrick as the greatest team since the rules first allowed a club to dress 15 players, tied a 12-year-old National League record last night when they defeated Chicago Black Hawks 5-3 before 12,000 customers at New York. In the only other game Boston Bruins defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 5-2 at Toronto.

It was the 18th straight game in which the Rangers had gone without defeat and, though actually it left them only in a first-place tie with Bruins, the string matched the N.H.L. mark for consecutive games without loss established by Montreal Canadiens in 1927-28. The New York team has won 13 and tied five of its 18 games since Nov. 19. It has won nine in a row, to come within five of the mark of 14 consecutive victories attained by Boston in 1929-30.

In attaining the amazing mark, Patrick's club has still to show it can be superior over an entire season to the Bruins, who have managed to stay level despite the continued absence of Roy Conacher and the retirement of Eddie Shore.

Cain Goes To Town

The Bruins kept stride by defeating Maple Leafs as Herbie Cain, an acquisition from the Canadiens only this year, scored four goals before 10,000 fans at Toronto. Unable to hold the darting Cain in the third period, the Leafs dropped to second place.

The Rangers' chance to beat the Canadiens' record comes Saturday at Toronto, where they will be favored to defeat the Leafs. Without Sylvanus Apps and Gordon Drillon the Toronto team doesn't appear to have a scoring punch to match the Rangers.

But there was no detracting from the glory of the night's achievement last night, hard as the Hawks tried to stop the adversary and much as they succeeded for two periods. Twice Chicago overcame leads and then Patrick's elder son, Lynn, shot the goal that sent the New Yorkers ahead to stay in the third period.

Lynn Patrick

Bryan Hextall gave the Rangers a first-period advantage but Joe Cooper, a former Blueshirt, tied the score before the first interval. Hextall sent his club ahead again in the second but Cully Dahlstrom made it 2-2.

Tall, blond Lynn sank a relay from Kilby Macdonald and O. Heller and the Rangers started to roll in. Joe Pratt and Neill Colville scored in quick sucession to raise the lead to 5-2 and it wasn't until 27 seconds from the finish that Phil Hergesheimer broke through for the Hawks again.

The Leafs struggled valiantly against the Bruins but couldn't meet the challenge that Cain threw from an unexpected quarter. Red Hamill and Cain gave Boston a two-goal advantage in the first period but Bingo Kampman and Gus Marker overcame it in the second.

Then the Cain magic was turned on. He sank a loose puck for his second goal and converted passes from Busher Hollett and Art Jackson for the others.

When Cain crashed into him in scoring the first time, Goalie Turk Broda of the Leafs suffered a four-stitch gash over the left kneecap. He continued to play but there appeared a possibility today that the club might call Phil Stein back from Omaha of the American Association to play tomorrow.

Speedy Forward

LES BURTON

When the Fliers and Petes clash here tonight, Les Burton (above), fast-stepping forward, will be on the locals' second front line. He plays senior ball in the summer.

Capitals Blank Eagles By 6-3

It isn't often that a hockey player turns in a "hat trick" effort of three goalys and yet is on the losing team, but Earl Robinson of New Haven Eagles knows how that oddity feels today.

Robinson, sent down to the International-American League Eagles only a short time ago from Montreal Canadiens, came through with a spectacular three-goal effort last night against Indianapolis Capitals. But his one-man show went for naught, as the Capitals blasted in six scores—all in the final period to win 6-3.

Going into the sixth minute of the last frame the Eagles, leaders in the Eastern section, seemed to have the game tucked away through a goal by Robinson in the last minute of the first period and another early in the third session. But then the Capitals, who head the Western division, went to work.

Archie Wilder, Ron Hudson and Hec Kilrea scored in that order before Robinson clicked for his third goal to tie the score. The Capitals found the range again a few minutes later and Les Douglas scored what proved to be the winning goal. Wilder and Hudson added their second scores on Eagles seconds apart near the close of the game.

Six Of 10 Soccer Leagues On For Saturday

LONDON, Jan. 12—(CP Cable).—Full lists of fixtures are scheduled for six of the 10 regional soccer leagues in the United Kingdom Saturday. All northeast and western teams are idle and only one game is carded in the East Midland and Northern sections.

Arsenal, pacemaker in the South "A" group of London district clubs, plays at "home" at White Hart Lane with Millwall providing the opposition. In South "B" Queen's Park Rangers and Bournemouth, joint leaders with 21 points each, meet on the former's ground at Shepherd's Bush. The Rangers have been setting a fast pace in recent weeks and may go into undisputed possession of first place.

Another tough battle will pit West Bromwich Albion, leader of the Midland division, against Wolverhampton Wanderers. It is a home game for the Wolves, who trail the Albion by only one point. In the southwest, Swindon Town, leader by a big margin, should have little difficulty in overcoming the visiting Swansea Town squad.

Outstanding battle in Scotland will find Rangers, leader of the West section, at Dumfries for a game with Queen of the South. The Light Blues have a game in hand over the Palmerston Park squad although both teams have 21 points. Falkirk in the Eastern division is at home to Dundee United and the latter is likely to came away empty-handed. The first league squad boast a powerful attack that has bagged 60 goals in the current campaign.

Two "Mudders" Lead Coast Pack

OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 12 — (A P). — Two players who would be described in horse racing circles as "superior mudders" set the pace to-day as a reduced field of 128 teed off in the second round of the 35,000 72-hole Oakland golf tournament.

Fancy 67's, three under par, executed under such trying circumstances as rain, some wind, and plenty of standing water, put Craig Wood, Mamaroneck, N.Y., professional, and Wilford Wehrle, amateur from Racine, Wis., in the forefront. Wood had a 35-32, and Wehrle 32-35.

Nineteen of the 214 starters equalled or bettered par 70. Trailing the leaders by a stroke were Clayton Heafner, Linville, N.C., youngster, and Jim Demaret, a crack shot from Houston, Texas.

R.C.A.F. Squad Battles The Petes Here

The big hockey attraction here of the season is tonight (Friday) at 8:30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink when Trenton Fliers clash with the Petes in an O.H.A. intermediate "A" fixture. Hap Day of Toronto, former N.H.L. star—and present pro referee—will be referee for this tilt, and the game should draw a huge crowd of city and district fans. It will be the first meeting of these old rivals this season, both squads holding a decision over Belleville—and first place in the short schedule is at stake. The colorful Fliers and the speedy Petes will dish up a hectic fray all the way, and it promises to be a thoroughly exciting and tight tilt throughout.

Harding will be in the local net with F. Jopling, Ellis, Crowe and Gardner on defence. On one line will be Tompkins, Kingdon and Blewett; and the other Starr, Coughlin and Heal—with J. Jopling or Burton the extra man. Fliers will have such aces on their lineup as Gibson, Legris, McNab, Baldwin, Day, Higgins, Dunning, Irwin, Gathercoll and Lemieux.

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(AP)—If Dr. John Bain Sutherland will tell us where he is going to coach this fall, we'll tell him where he can get a good halfback. . . . Fair enough, isn't it? . . . New York papers are tipping Mike Jacobs not to throw Billy Conn in there with any more slow-footed heavies.

Iron Men Dept.—The Goose Creek (Texas) Basketeers entered a schoolboy tournament at 11 a.m. one day and eight hours later had four victories and the title to their credit . . . Marlin Buckles (six foot, three) rang the bell for 60 points in the marathon.

Today's Guest Star — Morgan Blake, Atlanta Journal: "England has put out a motion picture called "The Lion Has Wings," but Bill Henry of the Los Angeles Times thinks it unlikely Russia will turn out one called "The Bear Has Finns"."

Lee Savold, the mid-western heavy made a hit here . . . he's a rugged, two-fisted puncher and you may see him mingling with Conn soon . . . Joe McCarthy is due this week-end for a confab over Yankee salaries . . . Cleveland and Buffalo are not working together any more because Detroit slipped in and got Clay Smith, Buffalo pitching ace.
